CANADA'S POSITION IN EUROPEAN EYES.

This Country is Attaining Great Prominence in Europe.

MR. CRESSMAN INTERVIEWED

Return From a Successful Buying Trip—German and British Methods Contrasted.

Canada's star in the ascendant so far as the countries in Europe are concerned, and Mr. A. W. Cressman, who has recently returned from a trip to England, and continental cities, finds that Canadian trade is sought for by the manufacturers in all the places he visited, above that of the American buyers, a fact which until quite recently could not be said to exist. Canada, by reason of recent events, which have brought Canadians into prominence in England, is looming up big in the eyes of the mother country, and this colony is now looked upon as the most prosperous place in the world, which it undoubtedly is.

Mr. Cressman crossed the Atlantic on his return trip on the "Baltic", the new White Star liner, the largest ship afloat, seven hundred and twenty-five feet long, and the height of a seven story building.

The purchases made by Mr. Cressman on this trip aggregate three times those of any previous season, and were all made direct from the makers.

Modern business men make use of methods in the conduct of their business, which, to the business man of a few years ago would have seemed absurd, if not altogether impossible and ruinous, and in no other department has 20th century retailing taken such an advanced step, as in that of the buying. A wise business man has remarked that goods well bought are half sold, and it would seem that judging by the systematised methods of buying employed by modern retailers, that they appreciate the fact that there is considerable truth in that statement.

Mr. A. W. Cressman, the proprietor of the "store that never disappoints," returned on Saturday night after an absence of eight weeks, during the whole of which time, except that occupied in his passage across the ocean, and in travelling from different centres on the continent, he was engaged in making purchases for his store here.

Mr. Cressman is one of a syndicate of eight proprietors of similar stores in different parts of the country, and the purchases made on this trip were made for this syndicate, consequently the quantity of goods purchased was enormous.

Mr. Cressman, who appears to have benefitted physically by the journey, was seen this morning by the Examiner and had many interesting things to say with reference to his trip. One thing which Mr. Cressman noticed particularly, and which, it is easy to suppose, was very pleasing to him, was the fact that in England particularly and in the other countries to a corresponding extent, Canada, in the minds and estimations of the people, has risen to a much higher place than was the case formerly, and now Canada is thought of as the country of the most pronounced prosperity of any country on the globe, and while a few years ago, the business of the Americans, as the citizens of the United States have christened themselves, although it is hard to see where they have any particular right to the name, was desired above that of Canadians, at the present time the reverse is the case, and the manufacturers are apparently anxious to develop their trade with Canada.

There is a gradual education going on in the minds of the English people with regard to the importance of Canada, and it is gratifying to note that this education is having the desired result of impressing them with the fact that Canada is a nation which must be reckoned with in the world's commerce.

Mr. Cressman, with his associates left New York on the "Cymric," of the White Star Line, and visited London, Paris and Berlin, in each of which cities he spent a full week, and in addition he visited the manufacturing centres of Belfast, Glasgow, Manchester, Leeds, Bradford and Leicester. That Mr. Cressman went on a "business" trip is evidenced by the fact that of the whole eight weeks he was away, only two days of that time were devoted to sight seeing, the rest of the time being spent in buying goods, and the result is that Mr. Cressman states that his purchases for this fall's trade are more than three times as heavy as those of any previous season, "which means," said Mr. Cressman, with a smile which indicated that he meant to do it, "that we will have to do more business than we ever did before."

This was not Mr. Cressman's first trip to England, but in the case of France and Germany, it was, and for the first time in the history of these buying trips, Mr. Cressman and his associates bought entirely from the makers in every case, not one dollar's worth of goods coming from the wholesalers. In a number of cases even with the large quantities which the syndicate was able to buy in, it was difficult to get right next the makers, but in these cases, as in the others, it was always accomplished, and these gentlemen have the satisfaction of being able to tell their customers that in the goods which they sell them, there is only one profit, that of the retailers, between the maker and the user, a satisfaction which, will doubtless be shared by the consumer, when the matter of prices is considered.

Out of the 2000 passengers who came home on the Baltic, no less than 150 of them were Canadian and American buyers, who had been across the Atlantic, and of these 150, and a great many more, doubtless, who returned on different steamers, Mr. Cressman and his friends were the last to visit Berlin, and while they were there they experienced something which strikes one as being a very peculiar circumstance. The ladies, doubtless, will appreciate the good fortune which these gentlemen felt in passing through this experience.

His mission in Berlin was to purchase ladies' mantles, and they spent four whole days out of the week looking through the stocks in the immense warehouses before a single purchase was made. It was during this time that the experience came to them. Mr. Cressman states that on July 6th, in the course of a few hours, the styles in ladies' mantles in Berlin underwent a complete change, and the goods which they saw on the previous day in the stock-room, and which were then the "correct" thing, were replaced on the following day by styles altogether different. It was to them an exceedingly fortunate thing that they happened to time their trip to Berlin in such a way as to enable them to make their purchases after this change took place, and not before.

As an evidence of the progressiveness of the Germans who, Mr. Cressman believes, are the most modern business people in the world, an instance was quoted. The buyers went into one establishment during the afternoon on day and explained their mission. The seller, after ascertaining their wants, rapidly sketched off four of the new styles of mantles on paper, and said, "Now, gentlemen, I will show you samples of these mantles at ten o'clock, tomorrow." And the remarkable thing about it was that he kept his word. At ten o'clock the next morning the buyers again went into the place, and there were the four new garments, complete, even to the minutest detail, some of them silklined.

The Germans were found to be anxious for the American and Canadian business, and go after it in a manner which usually succeeds in landing it. Even with the surtax on German goods, the mantles made in that country are better value when landed here than any others that can be purchased, and, as Mr. Cressman said, "We simply have to get German mantles." For fit, style and finish they are unequalled. In Berlin, which Mr. Cressman believes, is the finest city in the world, everything seems prosperous, due, he thought primarily, to the fact that everyone there works, even to the women and children. The wages, to be sure, are small, but living expenses are correspondingly less. In that city he saw no poor people, in contrast to London and other English and Scotch cities, where the population is more congested.

As an example of German enterprise, at Belfast, Ireland, a German linen manufacturer's representative was met, selling linens. Just imagine, selling German linens in Belfast, the greatest linen manufacturing centre in the world, according to popular belief.

A high tribute was paid to the stylishness of the French ladies. On the streets of Paris, the styles which will be worn next year in the other parts of the world, may now be seen on the Parisian ladies, who, whether it be in a five cent calico or a five dollar silk, always dress becomingly, and with a style equalled nowhere else in the world.

In England, while they are not as progressive a people as the Germans, trade is good, and all the manufacturers were busy, their slower methods being offset by the greater attention paid to stability and good quality. The English business man is exceedingly conservative, sometimes provokingly so. He always wants to know where he is at, while the German seller will get references afterwards.

Mr. Cressman returned to New York on the Baltic, also of the White Star Line, the largest ship afloat. This trip was the second she had made. The steamer is 725 feet in length, seven and a quarter times the length of the Cressman store, and is as high as a seven story house. The size is almost incredible. She carried 3000 passengers and a crew of 850. The dining room has a seating capacity of 450 at one time.

Mr. Cressman was at his desk as usual on Monday getting in touch with the business that he had been away from for eight weeks.

A DIGRESSION IN FLOUR DELIVERY.

Go-as-You-Please Excursion of Central Milling Company's Team.

At the Wolfe street wharf the delivery team of the Central Milling Company was standing. The whistle of a steamer sounded, the team took fright and ran away. The consequence was that both wagon and driver were hurt, fortunately neither in a serious manner — nothing beyond what an arnica bottle and a blacksmith can put to rights. This took place this morning.

BARRIE VISITORS' HAD GOOD TIME.

A Very Pleasant Day Enjoyed by the Excursionists.

The Barrie excursionists left last night, the first train leaving the G. T. R. station about 7 o'clock, while the second section was an hour or so later. The unanimous opinion expressed by those who were here was that it was by far the most successful excursion that ever went out of Barrie. The firemen are to be warmly congratulated upon their wisdom in selecting such a popular place as Peterborough to which to run their excursion, and judging by the unanimity of opinion as to its success expressed by the visitors, an excursion here next year should be largely patronized.

The Barrie firemen are loud in their praise of the local brigade, who entertained their brother firemen royally.

At noon the local fire-fighters gave a trial run-out for the benefit of the visitors, in a manner which elicited warm approval from the visitors for the skill displayed, and during the whole day the members of the Peterborough brigade exerted themselves to make their guests feel at home, which they certainly succeeded in doing.

Ald. Batten was one of the boys yesterday. He donned a badge, and took in the procession to the boat, and with his genial smile and warm hand shake, made the visitors feel welcome.

The excursionists left feeling that a decidedly pleasant day had been enjoyed.

OBITUARY.

Sadly Sudden Death of Mrs. J. E. McGill, of Manvers.

The Examiner has the regretful duty of recording the death on Thursday, July 28th, of Mrs. J. E. McGill, of Manvers. The deceased lady's last illness was only of three days' duration, and the end came so suddenly that only three members of the family were present at the last moment, the father, and one son and daughter.

The deceased, who was 72 years of age, was a daughter of the late James Pritchard, of Cavan, and sister of the late Rev. Jas. Pritchard, of Goderich, of Mr. Stewart Pritchard, of Toronto, of Mr. John Pritchard, of Cavan, and sister of Mrs. Windrum, Emily, who still survive her. Mrs. McGill left behind her to mourn her death, a husband and nine children, whose bereavement is great, and loss irreparable. The children are J. McGill, Deloraine, Manitoba; J. H. McGill, Cavan; T. G. McGill, O. H. McGill, J. McGill and R. McGill, Manvers; Mrs. Ashton, Darlington; Mrs. Ryley, Bethany; and Mrs. Squair, Peterborough.

The deceased was one of the oldest residents of the neighbourhood, where she had passed fifty-four years of her life. She enjoyed universal esteem and respect for the many estimable and sterling qualities of heart and character. She was a devoted wife and mother, and the memory of her kind and affectionate bearing in the home will make her absence very keenly felt. She was also conspicuous for her Christian graces of character, which were shown forth in her daily walk and conversation, and in her devoted relation to the Presbyterian church, of which she was an active member for over fifty years. It is truly said of her that her highest aim was to do the will of her Master, her last words being, "If it be God's will, I am ready to go." The earnest and heartfelt sympathy of a wide circle of neighbours and friends is with the sorrowing husband and children.

The funeral took place from the family residence, Manvers. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. Mr. Yule, of Springville, and interment took place in the Emily cemetery.

A FORMER CITIZEN DIES IN SYRACUSE.

A Brother of Mr. J. J. Heartly Passes Away.

This morning Mr. J. J. Hartley, Chairman of the School Board, received a telegram announcing the death of his brother, Samuel, at Syracure, N.Y. About a week ago Mr. Hartley was called to that city by the illness of his brother, and returned, leaving him in an improved condition. The deceased gentleman, was 67 years of age, Mr. J. J. Hartely's eldest brother, and spent the early years of his life in Peterborough. He came with his father's family from County Cavan, Ireland, to Peterborough in 1845. He went to the United States in 1859, and on the outbreak of the American Rebellion, in 1860, enlisted in the Unionist Army for three months, that being the length of the "breakfast spell," which the Northerners considered long enough to subdue the South. He afterwards enlisted for three years and served during the whole of the war under several general officers, including Grant. He was at the battle of Chattenooga and several other pitched battles and was twice wounded. At the conclusion of the war, he settled in Syracuse where he has since conducted, like his brother in Peterborough, a contracting building business. Deceased leaves behind him a wife, but no children. Mr. J. J. Hartley left at noon to-day for Syracuse to be present at the funeral.

SEVEN YEARS IN THE FAR YUKON.

Mr. George Kincaid Returned Home on a Short Visit.

PRESENT CONDITIONS THERE.

Mining Will be Carried on for 100 Years —Good Work Done by Government —Output of Gold $13,000,000.

A gentleman who has seen seven years in the Yukon Territory, is home to Peterborough on a short visit, and the Examiner took advantage of this fact to interview him this morning on the present condition of things in the mining regions of which Dawson City is the official and business centre.

Mr. George Kincaid, a son of Mr. John Kincaid, for it is he referred to, has been in the Yukon since the mad rush of 1897, when thousands of men braved the hardships incidental to a trip into that country, in the search for gold, in which but a small proportion of those who engaged in it were successful.

Mr. Kincaid, during the first three years of his residence there was engaged in mining, the staple industry of that country, but during the last four years, he has occupied the position of Government Inspector of public buildings, in the Dawson District, which extends from White Horse to Dawson City, and his duties include the charge of schools, mining recording offices, etc. Mr. Kincaid is still interested in mining, however, having a partner who is engaged actively in mining operations.

The mining business to-day, according to Mr. Kincaid, is carried on entirely differently to what it was a few years ago. The use of machinery has made it possible to work properties to pay, which by the old method of washing by hand would not pay at all. Gold which washed 11-2 cent or 2 cents a pan would not be touched by miners hand washing, but will pay well to work by machinery.

The output this year of gold from the Yukon will be $13,000,000, an increase of $2,000,000 over that of last year, and Mr. Kincaid made the significant statement that, contrary to the general belief, there will be mining in the Yukon for at least 100 years. The country is so vast that only a small portion of it has as yet been prospected, and the evidences are that there is gold to be found all through the country.

Recently a new strike has been made at Tannana, six days' run from Dawson City, by boat. About 3,000 men left Dawson City during the last few weeks for this new strike, which is said to be very rich. It is anticipated there will be a heavy rush from British Columbia to the Tannana in the spring.

In the Yukon things have now settled down into almost eastern conditions. Roads and schools equal to any in the east have been provided by the Government and fully qualified teachers only, are employed. The North-west Mounted Police are recognized as the greatest body of law enforcers in the world, and everything is in good order.

It is like a holiday trip getting to the Yukon at the present time, compared with a few years ago. A railway now runs from Skagway to White Horse, 100 miles, upon which the traveller may ride at the modest rate of 20 cents per mile.

Dawson City now has a permanent population of 4,000, although there are as a general rule a great many more people than that number, coming in from, and going out to, the camps.

Wages for mechanics are about the same as those that prevailed in the early days, although the wages for labouring men have dropped. Mechanics get $1 per hour, while labourers get $5 a day. The demand for unskilled labour has decreased with the increasing use of machinery. It is a remarkable fact that the greater part of it used there is of American make, although there is a duty against it. Mr. Kincaid believes that the Canadians have not gone after the Yukon trade in the right way, whereas the Americans have used every effort to capture the trade. In the matter of canned goods, Canadian shippers are very much to blame. They send inferior goods to the Yukon, which fact has injured the Canadian trade to a considerable extent. This evil is gradually being remedied, however, and Canadian trade is rapidly on the increase. Living in Dawson City costs just as much as it ever did. Of course if the people were content to take the same quality of food as was used in the former days, they could live cheaper, but few are content to do this, and the improvement in the quality keeps the price up to that paid at first.

Mr. Kincaid states that the Government is doing all it possibly can do to develop the country, and the efforts made are appreciated by the great majority of the people, the opposition coming almost wholly from the foreign element.

Business of all kinds in Dawson is overdone, and the credit system has been discarded almost altogether. A number of large retailers are going out of business, and consequently are slaughtering goods, many of which can be bought as cheaply there as in Peterborough. Speaking of the climate Mr. Kincaid said there was no better in the world. It is not nearly as cold as most people imagine, and the summers are not uncomfortably warm. Vegetables grow there to perfection, but the shortness of the season prevents the growing of cereals. The country, too, is mountainous, so that there are only patches of arable land.

Mr. Kincaid came home on Sunday morning, arriving unexpectedly. This is his first visit home since he went away seven years ago, and naturally his friends were delighted to see him. He will return on Thursday, the journey occupying about 15 days. He is apparently in good health and likes the country in which he is prospering.

THE VIAVI MOVEMENT IN RELATION TO HEALTH.

Its Important Effects in Making Healthy Women.

An Article in Leslie's Weekly by Mrs. Elisabeth Stuart Motley on the subject "Are American Women Becoming Healthier," has especial significance in connection with the lectures on hygiene in relation to women being given to-night and to-morrow night in the Y.M.C.A. Hall by Mrs. C. F. Shaw-Hellier, lecturer of the British Viavi Company, of London, Eng. The article after referring generally to the effects on female health by dress and other conditions, says:—

I do not intend to attempt a full explanation here of the fact that women are so much less healthy than men; but what I want to emphasize is that there is absolutely no reason why this should be so; and as further evidence, I am going to describe a new and important movement, which, proceeding on the logical theory that it is wholly unnatural for women to suffer more pain than men, has made during the last ten years tremendous progress throughout the United States and Europe. This new propaganda is known as the Viavi movement, and had its beginning in San Francisco, Cal. The organization has representatives in every city and town of importance throughout the whole United States, and many in Europe and other parts of the world. The Viavi adherents are conducting a campaign of education, endeavouring to dispel the false customs that has countenanced and even compelled ignorance among women of facts that are necessary for their own happiness and well being. * * * * The effects of the Viavi movement are becoming so widespread that I am sure that before long American women as a whole will be largely affected by it, and we will come to be distinguished as a nation of healthy women. For the principles of this new organization are not only effective in curing disease, but contain practical methods by which health is permanently maintained; and these practical methods have much to do with the every-day mode of life.

THE "SLATER SHOE" BOOKLET.

The Slater Shoe Company, of Montreal, have just issued a new booklet entitled "The Making of a Hero," which is a gem in its way.

This booklet was gotten up by Messrs. Street & Finny, of New York, who are producing some very clever work in this line. The general design is entirely new and quite different from anything heretofore put out by any Canadian House. It contains a very clever story of strong human interest—is handsomely illustrated by a leading American artist and quite worth placing on ones library table. The writer places the "Slater Shoe" in comparison with British and American Shoes and the superority of the Slater is demonstrated in a very logical way.

This booklet very clearly describes how and why the "Slater Shoe" meets with the approbation of the different races throughout the world and gives particulars concerning shoes manufactured in the different countries. It is not only interesting but very instructive. Free by mail to anyone who asks for it.

STONY LAKE.

Composed by Annie McNicholl at Stony Lake, August 1st, 1904.

I sat by the shore last evening
And I watched the moonbeams play
On the water calm and peaceful
Peaceful it hath been all day
And I thought how like life's morning
This calm lake seemed to be
Before the storms of life would toss
And rage like an angry sea.
And I gazed and gazed, and slowly
Gathered in my eyes sad tears
As I thought of life's stern lessons
Learned within my length of years.
Like this lake my life was once peaceful
In that humble country home
With those dear loved ones around me
But these days, alas, are flown.
In fancy I see again that cottage
With its shade trees at the door.
The noisy creek by the hillside
Where I played in days of yore.
But these joyous days have vanished
Like the shadows at dawn of day
But I'll meet again those lost ones
That have gone from earth away.
Yes, one day I hope to meet them
On that land beyond the sun
They are waiting there to greet me
When earth's trials all are done.

Ain't You Glad You Waited?

This is the month that price reductions at Stratton's Bookstore speak loudest, and make you feel glad you waited. The drop in hammocks is one-fifth former prices; in croquet sets, it's a tenth off, and in sporting goods it's twenty off. This is about the way it goes in hundreds of other articles. As the ranks of summer goods get thinner the prices get slighter. A. H. Stratton & Co.

LORD STRATHCONA.

Our High Commissioner in London Who Has Attained a Seat in the House of Lords—Knebworth Mansion.

Lord Strathcona's features are familiar enough to Canadians, but this latest photograph will be interesting. We have reason to know him as our wealthiest citizen, the president of our largest bank, our High Commissioner in Great Britain, the Chancellor of our second university, and one of the few Canadians who have attained to the honor of a seat in the British House of Lords. We have known him as munificent with his millions in times past, yet none of his benefactions appealed so widely to public spirit as did his equipment, at his private expense, of 400 mounted rough riders for service in South Africa during the late war. It was a long stride that from the stripling of eighteen exiled for thirteen long years on the bleak coasts of Labrador, an ill-paid clerk in a company, to the peer of the realm with his millions, able to bear the weight of so princely an offering as that which gave him a reputation as wide as the Empire.

LORD STRATHCONA AND MOUNT ROYAL.

In England, it may be interesting to note, Lord Strathcona lives, while out of London, at Knebworth, one of the most famous old mansions of Hertfordshire, with a history dating back as far as the Norman conquest, though as the ancestral home of Lord Lytton, the author, it is not without an interest more modern.

Knebworth survived a stormy transition from a Norman fortress held by Endo Dapifer at the Conquest, to become one of the most picturesque of Elizabethan mansions, where Queen Bess delighted to visit Sir Rowland de Lytton about the time of the Armada. It was owned in turn by Thomas de Brotherton, fifth son of Edward I.; the noted Sir Walter de Manny; Anne, wife of John de Hastings, Earl of Pembroke; Sir John de Hortoff, Treasurer of the household of Henry VI.; Sir Thomas Bourchier, Knight of the Garter, and Sir William de Lytton, Governor of Boulogne. Like most historic houses of its kind, its principal apartments are the banquet hall, oak drawing-room, library, and the oak armory-room, where, in the days of Charles I., Pym, Eliot and Hampden were often entertained by Sir William Lytton. The whole mansion is crowded with trophies, armors and priceless memorials of historic days and deeds.

But of more interest to Canadians than its specimens of Italian and Dutch art, its famous music gallery connecting with its round tower, where John Hampden slept, is the human interest attached to the old place as the home of the poet, novelist, essayist, Lord Lytton, author and poet. The old place has its ghost, an uncanny housewife, who on occasions is said to bring her spinning-wheel to Knebworth, and the drone of its weird music strikes terror to its hearers when impending disaster hangs over the house of Lytton. The domain of Knebworth, church, village greensward, fern-bedecked hills, the odorous grasses and waving reeds beside the lake, the majestic avenues of the park, with oaks that whisper of dead centuries, and ivy clinging like romance itself to every crook and cranny, make an ensemble fit to thrill the soul of the most prosaic visitor.

Too Realistic for Irving.

Miss Ethel Barrymore relates a story of Sir Henry Irving, England's foremost actor, in whose support she appeared when he produced "Peter the Great." As told in Lippincott's Magazine it appears that at a rehearsal of the play in question at the Lyceum theatre, in London, a wonderful climax had been reached, which was to be heightened by the effective use of the usual thunder and lightning. The stage carpenter was given the order, the words were spoken, and instantly a noise which resembled a succession of pistol shots was heard of the wings. "What on earth are you doing, man?" shouted Sir Henry, rushing behind the scenes. "Do you call that thunder? It's not a bit like it."

"Awfully sorry, sir," responded the carpenter, "but the fact is, sir, I couldn't hear you because of the storm. That was real thunder, sir!"

Handling Maximite.

In spite of its high explosive quality maximite is a very safe compound to handle and is practically unaffected by shock and will not explode by being set on fire, even if a mass of it is stirred with a white hot iron. It will burn with a bright green flame and can be ignited with a match.

All this Mr. Maxim demonstrated by lightning a piece of smokeless powder and dropping it in a dish containing some lumps of maximite. He also melted lead and poured it over dry lumps of maximite, and, while it burned freely, like sulphur or wax, it did not explode.

In appearance maximite somewhat resembles sulphur, being yellow in color and quite hard. It is easily melted, in which condition it flows like molasses and is poured into steel projectiles.

WOMEN'S INVESTMENTS.

Remember That High Interest, as a Rule, Means Risky Securities.

How can a woman who has a few thousand dollars place it where it will draw a little better interest than it would if left with a savings bank or responsible trust company and still be safe?

There can be, of course, no certain and general answer to this question, since what is sought for is the mysterious balance between safety and profit in business affairs which must always be a matter of delicate, individual adjustment and involves the use of poised judgment and the possession of large experience. One certain general principle nevertheless does govern the matter. It is this: The amount of money seeking desirable investment is always so great that the competition of investment for the ownership of securities of high class is very acute and tends, save under exceptional circumstances, to bring down the interest rate on these securities to a low level. A high interest rate is therefore almost invariably and in the very nature of things a warning of insecurity. If the large dividends paid by this or that enterprise whose advertisements were in fact well assured, the great, shrewd capitalists of the country would be the first to know the truth and to seize possession of such treasures.—Exchange.

LAUNDRY LINES.

To clean flatirons rub them on green cedar.

Never put table linen into soapsuds until the stains have been removed by pouring boiling water through the linen.

Baby's knitted sack will be out of shape and stringy if it is hung to dry. Next time dry it on a paper on the warming oven.

Bits of soap which are too small to be used should be carefully laid aside for laundry days. Then they can be melted and added to the wash boiler.

Buttermilk will bleach clothes if they are soaked in it for two or three days. Then they should be washed, boiled and dipped in bluing in the usual manner.

In ironing handkerchiefs it is useful to remember that the middle should be ironed first. To iron the edges first causes the middle to swell out like a balloon and makes it difficult to iron satisfactorily.

Bed Valances.

The most satisfactory method of fastening a valance to a brass or iron bed is by means of a piece of heavy muslin laid over the springs. Cut a piece of cotton cloth that has been shrunk—preferably unbleached—that will come just to the edge of the frame. To this fasten the goods for the valance either laid in plaits or shirred, having the flounce hemmed at the ends where it touches the bedposts. After basting securely place on the bed and put the mattress in place to be sure the valance hangs evenly. After stitching on the machine, with a long stitch, fasten to the springs in several places, head, foot and sides, with cord to prevent slipping.

Bureau Covers.

Linen scrim makes handsome and inexpensive table and bureau covers if worked in a cross stitch pattern with double floselle or san silk. The pattern chosen may be as elaborate or as simple as one prefers. The spread is first hemstitched, a three inch hem being liked for a small spread. Within the hem the border is worked. Pillow and pincushion tops are also worked on the same material. A pillow top seen recently was worked in yellow silk, a number of stitches and patterns being combined so that it was almost solidly worked. It was very handsome and represented a good deal of patience and eyesight.

Training For Business.

Training for business should begin in the home with household and domestic work and sewing. All business is made up of details. To manage these small things so that the best and most profitable results are obtained is business. If a girl learns the items of household work and management thoroughly, how to buy and how to save, and how to use and adapt, and can make all the details dovetail into one orderly, quietly working, harmonious whole, she is bound to be well qualified for business. In any commercial situation she may take she will find that the ability to master detail and to combine into one general enterprise all side lines and happenings will make her services of value to her employers.—McCall's Magazine.

Japanese Salad.

Here is a Japanese salad: One cup of hot boiled rice drained dry and mixed with a small onion chopped fine. While the rice is still warm mix with a French dressing and set aside to get cold. Open a can of sardines, wipe the little fish dry of oil, removing the skin and backbones. Carefully mix the rice and the sardines, heap in the center of a dish of crisp lettuce leaves and cover with a French dressing. Sprinkle chopped chives over all. Beet shreds are also good as a garnish for this salad. The Japanese use raw beets for the purpose, but Americans will prefer them cooked. Cut in slices and with a thin vegetable knife cut into julienne straws.

Lord Minto's Daughters.

The English papers, to hand by mail, bring particulars of the last Court for the season, which was held by the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace on June 22. The interest of Canadians naturally centred in the presentation of the eldest daughter of the Governor-General and Lady Minto, and it will come as a surprise to most Canadians to note that Lady Beby was also presented. It will also be surprising to notice that in the official account of the Court, published in The Times, the only mention of the presentation of the daughters of the Viceroy of Britain's greatest colony was "Ladies Elliott (2)." The Standard, however, had this description, which will interest the many Canadian friends of their Excellencies' daughters: "Among the debutantes were the two elder daughters of the Earl and Countess of Minto, the Ladies Eileen and Ruby Elliott-Murray, who were dressed alike in white satin mousseline, trimmed with cream chiffon roses and touches of palest green.

The waxed lining paper to cracker boxes is excellent to wrap around small cakes and loaves of bread. It is fine to clean flatirons with also.

TALK TO YOURSELF.

Why are there so many "don't feel well's" moments? What is the cause of these aches and pains? Can I banish them?

When you don't feel well your stomach is not well. That is when the life of the body commences, and they will never end until the stomach is made right. When the stomach is wrong the whole body is liable to go wrong—Poisonous formations are thrown into the circulation in too great a quantity for the other organs to resist—Nerve tissue poisoned—Sleepless, excitable, nervous, heart irregular, headache, kidneys overtaxed, backache, kidney pains, liver clogged, constipation and bowel trouble. You can end these afflictions by helping the stomach with ANTI-PILL. It is just what a deranged stomach needs. You can prove for yourself by addressing Wilson-Fyle Co., Niagara Falls, Ont., for a free trial bottle. Regular size 50 cents (a months treatment).

A LOGICAL SAVAGE.

The Way He Silenced a Missionary In an Argument.

"I used to know in Australia an intelligent and interesting missionary," said an English nobleman. "He and I were talking one day about the natives of New Guinea, and he told me how one of these natives had stumped him in a certain argument. It seems that he had accosted the native and urged him to let himself be civilized.

"'But what good,' the native asked, 'will this civilization of yours do me?'

"'Well,' said the missionary, 'you will cease, for one thing, to idle all your time away. You will learn the delights of honest labor.'

"'What good will the labor do me?'

"'Through it you will gradually accumulate money, and in time, with frugality, you will possess much store of honestly acquired riches.'

"The native was still unconvinced. 'What good will the riches do me?' was his next question.

"'They,' said the missionary, 'will enable you to cease from work at last and to spend the rest of your days in well earned rest.'

"The native laughed.

"'It seems to me,' he said, 'that if I did as you say I would be taking a mighty roundabout course to get to the place I started from.'"

INDIA RUBBER.

Its Form of Structure Which Permits It to Be Elastic.

Modern physics teach us that the molecules of all bodies are in a state of incessant motion; that the intimate structure of matter is, in fact, a reproduction on an infinitely minute scale of the revolving suns and planets.

In gases and liquids this motion is most extensive in range, but in solids the movements of the molecules are more restrained, and they merely oscillate or rotate about a certain mean position, the range of motion being strictly governed by the attractions producing it.

If by the pull of an outside force the molecules are drawn out beyond the limit of their mutual attractions the body is broken, but within this limit it will recover itself when the pull ceases.

We may regard the particles of rubber as revolving in circles. When it is stretched these orbits become elliptic, returning to the circular form when released. As then this substance possesses a very wide range of variation of molecular distance without rupture it is eminently elastic.

Sleevelets.

Sleevelets to slip on over an ordinary sleeve are invaluable for any one who has housework to do. The simplest pattern is a straight piece of material hemmed top and bottom and with an elastic in each hem to draw it to the required size.

Too little attention is paid to the airing of clothes, houses and rooms, which indirectly accounts for the many ills which humanity has to suffer, attributing them to other sources.

THE CORSET.

How It Should Be Adjusted For Comfort and Health.

This article of dress has been the subject of much discussion. It has the most direct bearing on the general health.

If women knew how to adjust corsets properly they would prove a blessing instead of the curse they have been.

Use two strings (not three, as many do in order to be able to "pull in" the waist). Lace the first from the bottom up to the waist line, the second from the waist line to the top. Let the strings hang loosely until the garment is on and hooked. Then the abdomen should be pressed up into place by the hands, not pushed down, as usual, and the lower string drawn up and fastened. The shape of the corset holds the abdomen in place. The upper string is left very loose and fastened. This permits the lungs to be filled with air.

This is the only healthful way to wear a corset, and if so worn it acts as a support to the organs and also to the clothing.

By first adjusting and fastening the lower part, then by drawing a very deep breath while the upper string is entirely loose, one can tell how much "slack" should be left in order to have unrestricted breathing.

Try it, you women who find corsets uncomfortable.—Exchange.

Making Mayonnaise.

A medicine dropper as an adjunct to the making of mayonnaise was the inspiration of a housewife not long ago. Every one who ever tried to make mayonnaise knows the bother of adding the oil slowly, drop by drop, until the dressing is thick enough. This woman experienced the same difficulty and met it with the five cent medicine dropper, which adds the oil with machine-like regularity and precision.

Don't put yourself in this man's place, but keep a bottle of this remedy in your home. There is nothing so good for Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Diarrhoea. It is equally valuable for Summer Complaint and Cholera Infantum and has saved the lives of more children than any other medicine in use.

When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 35 cents.

FAMOUS NEGRO COLONY

FORMED BY FUGITIVE SLAVES, HAS BECOME A "DEAD VILLAGE."

Village of Buxton, in the County of Kent—Has Played a Curious Part in the Emancipation of the Black Man—Problem of the Future of Its High Promise Still Puzzles the Sociologists—Abel Coxfield, Negro Scholar.

Ontario's model negro colony, a relic of the turbulent scenes incident to the flight of fugitive slaves via the "underground railroad" from the Southern States, has played a curious part in the great tragedy surrounding the emancipation of the black man.

Any story of the great American drama is scarcely complete without reference to this northern terminus of the mysterious system for the moving of human freight commonly designated as the "underground railroad." Born of the privation of the runaway negro just tasting the fruits of his dearly earned liberty, the village became a factor in the tremendous results of the Civil War, says The New York Herald.

This is the same model village to which President Abraham Lincoln sent the committee headed by Secretary Seward and eminent humanitarians to inquire into the manner in which these former slaves were progressing in the arts and industries as freemen. But it is apparently in accord with the fitness of things that the colony held up to the attention of the civilized world as a municipal model of the nineteenth century, though inhabited by negroes who were but a few years removed from a condition of slavery, has degenerated, with nothing to suggest the successful experiment in political economy that Buxton was proclaimed at the breaking out of the Civil War.

ABEL COXFIELD,
Ablest Negro in Buxton, and Greek and Latin scholar.

As the followers of John Brown and William Lloyd Garrison pointed to Buxton in 1860 as a splendid example of what the human chattels of the South might accomplish under the beneficent influence of freedom, the opponents of the theory may today refer to Buxton, Ont., as one of the melancholy failures of the negro to flourish commercially and industrially when granted absolute political liberty.

More than twelve hundred fugitive slaves were settled at Buxton when the Civil War broke out. As many more frightened bondmen made their way to this city of refuge before the great conflict ended. The trade energy of the place was marvellous and attracted attention from all parts of the world. The negroes entered upon the enjoyment of full political rights equal to those of the regular British subjects.

Gradually the industrial conditions changed. The negroes sold their lands or lost them through indifferent business capacity. Many moved back to the very section from which they had fled, others going to Kansas and still others to Liberia, until to-day little remains to denote the site of the model black man's town but a few aged former slaves and their children, occupying rented farms and residences owned by their white neighbors.

Here is a lesson in political economy that exhibits the colored man in a curious light. To what is the failure of the model city due? Canadians don't seem very clear as to the forces that contributed to present conditions. All they know or seem to care is that Buxton, once famous as the seat of culture and trade energy of the negro fugitives from the Republic, scarcely has a place on the maps of British North America.

It was a picturesque scheme with which the Rev. William King, the English minister, startled the people of Ontario and the States adjacent to the South in the years just prior to the civil war. Youngstown, N.J., and Detroit, Mich., were the Northern termini of the mystrious line of flight sought by the slaves in escaping from the Ohio River into Canada. Dr. King called upon the Rev. Charles Royce, of Youngstown, that sturdy old Methodist minister who had for years busied himself in receiving and forwarding the traffic of the "underground road" to freedom from that point. They visited Detroit, where the Rev. Myron Foster of Boston, the friend of John Brown of Lincoln, was doing the same service for the new route to freedom at that edge of the line. These three went down to Toledo, Ohio, where the road branched coming from the South.

BUXTON POSTOFFICE.

Considering that the war between the States could not long be delayed and that some provision must be made for the influx of fugitive slaves into Canada, the Dominion Government made a crown grant to Dr. King of ten miles square in the western peninsula of Ontario to be devoted to the settlement of negroes.

The model village was located in the centre of his land in what now is Kent county. Each negro was given one hundred acres at $1 per acre, to be paid for in three years, and the means to clear a part for agricultural purposes was supplied from English sources. This land was heavily timbered and the revenue from this source was enormous. Two of the first fugitives to arrive from the South after the town of Buxton was laid out were Martha Parks, a young colored woman, and Harrison Weed, a black giant. It is a curious fact that these two pioneers still reside on the land then allotted to them, the only examples of persistence and settled purpose among the people of Buxton who remain in a prosperous condition to-day.

Six years ago Dr. King died and was buried in the churchyard of the village he established, amidst his negro friends. It is said by many white settlers in and around Buxton that the negroes were imposed upon by the shrewder whites with whom they came in contact. From

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. M. Secord, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not for a long time bear any solid food in my stomach; felt melancholy and depressed. Some four months ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptics throughout the land."

A man can succeed and be strong if he heeds Nature's warnings. When there is indigestion, loss of appetite, ringing in the ears, dizziness, spots before the eyes or palpitation of the heart; any or all of these symptoms point to weakness and loss of nutrition. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the medicine to turn to.

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. It is strictly a temperance medicine.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach.

The "Common Sense Medical Adviser," 1008 pages, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

BOY OF THE REGIMENT.

With His Dying Breath He Asked Garibaldi For a Coffin.

When Enso Ferretti entered actively into the Italian war of independence he was just seventeen. He left Parma secretly, deserting, as it were, his father, mother and family to fight for his hero, Garibaldi. He walked over the Apennines without a penny in his pocket and, arriving half dead at Genoa, concealed himself on one of the ships bound for Sicily. When at his destination he emerged and gained the nickname of the "boy of the regiment." From that time for some months he fought until the day for rest came. He was shot in the head and carried to the hospital in a dangerous condition. Everything possible was done for him, but it was evident that he was troubled, and at last it came out that he could not die happy because he had never seen his hero. "I have fought everywhere and sought always," he exclaimed, "but I have never succeeded in seeing him. How can I die never having caught a glimpse of him?"

Another preoccupation was that he feared he might be buried without a coffin. Morning, noon and night his cry was, "Let me have a coffin!" The very day he died, by a fortunate chance, Garibaldi arrived at the hospital. Having heard Ferretti's story, he stooped and spoke to him. The sick boy's expressive face lighted up and he exclaimed: "Now I can die happy. Oh, general, let me have a coffin!"

TRAGIC IN ITS BREVITY.

The Story of the Duel Between Hamilton and Burr.

The story of the Hamilton-Burr duel is tragic in its brevity. The little party of five—the principals, their seconds and the surgeon—was on the ground not long after sunrise. The preliminaries were soon arranged. As Pendleton, Hamilton's second, gave him his pistol, he asked, "Will you have the hairspring set?"

"Not this time," was the significant reply, and then the men faced each other.

According to the best authorities upon a disputed subject, Burr fired at the word. At the report, Hamilton started forward with a convulsive movement, reeled, involuntarily discharging his pistol into the foliage above him, and fell headlong. Burr, with an expression of pain upon his face, sprang toward him, but Van Ness, his second, seized him by the arm and hurried him down the bank and into their boat.

Hamilton, being lifted up, revived for a moment and gasped, "This is a mortal wound, doctor!" Relapsing again into unconsciousness he was again revived by the fresh air of the river. "Pendleton knows," he said, trying to turn toward his friends, "that I did not intend to fire at him."

At 2 the afternoon following he had breathed his last.

Salmon Curry.

Fry half a small onion chopped very fine in one tablespoonful of butter until a light brown. Add to it the liquor drained from a can of salmon and a half a cup of water. Simmer five minutes, strain and return to the fire. Add half a tablespoonful of flour rubbed smooth in a little cold water, one teaspoonful of curry powder, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste. When boiling add the salmon broken in large flakes. Simmer five minutes and serve.

Monster Bowl of Punch.

In 1694 Admiral Edward Russell, commander of the English Mediterranean fleet, entertained 6,000 people in a large garden in Alicante, where he served the largest bowl of punch ever brewed. It contained twenty gallons of lime juice, four hogsheads of brandy, one pipe of Malaga wine, twenty-five hundred lemons, thirteen hundredweight of fine white sugar, three packages of toasted biscuits, fifty-one pounds of grated nutmegs and eight hogsheads of water.

The whole was prevented from dilution in case of rain by a large canopy, which spread over a marble fountain bowl which held the punch. The punch was served by a boy, who rowed about the basin of the fountain in a boat built for the purpose and refilled the empty cups.

Two Scotch Stories.

A Scotch schoolmaster in Banffshire years ago had strong views on the subject of dress. In the day when crinoline was the rage a girl came to school with a very extensive one, which much exceeded the space between the desk and the form on which she had to sit. The teacher, seeing this, said to her, "Gang awa' home and tak' off thae girds (hoops) and come back to the school as God made ye."

Another rough and ready dominie was examining his boys in a catechism and asked if God had a beginning. "No," said the boy. "Will he have an end?" "Yes," he replied. This was followed instantly by a buffet on the side of the head. "Will he have an end noo?" "No," said the boy, and the master was satisfied.

Tennyson's "Married Brows."

"I have a question to ask," announced the literary man. "You know Tennyson's line:

"The charm of married brows.

"Well, did he mean by that the crowning charm of married women, or did he refer to the charm of eyebrows that meet in the middle? In the 'Arabian Nights' there are many passages in which such eyebrows are spoken of as a great charm, indeed, but in the west our beauty doctors give explicit directions to prevent such growths. What did Tennyson mean, anyhow?"

He Got It.

Teacher—Willie, give me a sentence in which the term hook and eye is used. Willie—Me an' pa went fishin'. Pa told me t' bait me hook an' I did.

A Revelation.

Wife—I haven't a gown fit to wear. Husband—Jove! That's the reason none of the servants will stay here.

It costs more to live than formerly, but then people live longer, so it is about even.

YOUNG ABSTAINERS DEFEATED BARRIE.

A Great Surprise Sprung by Youthful Lacrosse Players Yesterday.

Accompanying the Barrie firemen yesterday was a lacrosse team, said to be the first team of that town. They come to play a game with the T.A.S. III team, an aggregation of youthful lacrosse players, the average age being 15 years. But, while they are young they certainly know how to play the game, as the sequel will show. After four quarters of fast lacrosse the score stood like this: Barrie, 0; T.A.S. III, 12; and the play was about in proportion. This was the greatest surprise of the season in lacrosse circles, for when the supporters of the youngsters saw the size of their opponents, all of whom were full grown men, one player weighing fufy 200 pounds, they thought defeat was certain, but all this changed when the game started, for the youngsters simply played all around their opponents, shooting between their legs, and any old way, and soon piled up the score indicated above.

The names of these youthful giants in lacrosse and their positions on the field yesterday are:—

Goal—Gerald McFadden.
Point—Leonard Giroux.
Cover Point—Murt Whaley.
1st defence—Jack Seymour.
2nd defence—Otto Storrs.
3rd defence—Ambrose Doris.
Centre—Tom Tucker.
3rd home—Jimmie McNicholl.
2nd home—Orme Giroux.
1st home—Jos. Develin.
Outside home—Judd Gorman.
Inside home—"Hon." Charles Clark.
Field Captain—Harry Donovan.
Reserve—Will Judd.

The team went to Millbrook this afternoon to play the team in that town, when there will be "doings."

GOLF.

Yesterday was a bad day for Barrie sports. The golfers suffered a like fate to the lacrosse team, being defeated by the Peterborough golfers by 6 up. The teams were:—

Vernon vs. Neill.
Allen vs. Garvin.
McKenzie vs. Stratton
Ryan vs. McFall.
Martin vs. Dennistoun.
Terrill vs. Prof. Hall.
Waddell vs. Frost.

After the Millbrook game a match was played between rinks skipped by R. M. Waddell and R. J. Frost, and victory—in an absent minded moment—perched on the banner of the former to the tune of 24 to 4.

LACROSSE.

THAT'S WHAT THEY ARE.

The Port Hope Guide acknowledges the corn, and says that the Port Hope Trent Valley Lacrosse League team is a team of quitters. The Guide says:—"So the Trent Valley League team of Port Hope has to be termed 'quitters' the first year. It seems hard but nevertheless 'tis true and it was not due to the usual trouble of lack of funds either. The cash was by no means any too plentiful but notwithstanding this the season would have been finished had the players shown any interest to help the thing along. Everything necessary for the playing of the game was provided but when the problem of paying players faced the management they adopted the wisest plan and dropped out. The team on a whole was a good one and had splendid chances of winning the district and landing the championship. But no it was not to be. Trouble had to arise just at the time when every player should have been taking an interest and as a result the Ontarios had to default their game to Peterborough. And now the Ontarios for the first year in the Trent Valley League and looked upon by every other team as the likely cup holders, have to bear the reputation of quitters. Shame! Shame."

* * * *

The Peterborough lacrosse team has again commenced practice. The management has not announced the cause of the revival, but it is understood that permission has been given the team by President Frank of the O.L.A. to play off for the senior championship.

LAWN TENNIS.

W. Cavanah defeated Dr. McFall last night in a game in the Athletic Tennis Club by a score of 6—0, 6—4, in straight sets, and now leads the League with no losses. He plays a good steady game and with practice should be one of the foremost players in town.

QUARTER OF A CENTURY A PETERBOROUGH PRIEST

Rev. Father Kelly, Twenty-five Years a Priest in This County

The Anniversary Recognized by His Douro Parishoners.

1879-1904. Last Sunday in St. Joseph's Church, Douro, a handsome recognition was given to the fact that the pastor, Rev. Father Kelly, had completed his fifth lustrum—twenty-five years as a parish priest in Peterborough county.

In token of this fact yesterday, August 7th, 1904, acting on behalf of the congregation, Mr. Jas. McElligott, reeve of the township and Mr. Allen, councillor, approached the altar and read the following address:—

The Rev. W. J. Kelly, P. P.,
Douro, Ont.

Rev. and Dear Father,—It is now twenty-five years since, in obedience to the wishes of the late Dr. O'Brien, Bishop of Kingston, you began parochial work in the county of Peterborough. Twenty-five years of active, continuous parish duty in something rather unique in the lifetime of a parish. We are persuaded then Rev. Father, that we should not allow this occasion to pass without presenting to you our most hearty congratulations, and, if you will permit us, briefly reviewing what your energy and zeal have accomplished during those years for the upbuilding of God's Holy Church, and for the material and spiritual advancement of the people among whom you laboured. Twenty-five years ago when you arrived in the parish of Ennismore, as its first resident pastor, the present church was there on the hill-side, surrounded by a rough rail fence, standing among stumps, stones, and briars and brambles. Four or five taverns stood in the village hard by, to undo, during the week, the good which the "Soggarth Aroon" instilled into the people every Sunday. Soon after your arrival, your innate energy displayed itself and a rapid transformation both in the material and spiritual order was effected in the parish. The rough and unkept church grounds soon assumed a different appearance, a magnificent parochial residence arose beside the church, lawns were terraced, ornamental and fruit trees cultivated, and the whole church property enclosed with neatly painted fences, so that the church grounds became a veritable beauty spot in that picturesque township. In the ordinary course of events a fine new bell was placed in the church, and several acres of fine agricultural land was purchased, and added to the already large and spacious church grounds. Through your indomitable energy all these buildings and improvements were paid for. Besides these silent witnesses of your great capacity for work, there may be mentioned those temples of Christian virtue which were built up in the souls of your parishioners of Ennismore by your forceful sermons and scathing and fearless denunciation of evil. Your labours for the Holy cause of temperance in that parish are well remembered. By your strenuous advocacy of the cause you induced the municipal council to submit a by-law to the people, who, at your instance, voted to banish forevermore from the confines of the township, all hotels licensed to sell spirituous liquors. After ten years hard and faithful service your ecclesiastical superiors summoned you to take charge of the important parish of Douro, and you departed from Ennismore among the universal regret of the congregation. During the past fifteen years the same unflagging zeal in the cause of education and religion has marked your career in the parish of Douro. Of this, this beautiful church, the enlarged and improved parochial residence, the new cemetery, a fitting resting place for the remains of the dear ones who have passed away all clear of debt bear convincing testimony. Here, as in Ennismore, you have laboured most assiduously in the promotion of the noble cause of temperance. Under your fostering care a flourishing Total Abstinance Society has taken deep root in our midst, and we bespeak for this society from year to year a continuous and healthy growth. All who have watched your career since your advent to this county 25 years ago, can bear witness that you have spared neither time nor money, that you have spent your strength and energy for the welfare of the parishes entrusted to your charge. That the "God of all Gladness and Consolation" may spare you and give you health and strength to continue the sublime labours of the priestly office for many years to come is the ardent and sincere desire of the people of Ennismore and Douro.

THE VENERABLE REV. FATHER'S REPLY.

Father Kelly in replying said that 11 years ago in this Douro Church, and just after its completion the people were kind enough to present him with an address on the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the Priesthood; now, again on this occasion the 25th anniversary of his appointment as a parish priest in the county of Peterborough, the people were presenting him with another address. On this occasion unfortunately sorrow mingled with joy. John Moloney was not here to-day to read the address—the veteran reeve of Douro—he had been gathered to his fathers, followed by the regrets of a township, aye a county. In his lamentable absence it was a source of gratification to all present to hear the address read by John Moloney's great friend and confident—Reeve Elligot, who enjoyed in an eminent degree the respect of the whole community. He was pleased to see Councillor Allen accompanying the reeve because councillor Allen was the son-in-law of the noblest Roman of them all—John Leahy, the veteran treasurer of the township, who likewise had gone the way of all flesh. Councillor Allen was respected and would always be respected by the priest and people of Douro.

Father Kelly then went on to say that, thank God, the lines had been cast to him in pleasant places all the time during the past 25 years. He had built a palatial parochial house in Ennismore and he had built this magnificent church—this poem in stone—in Douro. Surely he might be pardoned for saying, even if it did seem somewhat egotistical—Si quaeris, monumentum, circumspice. Thank God when he left Ennismore, he had left it free from debt and free from taverns. Thank God, when leaving Douro he would leave it too, as it was now, in fact, free from debt, from taverns. He was able to accomplish what he did because the people were always true and loyal to him. They had always stood to him no matter how much money he asked from them because they knew that during those 25 years he had never kept anything for himself, except his food and clothes. Thus, Father Kelly said in conclusion, you will describe to your children's children what manner of man was the last of the Mohicans—the last of a long line of priests sent by the Bishop of Kingston into the dear old county of Peterborough.

During the reading of the address, his Reverence remained seated as he is not so young as he used to be, while the congregation to show their respect for him remained standing. The congregation was a very large one.

TO-DAY'S NEWS ON STOCK MARKET

Features of Market as Told by Special Wires.

By private wire from Richmond & Co., Ind'd., Pittsburg and Buffalo to W. F. Nelson & Co., correspondents:—

New York, August 9th.—Conditions this morning point to some further pressure, being put on the general active list as a whole, although the specialty programme will be continued and it looks very much to us as though So. Pac. will do better. We think Sugar is going higher also. We cannot see our way clear to recommend the long side of U.S.Q. as yet. In regard to M.R., we would take profits. Read may be bought on recessions, also A.C.P. We are still in a trading market and the trading position will give the best results. Early London market for Americans is fractionally lower with no special feature.—Town Topics.

New York, —London dull one 83 1-8. All the railroads in the cotton belt will make great money during the next 12 months. This is the reason we advertise buying South western railroads. Take the wild reports of breaking up of the steel combination with more than ordinary reserve. Buy U.S.Q. on moderate dips. Those who will anticipate a favourable government crop report tomorrow and will buy At., Pa., or Pacifics To-day will make a profitable turn. Keep long of M. R., hold Erie 1st, and buy Can. Pac.—Joseph.

August 8th.—Steel stocks declined to-day and we think U.S.Q. will go lower. On any further weaknesses in the general market we advise the purchase of P.M., Tex. Rubber com., S. S 2nd, C. P ,O ,V.C, C. F. I.

Wheat would take profits on any further bulge to-morrow and do not buy it again until it breaks ten points.—Wall Street Information Bureau.

New York, August 9th.—Reports of a 24 cut in steel billets the outlook for a short wheat crop and gold shipments are responsible for some selling to-day. The resultant recessions may extend further to-morrow, but substantial advance in stocks will begin. This is about as forecasted for ten days past, a traders' market between August 1st and 10 and a bull market for the balance of the month. The advance should not culminate before labour day. St. P., Mop., S. R., and Can. Pac are among the roads whose shares should show substantial improvements. As to wheat I think the shortage has been exaggerated, and that those long should take their profits on the present bulge. It is possible wheat may get a sharp break following the government report. In case of weakness Tuesday, you will in my judgment make no mistake in buying stocks.—Ridgeley.

Western railroad officials report continued improvement in business sentiment. Anthracite coal trade reports indicate business dull with few orders coming in. Building trade look-out expected to be of short duration.

Better demand for stocks in loan crowd.

Liverpool opening, wheat 12-8 to 15-8 higher; corn quiet and not quoted.

1.30 p.m.—Wheat 11-4 to 11-2 higher; corn 1 higher.

Lifebuoy Soap—disinfectant—is strongly recommended by the medical profession as a safeguard against infectious diseases.

JAPANESE FORCES RAPIDLY CLOSING IN

Russians Admit the Loss of a Strong Position.

PORT IS IN DIRE DANGER.

Mikado's Men in Possession of Wolf Hill—Position Affords Them Great Vantage to do Damage—Rumour of Engagement Between the Fleets—Japs Using Railway in Advance on Mukden.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 10.—The following despatch from Viceroy Alexieff, dated Aug. 7, has been received by the Czar:

"General Stoessel reports as follows:

"At five in the morning of July 27, the enemy having advanced a strong force, their artillery opened fire along their whole front, followed by a series of attacks, one of which, directed against Yupalaza Mountain, was especially vigorous.

"At about eight in the evening the enemy were everywhere repulsed with enormous losses. I remained in the advanced positions we have held for two days against an army very much stronger than ours.

"At four in the morning of July 30, about five divisions of Japanese took the offensive against our position on the Wolf Hills. In view of the enormous superiority of the enemy's forces and weakness of the position our troops were ordered to retire to the next positions without fighting. The movement was effected in complete order under the protection of artillery, which by accurate fire at short ranges, completely stopped the Japanese advance.

"Our losses have not yet been ascertained, but they were not great. The losses of the Japanese were very considerable. In the engagements of July 26 and July 27 the Japanese had about 70,000 men, and a considerable number of guns.

"The morale of the Russian troops is excellent, and their health good."

Gen. Stoessel says the real assault of the Japanese was made on the Russian positions on Wolf Hills, which, he points out, are only six miles northward and near the railroad station.

The Attack Renewed.

Che Foo, Aug. 10.—From a source hitherto reliable it is said there is good reason to believe that the Japanese are renewing their attack on the remaining outer positions at Port Arthur.

The officers of the German cruiser Fuerst Bismarck, lying at the outer edge of this harbor, express the opinion that the firing heard Monday night was an encounter between detachments of warships, twenty miles northwest of Che Foo. From the cruiser the flashes of the guns could be seen.

Fight at Port Arthur Aug. 8.

London, Aug. 10.—It is reported from Shanghai that the Russians are retreating northward from Anshanshan. The Daily Telegraph's Che Foo correspondent reports a great land and sea fight at Port Arthur, Aug. 8, and the Japanese were repeatedly repulsed. Over 1,000 Russians were killed, the correspondent says. The Russian troops have now been reinforced by civilians at Port Arthur.

Aim to Attack Sinmantun.

Mukden, Aug. 10.—The Japanese are using Shanhaikwan-Yinkow Railway for provisioning the army and mobilizing troops for an attack on Sinmantun, about 30 miles west of Mukden.

To Relieve Kuropatkin.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 10—It is reported in military circles that Lieut.-Gen. Linevitch is marching with troops from the direction of Vladivostock to create a diversion in the rear of Gen. Kuroki's army, with the object of relieving Gen. Kuropatkin's force.

Ready to Defeat Plans.

Liaoyang, Aug. 10.—Gen. Kuropatkin is ready to defeat the Japanese plan for cutting off Liaoyang. The Japanese forces are concentrated in three groups—the first at Simoucheng, Haicheng and Newchwang; the second threatening Liandanisian and Liaoyang, and the third threatening Sikseyan, Liaoyang and Mukden. According to a Chinese reports the Japanese are massing in the direction of Salmatze, evidently flanking Liaoyang and a strong column is ascending the Liao Valley from Newchwang, also for the purpose of flanking Liaoyang. A reliable Chinese merchant declares this column includes ten thousand Chinese, Japanese subjects, from the Island of Formosa. This most unwelcome development may induce other Chinese to join the Japanese. It is hard to tell a Formosan from a Manchurian.

Drove in the Japs.

Sintsintin, 66 miles east of Mukden, Manchuria, Monday, Aug. 8.—(Delayed in transmission).—A column of Russian troops, consisting of two companies of Cossacks, two companies of sharpshooters, a company of infantry and a couple of mountain guns, set out Aug. 4, on the Saimatse road toward Tsianschan, 36 miles southward, and drove in the Japanese outposts. A hundred men stubbornly resisted at three consecutive passes, but were routed by the Russian artillery, leaving ammunition and equipment behind them. One Russian was killed and four were wounded. The Russian pursued the Japanese so far as Tsianchan. According to the Chinese 2,000 Japanese are holding that place.

A GREAT FUTURE FOR WINNIPEG.

An Interview With Mr. D. W. Dumble K. C. who has Just Returned.

Western People Anxious About the Crops—Frost may Come—The Dominion Exhibition.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, K.C., returned last night from Winnipeg, where he has spent the last three weeks. Mr. Dumble was seen this morning by an Examiner reporter, and questioned about his trip, which, he said, was a very pleasant one, going and returning by the rail and boat route. He sailed from Owen Sound to Fort William, past Sault Ste. Marie, by the steamer "Manitoba," and returning over the same route.

Mr. Dumble did not continue his trip farther west than Winnipeg where he took in the Dominion Exhibition which was held in the Western City this year. He was greatly pleased with the fair, which was a typical western show. The western products were well represented, and the horses and cattle were particularly good. The circus features, too, were of a high order, and the whole exhibition was a most successful one.

Winnipeg, according to Mr. Dumble's idea, is destined to be a great city, and the noticeable feature about its present growth is the large number of wholesale establishments that are being located there. The eastern wholesalers recognize the fact that the western trade is bound to increase, and are making provision to handle it from the ground. A feature which impressed Mr. Dumble was the fact that Winnipeg has the most handsome banks of any city in Canada. The Union Bank has just completed the erection of a sky-scraping 11 storey building, and the other banks, the Merchants, Commerce, Dominion, etc., are vieing with each other to provide handsome offices.

The streets of Winnipeg are clean, and everywhere one meets scavengers with brooms gathering up the refuse from the well-kept, granolithic, macadam and asphalt pavements. The boulevards are sodded, trimmed and watered by the city, the cost being met by general taxes.

Winnipeg is a prosperous city, but there is at the present time a feeling of unrest and anxiety in regard to the season's crop. The grain this year is ripening slower than last year, and the harvest will be at least 10 days later than usual, and it will not commence until the last of this month. Should a frost come before the grain has passed the green stage, the crops will be greatly injured if not ruined. The whole country is just now on the edge of uncertainty. If the frost holds off until the wheat ripens, there will be a tremendous harvest, but if it comes early there will be trouble for some farmers at least.

However, with the optomism for which western people are proverbial, they will refuse to become discouraged, and the harvest may yet be the best in the history of the west. Mr. Dumble looks well after his trip, which has benefitted him physically.

VICTORIA COUNTY CHEESE BOARD.

A Lively Discussion at Yesterday Morning's Session.

81-16c the Highest Offer, but Most of the Board Sold Much Lower.

(Lindsay Post.)

The Victoria County Cheese Board which meets every two weeks, is beginning to attract a number of outsiders to the sessions, as there is generally something worth listening to.

The buyers present this morning were Messrs. Whitton, Cook, Fitzgerald and Flavelle.

Before commencing the regular business the President, Mr. Thos. Robertson, stated that they had now got the C.P.R. line through to Bobcaygeon and were prepared to ship on that line. The buyers should give the farmers a chance to ship from that point—perhaps not at this sale, but at the next one. "We would like to have the pleasure of shipping at Bobcaygeon," concluded the President.

Mr. Flavelle started the bidding at 7 5-8, Mr. Cook raised to 7 11-16, Fitzgerald called 7 1-2, and Flavelle made it 7 3-4. A little intermission then took place, after which Mr. Whitton raised to 7 13-16, Mr. Fitzgerald following with 7 7-8; Mr. Whitton then raised to 7 15-16, and Mr. Fitzgerald called 8c. After another pause Mr. Whitton raised to 8 1-16. This was not bettered and he called Red Rock, which accepted and Cameron, which refused. Mr. Whitton then offered 7 15-16 for further selections. On this offer being made Mr. Fitzgerald got into a discussion, in which he accused Mr. Whitton of doing a factory out of some $76 at a previous sale.

Mr. Whitton—"I say it is not so."

Mr. Staples (Red Rock)—"I've seen nothing wrong."

Mr. Whitton—"I'm perfectly willing to go to arbitration if necessary."

Mr. Flavelle—"7 7-8."

Mr. Whitton raised to 7 15-16, and Mr. Fitzgerald called the same figure.

Mr. Whitton—"I would like to say a word. I bought cheese at Peterborough and I defy Mr. Fitzgerald or any one else to show a cleaner sheet than I have; I have got as clean a sheet as the Hodson Bros. (To Mr. Fitzgerald)—"Did you carry out your bargain on this Board at the last sale? I have my call at 7 15-16."

Mr. Fitzgerald—"I'll bid 8c." He selected Beaboro and Maripposa, and offered 7 15 16 for further selections.

Mr. Whitton—"You have not got 300 yet, (I like to stick to the rules of the Board. 7 15-16 for balance of the Board."

The president made an attempt to call out the factories, but Mr. Fitzgerald again made a crack at Whitton about the $76, which Mr. Whitton said, "I will make you prove that I did a factory out of $76."

Mr. Fitzgerald—"You've got wind."

Mr. Whitton—"I have enough wind for you."

Mr. Whitton then called Maple Leaf.

The salesman—"I don't like to sell at less than the highest. Do you pay in Lindsay?"

Mr. Whitton—"I can't do it." He then called Omemee and Dunsford, the latter salesman replying, "No, I went 8c."

Mr. Whitton—"If you get 8c., all right."

Mr. Whitton then called North Ops, Cambray, Palestine, Bobcaygeon and Star; all refused.

Mr. Whitton—"That is short and decisive. You might as well say you don't want us Belleville men at all."

Mr. Cook—"You are running no more risk than the wholesale merchants of Toronto, who are shipping here."

Mr. Whitton—"I am not afraid of any expert in Canada; Publow or anybody else. We didn't want to come here."

Mr. Flavelle—"It is simply a matter of complying with the rules of the Board."

Mr. Whitton—"This is the only place that we have any humbug of this kind."

Mr. Cook—"I think you Lindsay men are trying to use us for suckers."

Mr. Whitton—"That's it; in Belleville, Tweed, Campbellford and other places we never hear of it."

President Robertson—"Pine Grove, Star and Bobcaygeon have got a lesson, and we don't want another."

Mr. Taylor Parkin—"Mr. Cook had no right to use that expression. We don't want to use you like suckers, and I don't want to get mixed up in this affair."

Mr. Staples thought fair play was due and he explained about his factory, Red Rock.

Mr. Fitzgerald—"He is worth watching."

Mr. Whitton—"I want to know if we are wanted on this board. (To the president—"You are allowing these men to break the rules—Fitzgerald did not take his 300; I called for 335, and it is the man's own fault if he did not take it.'"

The president — "Yes; Mr. Fitzgerald has got to take another factory."

Mr. Flavelle — "Is Mr. Whitton through?"

Mr. Whitton—"I called enough."

Mr. Flavelle—"I give ——"

Mr. Whitton (to Mr. Fitzgerald)—"I called mine—you call yours and see if you get them."

The president—"Mr. Fitzgerald has not taken his number, and Mr. Whitton hasn't."

Mr. Whitton—"I called mine. If a man refuses it is his own business. I have bought some 8,000 boxes inside of a week and have had no trouble except at Lindsay."

Mr. Fitzgerald—"I'll take Star, Dunsford, Maple Leaf, North Ops and Pine Grove, at 8c."

"Now," said Mr. Fitzgerald to Mr. Whitton, shaking his finger at him, "Now, you take yours and be a man."

Mr. Whitton—"I called my number—and don't you get off the roost, either—I am as good a man as you, Fitzgerald."

Mr. Flavelle then got Bobcaygeon, Palestine, Cambray, Cameron and North Verulam at 8c.

Mr. Whitton — "I give 7 15-16 for North Harvey," but that factory preferred to sell off the board.

The factories boarded as follows:

Star	128
Cameron	125
Dunsford	165
Maripoas	124
Cambray	80
Omemee	190
North Verulam	132
North Ops	96

Bobcaygeon	200

Whitton—Omemee, Red Rock.

NEW BATTLESHIPS GREATEST AFLOAT

Latest English Cruisers Also Largest Ever Built.

The Cost Totals the Large Sum of $40,000,000

London, August 7th.—The details given in the House of Commons last week as to the ship-building programme of the British Government for the present year, show that the two new battleships of the Lord Nelson class will be truly worthy their great name. Their batteries are such as never before have been put into any fighting ship, on a displacement of 16,500 tons, or 150 tons larger than the previous largest. They will carry fourteen big armor-piercing guns.

The advantage in the new ships lies in their greater number of 9.2-inch guns. This weapon is the most powerful in existence, firing a 380-pound shell two or three times a minute, and driving it through thirty-five inches of iron. It is more powerful than any gun of smaller type mounted in foreign battleships. The four 11-inch guns fire 850-pound shells through some four feet of iron.

The four new armoured cruisers are also to be remarkable for size, being the largest cruisers built for the British or any other navy. They are to be known as the Minotaur class, and will steam twenty-three knots. They displace 14,600 tons each, or 400 tons more than the Drake class. They will carry four 9.2-inch guns each of the same type as those in the Lord Nelson class, and ten of the new 7.5-inch guns, which fire four 200-pound shells a minute through more than two feet of iron.

Both the cruisers and battleships will beyond comparison be the best vessels of their class afloat. The six new ships will represent a capital of $40,000,000.

New Hope—New Courage

Persons whose nerves are affected get blue and discouraged, are easily irritated and annoyed and also learn to look on the dark side. The restorative influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, soon shows itself on the feelings. It gives new hope and courage, new energy and confidence. By creating nerve force it affords new vigour and vitality for both and body.

Miss Alice Ashby left for an extended visit to Pontypool on Friday last.

The Havelock baseball club expect to meet the Hastings aggregation here in a friendly match next Friday.

Mr. Jas. Campbell of town, who drove out to Koshabogamog Lake for a few days, was brought back to town in a very precarious condition. While on the mainland feeding his horses he was seized with a paralytic stroke on the right side, and was found a short time afterwards in a helpless condition by Mr. P. Lancaster of town, who brought him back. He is now at his home under the care of the doctor, and in a very critical condition. Mr. Campbell showed no signs of illness on leaving home.

On Friday last the Hastings lacrosse club came over to play the locals in a friendly game. The ball was faced about five o'clock, there being some two hundred spectators present. The seniors were sadly crippled by six of their men being away. These had to be replaced by juniors. In three minutes after the ball had been faced, the Hastings bunch on a brilliant rush scored, but try as hard as they could they could not place another one in the nets on Dineen, and the local bunch pressed them closely. In the second quarter they managed to get another one in but after a few minutes play in a mix up in front of the Hastings goal one was batted in, although the goal judge did not see it; it was counted as a score by the referee. In this quarter Havelock had the play all their own way. But no matter how much they tried, they could not break the ice. In the third quarter about six minutes after the ball was faced, by some pretty work on the part of the Hastings' bunch, another was dropped in on on goal, making the score 3—1 in favour of Hastings. After the draw off the Havelock boys began to get down to work and by some nice combination play Stibbe passed to O'Sullivan, who on an open-shot scored the second goal for the locals. This ended the scoring. In the fourth quarter Havelock pressed the visitors very closely for the first few minutes when five or six of them got out to one side and started to give an exhibition of rag, with one Havelock boy to play against. But as this could not last long, the boys started over to break up the pool, Easterbrook making a slash at Scriver's stick, which his stick struck but glanced off, striking Scriver in the eye, and causing the game to be at an end, with the score 3—2 in favour of Hastings. The line up was as follows:

NOTES.

Everyone said that it was the cleanest game ever played on the local grounds, not a player getting ruled off.

The unfortunate accident which happened just at the close of the close of the game, when Mr. Scriver of Hastings had his eye badly injured, not only dampened the spirits of everyone, but a number of the boys took it so badly that they either gave their sticks away or broke them saying it was their last game of lacrosse. It was also unfortunate that both doctors were out visiting patients at the time of the accident, and the injured man had to be driven to Hastings to receive medical attendance.

The boys say that the Hastings bunch is the finest lot of sports they ever crossed sticks with.

It is said that the junior team will be sent to Peterborough to play off the last game in the finals of the T. V. L. L. by the excellent showing they made with the seniors on Friday.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

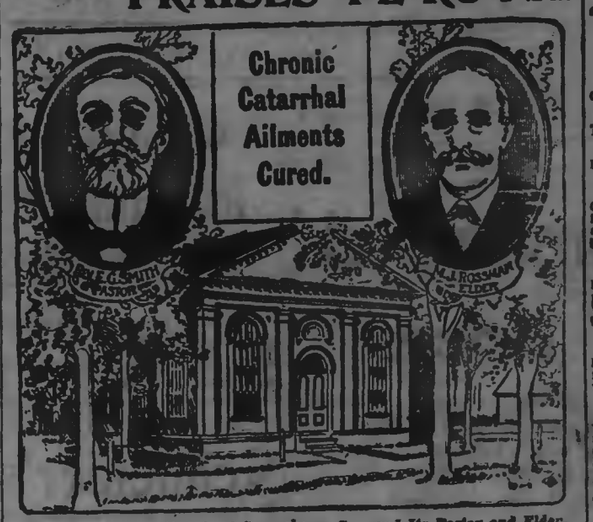
Threw Bomb in New York City.

New York, Aug. 8.—A bomb thrown into a crowd of Italians in East 151st street Saturday night injured a score or more persons and led to the arrest yesterday of Vincenzo Donnetto, who, the police believes, is a member of the "Black Hand" Society. Donnetto was himself more severely injured by the bomb than any of the others, one leg being badly torn.

PRESBYTERIAN PASTOR PRAISES PE-RU-NA.



First Presbyterian Church of Greensboro, Ga., and Its Pastor and Elder.

THE day was when men of prominence hesitated to give their testimonials to proprietary medicines for publication. This remains true today of most proprietary medicines. But Peruna has become so justly famous, its merits are known to so many people of high and low stations, that no one hesitates to see his name in print recommending Peruna.

The highest men in our nation have given Peruna a strong endorsement. Men representing all classes and stations are equally represented.

A dignified representative of the Presbyterian church in the person of Rev. E. G. Smith does not hesitate to state publicly that he has used Peruna in his family and found it cured when other remedies failed. In this statement the Rev. Smith is supported by an elder in his church.

Rev. E. G. Smith, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Greensboro, Ga., writes:

"Having used Peruna in my family for some time it gives me pleasure to testify to its true worth.

"My little boy seven years of age had been suffering for some time with catarrh of the lower bowels. Other remedies had failed, but after taking two bottles of Peruna the trouble almost entirely disappeared. For this special malady I consider it well nigh a specific.

"As a tonic for weak and worn out people it has few or no equals."—Rev. E. G. Smith.

Mr. M. J. Rossman, a prominent merchant of Greensboro, Ga., and an elder in the Presbyterian church of that place, has used Peruna, and in a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, writes as follows:

"For a long time I was troubled with catarrh of the kidneys and tried many remedies, all of which gave me no relief. Peruna was recommended to me by several friends, and after using a few bottles I am pleased to say that the long looked for relief was found and I am now enjoying better health than I have for years, and can heartily recommend Peruna to all similarly afflicted. It is certainly a grand medicine."—M. J. Rossman.

Catarrh is essentially the same where ever located. Peruna cures catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

ON THE ESTIMATES

Rapid Progress Made Tuesday in the House of Commons.

SENATE OVERTAKES WORK

Case of Pte Molloy Will Receive Best Consideration—United States Duty on Breeding Horses—Mr. Fisher May Recommend a Payment to Mr. F. H. Page—Closer Trade Relations.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—In the House of Commons yesterday morning Mr. Broder (Dundas) renewed his request that the Government do something more for Trooper Molloy, who was blinded in South Africa, and the Minister of Militia again promised consideration.

Dr. Sproule put up a fight for Mr. H. F. Page, of Mission City, who was, by an unexpected ruling of the United States authorities, mulcted in $1,496 duties on pure bred stock when it was expected they would be allowed in free. Mr. Fisher replied that Mr. Page had suffered great hardship, but nothing could be done unless a grant of grace were made by the Government, and he would ask his colleagues to consider it.

Closer Trade Relations.

Lieut.-Colonel Hughes asked if the Government were prepared to make any statement in regard to the matter of closer trade relations, which was now engaging the attention of the whole Empire.

Mr. Fielding replied that the views of the Government in this matter had already been placed before the House. He did not think there was anything that could be added to the statement already made.

Marine and Fisheries.

The House went into committee upon the supplementary estimates of the Marine and Fisheries Department. Hon. Mr. Prefontaine announced that it was intended to place Marconi apparatus on board the Government steamers Minto and Stanley and to establish stations at Charlottetown and Pictou, N.S. The idea of this was to maintain communication with Prince Edward Island in winter so that it should not be left at the mercy of the Anglo-American Cable Company.

Dr. Sproule proposed to place icebreakers on the upper lakes the same as on the lower St. Lawrence.

Mr. Prefontaine said the lower St. Lawrence was the most important point, and this would be attended to first. If the experiment was successful, and he believed it would be, the system of ice-breaking would be extended to the upper lakes. The icebreaker for the St. Lawrence was being built by Messrs. Fleming & Ferguson of Paisley, Scotland, who had promised to deliver the ship by the 15th of November.

Marconi Progress.

In reply to questions as to the progress of the Marconi station at Glace Bay, Cape Breton, Mr. Fielding said he understood that, while the Marconi station was exchanging signals with Great Britain, the system was not yet far enough advanced to apply it commercially. The power was greater on one side of the Atlantic than on the other, and efforts were being made to equalize it.

Mr. Johnston of Cape Breton, stated that the Marconi station was able to maintain communication with ships all the way across the Atlantic.

Rural Delivery Impossible Just Now.

Upon reaching the Postoffice supplementaries, Mr. Lennox asked whether the Postmaster-General was prepared to try the experiment of rural delivery in some suitable section of Canada.

Sir William Mulock said it would give him the greatest possible pleasure if he could see his way clear to the introduction of it. But a study of the system had disclosed the impossibility and unwisdom of it, and he ventured to say that no Government in Canada would be prepared for many years to recommend rural delivery.

Census Work.

On an item of $15,000 to carry on statistical work between census years, Mr. Fisher was subjected to some enquiry as to the completion of the census of 1901. He said the work on the last two volumes of the census were in the printer's hands, and would be issued before long. The Minister did not consider there had been delay.

Eastern Division C.T.P.

There was a protracted debate on the item of $500,000 for the national Transcontinental Railway surveys, the Opposition endeavoring to obtain from the Government an assurance as to whether or not part of this money would be used to purchase surveys already made by the Grand Trunk, also whether the Government would be bound to follow the Grand Trunk surveys in the location of the transcontinental line.

Hon. Mr. Fielding said the eastern division of the Grand Trunk was to be built by an independent Government commission. This commission would also have charge of the work of surveying and would be advised by its chief engineer, an able man. If the chief engineer advised the commission that the Grand Trunk surveys were on the route selected by the Government and were of a suitable character, there seemed to be no reason why they should not be purchased. "If," said Mr. Fielding, "the chief engineer advises that the Grand Trunk surveys are elsewhere than on the proper route, the commissioners will not take them, and they will not be paid for."

On this assurance the item was allowed to pass.

Prorogation Possible To-day.

Business in both Houses was yesterday carried on with an extremely slim attendance. Recognizing the futility of further useless discussion, the small Conservative group in the House considerably modified their attitude and rapid progress was made. The supplementary estimates for the current fiscal year went through very swiftly, and late last night it appeared almost certain that prorogation would be possible this afternoon. The Senate has overtaken the legislation from the House, and no delay in the Upper Chamber is apprehended.

Senate's Quick Work.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—The Senate concluded its sitting at 10.30 last night, after practically overtaking the work before it. The Militia Bill was put through with a couple of unimportant amendments, the Inland Revenue and Customs Acts and the bill to authorize the purchase by the Government of the Canada Eastern Railway were also passed, and today the Alien Labor Bill will be dealt with. That and the Supply Bill practically constitute the balance of the work of the session for the Upper House.

BIG FIRE AT VICTORIA.

Albion Iron Works and Fifty Houses Burned—Flames Leaped Great Distances—Loss Over $120,000.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 10.—Fire, which commenced in the pattern shop of the Albion Iron Works at four o'clock, totally destroyed the northern portion of the building, with a lot of valuable machinery. A strong southeast wind carried sparks a distance of 300 yards to the corner of Pembroke and Government streets, where three residences were destroyed.

Almost immediately after it jumped to a house 200 yards north on Princess street, and soon many houses in that quarter were blazing. Fortunately, the wind kept steady from the southeast and the fire was thus confined to the blocks north of Douglas and Pembroke streets.

The fire had burned itself out by half past seven o'clock. In all about fifty houses were destroyed. The majority were houses of working people. The loss cannot be estimated, but must exceed $150,000.

In addition to the houses, sidewalks and much of the furniture was destroyed.

Later.—The fire now appears to be confined to several blocks of the northern residental quarter. The Albion Iron Works, including the pattern room, are a total wreck.

Big One at London.

London, Aug. 10.—About 11 o'clock yesterday morning fire broke out in Welford's Broom Factory in the east end of the city. The factory was quickly consumed, being burned to the ground. The flames spread rapidly to the large street car barns, which were almost totally destroyed. The rolling stock was, however, all removed. The total damage is estimated at about $85,000.

Fire at Montreal.

Montreal, Que., Aug. 10.—Several warehouses were destroyed by fire as the result of an explosion which took place yesterday in the Pillow Hersey Rolling Mills, at the corner of St. Patrick and Conde streets. Two or three persons were injured, Charles Moore having to be taken to the General Hospital. He will, however, recover.

Metal Worker Killed.

Hamilton, Aug. 10.—Austin Kane, a metal worker, employed by Ald. Finlay, was killed some time during Monday night by a T., H. & B. train, near Ainslie woods. His body was not found until about seven o'clock yesterday morning, when another train passed over it. The dead man was a member of B Company, 13th Regiment.

Preacher's Daughter Weds.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—The wedding took place yesterday at the residence of Hon. G. W. Ross of his daughter, Miss Florence Ross, and R. Ernest Gunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Gunn, Rosedale. The service was performed by Rev. E. W. Mackay, B.A., of Madoc, and Rev. Dr. Neil of Westminster Presbyterian Church. Miss Mabel Ross was bridesmaid, and Norman Smallpiece was best man. Only relatives and a few friends were present. The gifts were numerous and handsome.

Sweet Springs, Mo., Aug. 10.—Former United States Senator G. G. Vest died yesterday. The body will be taken to St. Louis.

KING'S PRIZEMAN IN TORONTO

Received By Military and Civic Representatives and 150,000 People—Queen City's Welcome Was the Finest Ever—Presentations at Queen's Park After Tattoo—Several Persons Injured By Platform's Collapse.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—The warmth and magnitude of the reception extended by the military, and those in the more peaceful walks of civil life in Toronto, to Private Sam Perry, King's Prizeman, will live in the memory of all who saw or participated. Crowds! It seemed as if there was not a soul in the city but who had flocked to the route of parade or to the park to see and do honor to a slim khaki-clad youth who, perched upon a gaily decorated gun carriage, was the most modest figure in the whole procession. Even the well bronzed skin could not hide the blushes as he bowed acknowledgements to the throng who cheered, on as he leaned over to grasp a hand here and there of some one more deeply stirred to enthusiasm.

All Sorts and Conditions

From the Union Depot, where the streets were densely packed, up York to King and up Yonge to College and thence to the Queen's Park the sidewalks were lined from three to six deep with all sorts and conditions of Toronto people. And up through the park driveways it was the same.

The scenes on the university lawn were inspiring to a degree. No more beautiful place is there in the city for such an event than the lawn. With the university in the background and the broad spacious stretch of grass, and the shades of trees on the other three flanks, there was all the staging necessary for a spectacular performance. And when, added to this, and shown, first in the flickering light of oil torches, and then in the glare of the red fire pyrotechnics and the gay showers from the rockets, was the eager, but good-natured mass of women and men and children, crushing and craning, cheering and chattering then there were scenes indeed to make one marvel at the unrestrained manner in which Toronto gives the lie to the old adage that "a prophet is not without honor save in his own country."

Crush in the Park.

A very conservative estimate placed the number present at 50,000; one well-known officer, as he stood on the platform and allowed his gaze to wander over the very sea of heads to north, to south, to east and to west, put himself on record as counting 150,000.

The police arrangements had been well mapped out, and there was a nicely roped-off enclosure for the tattoo program, a platform for the ceremonies erected on the lawn just south of the main entrance to varsity, and a reserved space in which invited guests were given chairs to see the tattoo and witness the presentations.

The tattoo was carried out successfully, and there was a fine display of fireworks. Then an attempt was made to carry out the real and important portions of the evening's program. But it was soon evident that any proceedings on the platform were but an empty vision for the few in the front row; the thousands formed but a surging mass, orderly but uncontrollable.

Perry Didn't Speak.

And so the speech-making was soon abandoned. Even Private Perry was given no chance to return his thanks for the reception he had just received. The presentations almost hurled at him and the proceedings announced to have terminated, and Perry had just mounted a table to show himself in answer to popular request, while the crowds were filing away, when the entire platform collapsed. It is an act of providence that no one was killed, and the accident created consternation for a while. As it was, five persons were hurt, one seriously. The injured are: Chas. Goodhand, 40 Wellington avenue, left leg broken; Edward McLarity, 993 Bathurst street, aged 14, left shinbone badly bruised; Herman Johnston, 807 Palmerston avenue, right leg badly sprained; Harry Hawkins, Davisville, aged 15, left instep bruised; Frank England, aged 16, left leg badly cut and bruised.

The accident occurred at the conclusion of the ceremonies on the stand and was caused by the rush of the crowd to see and shake hands with Private Perry.

At the Station.

Pte. Perry had been received by Col. Otter and the members of the garrison committee at the Don Station, while Acting-Mayor Ward and members of the City Council were driving up to the station entrance. The train was only five minutes late arriving. What happened on the station platform can be readily imagined. Joseph Price, an uncle, and members of his family, were there to greet the young rifleman. His father had accepted an invitation to accompany the aldermanic party. While waiting for the troops to arrange themselves outside, a short delay occurred, during which time Perry held an informal reception. Among the officers present were Col. Otter, Lieut.-Cols. Stimson, Macdonald, Bruce and Merritt, Capt. Montgomery, Major Manderson, Capt. Grier, Major Sankey, Lieut. Young, Lieut. Linton and Capt. Moss. On his arrival, Ald. Ward and other members of the City Council were introduced. Perry wore the khaki uniform patterned after the mounted rifle style and issued by the Dominion Rifle Association to the Bisley team.

Montreal to Toronto.

On his way up from Montreal Perry was greeted at nearly all the way stations by cheering groups, and at Peterboro quite a demonstration was given.

The members of the local regiments did themselves proud in the large turnouts recorded.

As Perry was drawn through the long lane of spectators along the whole route, the plaudits that were showered upon him were inspiring to listen to.

Tribute From the Garrison.

Captain Montgomery of the Grenadiers stepped forward when the temporary stand was reached and read the address from the garrison.

Col. Otter then made the presentation of a cabinet of silverware, shaking hands with the recipient and expressing pleasure at the ceremony.

Col. the Hon. J. M. Gibson, as president of the Dominion Rifle Association, then spoke, expressing his pleasure at taking part in the demonstration. He concluded by saying Perry had immortalized himself.

On behalf of the Ontario Rifle Association, its president, E. B. Osler, M.P., offered congratulations on his having won the blue ribbon of the rifle world over.

Toronto's Gift.

Ald Ward, on behalf of the city, then presented a handsome grandfather's clock.

Col. Stimson followed, presenting a gold watch on behalf of the Grenadiers.

Col. Merritt, for the Bodyguards, presented a hunting outfit, as the G. G. B. G. is the senior militia corps in Canada, and as such wished to show their appreciation. The presentation of a pair of seal rings from "F" Company, Grenadiers, was then made.

Then the accident occurred and the formal proceedings were over.

After the conclusion of the formal ceremonial in the Queen's Park, the hero of the celebration was entertained by his old comrades of the Grenadiers in their Sergeants' Mess room.

Perry's Thanks.

The King's prizeman, who throughout the rather trying circumstances bore himself and his laurels with becoming modesty, said he could hardly express how much he had felt the reception accorded him in his native city. It had been overwhelming.

"I am not accustomed to put my sentiments into words," he said, "but I desire to express my thanks to all who have shared in the demonstration. It has far exceeded anything I anticipated, and I feel deeply honored at all that has been done."

STABLE BURNED EARLY THIS MORNING.

Seven Horses Had a Narrow Escape From Death.

A fire which strongly pointed to incendiary origin, occurred this morning about 12.30, when the brigade was called out to extinguish a blaze which occurred in the brick brick stable owned by Mrs. Drake, on Hunter street, east of Queen street.

The stable contained seven horses owned by Mr. John Dunsun, but fortunately they were taken out of the building before the fire had secured much headway, by a lady who saw the fire, and none were injured.

The stable, which contained but little hay, was considerably damaged, but not totally destroyed.

PETERBOROUGH'S GREETING TO KING'S PRIZE PERRY.

The Empire's Best Shot Passed Through Town Yesterday.

INTERVIEWED BY EXAMINER

A Very Modest Young Man—The Examiner the First Newspaper West of Montreal to Interview the Champion—A Story Told for the First Time.

Canada never had a more modest hero than Private Perry, the champion rifle shot of the British Empire, and the winner of the King's prize, at Bisley, and if Canada has not possessed one, certainly no other country has.

This modest, unassuming young man, who, since the memorable Saturday afternoon when he scored the shots which made him the rightful possessor of the title applied to him above, has been personally congratulated by the Prince of Wales, as representative of King Edward, and made the hero of wherever he has been since that time, including a demonstration in his honour at Montreal which, for heartiness and enthusiasm, has never been surpassed, was met yesterday afternoon at Havelock by an Examiner representative on his way to Toronto.

PRIVATE PERRY.
Winner of the King's Prize.

Examiner Meets Perry.

On Monday night, the following message was sent to Private Perry, at Montreal:—

FORM 2

The Great North Western Telegraph Co.
OF CANADA

SENT NO.	SENT BY	REC'D BY	TIME SENT	TIME FILED	CHECK
H	U	L 4	8 P.

Peterborough, Aug. 8th, 1904

To Private Perry,

Windsor Hotel, Montreal, P. Q.

Hope you will grant interview to reporter of the Peterborough Examiner, who will meet you at Havelock to-morrow afternoon.

City Editor, Examiner

A representative of the Examiner consequently left Peterborough on the 11.35 a.m., C.P.R. train yesterday for Havelock, where the arrival of the train carrying Private Perry was awaited. Mr. Perry, as soon as the train stopped, came out to the platform to meet the newspaper men, and greeted him very cordially, and willingly acceded to his request for a personal interview.

The train was crowded, and the young hero, who was supposed to be travelling in the parlour car, preferred the less conspicuous, but more free and easy way of travelling afforded by the baggage car. After the train had been boarded again he led the way to the front of the train, which for the trip he actually owned from engine to parlour car, to the baggage car, where the brakesman, who accompanied the two, introduced to the hero, the baggage man and express messenger, and the whole party entered into an informal talk, after congratulations, from which the recipient seemed to shrink, had been tendered Private Perry.

Success a Surprise.

To the Examiner man, later, the champion shot, expressed his appreciation of the action of the Examiner in sending a representative to personally congratulate him upon his success, which, he remarked, was as unexpected to him, as it was to anyone else, "for," said he, "when I left home, I thought I would do pretty well, if I made expenses or a little more," and he smiled as he thought of the richness of the prize, which he had won, and the subsequent honours which had been showered upon him. Speaking of his victory, which, by the way, is for the first time won by a native Canadian, he said that it was an exceeding popular one with the English people, and he could not see how they could have expressed greater pleasure had an Englishman won it.

There is, according to Private Perry, a very cordial feeling in England towards the Colonies, and particularly towards Canada, which is recognized as being the flower of the Empire, and the fact that a Canadian had won the King's prize was apparently a very pleasing one to the English. The other Colonies, with whom, as Private Perry remarked, with a modest smile, he "was a sort of a favourite" were also pleased that a fellow Colonist had captured the prize which represents the Empire's best shot.

Champion a Gentleman.

The young gentleman, at the first glance confirms the statement that he is young, and also the further fact that he is good looking, and it requires only a short time in his presence to demonstrate the most important fact of all, viz., that he is a gentleman, has hardly yet gotten over the surprise he experienced when he realised that of all the marksman at Bisley, the best shots of the British Isles, augumented by those of the Colonies, he, of all that number, proved himself the best shot, and the winner of the prize, and not only this, but the further fact that the score made by him has never before been equalled, being 10 higher than last year's best score, and making a record for Bisley.

Of these things Private Perry might be pardoned if he boasted some, but this man is not built that way, and while he admits the fact that he won and that he made a record score, he disclaims personal credit, and generously accords the credit to the fact that when he joined the Grenadiers, at the age of 17 years he was given a rifle and under the direction of the officers of that regiment, he began the career, which has now landed him into fame. But reasoning men will not overlook the fact that no matter how thorough the training, there must have been ability, and industry, a keen eye and healthy nerves, to have accomplished the results achieved by Private Perry.

Montreal's Reception.

The Examiner representative acquainted the champion with the details of the programme of reception to be tendered him at Toronto, and he said that while he appreciated highly the honour being shown him, and particularly those of his former Toronto associates, he wished the whole thing was over, the sincerity of which statement could not be doubted if one had seen this modest young man when he made the remark. Speaking of his stay in Montreal following his reception there, he said that the people of that city had treated him right royally. From the moment that the Bavarian arrives until he left that city yesterday morning, he had been the public's guest, and had been honoured in every way possible. The one idea of the Montreal people seemed to be that of showing Private Perry that he is an honour to Canada—a thorough, manly man, as well as a marksman — and that every Canadian is proud of him. Vancouver and Toronto may have a greater personal interest in Perry than Montreal, but Montrealers refused to regard him as anything but a brother Canadian. He was the guest yesterday of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club, at luncheon, and afterwards saw the race for the Seawanhaka Cup, when the Nourma won her second race.

Yesterday morning he was given a great send off from Montreal, the second C. A. Band escorting him to the station, where he was given three hearty cheers as the train pulled out from the Windsor station.

Perry's Joke.

Private Perry was made the subject of a practical joke. He has a friend in that city, Ira Kalmere by name, who is connected with the firm who manufacture the new headache remedy, "Hed-rite," and on Monday night this friend said to Perry, "I'm going down to see about your trunk, and to 'fix' it." The latter assured him as far as he knew, it needed no "fixing," but his friend still stuck to his assertion that he was going to fix it, and he did. Yesterday morning when he went to the station, here was his trunk, which is a black metal one, the words "Hed-rite" painted in big white letters on the top and both sides and end. Kalmere remarked later that he would have had the bottom painted too, only he was afraid that it would not show there. And now wherever the trunk with Private Perry's name on it goes, the name "Hed-rite" stands out prominently. The general impression is that his head is all "rite," and his record shows that his eye certainly is.

Many Congratulations.

Since he arrived in Canada, and before that time Private Perry has been the recipient of hundreds of congratulatory telegrams, and among them were seen messages from Premier Laurier and the Marquis of Lorne, at one time Governor-General of Canada — this message was signed "Louise and Lorne." Others were from Lord Strathcona, Lord Minto, Sir Frederick Borden, R. L. Borden, the Thirteenth Regiment of Hamilton, Ont.; La Presse, Sergt. Major Betts, Tranboro, Ont.; Col. Head, Edinburgh; National Liberal Club, London, Eng.; Col. Colmer, London; Mr. Cream, Montreal; Peter Williams, London; Col. Sherwood, Ottawa; Col. Ridout, Farnham; a friend from Wolfville, N.S.; J. G. Ramsden, acting-Mayor of Toronto; Joseph Price, Toronto; Commander Spain, Ottawa; Col. Turnbull and Capt. Hunter, Upper Halloway, Eng.; Col. Tilton, Ottawa; Major McGuigan, Vancouver; Capt. Higginbotham; officers of the Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles, Vancouver, (Perry's own regiment,) the Canadian Bowling Team; Col. Stinson, Toronto; Major Spearing, Sherbrooke; Jas. Anderson, Newcastle-on-Tyne; Col. Gibson, Hamilton, and many others.

At Peterborough Station.

As the train neared Peterborough, Private Perry was acquainted with the fact that the officers of the

The Examiner's Personal Congratulations.

On being made aware of the fact that Private Perry, the winner of the King's Prize at Bisley, would pass through Peterborough yesterday afternoon, the Examiner wired the champion at Montreal the night preceding, advising him that a representative of this paper would meet him at Havelock.

This was accomplished, and when the train reached that town the newspaperman was met on the platform by the champion, who granted him an interview, and the Examiner had the distinction of being the first newspaper west of Montreal to interview Private Perry.

He spoke very modestly of his success at Bisley, which he said, was totally unexpected by him when he went to the meet some weeks ago. He remarked that he appreciated very deeply the honours being shown him, and the personal congratulations of the newspaper representative were received by the champion in a manner characteristic of his modesty.

He had been told that the officers of the 57th Regiment would be at the Peterborough station to greet him, and he seemed pleased at this announcement, and asked his interviewer to introduce him to the officers, and his request was complied with in the case of the three officers who represented the Regiment, only one of whom was in uniform.

TAKING THINGS IN TIME.

Some Things We all Might do to Help Keep Down The Rush—Getting Things a Little Ahead of Time.

Unthinking people are apt nowadays to complain that they cannot get things done when they want them done. Possibly this is so in some measure. There are emergency calls at all times that must be met. But a lot of the hurry is provoked by one leaving off to some other time the things that should be done in anticipation of a need arising. It is a good plan to put in some coal in August, though the need of a fire is three months away. This same rule applies to many of the cares of life, and a little consideration and thought would often save a heap of worry and hustle, of the wrong kind. Hurrying to catch up with work is not nearly as productive as hurrying to get out more after the catching up process has been gone over.

Take the matter of furs, for instance. In the good old days the furs acquired by our respective grandmothers were worn right straight along, year after year, without alteration, except when repair was necessary. Now all this is changed. Fashion declares that furs shall conform to certain styles. Now furs must be made up in the prevailing mode. It is even the correct thing to have furs altered to bring them into style. Collars, sleeves and other parts of fur garments are particularly susceptible to alteration.

Now, it is no use discussing why this should be the case. Fashion says so, and it must be so. But fur, being a costly material, alterations should be made with discretion. Just what is best to do is a matter for the furrier, whose advice is there for the asking. And being costly, fur should not be torn to pieces, in a hurry, but with care, and deliberation. Hurry is not conducive of good results.

The moral of all this is one directed to the ladies, that if they desire alteration or repair to furs, or even fur garments made, attend to them now. Mr. Barrie, of Thos. Barrie & Co., experienced furriers and manufacturers, says in coming in later, with the great demand for ordered work, and in this case the preparation of winter stock, both for their wholesale and retail trade, that the same careful attention cannot be had. There is not time enough to go around. Furs now can be improved in colour and appearance that a few years ago was considered an impossibility. The process which brings best results is not a hurry job, the time element being necessary to bring results, which if hurried, never turn out as good. So that those wishing furs re-dyed, repaired, altered and made up should have their orders placed at once. It will afford the chance for deliberate, careful work. It will do away with delays. Taking time by the forelock is as essential in the fur trade as in almost every line of trade where hand work enters into the process of making up. 1d1w

That New Coal.

It has been whispered around town that because George Stevens is selling coal under the combination price that he is handling the "People's Coal." Such is not the case. He is agent for the Connell Anthracite Mining Co., of Scranton, Pa., and his coal is coming direct from the company's mines each week. An official of the above company has been in town for a day or so conferring with Mr. Stevens and going over the ground here, and it is good news to the people of Peterborough to know that they can buy an up-to-date coal at a price under that charged by the city combines. Mr. Stevens is well equipped for the handling of a large quantity of coal, and those who favhim with their winter's order will be favoured by him with prompt service and clean coal. The new company looks for a good prosperous business in Peterborough.

HOW THE FIFTY SEVENTH GREETED PRIVATE PERRY.

As at Balaklava "Somebody Blundered."

It is all very well to month our loyalty, rave over the old flag, and join the imbecile and uncalled for cry, "Keep both hands on the Union Jack!" but when it comes to action, it's all very bad to practically discredit, to a large extent, all our professions. Of the some three hundred members—officers and men—of the Fifty-seventh Battalion, there was only one officer in uniform at the station last night to greet and congratulate Private Perry, the Canadian citizen soldier, who proved himself the coolest head, the keenest eye, the best shot in the whole British Empire, the winner of the most valued prize of the Imperial meet of marksmen at Bisley, the King's Prize. From the moment he planted the last bull's-eye on the Bisley ranges, that made him a winner, he has been loaded with congratulations, beginning with their Royal Highnesses, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and Lord Roberts, and continued in the enthusiastic reception at Montreal. Big with good intentions, which proverbially constitute the pavement of a certain torrid region, the authorities of the local regiment arranged, or talked of, a sort of informal reception to be tendered to Private Perry on the occasion of his passing through Peterborough. In compliance with a request of the commanding officer, the Examiner very willingly inserted a notice in its columns to that effect, urging officers and men to turn out, and pointing out, also, how becoming it would be for the Fifty-seventh, the best shooting city regiment in the Dominion to assemble to do honour to the best shooting private in the Empire, who has brought glory to Canada, and by his achievement reflected credit upon the whole Canadian militia. The Examiner appreciated the importance of the occasion, and sent a representative to Havelock to interview Private Perry, en route, having previously wired him at Montreal to that effect. Trusting to the bona fides of the announcement the Examiner had been requested to make, the Examiner representative informed Private Perry of the proposed reception, and on arrival at the station the latter left the train, and, escorted by the press man, set out to find the reception. He was not nervous — the man that met the best shots of the British Empire with a steady nerve, was not likely to flinch before the Fifty-seventh Regiment bringing greetings. A way was threaded through the crowd on the platform, and the conquering hero was confronted with the solid phalanx of the Fifty-seventh, represented by a single officer in uniform. It is not necessary to comment at length upon this fiasco—the responsibility and credit, or otherwise, is left where it may belong. But it does seem a pity that the town should thus be placed in an unenviable light. However, Private Perry will know that the citizen element of the town appreciates his Empire-binding shooting—the enthusiastic cheers and tiger with which the crowd greeted him as he boarded his coach, was well worth the trouble of leaving his train. It showed that even if the citizen soldiers of Peterborough forget him, the citizens honoured and appreciated his work.

It is only fair to add that the unfortunate failure to give Private Perry a worthy reception is to some degree to be accounted for by the fact that in the midst of the holiday season many of the officers and men are off on holidays. The hour of his arrival at 5.30, was also unfavourable for many leaving their employment. But all the same it might, no doubt, have been arranged that more of the officers and men should be present. The role of a soldier intrinsically envolves considerable sacrifice, and with perhaps a little sacrifice, a good muster might have been seen at the station last night. From the way some of the men of the Fifty-seventh shoot, we might some of these days have to welcome home one of our own boys on his victorious return from Bisley. Such displays and welcomes are, of course, mere matters of sentiment, but the sentiment of love for country and home is all that is behind a volunteer soldier's enrolment for service.

Trip to Bobcaygeon Over the New C.P.R. Branch.

An excursion from Peterborough over the C. P. R's new Pontypool and Bobcaygeon Railway, will be run on Civic Holiday, August 18th, to Bobcaygeon, via Burkton. The trip will be under the management of an efficient committee of Mount Hebron Encampment, No. 56, and many of our citizens will no doubt take advantage of it. This is a new and attractive route, and as the waters at Bobcaygeon are noted for their excellent fishing, lovers of the rod and trawl, should go. Eight full hours at Bobcaygeon are promised. A special train will leave the C. P. R. station at 7.30 a.m., calling at Cavanville, Manvers, Pontypool, and Burketon, adult tickets 85c., children 45c. from the above stations. Tickets are for sale at Messrs. John Nugent's, Ormond and Walsh's, and the C. P. R. up-town ticket office. Particulars of the excursion may be had from Mr. A. A. Fowler, secretary, and Mr. D. McKercher, chairman, and from posters, soon to be issued. 2d Valuable Oil Paintings.

Three original masterpieces in oil, aggregating in value $300,000, will be a feature of the Art Building at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, August 29th to Sept. 10th. Through the kindness of Sir George A. Drummond, these paintings have been loaned to the management, who have reserved a separate room for their proper hanging. Another extremely interesting exhibit is a picture by Bertram Hynes, the celebrated armless painter, whose work has created such a sensation in the English Academy this year. The number of specimens of Canadian paintings in oil and water, of statuary, china painting, drawing and photography, will far exceed that of any previous art display held in Canada.

ACCIDENT'S FATAL TERMINATION.

Mr. Patrick Joseph Hefferman, of Otonabee Fell off Horse and Died From the Effects.

A sad ending to an accident which happened about twelve weeks ago, occurred yesterday at St. Joseph's Hospital, when Patrick Joseph Hefferman, son of Thos. Hefferman of Otonabee, died from the effects of a fall from a horse. About twelve weeks ago the deceased young man, who was 21 years of age, was riding a horse along the road, when the animal, becoming frightened at a coil of rope which the rider carried, bolted and threw the deceased off, with such force that the whole of his body from his chest downwards was paralyzed. He was brought to St. Joseph's Hospital a few days after the accident occurred, and for some days hopes were entertained that his life would be saved, but it was afterwards found that his injuries would result fatally, and although conscious to the last he gradually sank until his death, which occurred last night.

The deceased leaves a father and mother with a number of brothers and sisters to mourn his loss. The The brothers are Robert, John and Michael, all married, and living in Otonabee; Thos., James and Francis at home; and the four sisters are:—Mrs. Patrick Doherty, Otonabee; Mrs. Jeremiah Fitzgerald, Otonabee; Mrs. W. Fitzgerald, Ashburnham; and Julia at home.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, lot 25, con. 10, Otonabee, on Thursday morning at 8 o'clock to St. Peter's cathedral, and the Roman Catholic cemetery for interment.

THE YUKON PATHFINDER

HOWARD FRANKLIN AND HIS CAREER IN THE NORTH.

Stories of the Days When There Was No Dawson City and the Klondike Was an Unknown Stream—The Law of the Northland—An Unreliable Signboard—Exploring the Sands of Forty Mile River.

The pathfinder for Bob Henderson, for George Carmack, and for all other past, present or prospective claimants of the honor attached to the "discovery" of the Klondike gold field—Howard Franklin, prospector and miner—is dead at Dawson City, aged sixty-one. It was Franklin who first found gold at Forty Mile, and it was this discovery of coarse gold at Forty Mile which brought about the exploration, from which resulted the bursting upon the world of the Klondike with its dazzle of untold wealth in yellow dust and nuggets. Yet until his death Howard Franklin has been practically unheard of. Even in his own country, the Yukon, he was without particular honor.

Passing of Historic Figure.

On Friday, June 3rd, while still pursuing the adventurous and hard career of a working miner, the veteran fell into icy Bonanza Creek at "No. 56 below," as the claims are designated, washing down stream about two hundred yards before he was able to stem the swift current and make land again. The chill of the water, still carrying drift of ice, and the exhaustion incident to the adventure, produced a rapid illness, congestion of the lungs intervening and causing death the following Sunday. With Franklin's death there passes one of the historic figures of the newer north, and one of the last of the picturesque "old brigade" of western mining camps.

Franklin was born March 2, 1843, at Schenectady, N.Y., but before he was a year old his parents moved to Chatham, Ont. He lived there until 1873, when he journeyed to Vancouver, B.C., by way of California and went out with the island staff on the preliminary survey for the Canadian Pacific Railway. In 1875 he went on to the Cassiar country, and afterwards mined on Spruce Creek, which empties into Chatham Sound. He passed on to Juneau in 1880, and worked a claim in the basin there. Hearing vague Indian reports from the Yukon valley that seemed to indicate that it might be a good country to prospect in, he left Juneau for the unborn Eldorado on April 20, 1883, in company with Tom Boswell and Henry Matherson.

When Dawson Was Not.

The first place that the trio had any luck, according to the autobiography of the old miner, was on a bar some twenty miles below the Little Salmon, which they struck on June 20. It paid as high as $40 a day to the rocker, and they cleaned up $1,500 in less than ten days' time. They then dropped down river, late autumn finding them still working their way down stream and north, with only moose meat in the larder. They passed the mouth of the Klondike River on the afternoon of October 4th in a heavy run of ice, reaching Fort Reliance shortly thereafter, and being there joined by Joe Ladue. The quartette made their headquarters at the post, but, as there were no supplies to be got there, most of the time was necessarily devoted to hunting, and for ten days the little company camped and hunted the numerous moose up Bonanza Creek and to the present site of "the forks," little dreaming that they were treading a land of gold, whose fame a few years later would be in the mouths of everyone. Outfitting the following spring upon the arrival of the steamer New Racket, and being joined by several other old-time friends, the prospecting expedition was resumed.

The Law of the Northland.

"That fall something happened which I recall with anything but pleasure," says Franklin in his biography. "Tom Boswell had made several remarks as to not going hunting, declaring that instead he intended to rob the Indian caches. The Indians at that time were very friendly with the whites. It would not do, we agreed, to let the white injure them in any way. That fall Matherson, Jow Ladue, John Fraser, Mike Hess and I came to the conclusion that we must protect ourselves, and so the following note was handed by me to Boswell:

"'If you are caught robbing Indian caches you will be shot on sight.'

"The warning bore the signature of all five of us. It seems a rather cold-blooded proceeding, but it was absolutely necessary for us to keep on good terms with the natives, and there was only one way to do it—punish by death anyone who would upset the good feeling then existing."

Boswell hunted and prospected the entire season a lonely, isolated man, and then struck for the outside. The Franklin party of six continued their explorations, and during the summer of 1884, struck what is known far and wide as Steamboat Bar.

An Unreliable Signboard.

"When we started up the Stewart the warm weather had just set in," says Franklin, "and we struck the Bar just after the snow had disappeared and had left the ground thawed, yet the river showed no sign of breaking up. Before the ice did go out we had cleaned up $80,000. It was a regular thing for each rocker to clean up from $200 to $300 per day. Another incident which comes to mind as being interesting: When we were going up the Stewart that spring, and had reached a point about 65 miles up, we came to a tree blazed so carefully that it immediately attracted our attention. We investigated, and found it to have been done by five men in 1882. In letters about an inch in size were the words, 'No gold here.' The only name I can recall upon it was that of Charles Farceau. The tree was at the head of an island, and just about twenty feet from it was the only place that I have ever seen gold in windrows. For a few days we rocked as high as $300 a day. Pans went from $1.50 to $2.00. We simply skimmed off the top of the bar, for that was all that carried pay."

On the Forty Mile.

September found Franklin and his associates exploring the sands of Forty Mile River. It was on the evening of the 7th that the discovery of historic interest and importance was made. "I had walked up stream about two miles from camp," Franklin says in telling his story, "until I found a place where the bedrock was exposed, and in a crevice succeeded in getting out about half a shovelful of dirt. When I panned this I was surprised to find it had much coarse gold in it. I hastened back to camp and showed the boys what I had got. We weighed the prospect, and if I am not mistaken it weighed a half an ounce, or about $8.50 as gold went in those days. The place was about 500 feet inside the American boundary line. The next day we poled up, but could not find anything else on the bar, and then we continued our tramp for some distance, and finally got good prospects on a bar which I staked and named Discovery Bar, but which afterwards became known as Franklin's Bar. I sold out in 1888 and went to San Francisco, where I had a good time after being away from civilization so long. In 1889 I went to Cariboo, and afterwards prospected in Oregon and Washington, returning to the north in 1898.

"The coarse gold I had got at Forty Mile was given by us to Harper & Mayo, who some years later despatched Williams and an Indian to Dyea, the former being instructed to go to San Francisco and tell Jack McQuestin about the find. They left Stewart on December 3rd, and were caught in a storm on the summit. Williams died there of exposure, and the Indian had a narrow escape, only reaching Dyea with great difficulty. Men went to the summit and got Williams' mail, and at a miners' meeting it was decided to open the letters and see what news had been sent out. In one reference was made to the coarse gold, and upon it being found on Williams' body the news spread, and was the direct cause of the stampede which followed shortly after, and did more than anything else to open up the Klondike country."

Dominion Day's Lesson.

This is summed up in the word "Unity."

In a general sense we have a united country, and if our sober thoughts will dwell for an hour, during celebration days, upon their serious significance, we may in time have a thoroughly united nation. And, surely, on a Dominion Day morning while the mother is packing the sandwiches and calculating how far the holiday fund will go, good-natured dad might get his pipe going in the garden, and with the youngsters around him, chattily explain to them the nature and origin of Dominion Day. It would at least simplify the tangle of dry school history and make the day's observance a more sensible thing. Youngsters have brains, (or were it not so we should have had no "Fathers of Confederation."

Scratch your head, "daddy," and dig up all you know about Confederation. Your own bright-eyed boy may take a great part in Canada's history; and, depend upon it, he won't forget that garden chat.

Or, let the splendidly limbed young man, whose glorious vigor has been in such evidence during the day, take a quiet stroll in the cool of the evening and ask himself this question: "Do I care a —— about Confederation; or, do I see nothing in Dominion Day save peanut shells and banana skins?"

Depend upon it, Mr. Muscular, this question needs answering.

A pile of wood and a sawbuck in the back yard is a good enough hint for the bright tramp.

Chop very finely a piece of Sunlight Soap and put it into a bottle with a teacupful of hot water, shaking it well and adding a wine glass full of spirits of ammonia. Paint the frames with this liquid, let it stay on a few minutes, then wash off with a soft brush and cold clean water, and polish with clean chamois leather. MR. EDWARD GURNEY.

Sketch of One of Canada's Well-Known Manufacturers.

Edward Gurney is the only son of the late Edward Gurney, native of Holland Patent, N.Y., who, in company with his brother Charles, laid the foundation in Hamilton in 1842 of the well-known foundry business of E. & C. Gurney. He was born in Hamilton in August, 1845. After receiving a general education at the local schools of that city, he entered his father's workshops, where he was given a thorough training as a moulder and made familiar with all the other departments of the trade. In 1869, on being admitted to the firm, he removed to Toronto, where he was placed in charge of a branch of the business then being opened up. From a comparatively small beginning the works at Toronto have been gradually enlarged and the business extended until to-day both are easily the largest of their class in the Dominion, and take rank with the largest concerns of the United States. In 1891 the firm become an incorporated company under the name of The Gurney Foundry Co., Ltd., with Mr. Gurney as President. A second branch of the business was established in Boston in 1887.

Mr. Gurney has always taken a keen interest in public affairs and has filled from time to time a number of important offices. He was President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in 1879-80, and of the Toronto Board of Trade in 1897. More recently he was elected to the Presidency of the Crown Bank. He is also a member of the Temiskaming Railway Commission.

Those who have been associated with Mr. Gurney in office have found him a most delightful man to work with. His cheerful optimism and wonderful determination are a constant source of encouragement, while his shrewd judgment in matters of business makes him a tower of strength to any committee fortunate enough to have him for a member. He is a clear thinker and a polished speaker, and never fails to captivate his audience by the undercurrent of quiet humor which pervades nearly all of his remarks.—Industrial Canada.

The Seychelles Islands.

The Seychelles islands form an archipelago of 114 islands and are situated about 1,400 miles east of Aden and 1,000 miles from Zanzibar. They rise steeply out of the sea, culminating in the isle of Mahe, which is about 3,000 feet above the level of the ocean and is nearly the center of the group. All the islands are of coral growth. The houses are built of a species of massive coral hewn into square blocks which glisten like white marble.

His Reason.

Judge—You let the burglar go to arrest an automobilist? Policeman—Yes. The automobilist pays a fine and adds to the resources of the state. The burglar goes to prison, and the state has to pay for his keep.

Her Victim.

Nell—You are simply making a fool of young Mr. Saphedde. Belle—Oh, well, I'm probably only saving some other girl the trouble.

To His Credit.

He—So you are under the impression that I am a woman hater of the worst sort? She—No, of the best sort. You say you never intend to marry.

DOCTOR OF DANCING.

This Title Was Given to Beauchamps by Louis XIV.

In France during the reign of Louis XIV. dancing took a very prominent position among court festivities, and many members of the royal family took part in the complex ballets of the time. Louis himself, so mean performer, took lessons for twenty years from Beauchamps, who was called the father of all dancing masters and upon whom the king conferred the title doctor as a special mark of favor.

Beauchamps had the honor of appearing as partner with the king in the minuet, a dance which was introduced in 1650 in France, and no court ball was opened in Europe for a century and a half without it.

About the year 1661 a royal academy of dancing was formed under the auspices of Beauchamps, Lulli, Moliere and others, the object of which was to elevate the art and check all abuses. Of this academy Beauchamps was chief, with the title of director.—London Telegraph.

From Over Study at School.

This Girl Became Pale, Languid and Nervous — Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Made Her Well.

Mrs. R. Wareham, 267 Sherbrooke street, Peterborough, Ont., states:

"One of my children suffered a great deal with nervous headaches, dizziness and sleeplessness, and in fact was all run down, pale and languid. These troubles were attributed to over study, and confinement at school. She began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and I can say that we have found this treatment exceedingly helpful. It has relieved her of headache, steadied her nerves and built up her system wonderfully. We can see a great change in her as the colour is returning to her face and she is gaining in flesh and weight."

HARDWOOD FLOORS.

How They Should Be Treated to Get the Best Results.

The best hardwood floors for every day usage are those which are either waxed or oiled. A floor that is shellacked, as a great many hardwood floors are, does not wear well. It shows the marks of boot nails and is easily scratched. Unless it is carefully covered with rugs it is as much of a nuisance as carpeting. The waxed floor is really the ideal floor for all rooms, except the kitchen. The ordinary oiled floor is the best for the kitchen, where there is so much hard usage. It will often remain, under ordinary conditions, very clean and neat looking for half a year or more without renewing the oil. The proper oil to use is boiled oil, and it should be rubbed into the floor until the pores are filled with it. In time it becomes oxidized, so that a permanently glossy surface is produced.

Diamonds Are Charcoal.

Is it not strange to think that the precious diamond is only a crystal of the purest carbon? That is the reason it is not fusible and cannot be injured by acids or alkalis. The "fire" in a diamond is brought out in the cutting. Rough diamonds are cheap, for the cutting takes so long and is such a delicate business that it costs a great deal. And yet they must be cut to attain their brilliancy. Diamonds come from India, Brazil and South Africa and are found in all colors—white, orange, yellow, red, brown, pink, blue, green, black and opalescent.

The pale yellow and brown shades are more common, but the decided hues are extremely rare. Indeed just one deep red diamond has thus far been found. The most popular colors are pure white, blue white and a deep golden-yellow.

SONG OF THE COMMON PEOPLE.

We are the common people, the hewers of wood and stone,
The dwellers in common places, mighty of brawn and bone,
Bearing the common burden that only the shirkers shun,
And doing the common duty that others have left undone.
Dubbed, by the few, plebian, rabble or proletaire,
Ours is the hand that feeds them, ours is the price they share,
And ours is the common blessing, true to the toilers all,
To win from the lowly valley unto the summits tall.

Common, and only common—
This by the might of birth—
Yet the world in its need leans on us—
We are the kings of the earth.

We are the common people, and ours is the common clay
That a God deemed fit for using, when, in that olden day,
He took the dust of the Garden, the dust that His will obeyed,
Fashioned and formed and shaped it, and man in His image made;
And, seeing that God selected such clay for the human test,
And deeming His wisdom suffices to choose but the surely best,
We, who are common people and made of the common clay,
Leave to the proud uncommon to improve on the Maker's way.

Common, and only common—
Tattered, sometimes and frayed—
We are still content with the pattern
That God in His wisdom made.

We are the common people, yet out of our might is wrought,
Ever, by God's own fiat, masters of mighty thought,
Men of that grand republic whose rulers walk alone,
Piercing the future shadows, knowing what seers have known;
And, measured by these, the unco' are petty and wee and small,
Playing with gilded baubles, chattering, voluble all;
And these, our sons, surpass themsas the hills o'ertop the glen,
For their great hearts throb to the world's long sob, and they are the saviours of men.

Common, and only common,
Hopelessly commonplace,
Yet out of our loins still issue
The saviours of the race.

HIPPOPOTAMUS HUNTING.

How the Big Brutes Are Taken and Utilized in Africa.

A hunter of big game in Africa writes: "Hippopotamus hunting, as a rule, is not exciting, except from a canoe or boat, where the animal has a chance of turning the tables. If a clean shot is made, he sinks like a stone, and beyond a few bubbles on the surface nothing more is seen till he rises to the surface, belly up, in from one to four hours. One can generally tell by the thud of the bullet if the shot has told. It is mostly snap shooting as they blow, and a novice or excitable person will often waste a lot of ammunition banging away at every nose he sees bobbing up, irrespective of distance or position. The vulnerable spot is the brain, and it is advisable to wait for a side shot, when a bullet in the neighborhood of the ear will surely find it."

This hunter writes further: "When we camped on the Kafue, schools of from ten to thirty hippopotami were found together, but after being disturbed several times they shifted to a huge swamp to the north, where the only way to get at them was by poling canoes through about a mile of reeds and narrow channels to the lake-like patches of open water whither they had retired. The only canoes we could get were dugouts, capable of carrying not more than three men, very narrow, mostly rotten and parched with lumps of moist clay to stop leakage. If capsized, they sunk like stones. So, as the place was full of crocodiles, we had always a spare canoe at hand. We hunted them successfully several times in their swamps."

Being useful as butcher's meat, the big river horses were hunted systematically. The hunter, Mr. Wright, says: "All the fat which we used for cooking was procured from hippo. We had to feed from forty to fifty natives living on the station during the rains, when grain and native foods were difficult to get, so that a hippo, even if he weighed three tons, soon disappeared into biltong. Hippo make splendid tracks across country between bends of the river, and the natives dig round, deep pits on these and cover them with branches and earth. The hippo, traveling along at night, drop head first into them."

British Peers Who Are Foreigners.

There are several Peers of the realm who, while still entitled to enjoy all the privileges of their order in Britain, have become, to all intents and purposes, foreigners. Lord Teaffe is head of a house which was connected for generations with the noblest families in Ireland, but has now for more than two centuries been seated in Austria. The present Viscount, who holds a commission in the Kaiser Franz Joseph's Dragoons, has no property in Ireland, but owns large estates and two fine castles in Bohemia. Another expatriated Peer is the Earl of Newburgh and Viscount Kynnaird in the Scottish Peerage, who is known in Rome, where he has lived all his life, as Prince Giustiniani-Bandini. He proposes to re-establish a connection with Britain by sending his grandson and heir-expectant to finish his education at Christ Church.

Important Social News.

The Archbishop of Westminster has become a total abstainer, says The London Chronicle. That is an important piece of social news—the most important of its class made public for many a day. The Archbishop would be the last person to claim any credit for the sacrifice involved by the renunciation of wine as such; but, like Cardinal Manning, Archbishop Bourne has recognized the havoc made among his flock by drunkenness, and as he must preach testotalism to those who need it, he has decided to practice what he has to preach. The Archbishop's example will, no doubt, be followed, in course of time, by many of his clergy; and it wins for him immediately an increase in the loyalty the Roman Catholic laity has, from the first, ungrudgingly yielded him.

Simonides' Delay.

"Why should we expect religion," says Sir John Lubbock, "to solve questions with reference to the origin and destiny of the universe? We do not expect the most elaborate treatise to tell us the origin of electricity or of heat. Natural history throws no light on the origin of life. Has Bibliology ever professed to explain existence? Simonides was asked at Syracuse by Hiero who or what God was, when he requested a day's time to think of his answer. On subsequent days he always doubled the time required for deliberation, and when Hiero inquired the reason he replied that the longer he considered the subject the more obscure it appeared."

Don't Become a Back Number.

A woman busy with the cares of her family fails to study and place at their true value her duties to her mind as well as to her body and her household. She makes no mental progress as the years go on, loses the power of companionship with her children, grows discontented and fretful and passes the last years of her life in dull, ignorant unhappiness. Had she seen the limitations and laws of her physical and mental nature she would have known that it was not selfish to snatch a half hour every day for the refreshment of her mind in a botanising walk or a quiet time for thinking in the open air or a locking of her chamber door while she read two or three pages of a good author.—Exchange.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

It is said that 'tis love that makes the world go round, but money chases it pretty fast too.

Some people always wear an air of meekness on the same principle that others hedge on a bet.

It is said that it takes two to make a quarrel, but one person has been known to make a dozen.

The surest way of always knowing just how you stand financially is to spend a dollar as soon as you get it.

A bachelor's idea of a married woman is a female at the head of the stairs with a club in her hand at 2 o'clock in the morning.

There are people in this world who would dearly love to be liberal if it did not cost anything.

As soon as a little girl is able to talk she begins giving lessons in propriety to the boys about her.

It does not take a woman half as long to spend her money as it takes her to make up her mind what shall be the color scheme of the expenditure.

It is hard to tell whether the original purpose for which sofa pillows were intended was simply to look prim and uncomfortable or to serve to get men into trouble by making the mistake of using them.

It's able against them to win the score
Can meet them in thirty winks.
For in and out curves and fancy twirls

That call for applause from the pretty girls,
Just call on the vacant lot nine.

Their uniforms may not be cut to fit
Or trimmed with the patent pads,
Spiked shoes, breastplate and a ten pound mitt
And all of the latest fads,
But on the maneuvers of the play
The wrinkles they have down fine,
So if you are sensitive don't get gay
With the militant back lot nine.

The rules that govern larger fields
They rigidly enforce.
Their umpire never bends nor yields
To some great higher source.
With aggregations of their size
They wish for games to sign,
Quite confident they are the prize
Will go to the vacant lot nine.

OAK APPLES.

Forms of a Disease Propagated by a Minute Gallfly.

The little brown balls popularly known as "oak apples," which may often be seen growing in clusters upon oak twigs, are not fruit, as some suppose, but forms of a disease which results from the attacks of a minute gallfly (cynips). This little insect, a distant cousin of wasps and bees, is provided with a complicated piercing ovipositor in her tail, by means of which she makes little holes in the tender shoots of the oak, laying an egg in each, and at the same time introducing a drop of irritant fluid.

The substance of the shoot is thus stimulated to unnatural growth and produces an oak apple or "gall," which may be regarded as a sort of vegetable tumor and serves as a home for the grub which hatches out of the egg. This can easily be seen by cutting open a young gall, but in an old one the insect has escaped by driving a tunnel to the outside.

The oak is infested by many other kinds of gall. Some are tufted, others look like currants, and others again are the little brown "oak spangles" seen on the undersides of the leaves. Each kind of gallfly leads to the production of a different kind of gall.—London Answers.

BOWER BUILDERS.

Birds That Construct Gardens For Their Own Enjoyment.

There are five different bower birds—three in Australia, the regent, the satin and the spotted; one in the Papuan islands, the catbird, and one in New Guinea. Their brilliant plumage is golden yellow, glossy black or spotted brown, often with a rose-tinted collar.

Their bowers are in no sense nests, but miniature gardens, adapted for enjoyment and courtship and set in the eye of the sun. A pavement of equal sized pebbles is arranged, and numberless twigs are thrust firmly between them in two parallel rows, inclined to each other, inclosing an avenue about a yard long and several inches wide.

To decorate this arbor gay feathers, ruddy berries, pearly shells, bleached bones, even watches, knives and other glittering objects, are tastefully placed in and around the entrance.

The New Guinea bird, still more of a gardener, constructs a miniature conical summer house, with internal gallery. Before this is a meadow of moss, kept free from grass, dust and leaves, on which bright flowers and fruit are daily offered by the enamored male bird to his mate.

RIVAL MUSICIANS.

The Earliest International Band Contest Was Held In 1720.

The earliest record of an international band contest is of one held in the year 1720 between the bands of Handel and Buononcini, a gifted Italian composer, who by his friends and admirers was declared to be infinitely superior to the German master. The king headed the partisans of the German and the Prince of Wales those of the Italian artist. The controversy has been perpetuated in the lines of John Byron, a popular poet of his day:

Some say, compared to Buononcini,
That Mynheer Handel's but a ninny.
Others aver that he to Handel
Is scarcely fit to hold a candle.
Strange all this difference should be
'Twixt tweedledum and tweedledee.

An international band contest on a much larger scale was held in connection with the Paris exhibition of 1867, in which selected bands from Austria, Bavaria, Baden, Belgium, France, Holland, Spain and Russia competed in the presence of 20,000 visitors. Russia took the first prize, closely followed by France and Austria.—London Standard.

PETERBOROUGH'S GREETING TO KING'S PRIZE PERRY.

57th Regiment intended to meet him at the station and congratulate him, and he expressed his perfect willingness to see them. He was standing in the doorway of the baggage car as the train swept into the station, the platform of which was crowded with persons anxious to catch a glimpse of the young man. They were looking at the wrong place, however, and were hardly prepared to see him jump off the baggage car, which he did, and make his way to the rear of the train, piloted thither by the Examiner man, who introduced the hero of Bisley to the sole representative of the 57th in form, Capt. McWilliams; Lieuts. Smith and Watt were also on the platform in civilian dress, and were in turn introduced to Mr. Perry, who was given three rousing cheers and a tiger, in which the civilians joined heartily. Among the crowd was an old comrade in arms of Private Perry, who was a member of the Grenadiers at the same time.

The Bisley hero remarked to the Examiner that probably the man who is feeling proudest over his victory is Capt. Tite of Vancouver, a member of the same regiment as Perry, and the man who was instrumental in sending him to Bisley. In writing to one of the officers at Montreal, Captain Tite in concluding the letter, said: "What do you think of my man, Perry?" showing that he felt a personal interest in the champion.

Perry Makes a Request.

After the Examiner's conversation with Private Perry, the latter preferred a request, which he said that he had made to no other newspaper in his experience, viz., that a copy of this paper containing the interview be sent him at Vancouver, and, needless to say, his request will be complied with.

Private Perry will take a trip to Cleveland, after he has spent a few days in Toronto, and will then return to Vancouver. He laughed heartily when told that Lou Scholes would be married next week, and and when the suggestion was made that he would probably follow Scholes's example in this respect, as well as winning the first honours in his respective line, he said that he and Scholes might make it a double wedding.

His Trusty Rifle.

When he was asked if he had the rifle with him which won for him the prize he said, "Yes, I have my rifle, and if I can I want to keep it as a souvenir of the Bisley meet. Col. Anderson, the commandant of the Bisley team, is trying to secure it for me, and there is a funny thing—Col. Anderson was last at Bisley the year that Private Hayhurst won the prize. All through the meet I was joking with him. I called him my mascot, and said that as he landed a winner the last time he was over there there was no reason why he should not land a winner this time, never thinking at the time that I was going to be the lucky man."

Private Perry, whose father is Jos. Perry, was born 24 years ago, on Adelaide street west, Toronto, and he and all his family are connected with Toronto, though not residents there now. Of the other members of the family, his four sisters live in Cleveland, where two of them are married, and his brother lives in Buffalo. Perry's interest in rifle shooting was due to the visits he often paid to shooting galleries, where he discovered that he had skill, and proceeded to develop it. As a lad he was of a courageous and venturesome nature, and it is related that he once saved a man from drowning in the bay. He was educated at the Bathurst street school, Toronto. His father was for several years in the employ of Jackes & Hay, and afterwards with J. P. Wagner Company, and young Perry assisted his father latterly in draughting work. He also developed his talent as a draughtsman by learning how to cut shoe findings, and it was work of this kind that he went out to Vancouver to do.

TO-DAY'S NEWS ON STOCK MARKET

Features of Market as Told by Special Wires.

By private wire from Richmond & Co., Ind'd., Pittsburg and Buffalo to W. F. Nelson & Co., correspondents:—

New York, August 9th, evening.—The traction stocks were the leaders of the market to-day and M.R. was the greatest feature. We told you some time ago that the deal in M.R. would go through the 1st of September and that it would sell above 130 before that date. Advantage should be taken of any reaction of 1 1-2 or 2 p.c. to buy this stock. We expect to see B. R. T. move in a similar way and on large activity in a similar way and any large activity the advance will be repaid. The general railroad list was quiet and steady until shortly after noon when the Government weekly weather report was published and furnished a stimulating influence to the market. It was shown that the damage by rust in spring wheat had not been as extensive as reported by the private experts who are interested in bulling wheat; short covering was induced by this report and in conjunction with the moderate buying orders for banking house interests all the leading railroad stocks advanced. The Government crop report to be published at 4 o'clock to-morrow will be a bull argument and an advance in all the leading stocks should take place on Thursday. Any slight reactions in to-morrow's market should be taken advantage of to buy especially the following stocks, C.F.I., T.C.I., Lead, Tex., S.R., L.N., Mop., Atch., Rubber com., Ill., C. P.O. and P.M. Mop. acts strong and we advise its purchase every time it goes below 94. The present price in U.S.G. discounts a great deal of unfavourable news. The stock ought to be a purchase on weak spots.

The wheat market looks toppy. Do not buy Sept. wheat until it has reacted at least 10 points. However, we do not advise selling it short. We regard Oct. cotton as a sale on any bulge above 1005.—Wall Street Information Bureau.

New York, 10th—Developments this morning indicate irregularity. It is an ideal trading market for those who act promptly and machine-like, buying on reactions and selling on rallies. It must be acknowledged that the action of the market showed the existence of inherent stability and resistance to pressure. S.P., Sug., and A.C.P. seem to us good specialty propositions. The fractions ought to rest to-day. Some of the grangers may be bid up against the short interest. There is no change in the general situation. London market for Americans was about parity. Little change of importance and practically few features. Town Topics.

New York.—London 1-8 to 1-4 lower; cons. 85. To-day's market crop report will be most favourable for corn and for cereal growth of similar nature. Buy and hold Atch. Tractions will go higher. Get long of M.R. It looks as if cotton will adv on deterioration in crop reports. Buy Wab. pfd. Buy Mx. C. for a turn. Joseph.

ESCAPED FROM PORT ARTHUR.

A Portion of the Russian Fleet Leaves the Port.

NAVAL BATTLE IS PROBABLE.

One Russian Torpedo Boat Destroyer Reached Che Foo Safely—Japanese Fleet Reported Pursuing Escaping Russians—The Jap Version—General Kuropatkin Said to Have Withdrawn Beyond Liaoyang.

Che Foo, Aug. 11, 7.30 a.m.—A Russian torpedo boat destroyer entered Che Foo harbor at 5.30 o'clock this morning and reported that six Russian battleships, four cruisers and half of the torpedo boats escaped from Port Arthur yesterday morning. The torpedo boat destroyer left Port Arthur last night, bringing in five passengers, who stated that the Japanese fleet is pursuing the Russian and that a battle on the open sea is expected.

The Japanese Version.

Tokio, Aug. 11.—The Russian fleet emerged from Port Arthur Wednesday, and a severe engagement with the Japanese fleet, lasting all day followed. The Japanese destroyers attacked the Russians. The results of the engagements are unknown. The Russian battleships Retvizan and Pobieda were seen outside Port Arthur this (Thursday) morning.

A Land Fight Also.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—(3.30 a.m.)—A despatch from Liaoyang, dated Aug. 7, reports that there was further fighting Aug. 6 and 7 at Houtsiatze, but gives no details. The despatch adds that a battle was expected at Aisyadzkan.

WITHDRAWAL OF KUROPATKIN.

Have Japs Delayed Too Long For a Decisive Battle?

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—Again the chance of a decisive battle between Gen. Kuropatkin and the commander of the Japanese armies seems to be disappearing. According to a statement issued by the general staff last night rains are again falling over a wide area in Manchuria, with the prospect of impeding operations, but even more important is the information reaching the Associated Press from an exceptional source that the Japanese once more have delayed too long.

Gen. Kuropatkin has now withdrawn the bulk of his army safely north of Liaoyang, leaving only a strong rear guard line southeast of Liaoyang to contest the advance when it comes. According to this information the Japanese have about 300,000 men in the armies operating against Gen. Kuropatkin, rendering it too hazardous for him to risk a general engagement.

The general staff has no information bearing on the reported presence of a large force of Japanese at Paithuho, a place that cannot be located on available maps. The report agrees with the general tenor of the information received by the Associated Press and here given that Gen. Kuropatkin is already retreating north of Liaoyang.

Back to Chiutsu.

London, Aug. 11.—A correspondent of The Daily Mail, who visited Sinmintin, which is on neutral Chinese territory, about 30 miles west of Mukden, cables the following, under date of Aug. 10:

"There is an enormous garrison at Mukden, reinforcements having arrived rapidly.

"There are no Japanese north of the city. A force of some strength lies 25 miles to the south, and there is another Japanese army five miles east of Liaoyang.

"I learn from a reliable source that the main Russian army has fallen back on Chiutsu."

Firing at Port Arthur.

Che Foo, Aug. 11.—Admiral Sah of the Chinese Imperial navy arrived here last night from the Miaotao Islands. He says the firing of Monday night was at Port Arthur and was heavy all night long. Further firing, according to the admiral, was heard yesterday afternoon.

The steamer Kashing reports having seen a Japanese warship Tuesday night thirty miles northwest of Che Foo. The warship was patrolling the vicinity where firing was heard last Monday.

Chinese With Japs.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11. — An alarming feature of the situation in connection with the Japanese western column is the report that it includes many Chinese, who are Japanese subjects from the Island of Formosa, whose influence on the local Chinese and the soldiers of Gen. Ma and Viceroy Yuanshikai is feared.

Nervousness at St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—Nervousness over the situation at the front seems to be increasing since the occupation by the Japanese of the Wolf Hills, before Port Arthur. It is admitted that the besiegers have an elevated position, whence emplaced guns can command the fortress.

Pressing on Liaoyang.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The news received at the War Office yesterday indicates the concentration of the Japanese armies east of Simoucheng, which is interpreted as showing the intention to press direct on Liaoyang in an attempt to cut off Anshanshan (half way between Haicheng and Liaoyang). No confirmation has reached the admiralty at this hour of the repulse with heavy loss of the Japanese at Port Arthur Aug 8.

Russia Satisfies the Port

Constantinople, Aug. 11.—The Porte has definitely accepted the assurances of Russia as to the character of the volunteer fleet vessels seeking to traverse the Dardanelles.

Steamer Thea Condemned.

Valdivostock, Aug. 11.—The prize court yesterday condemned the German steamer Thea, which was sunk by the Vladivostock squadron off the coast of Japan, July 24, and declared that the Russian cruisers were justified in sinking the vessels. Evidence was produced that they were chartered by a Japanese company, and that on March 25 she had been engaged exclusively in the Japanese trade between Japanese ports. On this ground the court declared that she had lost all rights as the vessel of a neutral nation, especially as her cargo, which consisted of fish, was intended for the use of the Japanese.

Cruiser Ural Sails.

Lisbon, Portugal, Aug. 11.—The Russian auxiliary cruiser Ural, which was off this port Tuesday, has proceeded. It is supposed that she is bound for the Mediterranean. Presumably the Ural is the vessel which recently held up the British steamer Manora off Cape Finistere.

Has Appointed Muravieff.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—There is a persistent rumor that the Emperor has signed the appointment of Minister of Justice Muravieff as Minister of the Interior, in succession to the late M. von Plehve.

FELL INTO THE THRESHER.

George Stafford's Terrible Death Near Kettleby—While Climbing Part of Framework of Barn Gave Way.

Aurora, Aug. 11.—George Stafford, a farm-hand employed by F. C. Welton, was killed at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at a threshing on the farm of Levi T. Walton, near the village of Kettleby. He was climbing into a mow to start to pitch, and was pulling himself up by a brace of the barn framework, and was near the top of the barn when the brace gave way, and he fell head first into the cylinder of the threshing machine, which was running at full speed. He was instantly killed, the cylinder lacerating his head and shoulders. He has been out from Ireland a few years, and has always worked with farmers in this location.

THREE OF FAMILY DROWNED.

William Maracle, Wife and Child Lost in Deseronto Bay.

Deseronto, Aug. 11.—A drowning accident occurred about five miles up the bay from here on Saturday last, in which three people, Wm. Maracle, his wife and child, lost their lives. An empty skiff, with a couple of hats in it, was picked up on Monday morning, this being the first intimation that such an accident had occurred. Inquiries were made, and it was learned that the Maracles were missing. Yesterday morning the child's body came ashore, but the other two are still unrecovered.

Boy Found Drowned.

Sarnia, Aug. 11.—Word was received at noon yesterday to the effect that the body of a drowned boy had been found floating in the St. Clair River, near Marine City, Michigan. The lad was clothed in a bathing suit, and was apparently about 11 or 12 years of age. The description given leads to the supposition that the body is that of Chas. Forkin, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Forkin, who was drowned in the river here last Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Forkin and Undertaker L. N. Phippin left yesterday afternoon for Marine City to view the body and remove it to Sarnia if it proves to be his son.

No Water For 11 Days.

North Sydney, N.S., Aug. 11.—Their throats parched for eleven days, which they spent without food or water, exhausted, emaciated and nearly dead, Peter Gradley and Chas. Conley, picked up from their dory by the schooner Hydrangea, were brought in yesterday. When found they were forty miles off Miquelon. Lost in a fog while fishing near their smack, the Indiana, the men drifted for nearly two weeks, and when found they were unable to lift their hands.

In Stratford Jail.

Stratford, Aug. 11.—At noon yesterday Daniel Schneider was arrested at his home on con. 14, Ellice, by Constable Hartmeier of Milverton, and taken to Milverton. He was arranged there in the afternoon before Magistrate Weir on serious charges, alleged to have been committed at the home of and on the person of Mrs. Bahn, a widow living on con. 14, Logan. He pleaded not guilty and was given his preliminary hearing at once. The evidence of Mrs. Bahn was taken, and the prisoner was sent up for trial at Stratford before Judge Barron. He is now in the Stratford jail.

Took Carbolic Acid.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 11.—George A. Maller, a C. N. Railway employe, took carbolic acid in mistake for cough mixture yesterday morning with fatal results. He was married only a year.

Cup Stays in Canada.

Dorval, Que., Aug. 11.—It was Noorna's weather yesterday, and the Canadian boat won the final by two minutes and 34 seconds, thus winning the race.

ADMIRAL TOGO FRUSTRATED ATTEMPT

Reported Escape of Russian Warships From Port Arthur Denied.

Guns From the Fort Participated in Engagement—Russian Squadron Still at the Port.

(Special to the Examiner.)

London, August 11th. — A despatch to a news agency from Tokio announces definitely that Admiral Togo has frustrated attempt of the Port Arthur squadron to escape, and adds that the Port Arthur forts participated with the warships in the engagement, indicating, if true, that the fighting occurred close to the port.

BIG FAMILY ROW IN CIVIC CIRCLES.

Town Engineer has "Designs" on the Mayor's Life.

A Blind Horse for at Least One Hundred Dollars.

The malign influence of the Dog Star is asserting itself in a Sirius form. In addition to the tremendous cut-throat game in the far East and in addition to the little municipal flury over high assessment, there has developed an acute condition of hostility between civic officials. The Town Engineer, doubtless taking advantage of the absence of the Mayor at the lakes, for some unscrutable reason had his knife sharpened for his worship the Mayor. At last night's meeting of the council the report of the Committee of the whole, contained the following recommendation—which could hardly recommend itself to the party immediately interested:—"That the Mayor be authorized to procure a seal and die, according to the design of the Town Engineer." It is hard to understand why this official should have such a "design" upon the life of the worthy First Magistrate of Peterborough? Why should he wish that, after procuring a seal the Mayor should die? When the report was submitted to the council for ratification humaner councils prevailed. Instead of striking out the Mayor on second base (term) the Council struck out the clause requiring him to procure a seal and die. His Worship is therefore at liberty to live out his span of life, which his many friends hope will be a long one, unmolested by the "designs" of the Town Engineer.

The ingenious phraseology of the clerk of reports is exemplified in another recommendation of the Committee of the Whole, that the Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee be authorized to sell a fire horse, "with defective sight for not less than a hundred dollars." This shows a desire for a child-like and bland fairness in a horse deal which would appeal strongly to the business principles of a well-known Hunter street horse dealer—to publicly advertise the defects of a horse in order to swap him to advantage. The unborn baby could hardly be more innocent.

EMIGRANTS FOR CANADA.

SOME HAPPENINGS IN THE NORTHERN TOWN.

Personal Mention and Other Items of Interest at Lakefield.

Miss McDonald, of Winnipeg, Man., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. H. G. Fitzgerald.

Miss Squire, who has been summering at "Dulce Domum," passed through the village on Monday en-route for her home, in Rochester.

On Saturday last quite a large excursion from Cobourg came up through the lift lock and Trent Canal to Lakefield, thence to Stony Lake, per steamer Stony Lake, returning in time to connect with train for Peterborough in the evening.

Mr. F. A. Kilbourn, who has been on the road for the past couple of weeks in the interests of the Lakefield, Portland Cement Company, is home. He reports a brisk demand for Monarch Brand Cement.

The construction of the cement walks for our streets has commenced under the direction of Mr. Kennedy, of Peterborough.

Miss Pearl Fitzgerald, of Peterborough, who has been visiting her aunt Mrs J. Maude, has returned to her home.

Mrs. Hopwood and party, of Chemong Park, took the round trip from Chemong to Lakefield by water on Monday, and finished up the journey with a 'bus drive to their summer home at the Park.

Miss Lottie Davidson and Miss Armstrong, of Peterborough spent Tuesday in the village, the guest of Mrs. Sam Sherin.

Miss Nellie Ruse, of Toronto, and Miss Mina Crofts, of Peterborough, are the guests of Mrs. J. H. Davis, Bridge street.

Tourists are pouring into Stony Lake this week and the local canoe companies cannot supply the demands for canoes and boats.

Mr. James Edwards, of Moncton, N.B., spent a couple of days in the village this week visiting friends.

Mrs. Andrew Johnson, who has been visiting her brother, Mr. J. Dyke, of Carberry, N. W. T., is home after a very pleasant stay in the west.

Miss G. Lillicrap is home from Stony Lake, where she spent three weeks.

No less than four prizes were won by Lakefield boys at Chemong regatta last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Montgomery and family, of Hawesbury, Que., are visiting Mr. Montgomery's mother, in the village.

Mr. Asor Northey has moved his house on Queen street, further back on the lot, thereby giving him room for a lawn in front of the house.

Taken With Cramps.

Wm. Kirmse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicines.—Elkader, Iowa, Argus.

This remedy never fails. Keep it in your home, it may save life. For sale by all druggists.

HAVELOCK'S HOPES AND ASPIRATIONS.

Citizens Dream of Future Greatness and Prosperity

HAVELOCK AND THE C. P. R.

A Bustling Town — Excellent Water Power in the Vicinity—Building up the Burned Area.

Havelock, Aug. 10, (Special staff correspondence.) — Havelock people have dreams of future greatness, and increasing prosperity, and it may just be that these dreams may eventuate into something more tangible than the ordinary day-dreamer's vision. As is quite natural, since Havelock owes its existence, at least in its present prosperous condition, to the C. P. R., and the fact that it is a divisional point, these dreams of greatness referred to, have for their foundation the fact that it has been whispered around, that this company, which, according to the residents of the town, (for they would be highly insulted were this community of 2,000 or more patriotic souls called a village), is greatly pleased with Havelock, and the advantages it offers for the present purpose it serves, viz., a freight divisional point, has plans for an extension of its business at Havelock.

Railway Improvements.

If the rumours are to be believed, and it must be confessed that facts give a certain amount of colour to the rumours, the present roundhouse will be displaced by a new and larger structure, and the yards, which even at present are of spacious proportions, will be considerably enlarged, to provide for the ever-increasing quantity of freight handled by the company, and which, in consequence of this place being a divisional point, has to stand here for varying lengths of time.

This supposition, for at present it lacks official confirmation, seems a reasonable one, because with the improvement in the rolling stock of the company, represented by larger cars and larger engines, the present round house, which was built to accommodate a smaller type of engine than that used by the railways at the present time, is now found inadequate for the proper housing of the high mogul and consolidated types of engines which are now being used by this railway.

Thirty-five engines are supposed to have their home in Havelock, though, as a matter of fact, engines are about as homeless as anything in the world could possibly be. But, as before mentioned, thirty-five of these iron horses are supposed to have reached home when they pull into the Havelock yard, and line up before the turn table preparatory to being run into their respective stalls to be attended to, by the wipers and "hostlers."

But the capacity of the present round house is not nearly large enough to accommodate that number of engines, and it frequently happens that in addition to the round house being full, half a dozen and sometimes more, engines, are compelled to stand out in the yard, waiting their turn to be taken into the round house. The traffic on this line is continually on the increase, and, according to those in touch with railway matters, it is only a matter of a short time, until at the present rate of increase, the traffic will demand the increased facilities, and, indeed, it is almost a question if that demand is not already felt.

The C. P. R. and Havelock.

The village—no, excuse us, town—of Havelock, owes, as has been mentioned, its prosperity, if not its existence, to the C.P.R. There are employed by this company about 300 men, residents of Havelock, and these men all draw good wages, the engineers getting from $150 to $200 per month, the conductors nearly as much, and the firemen $80 to $110, with the brakesmen slightly less than these figures. A heavy staff of fitters, boiler makers and other mechanics is also kept, all of whom draw good wages.

It is hardly to be wondered at, therefore, that Havelock is prosperous, because it is a well known fact that railway men spend their money freely, and the Havelock men are no exception to the general rule.

The man who has charge of the division at Havelock, is Mr. C. S. Maharg, the trainmaster, while Mr. W. W. Webster, the locomotive foreman, is in control of the mechanical equipment, the latter looking after the front end of the train, and the former controlling the conductors and brakesmen, and the movements of the trains.

The property of the C.P.R. at Havelock is always kept in good order, the station grounds and the other parts of the premises being adorned with well-kept flower beds, which have a restful effect in contrast with the busy, stirring yards, with engines hauling parts of trains or cabooses, in an apparently aimless manner around them.

Damsel in Distress.

There is trouble in the hearts of some of the fair damsels in Havelock. A "sink-hole" has developed. This sink-hole, while in itself, doubtless, is not particularly annoying to the aforementioned damsels, is indirectly the cause of this state of mind. And it happens this way. A number of engine crews happened to be on the east side of the sink-hole when the "sink" occurred, but since that time, now several weeks ago, these engine crews have not been able to return to Havelock, the condition of the track preventing the passage of engines, although cars may be sent over.

At this particular point, the railway originally ran over a trestle on the border of a little lake. The Company is compelled, according to law, to fill up all trestles, and it was when this was done at Ardendale that the trouble occurred. It appears that 50 feet under the track there is a bed rock, which gradually slopes into the lake, and when a considerable quantity of earth had been dumped into the trestle, the weight caused the whole mass to slide off the rock towards the lake, carrying the track with it, of course. Since that time a large staff of men has been continuously employed there trying to fill in the gap, and at the present time 200 carloads of gravel per day are being dumped into the cavity, with the result that the trouble is temporarily stopped, although every once in a while, the whole thing again sinks and now a good sized island has been formed in the lake, caused by the earth being gradually pushed up by the weight of that being put into the sink hole. What the end will be goodness only knows, but in the meantime the Havelock crews are down there and cannot get back, and no engines are able to cross, and all trains are delayed considerably.

Great Expectations.

Then, outside of the railway prospects, Havelock has expectations. You know, perhaps, that the famous Heeley's Falls, made famous first by the George street Guild Excursion, are situated only six miles from that town, and, according to the optimists in Havelock, it requires little stretch of imagination to see in the future, power being developed at Heeley's Falls, being transmitted to Havelock and then used to drive the wheels of various industries, which, the excellent railway facilities, low taxes and cheap land will induce to come there to locate. Just what quantity of power can be developed at the Falls, no one in Havelock has taken time to figure out, but, they say that the normal flow of water is 500,000 cubic feet per minute, and the fall is 65 feet. Figure out the amount of power yourself. While they do not know how much there is, at any rate they feel satisfied there is more than enough to drive a sewing machine. This power, they will tell you, is all at the disposal, or will be when it is developed, of Havelock, and they believe that contingent upon its development factories will be established there to use the power.

Civic Advancement.

Havelock has recently taken on city airs, by the inauguration of a system of electric lighting, the which is procured at a falls six miles north of the town on the river between Belmont and Round Lake. Eleven arc lights have been placed on the streets, and about 700 incadescents in business places and dwellings. The service furnished is satisfactory, and the citizens are highly pleased with the new system. A large dynamo, purchased from the Canadian General Electric Company, has just been shipped to the power house, and will be installed at once, replacing the smaller machine now in use.

The conflagration which visited the town some months ago, has proved to be a blessing in disguise, for the burned area, which is just opposite the C.P.R. station is being built over with buildings greatly superior to those which previously occupied the land. Mr. H. T. Andrews is erecting a large two-storey brick building next to the Dineen House, the eastern limit of the burned area. This building will contain three stores with dwellings overhead. Mr. Chas. Armstrong has broken ground for the construction of a large two-storey brick hotel, to contain 65 rooms, and modern sample rooms, while Williams Bros., on the west, have already the foundations laid for their two-storey brick store, and dwelling. It is probable that in time all the buildings burned will be reconstructed and of better quality. The fire also had the effect of calling attention to the rather lack of fire protection possessed by the town, and it is probable that some means will be taken to provide some form of protection, which the past experience has shown is badly needed.

A Building Boom.

Outside of the buildings mentioned, there is quite a building boom on in Havelock. Mr. Webb, a conductor on the C.P.R., has almost completed a house constructed of cement blocks, similar to those used in Peterborough in some of the newer houses. Mr. John Watson, is also erecting a large two-storey concrete building on the corner opposite the English church, which will be used as a store and dwelling. Mr. Jas. Knox, the Reeve of the town, has finished the erection of a frame house with cottage roof, while County Councillor Curtis has recently constructed a two-storey frame residence. A concrete barber shop to be occupied by S. S. Joyce, is just having the finishing touches put upon it, and in addition there are a large number of smaller buildings either in course of construction or completed. So that it will be seen that Havelock is a prosperous place and the prospects for increasing prosperity in the future are not built wholly upon foundationless theories.

A Glacial Period.

The Swift Packing Company has made Havelock the point at which all the refrigerator cars are filled with ice, and an immense ice-house has been erected, holding many thousands of tons of ice from which all the cars of the Company are supplied with the refrigerating substance. A considerable number of men are employed continuously in the house, the ice for which, the Havelock people will tell you, is procured from Norwood, where one, according to Havelock rumours, always gets the "ice."

It is just possible that in the not distant future Havelock may develop into a town of no mean importance.

New Hope—New Courage

Persons whose nerves are affected get blue and discouraged, are easily irritated and annoyed and also learn to look on the dark side. The restorative influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, soon shows itself on the feelings. It gives new hope and courage, new energy and confidence. By creating nerve force it affords new vigour and vitality for both and body.

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL MEETING.

Budget of the Year Brought Down and Dealt With.

The Township Council met in the Town Hall on Monday, August 8th, at 7.30 p. m.

All the members were resent.

The Reeve, Mr. Jos. Madill, presiding.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and confirmed.

Accounts were handed in as follows:—

Mat. Clarke, contract gravelling on Cavan boundary, 1-2 cost	$53 00
Kingan Hardware Co, sundry supplies	4 39
J. E. A. Fitzgerald, wood for close family	10 00
John McIntosh, 156 yards gravel, to W. No. 2	15 60
J. J Stewart, building a culvert on Woodland street

On motion of Messrs. Morrow and Smith the accounts of M. Clarke, Kingan Hardware Co., J. Fitzgerald and John McIntosh were passed and ordered to be paid and the account of J. Stewart was referred to the commissioner of Road Division No. 1, for further investigation.

Mr. E. A. Peck representing the Peterborough Radial Railway Co., appeared before the council and asked that a franchise be granted to the said company to construct and operate a street railway upon the boundary road between North Monaghan and the Town of Peterborough, from Charlotte street northward to Jackson Park or some portion thereof. It was moved by Messrs. Smith and Fowler that a committee consisting of the Reeve and Messrs. Brown and Morrow are hereby appointed with power to arrange a franchise and agreemnt as applied for by the Peterborough Radial Railway Co., on the boundary road, and to have the same advertised according to law. This was carried.

Communications were received from Mr. A. P. Ducsette, solicitor for Mrs. Jackson, stating a claim for damages, caused by an accident to the said Mrs. Jackson, by being thrown from a buggy on the drain road. This was received and no action taken.

From J. H. Learmouth, manager of the Peterborough Radial Railway Co., stating that the company had commenced to build the track on Lock street to the river, and asking the township to designate at what places they required the crossings placed.

On motion of Messrs. Morrow and Fowler a committee consisting of the Reeve and Messrs. Brown and Smith were appointed to designate the places at which the Peterborough Radial Railway Company are to put plank crossings on Lock street as provided by the franchise agreement between the township and the Railway Company.

The communication to let the contract for gravelling near Springville reported having decided to let the job by auction tender on the ground on Monday, August 15th at 6 o'clock, pm.—and the clerk was instructed to have notices posted to that effect.

Mr. Madill reported having received a cheque from the Minister of Public Works for the sum of $150.00 as part of the Provincial grant to roads and bridges.

By-laws No. 540 and 541 to levy township and county rates and public and general school rates for 1904, were then introduced and read a first time.

In Committee of the Whole Council on the second reading of these by-laws the following estimates and requisitions by Boards of Public School Trustees and Board of Trustees of Separate School in Peterborough were passed and allowed.

Required by County of Peterborough for all purposes $1,616.06, on a total assessment value of $599,000; this would require a rate of 2 4-5 mills on the dollar.

OMEMEE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Fall wheat, peas and alsike clover are being harvested.

There have been the usual number of campers here from Toronto and other places, and they have generally secured the usual complement of fish.

The cricket match last Thursday, Omemee vs. Bethany, proved to be a very interesting match. At the close of time Bethany was out with 34 to make up. Both team played well.

The Omemee cricket club would like to have a friendly game here on our beautiful cresse with a Peterborough II team for a reunion.

Mr. Stocker of Peterborough has been here this week advertising several excursions and other coming events.

Rev. Mr. Dobbin again very acceptably occupied the Presbyterian pulpit last Sunday.

We are pleased to hear of Rev. Mr. Leigh's promotion to [illegible] Toronto. Success to him in [illegible] promotion.

The "Blue Ribbon" Bud at the Peterborough Fall Show should prove a strong attraction. The other events will no doubt be equal.

R. H. LEARY,

PROPRIETOR.

THE PROROGATION

Farewell Address to Lord and Lady Minto.

REPLY OF HIS EXCELLENCY

The Alien Labor Bill Smothered in the Senate—Conservative Senators Who Had Not Gone Home United Against the Measure—Brilliantly Uniformed Military Staff—Premier in Privy Councillor's Uniform.

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—The fourth session of the ninth Parliament of Canada was prorogued yesterday at 4 o'clock. That hour found the decks clear in the Commons, but the Senate had been struggling for some time previous with Sir Wm. Mulock's alien labor bill.

Alien Labor Bill Killed.

The Conservative Senators who had not gone home were all united against the measure, those opposing it being Hon. Messrs. Baker, Forget, Sullivan, Landry, DeBoucherville, Bernier and Macdonald of Prince Edward Island. It became evident a short time previous to the hour fixed for prorogation that the bill could not get through in the limited time in view of the opposition to it, and accordingly the Committee of the Whole rose without reporting. This had the effect of killing the bill. Earlier in the day Senator Baker moved the six months' hoist, but no summary a disposal of the bill did not then commend itself to his colleagues.

Prorogation Ceremonies.

The Senate had barely disposed of the business before them when His Excellency arrived amid the booming of cannon. He was accompanied by the Countess of Minto and Lady Eileen Elliott and a brilliantly uniformed military staff. The Prime Minister and the Secretary of State, wearing the colonial Privy Councillor's uniform, were also in attendance upon His Excellency. The Governor-General took his seat upon the throne, and, the Commoners having arrived in response to the message of Black Rod, Parliament was prorogued in the following speech:

The Prorogation Speech.

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate, Gentlemen of the House of Commons,—I am glad to relieve you from further attendance in Parliament, after a session that has been protracted to a longer period than I had anticipated when addressing you on the 11th of last March.

The terms and conditions upon which the national Transcontinental Railway will be built and operated, having been finally adjusted and agreed upon the work of construction will proceed as rapidly as the surveys of the line and the location of the road will permit.

The consensus of opinion expressed on the changes in the tariff affords very gratifying evidence that the alterations have met with general approval.

The arrangements made by my Ministers with the Government of Mexico for lines of steamers between that Republic and Canada on the Atlantic and Pacific, will, I hope, add materially to our foreign trade.

The steadily increasing revenue has amply justified the liberal aid granted towards the improvements of our rivers and harbors and the construction of new public works materially benefitting the trade and commerce of our country.

The changes made in the act respecting the militia and defences of Canada, providing for the increased strength and efficiency of the force will, I do not doubt, meet with general approval.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons: I thank you for the liberal provision you have made for the public service.

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate, Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

My official connection with the Dominion of Canada is drawing to a close. Be assured, I shall watch its future progress and development with deep and abiding interest, and pray that the peace and prosperity with which this favored land is now being blessed may under God's providence long continue.

Farewell Address Presented.

Next came the ceremony of presenting to their Excellencies the farewell address which the Senate and Commons adopted some time ago. During its reading Lady Minto stood with her husband upon the throne. At the same time Senators and members advanced within the bar and grouped themselves around the dais. Mr. Speaker Power read the address in a clear tone of voice, and, in reply, His Excellency spoke as follows:

Lord Minto's Reply.

"Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate, Gentlemen of the House of Commons,—I am deeply sensible of the honor the Parliament of the Dominion has to-day conferred upon me. I assure you, I shall always treasure the spirit in which the leaders of both Houses have alluded to my services, and I thank you from my heart for the appreciative words of your address now that I am leaving Canada, at the close of a term of office which I believe has somewhat exceeded the usual period of administration of my distinguished predecessors.

"I look back upon a past full of stirring incidents in the history of the Dominion, but marked with an ever-increasing prosperity. I look back upon it with a pleasure full of admiration for these magnificent resources which the world is now beginning to recognise, and the development of which my sojourn amongst you has given me the privilege of witnessing, and though bidding farewell to you in my official connection, I know that you will believe in the hopes and aspirations of this great country.

"In delivering up to the King the charge Queen Victoria committed to me, I look forward not only to assuring His Majesty of the loyal devotion of the people of Canada, but also to the growing strength they are every day contributing to His Majesty's vast Empire.

"Gentlemen, Lady Minto is much touched by your kindly expression towards her. Her work in Canada has been very welcome to her. She hopes that, in the discharge of her social duties, she has made many friends, and she will always remember the encouraging assistance she has received in the furtherance of those organizations which she has so much at heart, and the future success of which she will always hear of with affectionate interest.

"In bidding you farewell, gentlemen, and in thanking you again for the kind words of your address, Lady Minto and I can but feel that we are not only severing official ties, but that our residence in Canada has brought us into very close touch with the daily life of the people of the Dominion. We shall carry away with us the warmest recollections of a happy home amongst them, and we assure them, through you, of our constant interest in their future prosperity and happiness."

Senator Edwards here called for three cheers for Their Excellencies, and the Ministers and members present heartily responded.

HORTICULTURISTS OF CANADA.

Elect Officers and Ask For Some Tariff Changes.

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—In session last evening the Canadian Horticulturists' Society elected the following officers for the coming year: President, George Robinson of Montreal; first vice-president, W. Suckling, Truro, N. S.; second vice-president, O. J. Johnson, Kingston; H. Summers of Toronto and A. H. Ewing of Woodstock were re-elected treasurer and secretary respectively. A. Pinoteau and J. Walsh of Montreal and A. Annandale of Toronto were elected to the executive council. THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

Premier Balfour Makes Announcement in British House.

London, Aug. 11.—In the House of Commons yesterday, Premier Balfour, replying to Sir H. Vincent and Charles McArthur, said the House was aware that, twice during the course of the past few years, there had been conferences held in this country with representatives of the self-governing colonies. In his opinion, that was one of the greatest additions to the machinery of the Empire ever made, and he hoped the conferences would be repeated. He did not, however, propose at the present moment to call an Imperail conference to thoroughly examine the fiscal situation of the Empire, nor to institute an enquiry by royal commission.

G. T. P. R. ORGANIZED

Meeting at Grand Trunk Railway Offices at Montreal.

C. M. HAYS TALKS OF PLANS

Mr. Hays Is President, Messrs. Morse and Wainwright Vice-Presidents—Messrs. Hays, Cox, Morse and Wainwright the Executive Committee—Mr. Morse Will Also Be General Manager of the Road.

Montreal, Aug. 11.—The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company was organized yesterday at the first meeting of the shareholders and directors at the general offices of the Grand Trunk. C. M. Hays, general manager of the G.T.R., was elected president, and Frank W. Morse, third vice-president of the G.T.R., first vice-president and general manager.

The other officers are: Wm. Wainwright, second vice-president; Henry Philips, secretary; Frank Scott, treasurer, and H. W. Walker, general auditor. These are also officials of the G.T.R., Mr. Wainwright being comptroller, Mr. Phillips secretary to Mr. Hays, Mr. Scott treasurer, and Mr. Walker general auditor.

Members of the executive committee are: Messrs. C. M. Hays, Hon. George A. Cox, F. W. Morse and W. Wainwright. The following are the directors who were elected: C. M. Hays, F. W. Morse, W. Wainwright, W. H. Biggar, Hugh A. Allan, and E. B. Greenshields of Montreal; Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, Lord Welby, Col. Fred Firebrace, Alfred W. Smithers and John Alan Clutton Brock, of London, Eng.; Hon. Geo. A. Cox and E. R. Woods of Toronto; John R. Booth of Ottawa, and John Bell of Belleville.

The law firm of Messrs. Davidson & Wainwright, Montreal, were appointed local consulting counsel to the board.

President Hays Speaks.

C. M. Hays, when seen after the meeting, said that surveys for the new road would be pushed vigorously through from now until the completion.

"Surveys are now being made rapidly on that section of the road between Winnipeg and the Pacific Coast. They will be continued, and as soon as all the required information regarding grades, practicable routes and terminal points is prepared, a definite route will be chosen and construction work will be commenced. It will take considerable time yet for those surveys to be completed. There is no probability of any construction work starting this year."

"What about the section from Winnipeg to Moncton?"

"Oh, well, the Government will have to decide about that. As soon as the Government is ready for us to go ahead we will be in a position to start."

"Have you any idea as to what route will be chosen through the Northwest?" was asked.

"We will wait until all the data needed are collected by the engineers. On this data we will decide largely as to what route is most desirable. Before that time I could not say where the road may go."

Mr. Hays said further that he could not state as to what place on the Pacific Coast might be decided upon as a terminus. Engineers would also prepare reports on the possible points, and when these reports were submitted the company would visit them, and taking into consideration the visits of the engineers, would reach a conclusion when necessary.

"Will you go West soon to visit points along the Pacific Coast, where it is likely that the road may terminate?"

"I will probably go out either this week or next to look over the ground."

"Where will the head offices of the new company be?" Mr. Hays was next asked.

"They will be in the general office of the Grand Trunk at Montreal," he replied.

Mr. Hays added that the road would be completed within the number of years specified by the Government.

There have been several deputations in Montreal this last two or three weeks from Port Arthur, Fort William and other places waiting on Mr. Hays and offering inducements to the Grand Trunk Pacific to extend lines to the places they represent. One was present yesterday afternoon.

LIBERALS WIN AGAIN.

Capture Another Bye-Election Seat, This Time in Scotland.

London, Aug. 11.—In the northeast division of Lanarkshire, Scotland, yesterday the Liberals won another election victory, the poll resulting in the return of Provost Findlay, the official Opposition candidate. The figures were: Findlay 5,619 votes, G. A. Touch (Unionist) 4,667, Robertson (Labor) 3,[illegible]. A comparison of the result shows that the Liberal and Unionist candidates have practically reversed the figures of 1901, while the labor vote has increased by upwards of 1,000. This is a Liberal gain and reduces Premier Balfour's majority by two votes, counting on a division.

7 Sutherland Sisters' HAIR GROWER

MISS IDA ROADHOUSE, Peterboro' Ontario

Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner shows results from the very first. Here is more proof that we have the greatest hair grower science ever produced.

Seven Sutherland Sisters

Dear Ladies,—Having been benefited by the use of your Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner, I take much pleasure in recommending same. At the time of your visit to Peterboro' last October, I showed you my head, which I thought was a hopeless case, and after looking at the bald spot on my head which was then about the size of a fifty cent piece, and enlarging more every day, you advised me to try your wonderful remedy, which is worthy of being termed so. I did, and to my surprise, before I had used one of your large sized bottles of Hair Grower and only half a package of Scalp Cleaner I could see a covering of a sort of scales and upon continuing to use it the scales fell off without leaving a mark of any kind. My hair now on the bald spot is about three inches long and growing more and more every day to my delight. I cannot really recommend it enough and am thankful that such a remedy came to my notice.

Yours truly, IDA ROADHOUSE,
Peterboro' Ont., Box 869.

DIED AT KINGFISHER.

Death in Oklahoma of Miss Charlotte Blair.

The numerous friends and acquaintances of Miss Charlotte Blair, of Kingfisher, formerly of Peterborough, will regret to learn of her demise at the former place, Oklahoma Territory, on Tuesday last. Miss Blair was a sister of Mrs. Thos. Menzies, now at Kingfisher, and of Mrs. J. R. Ormond, of Victoria, B.C. The deceased lady removed from Peterborough to Kingfisher about eighteen years ago, and has since resided there with her sister, Mrs. Menzies. The remains were interred in Kingfisher to-day at three o'clock. Miss Blair will be well remembered in Peterborough, and by none more gratefully than by those who enjoyed the benefit of the unobtrusive but effective charity whose exercise was a very marked feature of her character and actions, while those brought into personal and social relations have correspondingly pleasant recollections of their associations with her. She had in Peterborough a large circle of personal friends who will learn of her demise with deep regret.

IMPROVEMENTS TO TOWN'S FIRE PROTECTION

Ratepayers Will Vote on Bylaw to Raise $25,000.

SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING.

The Question of a Park for the South End of the Town—An Appropriation for Bridges—Other Business of the Council.

Notwithstanding the fact that this is the holiday season, the Town Council has had two sessions during the last ten days, and at that held last night more business was transacted than at any previous meeting for some time. The meeting commenced at 8.40 and adjourned at 11.50 p.m., and during those three hours and ten minutes the council had decided to ask the ratepayers to vote on two bylaws, one to raise $25,000 to purchase a lot and erect a new fire-hall, equip the same, purchase a chemical engine, apparatus, and instal a new fire alarm system, and another to raise $12,000, five thousand of which will be used to construct a new bridge over the creek on Charlotte street, and place concrete coverings on the Simcoe, Hunter and George street bridges over the same creek. The rest of the $12,000 will be used for opening streets, and for other purposes for which money will be required.

The fire-hall, if the bylaw is carried, will be erected in a central portion of the town, and will supply a long-felt want in Peterborough The fire underwriters have stated that unless the improvements and the changes provided for in the bylaw are carried out, the fire insurance rates will be increased.

The matter of a public park in the southern part of the town was discussed, and the Property Committee will make further enquiries into the matter, and report to the council.

An important bylaw relating to the maintenance of boulevards was passed, the provisions of which are given in another column.

Alderman Best had his busy night last night, and introduced a large batch of bylaws, all of which were passed. They are related to the public works of the town.

The question of the location of the street railway tracks on Park street, north of Charlotte to Weller street, was discussed, and a motion was made that if the property owners on the east side of the street do not object, the railway company be instructed to lay the track on the east side of the centre of the street.

There were only two absentees at last night's meeting.

At the special meeting of the town council held last night, there were present, Mayor Roger, in the chair, and Ald. Edgcumbe, Morrison, Mason, Hicks, Scott, Adams, Clinkscale, Batten, Best, McWilliams.

The minutes of the last meeting were adopted.

The following communications were read, and dealt with in the manner indicated:

From J. H. Learmouth, secretary of the Peterborough Hydraulic Power Company, asking that no decision be arrived at by the council on the application for a siding upon Simcoe street until the traffic manager has looked into the matter. The writer believed that this siding would seriously affect the shunting arrangements of the company's siding.—Received.

From A. Stevenson, secretary of the Town Trust Commissioners, asking that the Treasurer be instructed to place to their credit in the Ontario Bank, the amount of the interest on the water works debentures paid by them on July 1st. — Finance Committee.

From A. Stevenson, secretary of the Town Trust, asking if the town desires to relet the Hilliard farm at the expiration of the present tenancy on March 31, 1905. If so, the Commissioners desire a resolution passed approving of its release by the Commissioners, and authorizing some alderman to act with them in settling the terms upon which it is to be re-let, as the present tenant desires to know at the earliest possible moment whether he is to have the farm again or not. — Property Committee.

From Mr. Ed. Courtney, applying for a crossing into Lot No. 9, north of Douro and west of Concession street, East Ward. — Board of Works.

From Thos. Ryan, acting for the Halpin estate, saying that in regard to the sale of a portion of the Halpin property to the town, for the purpose of opening up George street south, the corporation wish to expropriate more than the required width of the street, which he had not agreed to in his letter to the council. Mr. Ryan said that should the town wish this extra piece of land, as an inducement to another party to sell, he would expect an additional $100, which would total to $1600 all told for the right of way in question.—Referred to the Special Committee on George street Extension.

From the Radial Railway Company, expressing regret that the laying of the sewer on Park street had not been done a little earlier, as they have their tracks lined up and in good shape on Park street south of Charlotte, and it seems a pity that they should have to be immediately torn up again. They also ask for notification as to when the town expects to start operations on Park street, north of Weller. They explained that they are about to lay their new tracks immediately, as according to their franchise they are obliged to operate a line to Jackson Park by September 1st. The company hoped the council would rush the construction of these sewers, so that they may be in a position to fill their part of the agreement; otherwise they will not hold themselves responsible.—Received.

From the Town Solicitor, Mr. E. H. D. Hall, expressing his doubts as to the owners of the property fronting on Downie street south of Charlotte street being assessed for the proposed Park street sewer, as this property does not front or abut on the street on which the sewer is to be constructed. It might be possible, however, to get their consent to be assessed, or, failing this, the owners interested in the construction of the sewer might be willing to be assessed for the whole cost of the sewer, less the town's share, and the owners of the land fronting on Downie street might be prevented using the sewer, unless they pay their share of its cost. He was of the opinion that the council might withdraw that section of the sewer from construction, as it was advertised as a separate section. As to the case of Karl Schweier, the solicitor said that there seemed to be no doubt that the corporation is liable for payment of the support of the boy, in the Industrial School, if he was a resident of the town. As to the Smith addition to the town, the solicitor pointed out that the proclamation adding the property on the north of the town, omits to provide for the collection of the taxes. The petition asked that the assessment of the land there being made should be the assessment for the year 1904, and the taxes thereon should be collected by the town at the general rate imposed, and in the same manner, and at the same time. This matter had evidently been overlooked by the Provincial authorities, and it would be well to get an amended proclamation issued to provide for this, and allowing a special roll to be made out.—Received.

From O. P. St. John, Boiler Inspector, saying that the boiler of the "Silsby" steamer fire engine is in good order, having been recently retubed. — Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From R. Sheehy, saying that he had completed his five houses on Bolivar street, and is now building another five-house terrace. He asked that a five-foot cement walk be laid in front of these premises so that he can finish the walks up to the verandahs. Or if the town cannot conveniently do this now he would do so at figures recently received by the town.—Board of Works.

From W. J. Henry, asking that a concrete walk be laid in front of his house on the south side of Cedar street.—Board of Works.

From R. A. Williams, on behalf of the committee representing the Williams Piano Works' Excursion Committee, returning thanks for courtesies shown the excursionists on the occasion of their trip here on July 30th.—Received.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Ald. Batten presented the following report:

Gentlemen,—Your Property Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows:—

1. That the chairman of this committee be authorized to have the brick work and the woodwork of the outside of the town buildings painted.

2. That the town purchase the land surrounded by Sherbrooke, Park, Dalhousie and Reid streets from Mr. Kelly for a park or pleasure ground for the sum of $1,600.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

In connection with the second clause of the report, Ald. Best moved that no action be taken in the matter until Mr. Kelly appears before the council and states just what portion of the land in question belongs to him, because the speaker thought a part of this land really belongs to the town now.

Ald. Morrison moved further that this clause be referred back to the committee and that the latter be instructed to get options on other properties. The motion was seconded by Ald. McWilliams. This motion was carried. The report, with this amendment was adopted.

Ald. Scott presented the following report of the Committee of the Whole:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee of the Whole Council beg leave to report and recommend as follows:—

1. That a by-law be submitted to the people to authorize the borrowing of $10,000 for rebuilding and repairing bridges and for opening streets.

2. That the council secure the right of way thirty feet wide from George street to Water street to extend Barnardo avenue and for that purpose purchase the property known as the J. H. White property and now owned by Mr. George Minorgan, for $2,500 and sell the balance of the property not required for right of way, and that the treasurer be authorized to issue a cheque for this sum for the purpose named and that the solicitor be authorized to carry out the purchase and sale.

3. That the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee be authorized to sell the horse in the fire hall with defective sight at not less than $100 and the grey team if he can get $300 for them.

The report was adopted.

REMISSION OF TAXES.

Ald. McWilliams presented the following report:

To the Council of the Town of Peterborough—

Gentlemen,—Your Court of Revision beg leave to report and recommend that the taxes for this year, except school taxes, of the Young Women's Christian Association on 168 Brock street, be remitted for three months of the year, and on No. 411 George street for six months of the year.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A SETTLEMENT EFFECTED.

Ald. McWilliams presented the report of the Legal Committee as follows:

Gentlemen,—Your Legal Committee beg leave to report that they have conferred with Mr. W. G. Morrow, Manager of the Toronto Savings & Loan Co., and Mr. Hamnden Burnham as representing residents on Brock street who complained of the removal of the sidewalk on Brock street, between Chambers and George streets and referring the question of making an addition to the sidewalk as it is now so as to carry it out to meet the views of the residents to the Town Engineer for a report. The Engineer's report which is attached to this report of this committee, says that the work may be done in that way and he estimated the cost, together with the cost of a connection with the sewer for drainage purposes, at $110. By doing this work in the manner suggested your committee believes that the street will be greatly improved and the residents on Brock street satisfied, while at the same time meeting as nearly as possible the wishes of the Toronto Savings and Loan Co. and we recommend that the Town Engineer be instructed to proceed with the work.

COST OF THE OPENING.

The following report of the Special Lift Lock Committee was presented by Ald. McWilliams:

Gentlemen,—Your Special Committee on the opening of the lift lock beg leave to report that the programme for the entertainment of the distinguished visitors on the occasion of the formal opening of the lock by the Minister of Railways and Canals, accompanied by a large number of Senators and Members of the House of Commons, and other gentlemen, was carried out as formerly outlined. The expense incurred in carrying out the arrangements was as follows:—

Luncheon	$345 65
Supper	193 00
Steamboats	118 00
Printing	39 92
Band	96 75
Decorations	20 00
Miscellaneous	36 85
	$748 67

We recommend that the County of Peterborough be requested to pay to the town the amount voted towards this purpose.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The report was adopted.

BOARD OF WORKS.

Ald. Best moved the adoption of the following report, which was adopted:

Your Board of Works begs leave to report as follows:—

1. We recommend that the tender of Mr. John Robson be accepted for the construction of sewers. A statement of the tenders received for the work is attached to this report.

2. With regard to the proposed sewer on Park street south of Charlotte street the question arose as to the assessment for the cost of the sewer owing to Downie street forming a gore south of Charlotte street and the question was referred to the Town Solicitor for his opinion as to the authority to assess all the properties on the east side for the sewer and if there is any doubt about it to insert in the contract for the sewer construction, a clause permitting the town to withdraw this section from construction.

3. We recommend that the chairman of this Board be authorized to make arrangements for the construction of the surface water drain on Simcoe street.

4. We recommend that a petition for a granolithic sidewalk as a local improvement on the north side of McDonel street from Aylmer street to Bethune street being sufficiently signed, be granted.

Ald. McWilliams moved, seconded by Ald. Best, that the solicitor be authorized to procure an amended proclamation with reference to the annexation of a portion of Smith township, providing for the assessment of the new property. The motion was carried.

BY-LAWS.

A bylaw was presented authorising the chairman of the Property Committee to appoint a janitress for the town buildings at a salary of $5 per week. The bylaw was passed.

Ald. Best moved the first reading of a bylaw to authorize the appointment of inspectors, to prevent the spreading of noxious weeds on the streets of the town. The Chief of Police and the police constables are appointed as inspectors. The bylaw was passed.

A bylaw moved by Ald. Best to allow the C.P.R. to construct an additional siding across George street to accommodate the Geo. Matthews Company. This bylaw was also passed.

Ald. Best moved the first reading of a bylaw to stop up and convey to the George Matthews Company that

FOR MAINTENANCE OF BOULEVARDS.

Important By-law Passed at Last Nights Council Meeting.

Penalty for Walking Across Boulevards —Expense to be Borne by Owners of Abutting Property.

An important by-law was that passed last night by the town council, providing for the maintenance of boulevards. The important provision of the by-law are published below:—

1. All those portions of streets on which granolithic sidewalks have been and may hereafter be constructed out side the tree line of where a space of not less than ten feet is left between the inside curb and the line of the adjoining private property, are hereby set aside for the purpose of boulevards, upon the terms as to resumption by the municipality hereinafter mentioned.

2. Such boulevards may be constructed by the owners of the property abutting on any street, and to the extent of the frontage of the property of each owner respectively at the expense of such owner; but any such work shall be done so as not to unreasonably confine, impede or incommode public traffic, and no boulevard shall be constructed so as to be higher than two inches below the top of the inside curb of the sidewalk.

3. Such boulevards shall after the construction thereof be maintained kept in good order and condition, and watered and the grass thereon properly cut by or at the expense of the owners of the property abutting on the same opposite, and to the extent of the frontage of the property of such owners.

4. The council of the said town may at any time by resolution or by-law resume the possession and control of the said boulevards, or any portion or portions thereof, and declare that the portions of the streets hereby set aside for the purpose of boulevards, or any part thereof shall cease to be so set aside, and thereupon such portions of the street shall cease to be boulevards, and the owners of the land opposite or abutting on such portions of said streets so declared not to be longer set aside as boulevards shall cease to be responsible

5. No one shall walk or drive upon across or along any of said boulevards, or in any way injure, destroy, obstruct or place any material on some.

6. Any person guilty of a breach of this by-law shall be subject to a fine of not less than one dollar nor more than fifty dollars and costs, with fine and costs if not paid, may be levied by distress and sale of goods and chattels of the offender, and in case of there being no distress found out of which such fine can be levied the said offender may be committed to the common gaol for a period not exceeding twenty-one days, unless the fine and costs, including costs of distress and of the committal and conveyance of the offender, are paid within the time specified by the Police Magistrate.

PREPARATIONS FOR LABOR-DAY 1904.

The Day Will be Celebrated Fillingly by Peterborough Trade Unionists.

A Big Excursion to Jubilee Point—Mr. James Simpson to Speak.

The following report of the meeting of the Trades and Labour Council, held last night, has been supplied the Examiner:

The Labour Day outing is to be one of the grandest events that has ever taken place upon any holiday in the town of Peterborough. The whole fleet of Calcutt's line of steamers has been chartered to take excursionists to Jubilee Point. Prizes for tug of war, $25; for a football game, $25. These two events alone, besides other sporting events, are a sample of what will be going on. Mr. Jas. Simpson will be there, and will deliver an address on labour topics. Mr. Simpson is a man well worth going farther to hear. All committees are at work, and everything is being arranged systematically and in order.

Besides arranging for the excursion, the Trades and Labour Council did a good night's business at the meeting last night. One of the matters which occupied considerable attention last night was the manner in which the firm which is making the three suits of clothes for the fire hall men are doing the work. It was considered unfair that a merchant will compete for public work, and then send it away to Montreal, or some other place, and have it manufactured. It was thought to be an injustice to other merchants who are competing, and also to the men who are employed in town, and who are citizens helping to keep up the public treasury.

A communication was ordered to be sent to the Town Council asking them in the future to have inserted in their agreements that any work that can be done in town be not sent away to other places.

Another important matter discussed was the formation of a Building Trades Alliance, that is, one trade helping another towards the end of full and complete employment of union labour in all branches of the several trades which are organized in Peterborough. It was felt that this was the only fair way of putting union labour to a thorough test as to its stability. Committees of all labour representatives are at present working upon the scheme, and it is hoped the organized trades will be in working order before a month. This is nothing but what is fair and just. A man who serves his apprenticeship for $3, $4 or $5 per week, and then has to compete against a hammer and saw man, who gets $1.25 or $1.50 per day, is being used unfairly. A craft which forms a union for its benefit, and the members pay their dues, and any other financial obligations imposed upon them, and fixes their minimum rate of wages at, say, 25 cents an hour, has a right to be protected. Merchants have their prices fixed upon their goods and sell accordingly, why should not a mechanic sell his labour accordingly? It is hoped that all union men who are in any part of the town working with men who are non-union men, will try and teach them the principles of unionism. In other words, you have set a good living price upon your labour, and are paying for it, and the other fellow steps in and gets the same benefits, and it costs him not a cent—you butter the bread, and he eats it. Union men, wake up! You have been sleeping long enough. Get spruced up for Labour Day, and hurrah down to Jubilee Point, and hear Simpson on the labour question. It will do you good.

Catholic Order of Foresters' Excursion

Otillia and Lake Couchiching have been selected by the St. Peter's Court, Catholic Order of Foresters, as the attractive point for their Civic Holiday excursion. In addition to other crowd-pullers a lively game of baseball between the T.A.S. and a picked Orillia team is being arranged. Semi-final lacrosse match, Brantford vs. Orillia, on the same day. REV. MR. LANGFELDT TO REMAIN HERE.

An Announcement Made to the Examiner This Morning.

Had Been Approached With a View of Going to Toronto—Will Remain as Rector of St. Luke's.

This morning the Examiner learned from a Toronto source that the name of Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Rector of St. Luke's, is being mentioned quite prominently as the coming rector of St. Peter's church, in that city, and in view of this fact, the reverend gentleman was approached by the Examiner again on the question and asked whether there was any foundation for the rumour.

In response to a question by the Examiner reporter, Rev. Mr. Langfeldt stated that there had been some negotiations on the part of some members of St. Peter's parish, made with the view of inducing him to allow his name to go before the meeting of the congregation. These negotiations were of a private nature, and the details have not been announced, but the Examiner is in a position to state that inducements were offered Rev. Mr. Langfeldt to accept the rectorship of the Toronto church referred to.

Mr. Langfeldt also authorized the Examiner to say that he has decided to remain in Peterborough as rector of St. Luke's church, an announcement that will give pleasure to every member of that congregation, which, under the rectorship of Rev. Mr. Langfeldt, has been very prosperous.

Since the article appeared in the Examiner last week to the effect that Mr. Langfeldt was being sought by a city church, the members of St. Luke's have been anxious, fearing that the city church referred to might induce their rector to leave Peterborough, consequently the announcement above will be a pleasing one.

DEATH OF WALDECK-ROUSSEAU.

Expired on Completion of Operation By Dr. Armour of Toronto.

Paris, Aug. 11.—Former Premier Waldeck-Rousseau died yesterday afternoon at Corbeil as the result of an operation.

Dr. Armour, a celebrated surgeon of Canada, and Dr. Hans Kehr, a German specialist, decided yesterday that an operation was the sole chance of saving the patient, whose weakness was extreme, the liver having ceased to perform its functions.

The operation, in which the above-named surgeons were aided by Drs. Cunco and Maurice Bourdeau, began at noon and lasted two hours, the patient sinking and expiring shortly after its completion.

WOULD IT SUIT YOU?

How would you like to be once more
A happy, freckled boy,
When long vacation is at hand,
Chock to the brim with joy?

To paddle daily in the brook
With bare and stone bruised feet
And not be able at your meals
To get enough to eat?

To chase the festive butterfly
On light, elusive wings
And from the little busy bee
Collect a bunch of stings?

To play ball in the vacant lot
Until the day had fled
And slumber like a hired man
When in your little bed?

How would you like to be a boy,
To loaf around the stores
Or ramble far and never have
To stop to do the chores?

Fable of the Man and the Apples.

An Enterprising Agriculturist named Cyrus Slinger and called Cy for Short, having sold his Hogs on a Rising Market, decided to take Part of the Proceeds and see the World's Fair.

Having Broken Past all of the Fakirs and Confidence Men without losing his Pocketbook, he at Last arrived at the Grounds and by the law of Affinity Drifted around to the Agricultural Building and Began to Look at the Big Red Apples as though he had never Seen an Apple before.

By doing a Little Amateur Detective work he soon Discovered a plate of Rosy Beauties from his Own County, and he Settled down to Spend the Day with Them.

He would Flag every Man who came along and, Pointing Proudly to the Apples, would say, "Them is from My County." Every Woman who would stop to Listen received the same Valuable Information without having it Charged up as Extra on her Admission Ticket. Cy stood there All Day admiring the Apples, hardly taking Time for His Meals. He Returned to his Modest Boarding House Tired but Happy after the Guard had Put him Out of the Building at Night.

Before the Gates were Opened in the Morning he was Standing in Line waiting to get in to Where the Big Red Apples were on Display.

World Wonders were being Pulled Off in the Electric Building, and the Hoochie Coochie Dance was on the Boards every Half Hour on the Pike, but they had no Attraction for him. Premium Apples whose Cousins and Second Cousins he had seen 20,648 times, More Or Less, were the Only Thing on the Grounds for Him, and he felt a Great Glory in being from the County in which they were Raised.

When he went Home at the End of the Week they were the Only Thing on the Grounds that he Hated to Part with.

Moral.—Be born in an Apple Country.

Among Them.

Clara—Do you know, Maud, Mr. Smithers paid me a great compliment last night?

"No. What did he say?"

"He said I was among the prettiest girls at the party."

"Yes, I noticed you were among them."

A Last Resort.

Little Boy—I want you to write me an excuse for being late to school yesterday. Jeweler—Eh? You are not my son. Little Boy—N-o, but mamma says I had plenty of time to get to school, so I guess the clock you sold her doesn't go right.

HUNTING FOR TALISMANS.

An American's Odd Expedition to an East Indian Temple.

When the late Professor Sommerville of the University of Pennsylvania, the learned collector of gems, charms and mascots, had set his mind on some curio heard of in one of his meetings with orientals, nothing could bar the way. Were it in the center of the desert of Sahara or on the topmost pinnacle of the Himalaya mountains, he would go after it and keep up the search until the treasure was found, purchased and placed on exhibition at the university museum.

American gold was Professor Sommerville's magnet wherever he went. He thus described its effect on one of his expeditions:

"On one occasion we desired to visit the famous Dilwarra temples in India, and for that purpose engaged two jinrikishas and a number of natives to draw them, about twelve in all. The temples, as you know, are set in a magnificent grove of mango trees on a mountain top and surrounded by great hills. With a fair measure of tact and money I hoped to secure from the people of the vicinity some of their odd talismans and rings. I said to the chief rickshaw man: 'Now, Lala, what will you do for me if I double your pay? I want to make this journey in half time, and if you accomplish it you shall be doubly paid.'

"He went to his helpers at once and informed them that I was a prince. We started out under the contract. He ran ahead of the convoy, raising both hands in the air and crying to the astounded people: 'Here comes a prince. Down with you. Here comes a prince.'

"And during the entire twelve miles ride I was treated to the un-American experience of seeing the people cover their faces and drop abjectly to the ground in obeisance and salutation, only daring to look at me through their parted fingers. But my amusement at thus being treated as a prince was nothing to the gratification I experienced in securing from this people—who did not dare to refuse so august a personage as I—some of the most interesting inscribed talismans that I have in my collection."

A NATURAL WONDER.

Ringing Rocks That Sound Like a Bell When Struck.

With all manner of legends clustering around their history and various reasons given by geologists for their presence, the Ringing rocks, two miles north of Pottstown, Pa., are the greatest natural wonders of Montgomery county. Although these rocks and bowlders are scattered over a large extent of territory, there is one place, covering over two acres, where they lie so closely together as to suggest that that particular spot was the center of a volcanic disturbance that rent the earth and piled the rocks as they are today. It is the general opinion that the spot was once the crater of a volcano.

A rich, bell-like tone, produced by striking some of the stones with a hammer, explains in part why the name of "Ringing rocks" was given them. Visitors carried off some of the smaller stones of unusual musical quality, but this practice has been stopped.

Located some distance away from the main deposit of rocks are grotesque formations like the Haystack rock, looking like a petrified haystack, but rent from top to bottom by a convulsion of nature which probably also made it a "leaning tower." In the Bullfrog rock a company of soldiers could stand, the Umbrella rock could shelter twenty or thirty, and the Stone House and Cave, rising thirty feet in height and covering half an acre of ground, suggests some of the wonders of the Yosemite.

A cave under the rocks was penetrated several years ago by Dr. W. B. Shaner and J. S. Bahr, who upon throwing a stone into an opening could hear it reverberating for a great distance and then fall into a body of water. This is surrounded by many legends. One is that robbers made it their rendezvous and into it carried all their plunder, defying pursuers to follow. Because of the danger of accidents to venturesome boys the entrance to the cave has been closed.

A Man to Dodge.

"Look at Baker, out on a day like this without an umbrella. Is he crazy?"

"I'm afraid he is. Let's hurry on. I don't want to meet him."

"Why not?"

"He may recognise this umbrella. It's his."

Constipation, Pains in the Back

Caused Keen Distress at Times —Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Made Thorough Cure.

Mr. Jas. H. Harvey, baker, 641 George street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "I was troubled very much with constipation and pains in the back. At times the pains were sharp like a stab in the back with a knife and caused me great suffering.

"I heard of many being cured by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and decided to try them. I am pleased to say that they soon helped me, and I used them right along until cured. I never have pains in my back now and only occasionally take a pill in order to keep my bowels regular."

Is It a Fiction?

Leap year is half gone, and still there are lots of good, intelligent girls amply able to support a man who haven't mentioned the subject of matrimony to a single man.

Funny how the girls overlook this opportunity of a lifetime!

To hear man talk as he sits around in a small group with his fellows one might think that the girls were dying slow and painful deaths to marry him, but when the same man gets alone with a girl and has his little piece all ready to say, something sticks in his throat and he changes the subject and begins to talk about the weather.

If man finds this task so much harder than eating cherries or cutting coupons, why should he expect poor, weak woman to back him up in a corner and beg of him to marry her just because it is leap year?

If he does and waits around with that expectation, he will probably be sitting all alone in his den, still waiting, when leap year is ended and it is his turn to do the heavy asking.

Poor Ones Would Melt.

If good intentions

In that unpleasant,

To Prove what Anti-Pill, the Great System Treatment will do for you, Every Reader of this paper may have A Sample Bottle sent Free by Mail.

Derangement of the stomach is responsible for much sickness and suffering. Every organ of the body depends upon the stomach for its nutriment and strength—If the stomach is not working right the blood carries to the liver, heart, nerves and kidney tissue imperfect nutrition—They become weak and unable to perform their work—become clogged, diseased, and throw out their distress symptoms. Now you may get stimulative, temporary relief by the taking of a kidney, liver, nerve or heart specific, but the cause remains—The stomach is at fault, and so long as it keeps loading the blood with impurity—waste, so long will the blood transport and deposit disease breeding elements in the weak places—When you feel sick, help the stomach first. A well stomach means a well body. Anti-Pill, the Great System Treatment, is a new discovery that has a marvelous influence in correcting system ailments. Address, Wilson-Fyle Co., Niagara Falls, Ont., for free sample. Regular size, a month's treatment, 50 cents at Druggists.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

Every Win of the King's Prize Will Score It in Canada, So These Rules Are Timely.

When a projectile leaves the rifle barrel it is influenced by various forces. The explosion tends to project it in the direction the barrel points, which is called the "line of metal," and is always in prolongation with the barrel.

The second force is that of gravity, which tends to draw it towards the centre of the earth.

The projectile, deviating from the line of metal, commences to fall as soon as it leaves the barrel, owing to the force of gravity. While falling it is also influenced by the force communicated by the explosion, and, being acted upon by both forces, the projectile takes an intermediate course and describes a curve in mid-air, represented by a curved line and called the "trajectory."

Because the force of gravity is constant and the projective force is temporary, all projectiles drop in a short time.

The distance a projectile can travel is called its range. By elevating the rifle muzzle this distance is increased, but without elevating sights the object can't be seen, for the rifle barrel is between it and the eye.

With elevating sights true aim can be taken with the muzzle pointed above the object, by increasing the elevation of the rear sight. The space the vision travels in aiming is called the "line of sight." The important lines to remember are the "line of metal," the "trajectory" and the "line of sight."

A projectile is influenced by a moderate wind. For lateral winds allowance is made by pointing the muzzle slightly in the direction the wind blows from, using wind gauge sights, all of which move to the right and left and permit aim to be taken slightly to either side of it.

Various velocities of wind and different distances require different degrees of windage. Wind from the rear blows the projectile toward the object, from the front retards it. Wind obliquely from the right and rear requires right windage and less elevation, from front and right right windage and increased elevation.

Oblique winds require less windage than lateral winds. Find out what elevation is needed to hit in a calm. Adjust your elevation. Then calculate the effect of the wind, fix the windage and commence firing, correcting both elevation and windage whenever necessary.

In aiming bring the rifle to the shoulder so the object and both sights are visible. Fix the right eye upon the object; close the left. move the rifle about until the tip of the front sight covers the centre of the object and is just visible above the bottom of the rear sight notch.

Draw a moderately deep breath and hold the breath until the shot is fired. Concentrate the whole mind upon the work in hand and, for the moment, upon that shot only. If the mind wanders and begins to calculate the effect of the shot upon the audience, or of honor to be gained or lost, a poor showing will be made. Shoot each shot with the greatest possible care.

When next coming into position put gentle pressure on the trigger so a slight additional pressure will fire the piece, then gently close the whole hand. This insures greater steadiness and the piece is less thrown off the object.

Keep the right elbow well evalated to prevent the piece jumping up and striking the cheekbone and to steady it better. Continue the aim long enough to observe how pulling the trigger affected it. Next shot try to keep the sights from leaving the object.

Hold the stock to the shoulder in a perfectly perpendicular position, neither inclining it to the right or left. At short range the inaccuracy resulting from a listed piece is not very noticable; at long range a column of platoons would be missed.

When the sights are not properly fixed for a first-class marksman, the majority of bullets may strike in a bunch, high, low, to right or left of the object it is desired to hit. If the error is small aim a like distance in an opposite direction from the bunched bullets, if great change the sights.

A rifle becomes foul and shoots slightly lower and lower after each of the first few shots. Immovably fixed in a vise, it places ten bullets one below the other, the greatest distance separating the first and second bullet. When the piece is cleaned after each shot the bullets enter the same hole. Usually the rifle is not cleaned after each shot, so if the first shot from a clean rifle scores a bull's eye, aim higher next shot, and continus aiming higher each time you make a hit, until about ten shots have been fired, when additional elevation is not needed.

Much depends upon the powder used. With some powders increased elevation after the second shot is not needed, with some dirtier powders elevation increasing after ten or twelve of the first shots is indicated.

Each man must find out for himself how the rifle and the ammunition issued for that day's use shoot. No absolute rules apply equally to every rifle, for each shoots differently. Knowledge of these pecularities is of advantage to the shooter. Use the same rifle for all shots at each range, unless the rifle is seriously at fault. With a different piece each shot the score will suffer.

If the object is suddenly lighted up by the sun and the shooter is in the shade, less elevation is required. The shooter in the sun and the object in the shade indicates increased elevation. The reason is that with the shooter in the shade and the target in the sun he unconsciously takes a coarser sight and shoots higher, while the object seems higher than it is owing to its refracting the sun's rays.

While he is in the sun and the object in the shade he can and does take a finer sight and his shot goes lower in propertion to the fineness of the sight. When in a deep shadow at night he fires at an object lighted by a bright fire, his bullets usually go high on account of his taking a coarse sight, because of the insufficient light to take a fine one.

A fine sight is one in which the tip of the front sight covers the object; a coarse sight a portion lower. On a bright day use greater elevation, on a dark day less, and still less after night has fallen.

Moisture in the air, by opposing the force of gravity, supports a projectile in the air, so less elevation is taken on a moist day. On a dry day use greater elevation.

Keep careful and honest record of all shots fired, mentioning the date, distance, score, rifle, ammunition, elevation, windage, direction of the wind, state of atmosphere (dry or damp), light (bright or cloudy), and any other appropriate remarks.

If a bad shot should be made think out the cause of it. The wind may have suddenly gone down; the regulated sight changed; defective cartridge; rifle barrel foul; piece pulled away in the act of firing, etc. Whatever the cause, record it with the score and take care to prevent its reoccurrence. Faithfully hunting up mistakes and correcting them makes good shots.

"Go West,

Ranch it and rough it and you'll soon get rid of that weak chest and that hacking cough." That is what the doctor said to a young married man with a wife and child to care for and a modest salary to support them on. He couldn't go West. Love and duty tied him to his desk in the city.

People don't have to travel to cure coughs or strengthen weak lungs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures obstinate, deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, bleeding of the lungs, weakness, emaciation and other forms of disease which if neglected or unskillfully treated terminate fatally in consumption.

"I will write you what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has done for me," says George H. Belcher, Esq., of Dorcas, Pike County, Ky. "Thirteen years ago I was wounded by a ball passing through my lung. I have had a cough almost ever since, with shortness of breath, and it was very easy to take cold; the slightest change of weather would cause the cough to be so bad I would have to sit up all night. Could not eat enough to keep me all run down; could not sleep. Six months ago I began using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I have not used but two bottles, and now am able to do a good day's work. Feel like a new man. Have taken pleasure in recommending it to sufficiently recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, or tell the good it has done me."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent, paper-covered, free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expenses of mailing only. This book contains 1008 pages and over 700 illustrations. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Finger Nails Should Receive the Best of Attention.

"Women do not seem to realize," said a manicure, "that the hands and finger nails are very delicate and should receive the best of care and attention. They are constantly abusing and neglecting them and then wonder why their hands and nails are so ugly.

"It is a very common occurrence, for instance, to see women take up a sharp penknife to clean their finger nails or possibly use the sharp pointed end of a fancy file for the same purpose. This is a very wrong habit and should be avoided by all those who wish to have nice finger nails. It not only injures the skin under the nail, making it ragged and giving it an inflamed appearance, but the sharp edge is bound to scrape the underpart of the nail, in most cases causing it to split and break off.

"An orange stick should always be used for cleaning the nails. These sticks are not expensive and can be purchased at all stores and manicure establishments. If the flesh or underpart of the nail has become stained from ink, fruit or in any other way, don't try to scrape it out. There are plenty of good bleaches to be used for this purpose that will not injure the flesh or nail. Perhaps one of the best is peroxide. Wind a little absorbent cotton around the end of the orange stick, wet it in the peroxide and thoroughly moisten the flesh under the nail. The stain will then soon disappear."—Exchange.

THE AMERICAN WOMAN.

Are Her Physical Powers Sacrificed to the Making of Brain?

The native born American woman has been made the subject of discussion almost ad nauseam. Indeed, it would be a matter for no surprise if she were to regard herself as a being apart. Her energy, her brightness and resourcefulness have been lauded to such an extent that it might well be believed that the women of other countries cannot be considered in the same category with her. This, too, is true as far as it goes, and in many qualities the American woman stands supreme. Unfortunately, however, she fails in the most important one of all, that of maternity, and fails in consequence of her cultivation to excess of those attributes which are generally thought not to be within a woman's province. Her physical powers suffer in proportion as her mental powers increase, and as a propagator of the race she cannot compete with women of stronger bodies, but of less highly trained brains.

Dr. Emil Reich, a German who lived for five years in this country, has recently written on this matter in a British periodical. He draws attention to the fact that one outcome of the overmentalisation of the American woman and the hypergalvanization of her energy is the breakdown of American maternity, which he regards as one of the most serious phenomena which cloud the future of the United States.—New York Medical Record.

Proof of Woman's Amiability.

One thing stands as a sure proof that woman is an amiable creature, easily pleased and satisfied with her lot. And that is that when she buys a dress ready made she rejoices because it is much better and cheaper than fussing to have it made. And when she has it made herself she wonders why people ever get things ready made when one can have clothes made "just as one wants them and cheaper!"

Such Bad Form.

The girl was quite romantic,
A social butterfly,
And so it made her frantic,
In fact, she'd almost cry,
When her coarse father took a knife
And started in on pie.

DRESS HINTS.

A color is just as beautiful in cotton as in silk. Neatness is the first requisite to good dress.

A soiled white shoe is almost as bad as a soiled white glove, and that is the most slovenly thing in the world.

No matter how fine your gown and hat, you will look badly dressed if your gloves are ripped at the finger tips.

A well bred, well dressed woman never runs to extremes. She strives for harmony of color as well as simplicity of style.

If the lace edgings on the hem of a petticoat be "overcast" with a strong thread before the garment is washed, ragged edges and ravelings will be avoided.

Goods that have become faded and discolored are often restored by being packed away in a dark closet or chest into which no ray of light can penetrate. Two or three layers of tissue paper aid in the process.

A Valuable Flesh Builder.

Persons who are thin and emaciated from consumption or any disease may gain flesh rapidly by drinking the last quart of milk drawn from the cow, commonly called the "strippings." This milk is very rich, and when taken immediately after milking, while it contains all the animal heat, will be absorbed at once into the system without going through the ordinary process of digestion. Patients should begin with one-half pint, morning and evening, taken regularly, and gradually increase the quantity until at the end of the week they are taking a quart at a time or as much as they can drink without causing discomfort. Many who cannot drink cold milk or even milk which has stood an hour can drink the "strippings" without difficulty.

A Woman's Walk.

Just how long a woman's step should be depends upon the height of the woman and the length of her leg. For a tall woman six inches is not too long; for a short woman, three inches. Many women do not walk in advance an inch beyond the toe of the other foot. One foot catches up with the other, so to speak, and so they walk along, covering the ground rapidly, but always in a queer little, short breathed, mincing way, says Home Chat.

To walk well hold the chin up throw the head back, but do not make it rigid; straighten the shoulders, throw out the chest, draw in the abdomen, and thus, with the military carriage, step forward, taking a long step, with the toe out and the foot flung one side instead of ahead of you.

When the Boss Made a Mistake.

A senior of one of our large manufacturing concerns came through the store recently and noticed a boy sitting on a counter, swinging his legs and whistling merrily. The senior eyed him severely as he confronted him and inquired:

"Is that all you have to do?"

"Yes, sir."

"Very well; report to the cashier and tell him to pay you off. We don't need boys like you around here."

"But, sir," said the astonished boy, "I don't work for you. I have just bought some goods and am waiting for the bill."—Toronto Star.

IMPROVEMENT TO TOWN'S FIRE PROTECTION.

portion of Wolfe street lying between George street and the reserve along the river Otonabee. The bylaw was passed.

Ald. Best moved the first reading of a bylaw respecting boulevards which was passed, and is printed in full in another column.

Another bylaw was moved by Ald. Best, that to authorize the construction of granolithic sidewalks on certain streets and parts of streets in Peterborough, and was passed.

A bylaw to authorize the construction of sewers on certain streets of the town was passed on motion of Ald. Best, as was also one to authorize the raising of $12,000 for re-constructing and repairing bridges in the town, and for the opening of new streets. This bylaw provides for a new bridge on Charlotte street and concrete tops on the Simcoe, Hunter and George street bridges. In connection with this bylaw Ald. Scott moved that the Hunter street bridge on the east side of the river be included in those to be covered with concrete, but the motion was not seconded. The cost of this re-construction and repairs will be $5,000, and that for the openings of streets, $7,000. This bylaw will be submitted to the ratepayers on Tuesday, Sept. 20th.

Ald. Edgcumbe moved the first reading of a bylaw to provide for the raising of $25,000 for the purpose of purchasing a site for, and the erection of a fire hall, the purchase of a chemical engine, the installation of a fire alarm system and other apparatus, and the vote of the ratepayers will be taken on this bylaw at the same time as that preceding. The bylaw has passed its second reading.

A resolution authorizing the council to purchase a right of way from McDonel street to Jackson Park along the creek, providing the Radial Railway Company is willing to construct the railway on the right of way to Jackson Park. The cost of this work is not to exceed $500. The motion was carried.

Ald. Adams moved that the Mayor and Chairman of the Finance Committee be authorized to arrange for the sale of the debentures on the public works constructed last year, which was carried.

Ald. Batten called attention to the fact that the street railway on Park street from Charlotte street to Weller street, at present being laid on the centre of the street, and he thought that the railway should be placed on the east side of the street, because the roadway at present is practically on one side of the street, and if the railway is on the centre of the street, the roadway will have to be made on the east side of the street. Ald. Morrison thought that the consent of the property owners affected should be obtained to have the railway laid on the east side. Ald. Batten then moved, seconded by Ald. Edgcumbe, that if the property owners on the east sides of Park street, between Charlotte and Weller streets, do not object, the Radial Railway Company be requested to construct the railway on the east side of the centre of the said part of the street and such line as shall be approved by the Town Engineer. — Carried.

Ald. Adams moved, seconded by Ald. Hicks, that the committee on the Fifth Ward outfall sewer be instructed to ascertain what it will cost to secure the services of an engineer to prepare specifications and plans for the carrying out of the work.

Ald. Adams moved, seconded by Ald. Batten, that the town engineer be instructed to raise the grade of the street one foot at the McDonel street bridge.—Carried.

Ald. Mason called the attention of the Council to the fact that some of the plumbing that had been done in the past was anything but satisfactory or sanitary, and he suggested that the council might appoint a committee to look into the matter of appointing a plumbing inspector. No action, however, was taken on the matter.

The payment of $450 to Geo. L. Hiotch, who audited last year's financial statement, was confirmed.

Ald. Batten at 11.45 gave his parting shot to the council by inquiring if anyone had been given the authority to see that the burdocks and other noxious weeds were cut. Ald. Adams wanted to know if the former speaker had some not cut. The Mayor informed Ald. Batten that a bylaw passed earlier in the evening provided that the Chief of Police and Police Constables are empowered to see that those weeds are cut.

The council then adjourned, at 10 minutes before midnight.

THE LIFT LOCK ABROAD; WRITTEN UP IN NEW YORK

A Former Peterborough Boy has Well Written Article in New York Times.

As a rule Peterborough boys when they go to the United States, not only uphold the credit of Canada in their persons, but are also loyal to its interests and always ready to speak a good word for their native land. Of these is Mr. C. H. Allison, at present in New York. A few weeks ago it was mentioned in the Examiner that Mr. Allison had sent for photographs of the lift lock with a view of contributing an article to be illustrated on that and the Trent Valley Canal. To-day the Examiner received a copy of the issue, Aug. 7th, containing this article. The article is well written and does full justice to the merits of the canal and its distinguishing feature, as the Times article describes it, "The Largest Hydraulic Lift Lock in the World and a Masterpiece of Engineering Skill." While the letter press is of the best in matter the illustrations are badly done; the best photographs were provided, but their reproduction unfortunately is blurred and indistinct, like a good deal of modern illustrations in daily papers on both sides of the line. Mr. Allison will contribute similar articles, which will doubtless be more satisfactorily illustrated, to some of the American magazines. Thus the lift lock, through the friends of the town, will receive wide publicity and the name and fame of Peterborough and the merits of an important link in our national transportation system be widely distributed.

A WEDDING IN THE FAR WEST.

Miss Lillian Clarke, Daughter of Mr. John Clarke Married.

The Examiner has been supplied with the following report of a wedding of a lady, formerly a resident of this county, and a member of a family well known here:

A very prettty event took place on Wednesday, July 27th, at "Maple Grove," the residence of Mr. John Clarke, Grand Coulee, N.W.T., when his eldest daughter, Lillian, was united in marriage to Mr. G. Herbert Clare, of Nutana, Sask.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Doyle, in the presence of a number of the friends of the bride.

Promptly at two o'clock p.m., the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, entered the room to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Anna Clarke, sister of the bride. The bride was attended by Miss Bertha Clyde of Regina, and Mr. Clarence Clarke, brother of the bride, supported the groom.

The bride was tastefully attired in white organdie trimmed with lace and ribbon, and carried a bouquet of white flowers, while the bridesmaid was similarly attired and carried a pink bouquet.

Immediately after the ceremony a dainty lunch was served, after which the happy couple, amidst showers of rice and good wishes, started for Regina, where they took the 5.30 train for Winnipeg and other points in Manitoba.

The bride's travelling suit was navy blue cloth with hat to match. The newly wedded couple received a number of handsome and costly presents. After their honeymoon trip they will take up residence in Nutana, Sask., where Mr. Clare is engaged in the mercantile business.

If We Get Our Wish

We will sell all our summer clothing, summer furnishings, hats, caps, etc., during the next two weeks. We want to wind up the season in that time, as our new fall stock has commenced to arrive. With prices a third, a half and two-thirds off we ought to have a quick clearance; so long as we get cost in any case we will be satisfied. "Times up!" out go the goods! Now's the time for lots of bargains at the City Clothing Store. H. LeBrun & Co.

GREAT GAME OF FAST BASEBALL.

Office Nine of Cereal Works Played the Young Quakers.

A great game of baseball was that played last night on the P. A. A. A. grounds in the east ward, when the Young Quakers and the office staff of the Cereal Works came together. The Young Quakers who have gone through this season with a remarkably clean record of successes met their Waterloo when they ran up against the heavy hitting aggregation of pen pushers. The score, after three innings of exciting ball was 3-3 with the small end of the total credited to the Quakers. The victory of the office bunch, according to a spectator, who knows a thing or two about baseball, is due to the masterly twirling of Cavanah, who was in the box for the office men. He made the opposing battery look like a lot of tin soldiers, striking out six men and allowing only two scratchy hits. His support, for the most part was gilt edged. Sam Laird, at short stop ate up everything that came his way besides being handy with the stick. In the second innings with one out and three men on bases he drove out a three bagger and brought in the three runs, winning the game. Cochrane, the centre fielder on the B.A.C., team lent his services to the Cereal nine last night, and he did not find it necessary to exert himself particularly to play in that company. He made the feature of the game when in the last innings he cut the Quakers out of three runs by a great running catch of a fly to deep centre, and cut a runner out at the plate by a beautiful throw, retiring the side by the double play.

The teams were:—

TO FORM A LEAGUE.

Meeting of Hockeyists Will be Held at Detroit Next Week.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 9. — A meeting will be held at Detroit next week to form a league of hockey clubs, similar to the National Baseball League. Pittsburg, Houghton, Sault Ste. Marie and Calumet, Mich., clubs are behind the project. It is proposed to form a circuit and adopt a schedule for next winter, when championship intercity games will be played. New York and Brooklyn have been invited to send representatives to the meet. The preliminary arangements are in the hands of a committee composed of James R. Dee, of Houghton; Henry F. Metzger, of Sault Ste. Marie, and A. S. McSwigan, of Pittsburg.

BASEBALL.

The Examiner baseball team has yet to meet its first defeat. During this season it has won two games and tied one, and on Monday, the day of the Printers' Picnic to Jubilee, the champions will play a team composed of the best ball sluggers of the Review newspaper, under the captaincy of Mr. S. S. Moore, who has confidence in his ability to pick up a winning team from the staff of the journal mentioned.

This will prove a great attraction doubtless on this, the most popular excursion of the season.

The Kawartha League seems to be almost a dead letter. The two town teams seem to be about the only ones that have made any attempt to carry out the schedule. They have both made trips out of town while the only outside team to play here in the League was Lindsay, who played the T.A.S. Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls and Lindsay are all scheduled to play here yet, but it does not seem that they intend to fill their dates.

TO-DAY'S NEWS ON STOCK MARKET

Features of Market as Told by Special Wires.

By private wire from Richmond & Co., Incd., Pittsburg and Buffalo to W. F. Nelson & Co., correspondents:—

August 10, Evening.—The stock market to-day was decidedly strong. Towards the close prices of all the active shaded off fractionally on profit taking by timid traders, who preferred to close out until they could digest the government report. There were no new developments to influence prices adversely and the technical position of the market remains favourable. The government crop report showed the condition of spring wheat was 77.1 and of corn 78.7. This represented a decline during July of 8.04 points in wheat and 7.10 of a point in corn, the condition on August 1st this year may show some decline during July but they can scarcely be as low as a year ago. If, however, the market reacts to-morrow to around to-day's low prices the opportunity should be availed of to buy the market especially Mop., P.O., Lead, S.S., pfd., Co., and A.C.P. Keep long of the tractions. We advised purchase of cotton oil last week. It has advanced 5 points and is going higher. Take profits on any further bulge in S.F.S. Do not buy Sep. wheat until it has reacted at least 10 points.—Wall Street Information Bureau.

New York, Aug. 11.—Dow, this morning. Seems to us to be favourable as a whole and we believe further bullish operations along specialty lines will be witnessed. There should be irregular improvement. Conflicting crop currents are probable. Heaviness in some reactionary issues and strength in others will confuse the timid trades. We believe R.I. Will go higher. St. Paul looks strong. A.C.P. is in a position to advance sharply. So. Pac. we believe will work higher slowly, and it should be bought on all reactions as should market prfd. Tex. Pac. is tipped for 30 this week. The corn prospects should cause buying of Mop. Early London market for Amns was strong said to be on the crop report and the foreigners will do some buying here. Sentiment was better. There was no special feature. Bank rate unchanged.—Town Topics.

Liverpool opening, wheat 3-8 to 1-2 lower; corn 1-4 lower.

New York.—London firm cons. 83. Bank rate unchanged. Thes scrop Bank rate unchanged. These crop damage reports are a delusion. Buy Atch., S. P. and Mop. These roads will be immensely benefitted by enormous crops. There is still a big outstanding interest in the tractions. Conservative purchases are recommended on recessions. Higher prices are indicated for Pa. and the coalers. Buy Can. Pac.—Joseph.

Ain't You Glad You Waited?

This is the month that price reductions at Stratton's Bookstore speak loudest, and make you feel glad you waited. The drop in hammocks is one-fifth former prices; in croquet sets, it's a tenth off, and in sporting goods it's twenty off. This is about the way it goes in hundreds of other articles. As the ranks of summer goods get thinner the prices get slighter. A. H. Stratton & Co.

CRUISERS ASKOLD AND NOVIK

Russian Cruisers Reach Neutral Ports After a Hot Fight.

JAPS CUT OUT A DESTROYER

Ryeshitelni Taken from Che Foo Harbor—Jap Cruiser Kasaga Reported Sunk During Battle—Two Russian Battleships Return to Port Arthur—Two Baltic Fleet Ships Pass Through Dardanelles.

Che Foo, Aug. 13.—The Russian fleet emerged from Port Arthur at 7 a.m. Wednesday morning. It is stated that only the smaller Japanese vessels engaged and pursued it. The pursuit lasted two hours and a half. Captain Rostchavoski of the Russian torpedo destroyer Ryeshitelni, which emerged from Port Arthur with the fleet Wednesday morning, and which arrived here early yesterday morning, states that his engines broke down when he was midway between Che Foo and Port Arthur. He proceeded at a speed of twelve knots to this port. He says he saw no Japanese vessels.

The Russian squadron left Port Arthur in response to imperative orders from Vice-Admiral Skrydloff. A semi-official telegram reports that the Russian battleships Pobieda and Retvizan have returned damaged to Port Arthur. Three Japanese torpedo boat destroyers are now outside this harbor watching the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni, which still flies the Russian flag.

Jap Cruiser Kasaga Sunk.

It is reported that the Japanese protected cruiser Kasaga was sunk off Round Island, 48 miles east of Port Arthur, in the recent engagement. The Russian ships before leaving Port Arthur took on board heavy stores, machinery and materials for ship repairing. The torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni has been dismantled by the removal of the breeches of her guns.

Forced to Disarm.

Shortly after the arrival of the Ryeshitelni here the Chinese admiral, Sah, sent an officer on board who demanded that the destroyer either leave the port or disarm. It had previously been asked that her engines be disabled. The captain of the Ryeshitelni agreed to render the engines absolutely useless and to disarm in such a manner as Admiral Sah demanded. The captain of the Ryeshitelni required the Chinese admiral to indicate a position nearer the shore where the destroyer could rest until after the war under the protection of the Chinese Government. It is evident that grave reasons caused the Ryeshitelni to undertake her hazardous voyage. Presumably she came here to file urgent despatches.

Japs Tow Ryeshitelni Out.

A boarding party from two Japanese torpedo boat destroyers, which entered the harbor last night, boarded the dismantled Russian torpedo destroyer Ryeshitelni this morning at 3.30 o'clock. The Japanese discharged their small arms, and during the firing a Russian was wounded in one of his legs.

Daybreak showed a third Japanese destroyer towing the Ryeshitelni out of the harbor, and all disappeared.

The Japanese consul claims that the Japanese ships were ignorant of the dismantling of the Ryeshitelni.

It is undrestood that the Chinese admiral discovered the presence of the Japanese torpedo boat destroyers and presented the same demands to them that he had earlier given to the Russian destroyer Ryeshitelni, namely, either to leave port or to disarm.

Askold and Novik Get Away.

The Russian protected cruiser Askold and Novik and one torpedo boat destroyer entered the Kiauchau Bay last night and exchanged salutes with German vessels.

Fleet Has Not Returned

According to the latest information obtainable, the Russian squadron has not returned to Port Arthur.

Anxiety Unrelieved.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 12.—Public anxiety regarding the fate of the Port Arthur squadron was unrelieved last night. The squadron is believed to have passed the Shantung Promontory.

A Tokio Version.

Tokio, Aug. 12.—Evidently driven to sea by the fire of the Japanese land batteries, the Russian fleet emerged from Port Arthur Wednesday morning. Admiral Togo immediately closed in and opened a severe engagement, which lasted until nightfall. Afterwards the Japanese destroyers and torpedo flotillas delivered a series of attacks. The Japanese fleet withdrew at dawn yesterday, the battleships Retvizan and Pobieda steaming towards the harbor of Port Arthur. It is thought here that the Russians attempted to escape seaward from a base which is no longer tenable, but that they again refused to attempt to force Admiral Togo's lines.

There Was a Fight.

Washington, Aug. 12.—The State Department has received the following cablegram from the American Legation at Tokio, dated yesterday:

"Yesterday the Russian fleet which has been harboring at Port Arthur came out, and there ensued a battle which continued throughout the day with the combined Japanese fleet. The result has not yet been officially announced."

From Che Foo, Consul-General Fowler telegraphs, under yesterday's date, as follows:

"A Russian torpedo gunboat has arrived from Port Arthur. Fierce naval engagement yesterday."

Two Vessels of Russian Black Sea Fleet Pass Through Dardanelles.

London, Aug. 12.—The Brussels correspondent of The Daily Telegraph declares that two vessels of the Russian Black Sea fleet have already passed the Dardanelles without the interposition of any difficulty on the part of the Turkish Government.

Told to Be Ready.

Cronstadt, Aug. 12.—Admiral Birileff, in command of the naval forces here, yesterday ordered Vice-Admiral Rojestwensky, commander of the Baltic fleet, and his staff, to take up their headquarters on board the battleship Souvaroff and to be in readiness to sail on Aug. 14.

Japs Reconnottering.

Liaoyang, Aug. 9.—(Delayed in transmission.)—A correspondent who has just returned from Anping (thirteen miles east of Liaoyang), says the Japanese are occupying Houtsiatze (about fourteen miles west of Liaoyang.) They are not advancing, but are carefully reconnoitering within a mile of Anping. Two strong Japanese columns are reported to be hurriedly pressing forward, one towards Mukden and the other in the direction of Yantai coal mines.

The Cost of It All.

Tokio, Aug. 12.—The Finance Department states that the war expenses up to the end of July were 200,000,000 yen, 70 per cent. of which remains in the country. This means in Canadian money approximately $100,000,000.

Japs Lost 10,000 at Wolf Hill.

Che Foo, Aug. 12.—A refugee from Port Arthur, who has arrived here, gave the Russian losses at 1,500, and those of the Japanese at 10,000.

A "HORRORS" DROWNING.

Wealthy Minnesota Lumberman's Awful Death in New Ontario.

Port Arthur, Aug. 12.—Edward Mackie of Stillwater, Minn., a wealthy lumberman, met a horrible death in Rainy Lake.

He, with his brother William, a man named Hans Patterson, and a man whose name is unknown, were on a drinking bout at International Falls.

Leaving there in a canoe they went down Rainy Lake, where Mackie and Patterson were seized with an attack of delirium tremens. Patterson was not violent, but Mackie was beyond the control of his companions. They attempted to restrain him by tying him with pack sack straps, but failed, and leaving him on shore, for fear he would drown, all hands took the canoe and proceeded down the lake.

They encountered the little steamer Seagull and sent it in search of the demented man. The steamboat people in the search encountered a band of Indians, who reported that they had found the body of Mackie in about four feet of water.

The body was recovered with the clothing covering it torn to shreds and the ground in the vicinity torn up, showing the frightful struggle the man had undergone. The body was sent to his home in Stillwater.

TELFORD OUT ON BAIL.

Justice Martin Indicates Most Serious Charges Against the Prisoner.

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 12.—Justice Martin yesterday admitted Dr. Telford to $25,000 bail. He said the charge was very serious, the evidence being to the effect that Telford had given young McHarg surgical instruments to use on the girl. He said he also thought the jury might find that the girl was not responsible for the lacerated condition of the body, found by post-mortem, but the prisoner.

This statement made by Justice Martin was made in answer to an assertion by Jos. Martin, K.C., Telford's counsel, that the evidence against the prisoner was of the flimsiest character. Telford had volunteered the statement that he had never seen McHarg, which made McHarg's evidence as to Telford giving him a cathether to use on the girl more damaging. Telford raised the bail during the afternoon.

Killed in Drunken Brawl.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—A story has reached Ottawa from L'Annonciation of a fatal fight between two men. The quarrel was between Adelard Auger, a blacksmith of Rapide De L'Original, and a man named Primault, a mason by trade, of L'Annonciation, and the latter received injuries from which he died a few hours afterwards. An inquest will be held. It is said that Auger was under the influence of liquor. Auger has been arrested.

A Mine Flooded.

Dalisbury, N. C., Aug. 12.—Information was received here last night that the Barringer gold mine, located near Gold Hill, N. C., Rowegan County, was suddenly flooded with water late yesterday afternoon, causing the instant death of eight men employed in the mine. Thomas Moyl, manager of the plant, was the only one to escape death.

Awful Fall to Death.

Montreal, Aug. 12.—John Burrows, 50 years of age, while cleaning windows at the Presbyterian College yesterday, missed his footing and fell a distance of four stories, landing on the pavement, knocking the upper part of his head completely off.

TESTIMONIAL TO TRENT WATERWAY.

Mr. R. B. Rogers' Innovation Commended by a Leading Engineer

As Result of Recent Visit of Erie Canal Engineers, Locks Will be Constructed of Concrete.

The following despatch from Buffalo to the New York Sun contains a high tribute to the wisdom of the superintending engineer of the Trent Canal in replacing stone by cement in the works now being constructed on this canal:

The men referred to were in Peterborough a short time ago, and evidently saw some things to learn here.

"Col. Thomas W. Symons, a member of the advisory board of consulting engineers of the 1,000 ton barge canal project, said here this afternoon that the answer of the engineers to the demand of stonecutters, stonemasons and bricklayers, in reference to the construction of canal locks was to be found in the specifications now being prepared and which will call for the construction of cement locks. The stonecutters, stonemasons and bricklayers have demanded that the locks be built of stone. Col. Symons says that cement is better than stone, and that if stone is used it will increase the cost of the canal by several millions of dollars.

"Chairman Bond, of the advisory board of consulting engineers, Colonel Symonds and E. L. Corthell, members of the board, have just returned from Trent Valley, Canada, where ethey inspected the largest lift lock in the world, a lock with a lift of sixty-five feet, which has just been completed and which is of cement construction. They find the stone parts of the Trent Valley canal leaky and defective, while the cement portions, could not be improved."

OIL MAY BE FOUND NEAR BOWMANVILLE.

Tests Will be Made With a View of Striking Oil.

The Bowmanville News says: "Mr. O. N. Oke, expert oil well borer, of Petrolia, says there is oil to be found in Bowmanville, and backs up his idea by a subscription of $50 towards a fund to sink a test well on Mr. S. H. Reynolds' farm, in the eastern part of the town. Mr. Reynolds has subscribed $150, and others have subscribed, making the total amount almost $500. Borings will be sunk immediately. A test well was sunk by Mr. Oke on lot 5, concession 4, Darlington — Jas. Veale's farm. Both gas and oil were found, but not in sufficient quantities to warrant operating. At a public meeting on Friday night in the Royal Templars' Hall, Mr. Oke gave a lengthy report of the test at Veale's, and asserted his belief so strongly that oil is to be found in the district that a list was at once circulated for another test well with the object of finding the oil vein. So convinced was Mr. W. J. Jones, manager of the Standard Bank, that there is oil in the vicinity, that he offered to subscribe $100 towards a test well near the Electric Light Power House. Mayor James presided at the meeting and after Mr. Oke's address expressed confidence in his theory that oil is to be found and has backed it up with a subscription. If this well is not a success three or four other locations are suggested where test wells may be sunk.

FLOURISHING CONDITION OF ODDFELLOWS FRATERNITY

Membership of 80,000 and a Million and a Quarter of Funds.

The report of Mr. J. B. King, Grand Secretary of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, presented at the fiftieth annual session of the Grand Lodge, now in session in Toronto, was a very carefully prepared document and covered thoroughly all the business of this important office. The report referred to the death in Montreal of Bro. George Varey, one of the oldest members in Canada and the first permanent Secretary. The death of several other prominent members was also noted. Various recommendations for the benefit of the order were made. Great praise was given to the work of the Oddfellows Relief Association. A table is given showing that during the 57 years which have elapsed since the establishment of the order in Canada more than $3,127,000 have been paid in benefits. Tables are also given by the Grand Secretary, which show the total membership to be 39,019. The sick pay for 39,791 weeks amounted in 1903 to $57,966 and the total benefits paid for that year reached $94,896, and for the first half of this year the benefits paid amount to $57,926. The funds in hand amount to $1,276,774.

Past Grand Master Cole presented the report on the Oddfellow's Relief Association, which gained 1,274 members, giving a total of 16,236. The insurance in force is $21,293,200, and the annual income $369,479.92, the surplus of receipts over expenditures $1,382.26, and death claims paid $144,290. The work of the relief boards and Triple Link clubs was commenced.

The election of officers was conducted on the Hare-Spence system and the scrutineers reported that the voting had resulted in the election of the following officers:—Grand Master, E. B. Butterworth, Ottawa; Deputy Grand Master, F. R. Blewitt, Listowel; Grand Warden, W. S. Johnston, Toronto; Grand Secretary, J. B. King, Toronto; Grand Treasurer, W. J. McCormack, Toronto; Grand Representative, Robert K. Cowan, London; representatives to home board, Col. T. Campbell, P. G. S.; W. H. Hoyle, P. G. M.; Henry White, P. G. M.

Fibroid Tumors Cured.

A distressing case of Fibroid Tumor, which baffled the skill of Boston doctors. Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, Mass., in the following letter tells how she was cured, after everything else failed, by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Hayes' First Letter Appealing to Mrs. Pinkham for Help:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been under Boston doctors' treatment for a long time without any relief. They tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have bearing-down pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, and I have had flowing spells for three years. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time. "The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor given in your little book accurately describe my case, so I write to you for advice."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Note the result of Mrs. Pinkham's advice—although she advised Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, to take her medicine—which she knew would help her—her letter contained a mass of additional instructions as to treatment, all of which helped to bring about the happy result.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote to you describing my symptoms and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully, and to-day I am a well woman.

"The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system. I can walk miles now.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female trouble of any kind to give it a faithful trial."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Mountains of gold could not purchase such testimony—or take the place of the health and happiness which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought to Mrs. Hayes.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women; all ovarian troubles; tumors; inflammations; ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb; backache; irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation. Surely the volume and character of the testimonial letters we are daily printing in the newspapers can leave no room for doubt.

Mrs. Hayes at her above address will gladly answer any letters which sick women may write for fuller information about her illness. Her gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so genuine and heartfelt that she thinks no trouble is too great for her to take in return for her health and happiness.

Truly is it said that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing so many women, and no other medicine; don't forget this when some druggist wants to sell you something else.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

SOME FRUITS OF THE SESSION

The session of the Dominion Parliament, which has just closed, has been one of the longest, and, in some senses, one of the most important. In respect of the legislation enacted, the most important is that which confirmed certain amendments to the contract with the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and practically launched that great enterprise. As to the wisdom of the construction of the railway, there can be no two opinions. It is needed in the interest of the development of Canadian resources, and the up-building of the country. (With an acreage in the North-west of a little over three million acres, we are promised a crop of about 70 million bushels of wheat. We have in the North-west, at a very modest estimate, one hundred million acres of wheat land, as good as that now in cultivation. Settlement is pouring into the North-west, and it is absolutely necessary that provision should be made for getting the resulting crop of wheat to the market. The little fringe of wheat land accessible to railways, is nothing compared with what might, with increased railway accommodation, be placed under crop. The ambition of Canada, that of being the granary of the Empire, is warranted by the circumstances, and the first necessity is to get the wheat to the market. An English journal is pointing out in a tone of mild disparagement, more implied than expressed, that the Argentine Republic is going ahead of Canada in the matter of wheat production, and export. We must not permit grounds, if they now exist, for this reproach to longer be justified. Parliament, in providing for the construction of another transcontinental railway, has taken an important step in adding to the greatness of Canada. Another feature of the session was the triumphant budget statement that Mr. Fielding was able to present. It indicated a most pleasing condition of national prosperity, of healthy thrift in every department of national activity. If a Government is to be judged by results, the Liberal Government of the Dominion can well invite criticism. It is falsely claimed, by enemies of the Government, that the people are taxed unduly. This is a false claim, and contrary to the facts. The people, under the Liberal Government, are less heavily taxed than they were under the Conservative Government. The tariff is lower than under the Conservative regime. More revenue was collected under a lower tariff, because the country was more prosperous under Liberal rule—because the people had more and better paid employment and more money to spend. The claim is also made that the public expenditure has increased. That is true, but the country is growing, and larger expenditure is called for and is in every way justified. The country has more money to spend and the time to provide the country with needed improvements is when we have the means to do it. The late session developed the fact which was apparent previously, that the Liberal Government has effectively, and, in the main, wisely, administered the affairs of the country. It has shown the enterprise which the circumstances of a young and robust country like Canada demands. The people, as a whole, are prosperous and contented. They feel this prosperity in their pockets—it is not a matter of statistics—and a contented people are not likely to clamour for a change.

PROMISE AND PERFORMANCE.

Ottawa Free Press.

A more fatuous or futile proceeding could hardly be imagined than that which some of the Opposition organs pursue from time to time, of attacking the Government on the ground that it has failed to give effect in its entirety to the policy which it foreshadowed when in opposition.

Yesterday the Tory organ in this city published in elaborate detail, in a succession of chapters, what it called the Liberal platform of 1893.

An obvious answer to all such arguments and such criticism against a Government in power is that it is not the duty of a party in opposition to formulate or present a complete constructive policy which it is bound to carry into effect in detail when it assumes power.

Its function when not in power, is to criticize and oppose. In pursuing its political warfare it may contrast the achievements of the Ministry of the day with certain political ideals which it may believe to be possible of realization, but in the hurly-burly of political strife, in the swift recurring changes in the conditions of a progressive country, these ideals may have to be modified or even abandoned, when a party attains power.

For instance, in connection with the National Transcontinental Railway Bill, Mr. Borden the present leader of the Opposition, presented three distinct lines of policy, which were inconsistent with each other. Should Mr. Borden by some extraordinary stroke of fortune, attain power, are we to blame him because he could not give effect to the whole three policies, each antagonistic to the other?

Mr. Borden, it may be remembered, declared in the first place that a second through transcontinental railway was unnecessary, and that the existing lines were sufficient for the country's requirements. Then he changed his tactics and submitted a rival project, a thing of patchwork, which gave a second transcontinental line made up of odds and ends — Intercolonial, Canada Atlantic, Lake Superior Division of the Canadian Pacific, and so forth. Finally he made a desperate plunge and committed himself to state ownership.

No reasonable person would of course, dream of holding Mr. Borden responsible should he ever find himself at the head of a Government, for failing to carry out all these policies, which are inconsistent with each other.

The Citizen yesterday raked up what it describes as a "Liberal platform," nearly a dozen years old, and made it the basis of an assault upon the Government, for no other reason apparently, than that it is not giving effect to-day to a policy which might have been well adapted to the needs and conditions of the country in 1893.

It gave prominence to the tariff clause, which it reproduced in full, but of which we shall have to content ourselves with the epitome in order to show its purport:

That the customs staff of the Dominion should be based, not as it now is upon the protection principle, but upon the requirements of public service. That the existing tariff founded upon an unsound principle and used as it has been by the government as a corrupting agency wherewith to keep themselves in office, has developed monopolies, trusts and combinations. It has decreased the value of farm and other landed property. It has oppressed the masses to the enrichment of the few. It has checked immigration. It has caused a great loss of population. It has discriminated against Great Britain. In these and a great many other ways it has occasioned great public and private injury, all of which evils must continue to grow and intensify so long as the present tariff system remains in force. That the highest interests of Canada demand removal of this obstacle to our country's progress—by the adoption of a sound fiscal policy, which, while not doing injustice to any class, will promote domestic and foreign trade and hasten the return of prosperity to our people. That to that end the tariff should be reduced to the needs of honest, economical and efficient government. That it should be so adjusting as to make free or to bear as lightly as possible upon the necessaries of life, and should be so arranged as to promote free trade with the whole world, more particularly Great Britain and the United States.

Now, there is no principle set forth in that declaration which the Government has not adhered to. The tariff is based upon the requirements of the public service, only in giving effect to that ideal the Administration determined, and we think wisely determined, that the necessities of that service should be met by a tariff which would, at the same time, be instrumental in developing the resources of the country.

A readjustment of the tariff was promised according to certain lines. It has been so adjusted as to bear as lightly as possible upon the necessaries of life and to promote freer trade with the whole world, particularly with Great Britain and the United States.

The British preference and the South African preference are evidences of what has been done in this respect.

That more has not been achieved in promoting freer trade with the United States is the fault of the Americans, and not of the Canadian Administration. A Government cannot be justly blamed for not doing what it has found to be impossible.

It is complained that the customs receipts are much higher now than they were in 1896. The absurdity of this complaint is shown by the abounding prosperity of the country. The whole burden of the complaint, reduced to a few words, in short, is that it costs more to govern the country now than it did in 1896.

The obvious answer is that, by the wisdom and prudence shown in the administration, the country is in a position to bear the greater cost of government and to prosper in bearing it.

Nothing could demonstrate this more clearly than the budget speech of Mr. Fielding, which has just been published in pamphlet form and which will well repay perusal by all who would inform themselves of the country's present financial position. Not only has the speech been prepared with great care, but it has been supplemented by marginal notes and by a series of diagrams which show at a glance the condition of the country now as compared with the years when the Conservatives were in power.

It is unnecessary to reproduce the figures showing how the industries and the commerce of the country have been developed, how population and settlement have expanded, while at the same time the public burdens have been decreased. The reduction in the public debt alone is sufficient proof of this. There has been a reduction in the net debt during the eight years this Government has been in power of upwards of a million dollars, while, during the preceding eighteen years of the Conservative regime, there was a yearly increase in the debt of $6,563,075.

PLEASURE TRIP ON THE TRENT CANAL.

Enjoyable Outing of a Party of Tourists in a Gasoline Launch

Through Sturgeon, Pigeon, Buckhorn, Lovesick, Stony and Clear Lakes. Over the Peterborough Lift Lock into Rice Lake Waters, to the end of Navigation at Healey's Falls.

(Lindsay Post.)

Summer brings its pleasures, and one casts around for the best and most inspiring place to enjoy a vacation. Messrs. G. H. Wilson, of The Post, two sons, Bruce and Roy, and Mr. F. W. Wilson, of The Port Hope Guide, returned on Tuesday morning of last week from a most delightful trip covering ten days in the gasoline launch "Roy" through the beautiful waters along the course of the Trent Valley Canal. The "Roy" enjoys the distinction of being the first power boat that has traversed the Canal through its numerous locks to its extreme eastern end — Healey's Falls—some thirty miles east of Rice Lake, on the Trent River. The party had with them, besides the launch, a canoe and a complete camping outfit, which enabled them to stop whenever night overtook them.

The first stage of the trip was down Sturgeon Lake to Bobcaygeon locks, which are carefully looked after by Lockmaster Walker, whose position is one of the busiest on the canal. The gates of this lock are the most difficult to handle of the fourteen we passed through. The trip down Pigeon Lake was sufficient to sharpen our appetites for more adventure. Passing through Gannon's Narrows the scenery was such as to almost invite us to make camp and enjoy a day's fishing. Here the floating bridge had to be opened to allow us to pass into Buckhorn Lake, east of Oak Orchard, through a passage in the woods and stumps that would puzzle a New York pilot.

At Buckhorn, after passing through the locks, we met the steamer Ogema, in charge of Capt. Maurice Lane, who enjoys the popularity that unfailing care and attention exercised for years entitles him to at the hands of every patron of the boat. This route is becoming very popular, and many Americans and Torontonians spend their holidays in this locality. The trip through Deer Bay, Lovesick and the connecting waters, was very much enjoyed. After passing the lock at Lovesick several picturesque cottages may be seen nestling among the trees. A short run brought us to the double lock at Burleigh Falls, where a good hour's work resulted in letting our craft into the waters of Stony Lake, which undoubtedly is the most romantic and beautiful of the whole chain. Its hundreds of islands each dotted with one or more cottages, the many steamers dodging among the islands, and the green foliage on the islands and shores, combine to form a scene that is worth many a mile of travel to have spread at.

That the hotels and boarding houses are generously patronized, their balconies bear witness—crowds of tourists are everywhere in evidence. Our camp at Stony Lake was most enjoyable—made more so by the kind attentions of Mr. R. Neal and family, and also of Mr. and Mrs. Crane, of Peterborough; both have very handsome cottages at the narrows of Stony and Clear Lakes. The sail down Clear Lake to Young's Point locks in a downpour of rain was not very pleasant, but Lakefield locks was finally reached—the beginning of the new portion of the Canal.

THE "SOO" INDUSTRIES STEEL PLANT GETTING READY.

Steel Works Will Run When Raw Material is Ready.

Mr. C. D. Warren and Mr. N. W. Rowell, K. C., President and Director respectively of the reorganized Sco corporation, were closeted with the Premier and two members of the Cabinet for some time yesterday afternoon. Mr. Rowell said afterwards that everything was going along very smoothly, and preparations were being made rapidly and thoroughly for the early operation of the whole plant. He would not mention any date as that likely on which the steel works would be opened up, for that depended almost entirely on the obtaining of the necessary material, ores, etc., but it would be in the near future.

EDUCATIONAL WORK INCREASINGLY SUCCESSFUL

This Department of the Y.M.C.A. Work is Very Gratifying.

The International Committee of the Y.M.C.A. has sent out letters to the secretaries of the Association giving some encouraging facts relating to the Educational Department of the Y.M.C.A. during the year 1903-4:—

While the Young Men's Christian Association membership as a whole has increased about 9 per cent., yet the educational department has broken all its previous records. The educational clubs have gained 23 per cent. The number of different students has increased 3,681, or to a total of 32,983. While the total expenses of all educational features have grown 16 per cent., the corresponding receipts have grown 17 per cent., or 1 per cent. faster. Spring terms are conducted in twice as many places as before, and vacation or summer schools are operated at a few points. More associations are seeking experienced educational supervision as such is found in the end to more than pay for itself. True the value of a normal aggressive work on a business basis, to young men and to the town, is found to be a first-class association investment.

Liberals Retain Reading Seat.

London, Aug. 8.—A Parliamentary bye-election in Reading Saturday resulted in the return of Rufus Isaacs, the Liberal candidate, who received 4,700 votes against 4,210 cast for C. E. Keyser, his Conservative opponent. The district was previously represented by a Liberal.

MOUNT PLEASANT

(From our own Correspondent.)

It is with feelings of sadness that we record the death of "Emma Runnings" the wife of Mr. David Curtis, who died at the Nicholls Hospital on Friday evening the 5th August, 1904. She had evening the 5th August, 1904. She had been ill for some time past. Her end was peaceful. Her life is worthy of immitation by those who follow after. Her life was a home life, where every good wife and mother should be found; to brighten the home and to be a helpmate, and train up those who may be committed to their care. She was a modest woman, and the home will miss her. She leaves a husband, one son and one daughter to mourn her loss. The funeral was very large. She was interred at the Little Lake Cemetery. Our sympathy is extended to the sorrowing family.

The Rev. Mr. Dobbin occupied the pulpit in the Presbyterian church on the 7th inst., the text chosen by him was "I Am that I Am."

The harvest is progressing rapidly and soon the abundant growing crop will be safely housed.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

PROVINCIAL CROPS

Ontario Department of Agriculture's August Bulletin.

REPORTS BOTH GOOD AND BAD

Poorest of the Cereal Crops in Fall Wheat, With Rye Next—Spring Wheat, Barley, Oats and Peas Above the Average —Root Crops Variable—Fruit Lighe in Nearly Every Class.

Toronto, Aug. 12.—The August Crop Bulletin about to be issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, will contain the following regarding conditions on the first of the month:

The acreage and estimated yields of the field crops for the current year are now being compiled and will be published in a few days.

Fall Wheat.

Cutting began as early as July 20, but considerable of the crop remained to be cut on Aug. 1. The grain, which in 1902 and in 1903 gave most generous yields, will this year be, compared with its own average, the poorest of the cereal crops, taking the province at large; for while in some localities a good return is reported, in other sections the crop has been so great a failure as to give back no more than the quantity of seed sown. The crop appears to have sustained but little injury from Hessian fly or other insect pests, most of the more recent injury to the crop resulting from rust and rain. Very little is said by correspondents as to the quality of the grain, a fact which carries its own comment.

Spring Wheat.

This crop was not so far advanced as usual on Aug. 1, and cutting was not expected to begin until the 10th or 20th of the month, according to location. Rust was threatening in some quarters, but aside from that the crop was in excellent condition as regards both straw and grain, and the yield was expected to be well above the average. There was little or no complaint of insect pests.

Barley.

The cutting of barley was general in the last week of July, although much of the crop remained to be harvested after that period. In respect of color, the crop has turned out well. The yields generally are well up to or above the average, and the heavy returns much outnumber the light ones. The chief injury to the crop is said to have resulted from "lodging" and rust, but even these drawbacks have not been serious.

Oats.

Some big yields of oats have been reported, and only a few poor ones, and the probabilities are that the general result will be one of the most satisfactory in the history of this important crop. The straw is described as being rather short, however, and a few correspondents were fearing damage from rust. Some also alluded to the likelihood of "lodging," owing to the weight of the heads. Odd mention only was made of smut, and practically nothing was said of hurt from insects. The harvesting of this crop was not expected to be general before the second week of August.

Rye.

Crop badly winter-killed, and the yield per acre will be below the average. Where the crop survived the winter, however, it came along in fair condition as to quality.

Peas.

The bulk of the crop will probably be harvested between the 15th of August and the end of the month. Owing to ravages of the "bug" during the last few years, only a small acreage of peas was planted this season. The pest does not appear to be so general as in recent years. Present prospects are for a yield rather above the average.

Beans.

Beans are much later in growth than usual, being still in the blossoming stage, or else just beginning to pod, on the 1st of August. The crop was then looking very promising, and some correspondents thought the yield would be considerably above the average.

Hay and Clover.

Taking the Province as a whole, this crop may be briefly described as a fairly large one, and it has been well saved in most cases. Notwithstanding the great injury to clover in many parts of the Province during the winter by ice forming on low-lying fields, a good recovery was made owing to the favorable growing weather of May and June, and timothy has done even better than clover relatively. Hay harvesting covered nearly all of July. The poorest average yields were reported from the Lake Erie counties, where much damage had been done by winter-killing. New meadows did much better than old ones, and spring seeding is turning out well.

Corn.

Corn received a bad start generally, while parts of some fields had to be resown with buckwheat, or with oats and peas for green feed. Some correspondents speak of the crop as promising, but most of the returns made are more or less unfavorable.

Tobacco.

Only a few correspondents make mention of tobacco as a growing crop. The plant is reported as doing well, although rather late in growth, owing to the wet and generally backward spring.

Potatoes.

The bulk of the reports are to the effect that the average yield will be a good one. Complaints were made in some quarters of more injury than usual by the bug. A few cases of blight were mentioned.

Roots.

Spring was not favorable to the getting of land into good shape for the sowing of roots, and the wet weather continued so far into the season that much of the seed was put in late. Consequently all classes of roots were backward in the first of August, although them growing vigorously, and while many fields were somewhat thin in the raw, others were giving fair promise. The sugar beet fields of Western Ontario are reported to be in very fine conditions, showing decided improvement over previous years. No injury was reported from insect pests.

Fruit.

Harvest and fall apples will give an average yield in most orchards, but the winter sorts, more especially Spys and Baldwins, will be comparatively scarce. Pears will range from poor to good in yield, but peaches will be light. Cherries varied greatly in yield, but on the whole the crop was not nearly up to the average of previous years. Plums yield poorly. Grapes at the present time give promise of being a good crop. Strawberries were not so large a crop as usual, but good reports have been received regarding raspberries and other small fruits. Complaints of injury to fruit from insect pests, spot, etc., were much less than in other years.

Pastures and Live Stock.

Midsummer found pastures in a splendid state, and live stock were also reported to be a excellent condition. The prospects are good for an abundance of fall and winter supplies for farm animals. The flow of milk has been large, but prices for dairy products have not been encouraging, more especially in the case of cheese. The consequence is that calves have been getting much more milk than in recent years, and a correspondent remarks that this will be a good thing for both the calves and the farmers.

Bees and Honey.

The winter was a most trying one for bees; they came out weak, and there was considerable spring dwindling. Swarming was late, and was hardly so general as in recent years. Clover was in fair supply, but there was not much linden. Extracting was rather backward, owing to the season being a late one. The average yield per colony, spring count, will hardly reach 40 pounds.

Scarcity of Farm Labor.

There is a decided scarcity of farm labor, although the lack of help has not been felt so keenly as in the two or three years immediately preceding. The situation has been slightly relieved by the arrival of more British immigrants, but skilled agricultural laborers are yet very hard to procure. Farmers are having recourse to improved labor-saving machinery, and are endeavoring in this way to keep the work more within their own families. Wages are fully as high, or higher, than formerly.

Crop Prospects Improved.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 12.—With the thermometer over 80 and warm nights crop prospects have greatly improved and country reports generally agree that the continuance of this weather should ensure a bountiful harvest.

Ran Amuck With Razor.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 12.—While six laborers from McMillan's Canadian Northern Railway camp were driving into Sheho, N.W.T., on Tuesday night, John Masters drew a razor and slashed at his companions, seriously cutting the throats of Severn Jefferson and Edward Zuinkie and slightly slashing another. He was knocked out of the wagon, bound and handed over to Mounted Police. The injured men are doing well and will probably recover.

Toronto, Aug. 12.—The Exhibition authorities were notified yesterday by Lord Strathcona that His Majesty had consented to loan his famous painting, "The Death of Wolfe," by Benjamin West, and that it will be forwarded at once.

RUSSIA'S ATTITUDE

Her Fleets Will Sink No More Neutral Ships.

THE PREMIER'S STATEMENT

The British Representations Were Effective—Russia's Attitude on the Question of Contraband Not Yet Entirely Satisfactory — Lord Lansdowne Will Not Be Satisfied With "Etcetra" Generalities.

London, Aug. 12.—Great Britain is dissatisfied with Russia's attitude in the case of the British steamer Knight Commander, and continues to press the latter to make substantial modifications of the list of articles regarded as contraband. Count Benckendorff, the Russian Ambassador, called at the Foreign Office Wednesday afternoon and conferred for an hour with Foreign Secretary Lansdowne, the latter bringing up the question of the changes which should be made in the Russian regulations in order to make them acceptable to the commercial nations, besides pointing out the inadvisability of declaring food, fuel and clothing contraband under all circumstances. Lord Lansdowne dwelt on the sweeping character of Russia's proclamation, some of the provisions of which, after specifying various goods as contraband, closed with the word "etcetra," which, Lord Lansdowne pointed out, can include anything and everything the Russian authorities desire. As this is a serious restriction on neutral shipping, Lord Lansdowne insisted that the regulations should not contain generalities of that kind.

In reply Lord Lansdowne was assured that Russia had no desire to unnecessarily hamper neutral shipping, but she cannot afford to permit Japan to receive supplies which would facilitate her military operations. Russia was prepared to modify her regulations, providing Great Britain, on her part, would accept the regulations and bind herself to observe them in future wars in which she may be involved. Lord Lansdowne is now considering how far in this direction he can go without creating regulations embarrassing to Great Britain. The latter does not wish to take action which might possibly hamper the British navy.

In the House of Commons yesterday Premier Balfour, speaking on the same lines as Lord Lansdowne in the House of Lords, said he was perfectly confident that no neutral ships would again be sunk by the Russians. He fully agreed in the statement that such a sinking was an international outrage, and the Government had expressed to Russia in the clearest way possible that view, with the above result.

RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS.

Men Who Will Oversee Transcontinental Railway Construction—Two New Western Senators—Names Mentioned.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—Within the next few days the members of the commission to supervise the construction of the Winnipeg-Moncton end of the new Transcontinental Railway will be appointed. The commission will consist, so far as can be learned, of the following: Mr. F. B. Wade, M. P., Chairman; Mr. James Dufficld, London, Ont.; Mr. C. A. Young, Winnipeg; Mr. Brunet, Montreal; formerly manager of La Banque National. For the position of chief engineer the name of Mr. Lumsden of Toronto, is favorably mentioned.

New Senators.

The two additional Senatorships for the Northwest Territories created in 1903 are expected to be filled at an early date. The gentlemen slated for the positions are Hon. Wm. Ross, ex-Governor of the Yukon, and Mr. T. O. Davis, M.P. The Territories will then be represented in the Senate by two Liberals and two Conservatives. The latter are Senators Lougheed and Perley.

COSTLY DELAY.

Younghusband Urges Haste in Concluding Treaty of Peace.

Lhassa, Thibet, Aug. 5.—(Delayed in transmission.)—Col. Younghusband, head of the British mission, to-day returned the Ambans Ceremonia visit. He urged the appointment of delegates for the purpose of negotiating terms of peace, at the same time intimating that every day's delay would increase the indemnity to be demanded by the British.

No attempt has yet been made by the Thibetans to start the negotiations. It is stated that the Dalai Lamai left behind the seal of State so that the treaty could be signed in his absence.

The inhabitants are freely supplying the mission with necessaries.

Be in Earnest.

Be in earnest about your health. Do not suppose that the head-aches, back-aches, and other symptoms from which you suffer will pass away of their own accord, instead of developing into serious and chronic disease. If you are subject to kidney, liver and bowel derangements there is no preparation which will be so helpful to you as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose.

Not For Citizen Dick.

London, Aug. 9.—Hon. Alfred Lyttleton, in reply to a petition from the Maoris that Premier Seddon be appointed governor of New Zealand, stated that His Majesty was well aware of and appreciates highly the services of Mr. Seddon, but it would be contrary to universal precedent to appoint as governor any gentleman who had been prominently engaged in the politics of the colony.

WILL LIKELY RETURN.

Private Perry Is Still Undecided As to His Future Residence.

Toronto, Aug. 11.—Private Perry spent yesterday in comparative quiet. He will go West in a few days, to keep faith, but as the fact that he intends to leave his presents here would show an uncertainty as his future. The Grenadiers want him to stay in Toronto and a new ammunition factory at Ottawa may make him an offer. He is the guest of his uncle, Joseph Price, at Kew Beach.

The cabinet of silver escaped without a scratch and the clock suffered only in broken cords as a result of the platform collapse. Examination of the wreck yesterday morning showed the heavy four-inch wire nails badly twisted, indicating a tremendous pressure.

Blake Protests.

London, Aug. 11.—(C.A.P.)—In the House of Commons last night Edward Blake, M.P., (Nationalist), strongly protested against the course which had been followed during the session with respect to the Irish development grant. In the revised estimates that vote which was half the original vote had been withdrawn and a sum equal to the original estimate introduced without any explanation from the minister in charge.

May Have Been Murdered.

Toronto, Aug. 11.—A letter received in the city yesterday from Clan William, B.C., says that James Anderson, once of Toronto, and who was latterly bookkeeper for a railway contractor in the West, disappeared during the night of July 18 and next morning a lantern carried by him, letter and personal papers were found in the lake. Foul play is suspected, and the police are investigating.

Waived Extradition.

Hamilton, Aug. 11.—A. L. Ball, Buffalo, the man arrested on the charge of forging the name of W. H. Brace on a $65 cheque, consented to go back to Buffalo yesterday afternoon with Sheriff Clark and Mr. Brace. He came from Toronto late last night.

New Hope—New Courage.

Persons whose nerves are affected get blue and discouraged, are easily irritated and annoyed and also learn to look on the dark side. The restorative influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, soon shows itself on the feelings. It gives new hope and courage, new energy and confidence. By creating nerve force it affords new vigour and vitality for both and body.

Models For Exhibition.

London, Aug. 12.—Very valuable models will go on Tuesday in charge of an expert to Toronto for the Exhibition. They are of the Japanese warship Hatsuse and the English warship Swordfish. Models of the Canada, the Hogue, and the Japanese Mikasa were sent yesterday.

A NEW INDUSTRY FOR PETERBOROUGH.

Probability of Hastings Tannery Being Removed to this Town.

Will Employ 200 Hands—A Valuable Addition to the Town's Industries—Reasons for the Move.

If the plans which are now said to be in process of formation are carried out, Peterborough will in the near future have another large industry.

The Examiner learned this morning from a source that is considered reliable that in the not distant future, the large tannery of Messrs. John Welsh & Son, of Hastings would be removed to Peterborough, where it would be re-established, only in a greatly enlarged form.

At the present time this firm, which manufactures harness and sole leathers, employs about 60 hands in the tannery alone, not to speak of the number that are indirectly given employment in getting out the bark used in the operations.

The tannery is a large affair situated on the north side of the River Trent, from which it receives the power required to operate it, and at the eastern end of the town, and is considered one of the mainstays of that town, and one the loss of which would be a serious blow to the prosperity of Hastings.

It is about 20 years since this tannery was established in Hastings, and during that time it has grown from a small beginning to its present proportions, and it ranks with the large tanneries in the province. The business has been most successfully conducted, and Mr. Welsh, the head of the firm, is considered one of the most wealthy men in this vicinity.

According to the information gleaned by the Examiner the business of the company has increased so rapidly that the facilities afforded by the present factory ... found to be inadequate, and when the question of enlargement was considered, the matter of seeking a location in another town was brought up, and Peterborough was the place above all others that recommended itself to the firm.

It is probable that if the tannery is removed here, the capacity will be increased, and that about 200 men will be employed. There are many reasons why Peterborough would afford a more advantageous location to the industry than Hastings. The excellent shipping facilities forming not the least of these.

As to the probable location of the tannery should it remove here, nothing definitely is known, but the partially completed building of the Sugar Company is talked of, and it is thought that it would be an excellent location, and one which would meet the needs of the tannery excellently.

By locating the industry here, the bark, of which there are great quantities used, could be procured much more advantageously than at Hastings, which fact doubtless has had an effect in causing the firm to consider its present course.

ROB ROY MAKES A RECORD LOCKAGE.

Only Two Minutes and Ten Seconds Making the Drop.

A record lockage was made at the lift lock yesterday when the Rob Roy made the trip through, and from the time that the steamer entered the lock until she left it only eight minuted and forty seconds had elapsed, and the actual drop occupied only two minutes and ten seconds, which constitutes a record, and shows that the lock is working perfectly.

PETERBOROUGH MAN TO BUILD WALKS

Mr. S. Kennedy to Superintend the Lakefield Construction.

Cement walks are now an assured fact in Lakefield. A few weeks ago the Council called for tenders for the building of granolithic walks, the tenders being opened last week. Four tenders were received, ranging from 13 cents to 16 1-2 cents, which the Council considered to be too high. At a special meeting the members decided that the walks would be put down by the village by day labour, and on Monday work was commenced on the walk on the west side of the bridge. Mr. E. R. Blackwell is the engineer in charge, and Mr. S. Kennedy of Peterborough, is foreman. Mr. Kennedy has had considerable experience in building cement walks in Peterborough, and his work is said to be second to none. The Council has taken hold of the matter in the right spirit, and the opinion is freely expressed that the walks will be put in much cheaper by the village than if they had been put in by contract. A BUNCH OF SOUR GRAPES.

Our Contemporary Does not Think Good Timely Reasonable News Amounts to Much Anyway.

A newspaper which wants to practically, and effectually, criticise the enterprise of a contemporary, should do,—not talk—should "see" its opponent, and "go one better." This is a way which its own readers, as well as the general public, could better appreciate than half a column of "sour grapes" whine, to cover the humiliation of a "scoop." Our back-door contemporary last night tried to break the force of the Examiner's enterprise in regard to the Perry reception. Is the criticism of our contemporary quite sincere? When it woke up and guessed what the Examiner was up to, why, if the game was not worth the candle, did it rush a telegram to Toronto for a second-hand cut of Perry, and surround it with an interview, four days old, chopped from a worn copy of the Montreal Star? The Examiner, however, does not object. While being the best advertising medium in the district, the Examiner is not averse to being advertised, even by an opponent in business. The way Private Perry won the King's prize was by going at it and winning it — not by sitting on his knapsack, and whining at the energy of his competitors who were doing the trick. The Fifty-seventh did not win the distinction of being the best shooting regiment in the Dominion by lying down and slang-whanging its rivals at the butts. It had the work of winning before it, and it did it — that is all; and no one appreciates the triumph of the Fifty-seventh, nor has more openly and ungrudgingly voiced that appreciation, than the Examiner. The Fifty-seventh does not need any newspaper to rush to its rescue. If the regiment should be attacked it knows how to take care of itself, and also, in case of need, how to do its share in taking care of the country, too. There is no need for the Review to exclaim, "Keep both hands on the Fifty-seventh."

GIRL'S GUILD HELD SUCCESSFUL EXCURSION

St. John's Girl's Guild at Jubilee Point Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon the Girls' Guild of St. John's Church ran an excursion to Jubilee Point by the steamer Sovereign, and the event was a highly successful and enjoyable one. About 125 passengers were on board and the sail down the river and returning was a delightful one.

During the afternoon a baseball game was played between the Girls' Guild and the Young Men's Guild, which, of course, was one by the former, who put the young men out of business easily. A race was run and the first prize went to Miss Edna Caniff and the second to Miss Maud Gould. Mr. Shirley was with the party and took some excellent photographs.

Tea was taken at the Point and the return trip started before dark, arriving here about 10 o'clock. Mr. Walkey, the Superintendent of the Sunday School, was along with the party, and assisted materially in the arrangements for the comfort and pleasure of the participants. The members of the Guild and all who attended are loud in their praise of Mr. Schneider, the purser of the boat.

Mr. Pringle's effort in behalf of the Dawson Hospital, has met with a generous response and the $5,000 he came after will no doubt be subscribed.

UNFORTUNATE CASE OF ALLEGED INSANITY.

An Innocent Man has to be Sent to County Jail.

No Provision in Peterborough County for Cases of a Similar Nature.

A case calling for sympathy, and some adequate means of providing accommodation for such unfortunates came up in the Police Court this morning when Charles Yeomans was up before Police Magistrate Dumble on a charge of insanity. This unfortunate man, who has no relatives in this vicinity has been in the Nicholls Hospital since July 2nd, suffering from a cancer on the upper jaw, and the disease gradually spreading affected the man's brain, and since about a week after he was taken there insanity has been gradually developing, until at the present time he is in a dangerous condition, and has frequently attempted to take his own life, and is afraid of the other patients. The authorities of the hospital finding that the patient could not be kept in that institution on account of his insanity, brought the case to the attention of Police Magistrate Dumble, who after having heard the evidence in the matter, decided to send him to the County Jail, the only place to which he had power to commit him. There is no provision in law to send such unfortunates to any place of preliminary detention except the jail, which, however, is not a proper place, since the matron of that institution has no means of attending to an inmate who requires his wounds to be dressed daily.

The unfortunate man referred to is pronounced as incurable, and it seems a pity that a man who has committed no offence as far as is known, should have to be sent to the County Jail.

The Magistrate said that in this rich Town and County of Peterborough some provision should be made by the means of a County Poor House for the maintenance and care of persons afflicted similarly to the man above referred to.

In this Christian community some provision should be made for the proper care and protection of God's poor.

ASSISTANCE TO RAILWAY PROJECT

Bobcaygeon Independant Gives Credit to Hon. Mr. Stratton

"The Bobcaygeon and Burketon Railway," says the Bobcaygeon Independent, "is now open and the train runs daily each way. In the construction of this railway and the granting of aid by the Provincial Government, which had an effect upon prospects of the project not generally understood by the public, credit must not be omitted to the Hon. Mr. Stratton whose influence in the provincial Cabinet no doubt materially assisted in obtaining the favourable decision of the Government. On two occasions application for assistance proved ineffectual, and it was not till Mr. Stratton became a member of the Cabinet that the much desired assistance could be obtained. It is never amiss to have a friend at Court. The Provincial grant was the turning point in the project and after that the barriers to success began to give way."

LATE MRS. MITCHELL TAKEN TO HER REST.

Funeral of the Late Highly Respected Resident of Peterborough.

The funeral of the late Isabella Weir, daughter of the late Robert Weir of Otonabee, and wife of Mr. R. J. Mitchell, of the East Ward, whose death occurred on Wednesday, took place this afternoon, to the Little Lake cemetery, and was largely attended by the friends of the deceased. The late Mrs. Mitchell, who was 63 years of age, has been ailing for about seven months, the initial trouble being an attack of la grippe, which developed into heart disease, causing her death.

The deceased lady was very highly respected by all who knew her, and her death will be deeply regretted by the wide circle of acquaintances she had made during the four years in which the family had lived in Ashburnham, as well as those in other parts.

There are left to mourn her loss, her bereaved husband and six sons and two daughters: Messrs. Robert Wellington and George Charles, of Otonabee; William James of Hamilton; Walter Elliott, at home; Herbert Graham, of Winnipeg; and Harry Edgar, at home. The daughters are Mrs. Henry Girven, of Ashburnham; Mrs. John Mortimer, of Minden. Mr. John G. Weir, and Mr. Francis Weir, of Otonabee, are brothers.

The pall bearers were the six sons of the deceased; W. J. Mitchell, of Hamilton, and H. G., of Winnipeg, were home to attend the funeral of their mother.

City Men Shipping to Country Will Complete on Friendly Terms.

At the convention of the Canadian Association of Master Bakers, held in Hamilton, and which Mr. F. W. Bates, of Peterborough, is attending, some of the smaller bakers objected to city bakers shipping bread into villages and country places, and a resolution was passed which suggested that those shipping bread outside their own localities should cooperate with the local bakers, particularly where the organization existed, so that harmony should prevail.

The following officers were elected:—

A. A. Lees, Hamilton, President; Mark Bredin, Toronto, 1st Vice-President; W. C. Schelly, St. Catharines, 2nd Vice-President; C. S. Clapp, Belleville, 3rd Vice-President; Mr. Wilson, Springfield, N.S., 4th Vice-President; James Acton, Toronto, Secretary; Geo. Weston, Toronto, Treasurer; A. W. Carrick, Toronto, A. M. BARRIE EXCURSIONISTS ENJOYED THEMSELVES

What a Barrie Paper Says of it—Some Kind Words for Peterborough.

The Barrie Examiner devoted considerable space to a report of the Firemen's excursion to Peterborough last Monday. It Says:—

Among the many successful excursions conducted by the Fire Brigade that to Peterborough last Monday was easily the best. Nearly one thousand people took in the trip and a better satisfied lot of excursionists never left town. Two trains were required and the G.T.R. deserves credit for the very excellent service given, the trip being made in three hours. The first section, in charge of Engineer James Pirie and Conductor Leslie Poucher, making no stops, ran to Orillia (23 miles) in 26 minutes. Engineer Wm. Campbell and Conductor Jack Hanley looked after the second train which also made fast time.

Reaching Peterborough, the excursion was welcomed by a representative of the Town Council and by the Fire Brigade. The visiting firemen accompanied by the Barrie Band, marched to the Fire Hall. Here some speeches of welcome were being made, when an alarm was sounded bringing the speech-making to an abrupt conclusion, and giving the visitors a chance to see how the firefighters do their work. The equipment of the Brigade is good and they seem very efficient.

The big attraction of the trip was the lift lock. After dinner the majority of the excursionists betook themselves thither; and well repaid were they for their visit. This magnificent structure, the finest of its kind in the world, cost over $500,000 and was seven years in construction. No steam is used in the operation, hydraulic power and compressed air only being used. The lifts weigh over 1800 tons, and so finely adjusted is the mechanism that this weight can be lowered the 65 feet so that an egg might rest upon the blocks below and not be crushed. It is operated by levers handled as easily as those in a locomotive. The engineer informed the reporter that the lift of 65 feet with a loaded boat had been made in two minutes, thirteen minutes elapsing from the time the boat entered the lower end till it left the lock above.

Peterborough is enjoying the benefits that result from a good water power. Two competing companies supply light and power very cheaply and all the big mills are driven by electric motors. Chief among these is the Canadian General Electric Co. employing 700 hands. Next is the Quaker Oats Concern with 500 hands, using 30,000 bushels of oats per day. Then comes the Canadian Cordage Co., with 210 hands. It has an output of 12,000,000 balls of binder twine and 500 tons of rope per year. The secretary-treasurer of this company is E. Bruce Fowler, who was for several years a member of the Bank of Toronto staff in Barrie. Other big concern are the Peter Hamilton Agricultural Implements Works, The Wm. Hamilton Foundry, the Auburn Woollen Mills, and there are several other thriving industries.

Few towns in Canada are as well supplied with beautiful parks as is Peterborough. It has four parks, any one of which gives better park accommodation than most towns enjoy. Another pleasing feature is the abundance of beautiful elms and maples along the principal streets. A little more attention might be paid to the streets and sidewalks, however, and in this respect Barrie could give them valuable pointers.

During the day the visitors were most hospitably entertained by the citizens who followed the good example set by our old friends, Fred Clarke, and R. A. Dutton.

From 200 to 300 members of the Peterborough Regiment will be here for three days at the beginning of September and our citizens will have a chance to reciprocate.

The following officers were appointed:—

President—A. Elliott, Peterborough.

Secretary—H. W. Smart, Port Hope.
Executive Committee—A. Elliott, Peterborough; E. Field, Toronto; W. A. Trenton; J. L. Schaffer, Colborne; R. J. Munro, and A. P. Poussette, Peterborough.

The establishment of a lager beer plant was discussed but it was finally left over until the next meeting. The secretary informed our representative that in all probability the proposed plant would materialise.

THE TRANSVAAL CUP NOW IN PETERBOROUGH

The Trophy Open to Veterans of South African War.

What the Cup is, What it Represents and Who Have Won It.

Last night there arrived in Peterborough a notable trophy — this is the "Transvaal Cup." This cup was instituted to encourage rifle shooting, and at the same time commemorate the services of Canadians in South Africa. It is open for competition to "any member of the contingents who served in South Africa, 1899-1900," and is to be shot for at the annual meetings of the Dominion Rifle Association at Ottawa, in the Governor-General's match, and also at the matches of the Provincial Rifle Association.

The cup, which is a substantial product of the silversmith's art, is in design and workmanship a model of British solidity. It is of solid silver, urn-shaped, broad and low, like John Bull's hat of the cartoons. The bowl of the cup is 12 inches in diameter, and a little less than that in height. It is provided with a heavy stem, and rests upon a circular base of polished ebony, around which are placed twenty silver shields, to record the names of the successive winners. Three of these shields are filled, and contain the names of — 1901, Sergt. Smith, 45th Rifles, Ottawa; 1902, Tecuper McIntosh, 8th Hussars, St. John's, N.B.; 1903, Sergt. Moscrop, of the 6th D.C.O.R., Vancouver, B.C. The cup, it appears, remains in the custody of the last winner till the next competition is due. It is now on its way to Capt. Bell, A.D.C., Ottawa. The cup has in its transcontinental journey, made calls, similar to the one made here, at intervening towns, as follows: Kamloops, Revelstoke, Calgary, Medicine Hat, Regina, Brandon, Winnipeg, Rat Portage, Port Arthur, Sudbury, North Bay, Windsor, Chatham, London, Woodstock, Guelph, Hamilton, Toronto and Peterborough, where it will remain a short time. From here it will go to Brockville and Prescott, and finally land in Ottawa, ready for the matches, in which it will again be a prize.

The cup will be on exhibition in the window of Lieut. F. A. Clarke's fur store, George street.

The cup is here now, and is so beautiful that we should like to keep it, and it is to be hoped that some Peterborough member of the late contingents may be able to capture it at the next matches, and give it a home in this town for next year.

PRIVILEGES OF WIVES.

Given Husbands of Average Ability, Good Wife Makes His Career.

While a woman cannot make her husband's character anew, still she may be a power for good, or a mighty evil influence. It all depends on his inclination, and right here is where a man, if he has a grain of sense, will be careful in his choice of a life partner, and will not allow what may be a passing fancy to run away with his better sense. Take time in choosing your husband, good woman, and you, brother man, weigh the pros and cons well before deciding.

A wife of average ability may make a man's success in life—that is, if the man has average ability himself; and in order to accomplish this end there are things which she can do for him.

Keep Up His Faith.

One of these things is to keep alive his faith in himself. There comes a time in every man's career when his fate rests in his wife's hands. It is when the battle goes against him and he is tempted to give up in despair. Then if his wife reminds him that luck always has been against him, that the world is leagued together to defeat him, that she told him he would fail, and she knows he never can succeed, that man's doom is sealed. On the other hand, if she flutters ahead like a flag of glory, always beckoning him on, telling him she knows he can overcome all obstacles, steadily showing her faith in him and refusing to give it up, she will inspire him with the courage and dogged determination which will eventually win success. She may be to him a light gone out, leaving him to stumble in darkness, or a bright star of hope, shining steadfastly on.

Another way in which she can help him is by taking an interest in his business. Whether he sells salt herrings or writes sonnets, she ought to make him feel it a pleasure to talk about what he has been doing. She may know little about his occupation, but if she is sensibly interested her intuitions will be flashes of genius by which any man might profit. A man's business is closer to his heart than anything else, and it's a foolish woman indeed who does not see the benefits both may derive from comradeship on that score.

In the Social World.

Then a woman may be of invaluable assistance to her husband by making friends for him, or she can do him incalculable harm by making enemies. She can selfishly tie him up to her apron strings, or she can urge him out among people who can help him.

Above all other ways she can prosper his career by keeping home comfortable for him. It is strange how many women fail to realize that a home is the power house in which the wage earners of the family should gather dynamic energy to fight and win the battle of life. Every fireside ought to be a haven of peace, where jaded nerves, frayed and frazzled by contact with the world, may be soothed and restored. For the woman who is happily married, this handing out of home nerve tonic is the biggest kind of career. If she chooses to exhaust her husband's strength on foolish household tasks, slay him with bad cooking and otherwise give him a hit-or-miss home life, she is deliberately pulling him down into obscurity.

If she builds him up with proper foods, sends him out cheered and restored, with faith in himself and in her, she is pushing him straight on to success.

The Head of the House.

When it comes to the pinch, it is the husband who is to decide what visitors shall be admitted to the home—not the wife. It is not for the wife to say who may come and who must stay away, even if she owns the home. At least, that's what the Supreme Court of Ohio says. The question of who is the head of the family recently came up in Erie County in that State, and was passed upon by no less than four courts. Oscar W. Green, it seems, is one of the men who does not like his mother-in-law. In fact, he dislikes her so much that he does not want her to visit him and his wife at their home, and he gave her notice to that effect. The mother-in-law kept on coming, just the same. One day her son-in-law met her at the door, and refused her admittance. She immediately had him arrested, and he was found guilty in the Probate Court of assault and battery and fined $10 and costs. This finding was affirmed by the Court of Common Pleas, but reversed by the Circuit Court on the ground that a man's home is his castle, and that the husband is the lord of the castle. Or, in other words, he is the "boss." The Supreme Court has now affirmed this decision.

It is said this decision will be a precedent even in Canada.

When Tea Was New.

"I sent for a cup of tea, a Chinese drink, of which I had never drunk," wrote the immortal Pepys, who felt in duty bound to sample every new thing that came along. And about the same time another Englishman was extolling the new importation in the following terms: "It easeth the brain of heavy damps. Prevents the dropsie. Consumes Rawnesse. Vanquishes superfluous sleep. Purifieth humors and hot liver. Strengthens the use of due benevolence."

Time to Die.

URUGUAY'S REVOLUTION.

Government Forces Said to Have Met Serious Reverse.

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 12.—The revolutionary movement at Asuncion was initiated with the object of overthrowing the Administration of President Ezourra. The Government forces are concentrating at the capital, and requisitions have been made for arms.

The steamer Sajonia is ascending the Uruguay River to make an attack, and it is expected that there will be a naval engagement between the Sajonia and an armed passenger river boat manned by national troops.

Foreigners are taking refuge in the Legations of their respective countries.

Heavy fighting was reported yesterday, and the revolutionists are said to have inflicted a serious defeat on the Government forces.

Accident at Hamilton.

Hamilton, Aug. 12.—Patrick Wanders fell 25 feet onto a cement walk from a window in the bricklayers' and masons' hall, East King street, about 10.45 last night. The story told the police was that Handers accidentally fell out of the window. He was taken to the city hospital, and the doctors fear that his injuries may prove fatal. His skull was fractured and his neck injured.

THE WORD LIVERY.

It Originally Meant Something Delivered or Freely Given.

Our word livery is derived, through the French, from the Latin liberare, to deliver. Hence a livery originally meant something delivered or freely given, and came to be applied to an allowance of food or clothes.

From Norman times an English nobleman allotted a fixed "livery" of bread, wine and candles to his servants for their private use. A remnant of this system still survives at Oxford and Cambridge, where the fellows of a college are entitled to a daily allowance of food called "commons."

An allowance of provender for a horse was also called a livery, and a horse fed and groomed for its owner at a fixed charge was said to be "at livery."

In the middle ages "livery" was worn by any one who was in any sense in the service of another of superior rank or station.

The trading companies of the city of London used to provide a special attire for their freemen, who became known as liverymen, a title which they still retain.

CIRCULATING LIBRARIES.

They Were Started by the Stationers of the Middle Ages.

The earliest form of circulating library was the lending out of books for hire by stationers of the middle ages, but this was of very limited extent. In the reign of Henry IV, Richard of Bury, bishop of Durham, left his valuable library for the use of Oxford students. Two provisions are very practical, one being that no book was to go into circulation unless there was a duplicate; the other, that the borrower had to deposit security exceeding the value of the book.

Dunfermline, Scotland, established the first proper library of this description in 1711, Edinburgh following in 1725 with one founded by Allen Ramsay. The first public one in England was established in Salisbury by a clergyman, Fancourt, in 1740. This failed to survive, but others in Bath, and at London in the Strand, succeeded in becoming popular. Many London scientific societies established circulating libraries in the eighteenth century, and in the nineteenth they became far more widely spread.—London Globe.

ARMENIANS MASSACRED.

Their Villages Destroyed But They Revenge Themselves Later.

London, Aug. 10.—The Tabrise, Persia, correspondent of The Daily News, in a despatch dated Aug. 6, says: "On July 13 a band of Armenian revolutionists appeared at Outchkilissa. Turkish soldiers and Kurds, finding an excuse, attacked and destroyed the Villages of Outchkilissa, Koomlouboujak, Goughan, Karabazar and Sayto, butchering men and outraging women.

"Two large Armenian bands marching to Sassun to help the insurgent leader Antranik, attacked the garrison at Mossuzry and Goutchagh for revenge on July 25. At dawn bombs were thrown into these places, killing many, and severe fighting ensued. A majority of the soldiers were killed and the garrisons resembled graveyards. One band forced through the Kurish tribes toward Arjess. The number of soldiers killed amounted to several hundreds.

VICTIMS NUMBER 100.

Several Persons Lose Their Minds Following the Shock.

Pueblo, Colo., Aug. 10.—Because of the railroad horror which cost 100 or more lives, many business houses were closed yesterday, and more than forty homes are in mourning. Several persons have lost their minds, following the shock of the deaths of loved ones.

The search for bodies was kept up all night. Bodies have been recovered more than ten miles from the scene of the disaster.

The death list shows a total of sixty-six identified dead, twenty-eight missing and six unidentified bodies, making an even 100 victims of the wreck.

Well Known In Peterboro'

Is Mr. W. E. Talbot Who Was Cured of Piles by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. W. E. Talbot, of Talbot Bros., tobacco merchants, 362 George street, Peterborough, states: —"It is from a desire to help other sufferers that I offer a statement of my experience with Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for Itching Piles. I was for a long time troubled with this unpleasant and torturing disease and though I tried very many treatments remained uncured until I came across Dr. Chase's Ointment. It was highly recommended to me, and I find that every word of praise is true. I can truthfully say that I am completely cured and knowing the misery that the ailment produces, I am anxious for others to know of the surprising virtues of Dr. Chase's Ointment."

THE OSSETINIANS.

A Race of the Caucasus Mountains With a Georgian Dialect.

In the highest parts of the Caucasus mountains, around the Kasbeek region, there is a tribe, very tall and handsome, which speaks its own peculiar dialect of the Georgian language and has its own peculiar customs, differing in many ways from those of the Tscherkesses, Armenians, Circassians and other tribes that dwell in the same country. It is the tribe of the Ossetinians.

Like the rest of the Caucasus tribes, they have recognised Russia's authority. But they adhere to the claim that they are not descended from Asiatic races, like the other tribes, but that their ancestors were German knights who had gone to the crusades and who, after the disastrous end of the last crusade, had been driven into the wild valleys of the Caucasus, whence it was impossible for them to win their way out and homeward owing to the vigilance of the Moslem foe. So at last they settled down and took wives among the Caucasus mountain women, who have always been noted for their beauty.

It is a strange fact that the Ossetinians understand the science of brewing malt liquors, and they are the only ones who drink beer, the other tribes preferring Asiatic liquors.

Her Highest Compliment.

"What did you think of my speech?" asked the orator.

"It was beautiful," said the young woman. "It made me think of my commencement essay."

It is too bad that there isn't some way for always having a girl baby just three years old in the family.—Atchison Globe.

Going for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Don't put yourself in this man's place, but keep a bottle of this remedy in your home. There is nothing so good for Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Diarrhoea. It is equally valuable for Summer Complaint and Cholera Infantum and has saved the lives of more children than any other medicine in use.

When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 35 cents.

MARRYING FOR A HOME.

That Is a Mistake Too Serious For Any Woman to Make.

Home is a woman's real sphere, however much conditions and necessities have forced her into other and more extended ones. No true woman is indifferent to home and all that it means to herself and others. The more truly womanly she is the more she appreciates and values it.

But to marry for the home's sake is like buying a picture for its frame or valuing the binding of the book above the book itself. No one can make the home a more important thing in married life than the man one marries, and in no possible case can the home satisfy one if the husband fails. Love for the man one marries will make a home of an attic or the weather side of a hedgerow. But married life, where the home comes first and the husband second or a bad third, is a hideous travesty of what it was meant to be, and it can never draw anything but a blank in the marriage lottery.

The girl who marries for a home has provided herself for the best of her days with a cage which she must halve with another being. The girl who marries for a home is as mistaken as the man who marries for a housekeeper.

Both are oblivious of the real reasons for marriage, the highest and the best. Both put the home before the maker of it, and that leads to sure disappointment and failure in the end.

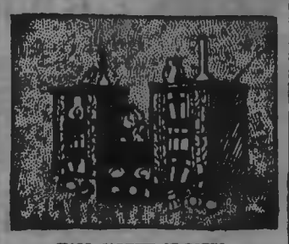
Marriage can hardly be a lottery in the case of these people. One would tell them so confidently beforehand that it will never draw anything in their case but a dreary blank.—New York News.

A WALL CABINET.

How to Make an Artistic One Out of Three Wooden Boxes.

The main objection to box furniture is its common angles, which make it look like a box in spite of hard efforts. Yet, hard as it may seem, these very commonplace angles can be made to work out the salvation and save the reputation of the disreputable "box."

The ordinary bookcase made of a box has the regular lines of the box.



WALL CABINET OF BOXES.

"Box" is written all over it, as one of the more fastidious remarked tartly. But take two boxes of good proportion and of unequal size, and when they are placed together the hated lines are so changed as not to be recognisable. The bookcase made of two or even three boxes has few of the characteristics of the box tribe.

A china or magazine rack or a bric-a-brac cabinet, which can be hung on the wall, can be made of three boxes, as shown in the illustration. The tops of these artistic cabinets can be used for pictures, vases and the like. Hooks can be put into the lower shelves, and cups, mugs and pitchers can thus be disposed of.

The Kitchen.

Next to the cellar and perhaps the bathroom the kitchen is of the utmost importance, requiring unceasing vigilance and care on the part of the housekeeper to keep clean and sweet.

The closet, the sink itself and the pipes leading from the sink through the closet are at all times most difficult places to keep clean, clear and deodorised. The sink and all about it should be washed daily with a strong, hot disinfecting solution. This will cut the grease from the sink and from the pipes (where it has been carried by the hot water and where it has adhered upon cooling) by reason of its solvent properties and carry it through the traps into the sewer. The closet should be well washed and the pipes leading through it. If this is done as frequently as it should be there will never be any annoyance from cockroaches and water bugs, for their means of sustenance having been removed they must go elsewhere for a livelihood.—Table Talk.

Old Sheets.

Old sheets are invaluable. In cases of sickness, as cleaning cloths, as ample wrappers for winter clothing, as protection curtains and dust covers, there is scarcely a limit to their usefulness. First they should have the selvage edges turned to the center and the worn middles torn off and replaced by hems, thus turning them into single and crib sheets. After, they should be laid in reserve, always clean, for various uses mentioned. Worn tablecloths can be cut into tray and meat cloths, and other pieces are the finest sort of wash cloths for cut glass and window cleaning. Sometimes a tablecloth past usefulness will make a half dozen excellent napkins for every day. It is better to do the hemming by hand.

Bleaching Linen.

To whiten linen which has become yellow cut up a pound of fine white soap and dissolve it over the fire in a gallon of milk. When the soap has entirely dissolved add a tablespoonful of powdered borax. Then put the discolored linen into the boiler and let it simmer for half an hour. Then take it out and wash it thoroughly in a good lather made of the ordinary "soap jelly" and warm water. Rinse well in two waters, the last of which should be made a good sky blue.

Increased Land Values.

One evidence of the increasing value of land in Vancouver is that whereas houses were formerly built on the regulation-sized lot of 66 feet by 132 feet, they are now being put up on half lots and quarter lots, so that the city is growing not only in extent but in density of population. It is needless to say that under existing circumstances the value of urban land has greatly increased. During the past three years the appreciation has averaged fifty per cent. i.e., lots that were worth $1,000 in 1900 are now worth $1,500. These prices refer to the residential district in the west end. In the centre of the city land is worth from $300 to $600 per foot frontage, and the increase of value has been even more marked. An important factor in the rise of values in the west end of the city is to be found in its being a peninsula. The surrounding tidewater forms a fixed boundary within which only a few hundred lots now remain vacant. The main peninsula ends in a smaller one, our incomparable Stanley Park, of the impressive grandeur of which so much has been written. Other parts of the city are available for residential purposes, but they are comparatively remote and demand a longer ride in the street car.—Bernard McEvoy in Toronto Telegram.

"I thank Dr. Pierce for the kind advice he gave when I wrote to him."

"I am thankful to the friend who first recommended your medicine," writes Mrs. Annie M. Brook, of Smithfield, Fayette Co., Pa. "We have a twelve pound baby, three weeks old. I took three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' before baby came, and the time was only one hour and a half. Have had five children, and before this always had a severe time, lasting two or three days, and never was able to do any work for about two months afterward. Now I am doing all the work for four children. My friends say I look better now than ever before. We told one of my sisters to take 'Favorite Prescription,' which she did, and when her child was born the time of suffering was very short. She has better health now than since her marriage, some years ago. We cannot praise Dr. Pierce's medicines enough. I thank Dr. Pierce for the kind advice he gave when I wrote to him. Whenever I see other women suffering I tell them about your wonderful medicines."

The benefits resulting from a consultation by letter with Dr. Pierce are testified to by thousands of grateful women who have been made new women by his medical advice and fatherly counsel given absolutely without cost or fee.

Sick and ailing women, especially those suffering from chronic diseases, are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best medicine for the cure of womanly ills. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It is the best preparative for maternity, giving the mother strength to give her child, and making the baby's advent practically painless.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

JOHN BANISTER.

An English Violinist Who Won Fame in the Seventeenth Century.

Public concerts owe their direct encouragement to John Banister, who had won fame by his playing on the violin and who succeeded the celebrated Baltzar as leader of Charles II.'s band of twenty-four violins. Pepys, in an entry in his diary for February, 1667, tells us the court gossip of the day—"how the king's viallin Banister is mad that the king hath a Frenchman come to be chief of some part of the king's musique."

Banister's concerts at the close of the year 1672 were advertised in the London Gazette as follows: "These are to give notice that at Mr. John Banister's house (now called the Musick School), over against the George tavern in White Fryers, the present Monday will be musick performed by excellent masters, beginning precisely at 4 of the clock in the afternoon, and every afternoon for the future precisely at the same hour."

Four years later on we read again: "At the Academy in Little Lincoln's Inn Fields will begin the first part of the Parley of Instruments, composed by Mr. John Banister." The admission was at this time as a rule a shilling, and these concerts seem to have been held pretty regularly down to within a short time of Banister's death, which took place in 1679.

BIRTH OF THE BUS.

This Class of Vehicle First Appeared in Paris in 1662.

The omnibus appeared in Paris in 1662 as a "carrosse a cinq sous" (coach for twopence halfpenny), by authority of Louis XIV., under the management of Pascal, the mystic and philosopher. Whether this eminent thinker originated the idea is not clear, but there is no doubt that his influence assisted in the establishment of the service under the auspices of a royal decree.

Later on these earliest omnibuses ceased to run owing to lack of support, and did not reappear in Paris until 1827, when Lafitte, the banker, who was among the largest proprietors, was credited with originating the revived service.

The new coaches started to ply in London on July 4, 1829, when the first one left Paddington for the Bank of England, and another ran from the bank to the Yorkshire Stingo, New road. These first British busses were known from the man who organised them as "Shillibeers," and the conductors of the first two are said to have been the sons of British naval officers. Three horses drew them, and they carried twenty-two passengers, all inside. —London Standard.

HATS OF STRAW.

China Gets the Credit For Having First Made Them.

The earliest makers of straw hats were unquestionably the Chinese. Their work was by no means rough in character, but plaited and sewn together with considerable skill, as may be seen today in the neighborhood of Canton.

In Europe hats were first made in Paris by a Swiss so early as 1404, and we find mentioned among the entries of an inventory of the effects of Sir John Fastolfe, 1459, "four strawen hattes," showing them to have been great rarities. Coryatt mentions them as worn in Provence, with a hundred seams, lined with silver and curiously worked.

Tuscany, with Leghorn as a center, took up the work early in the fifteenth century and has maintained it with considerable skill ever since. Bedfordshire, with Dunstable and Luton as centers, has been the headquarters of the industry in England ever since the early part of the seventeenth century. —London Mail.

American Boat Won Tuesday.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—The fourth race for the Seawanhaka Cup, which took place on Lake St. Louis yesterday afternoon, resulted in another win for the American boat, the White Bear of St. Paul, Minn. She crossed the finish line 1 minute and 2 seconds ahead of the Noorna. The final race will be sailed to-day.

AN ICE EXPERIMENT.

Cut Through by a Fine Wire the Cake Still Remains Whole.

What is the freezing point in temperature?

The answer is probably known to most of you—namely, 32 degrees above zero F.

That is right.

Now, you wouldn't suppose that anything could possibly melt at this point, much less below it, would you?

But if you make the following experiment you can prove that ice melts at several degrees below freezing point if heavy pressure is applied. This experiment is as follows:

Take a large piece of ice and place it on a couple of trestles (or common kitchen chairs).

Tie a heavy stone or other kind of weight (flatirons, for instance) to a stout cord. Then fasten a piece of fine wire to the cord and lay the wire across the top of the ice, with the weight pulling it from below.

THE ICE EXPERIMENT.

Now watch the wire!

Pulled by the heavy weight below, the wire will gradually cut its way (as shown in the illustration) down, down, down, through the cake of ice until at last it will cut through and fall to the ground.

Does this leave the cake of ice in two pieces as if cut with a saw?

No; that is the wonderful part of this experiment. The ice was melted by the passage of the wire (in other words, by the heavy pressure) and froze again immediately, and the piece of ice remained whole and entire.

Only a slight scar is left to show the path followed by the wire.

So this proves that ice actually melts at several degrees under freezing point. —Philadelphia North American.

PERFECT ENGLISH.

A Few Sentences That Were Written by Abraham Lincoln.

It is not very well known that in the hall of one of the great colleges of England there hangs a frame inclosing a few sentences of which Abraham Lincoln is the author. They are considered the best English that was ever written. You or I might read them over and call them very simple indeed. And they are so simple that any child who reads at all can read and understand them. That is one thing that makes them great. It was his being simple and plain that made Lincoln himself great.

Now, here is a little paragraph by Lincoln which he made a rule of his conduct. Suppose you try to write it over and see how much you can improve it. See if each word is the right one and try to find a better word for the place. Notice how simple this is. All but two are words of a single syllable:

"I am not bound to win, but I am bound to be true. I am not bound to succeed, but I am bound to live up to the light I have. I must stand with anybody that stands right—stand with him while he is right and part with him when he goes wrong."

The Young Quakers Baseball Team has had a season of successes of which any team might well be proud. Out of fifteen games played, twelve have been won, one tied and two lost. Very few teams in the country can produce a record to equal this, and the Quakers have only done it by hard practice and consistent work. The manager of the team, Mr. Harry Kingscote, has worked energetically and deserves great credit for the excellent showing of the team. The captain, too, H. Conroy, has worked hard, and has earned the success which his team has enjoyed. In the fifteen games in which the Young Quakers have participated, 114 runs have been scored by them and only 65 against them. A record of the games follows:—

SOUTH PAW BATTED OUT OF THE BOX

Galt Baseball Team Defeated Lindsay Yesterday.

Lindsay baseball team took a great tumble in Galt yesterday to which town an excursion was run from the former town, a large number of the team's supporters going up to see their team win easily, but their hopes were soon dashed to the ground. A despatch from Galt tells the tale as follows:—

The Lindsay branch of the C.M.B.A. ran an excursion to Galt to-day, the crowd numbering about 300. The chief event of the afternoon was a baseball match, between Galt, the leaders of the Canadian League, and Lindsay, the leaders of the Midland League. The home team put it all over the visitors, winning by 15 to 6. McLaughlin, the southpaw, was knocked out of the box after the third innings, when 11 runs had been scored on him. The Lindsay field was lamentably weak.

Score by innings:

SWIMMING RACE MAY NOT MATERISE.

Vegetarian and Meat-eaters May not Test Their Respective Abilities.

The prospects of a swimming race between the champions of vegetarianism and roast beef do not at present look promising. Mr. Jones, the English swimmer, has engagements that will presently require his return to the old country, while Mr. Strickland, the vegetarian, formerly of Peterborough, when seen to-day by a representative of this paper, expressed a dislike for the notoriety such a race would occasion, together with a feeling that a race to properly test the merits of diet, should take place, not in the tepid and enervating water of summer, but in the cold and bracing fluid of autumn or winter. He suggests that such a race might very well occur on Christmas day, or, if more convenient, on Thanksgiving day. The distance from the Yonge street wharf to the Island lagoon is but two miles, which, he says, may test the speed of a swimmer but not the endurance of a vegetarian. As Mr. Strickland has the record of having gone swimming in Lake Ontario in every month of the year, he would probably have the advantage over Mr. Jones, who has never gone in for that kind of thing. Altogether it is to be feared there will be no race, and people will have to judge of the rival merits of vegetarianism and beef-eating by private experiment and personal inquiry.—Toronto Star.

SPRINTING

The following letter has been received by the Examiner:—

To the Sporting Editor of the Peterborough Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—I have been informed that Dave Belland issued a challenge through the Examiner some time ago that he would run me a race any time after the 12th of July. I beg to say that I have just returned home and I am willing to run Mr. Belland or any other runner in Peterborough. I am

BASEBALL.

At 2.30 to-morrow afternoon one of the fastest games of the season will be played between the Y.M.C.A. nine and the T.A.S. team on T.A.S. grounds, Murray street. This is the Y's first game and as they are determined to make a good start they have picked out a very fast team and one that should make a good showing against the T.A.S. Quinlan will be in the box for the T.A.S. while the Y.M.C.A. will have the services of a stranger, who is said to be a good one. There is going to be quite a nice series of games for the championship of the town and this game will be one of the best.

The Examiner learns that it unwittingly published a report yesterday, which in some respects is hardly substantiated by facts. In the report of the baseball game between the Young Quakers and the Cereal Office team. The score should have been 3-2 in favour of the Quakers. The report published yesterday was the Office version of the game.

Mr. Gordon Logan of Galt is doing some great pitching for the Olympia baseball team. Logan is an old Peterborough boy. He played for the Ashburnham Elms when they won the Intermediate Championship of the city.

"Chaucar" Elliott, of Kingston, wants to join the Rochester club of the Eastern League.

• • • •

There have been nine killed in baseball accidents this year, and something like 50 seriously injured. Never in the history of the sport have so many men been hurt by pitched balls as this season.

LACROSSE.

The Port Hope Times has another version of the cause which led to the default of the Ontarios to the T.A.S. It says:—

"It seems too bad that the Ontarios had to default to the T. A. S. of Peterborough in their game on Saturday last after having played the season with only one loss and a bright chance to win the championship. The fault lies somewhere, either with the players or the management. The players have been very diligent at practice during the season and very anxious to go to Peterborough and show the citizens of Port Hope what they could do, but it seemed as if the management and supporters did not care if they went or not. With a little effort the strongest team that has represented the Ontarios this season could have been got together and they would not have disgraced the town, but most likely have brought glory to it. However, the result is that lacrosse is over for this year and the sticks are hung up for at least another season.

WRESTLING.

EDMUNDS VERSUS A PONY.

The bout between the famous wrestling pony, Major, and Artie Edmunds, the local wrestler, will take place at St. Andrew's Hall on Saturday night. The bout will be to a finish, and moving pictures are to be taken of the affair. Edmunds is risking a lot in the bout, for the pony has already killed a man in a bout, and always goes into a contest tooth and hoof. Edmunds is in good shape, however, and expects to pull through on top of the heap.—Toronto Star.

THE BEAUTIES OF COBOCONK.

A Delightful Place to Spend a Vacation.

The Examiner has been supplied with the following items of news from Coboconk:

Coboconk! Where is Coboconk? It is a very pretty northern town situated on the Gull River. It is beautiful for situation, and the joy of all visitors, and calculated by nature for the recuperation of the tired physically and mentally. While we enjoy the calm sailing on such beautiful waters, we at the same time drink in through the eye the beautiful scenery of trees, rocks and hills. Anyone wishing to see the beauties of nature for one whole day, without any exertion or the responsibility of piloting, can do so by leaving the Coboconk wharf at 6 o'clock any morning by the Manita. The trim little vessel touches at the beautiful summer resort of Rosedale, as well as the pretty business town of Fenelon Falls, where the boat passes through the locks, and for the accommodation of passengers who may not have seen the Falls, the steamer waits there for about 30 minutes, passing on to the town of Lindsay, where the visitor has ample time to go through the whole town and take is everything that is needed, and return by the same waters, arriving at Coboconk about 7 o'clock at night. In Coboconk there is every accommodation for the tourist, either in private or public boarding houses. The citizens are also a law-abiding people, and the Sabbath is truly a day of rest and a delight.

On Sunday morning the Presbyterian Sunday school is held at 9:30, with Miss Loggie as superintendent. She has a well conducted school, and one that is a credit to herself and her faithful teachers. Then at 11 o'clock a.m. the public service is conducted by the Presbyterian student fo Queen's College, Rev. Mr. Donnell. He is a deep thinker, and gives some very stirring theological sermons. He is assisted by a very fine choir. Mrs. Loggie presides at the organ. In the afternoon at 2.30 the Methodist Sunday school is held, Dr. J. N. Thompson being the able superintendent. He is assisted by a number of earnest teachers. Then at 7.30 the Anglican church service is conducted by the Rev. Caffe; the solemnity of the service is very marked. The choir gives great assistance at the service. Miss Ham is a very efficient organist. The Methodist service is held at 7 p.m. We have only one regret that we cannot attend the Anglican and the Methodist service the same day, the services being held at the same hour. The Methodist minister, the Rev. T. H. McDonald, is an able preacher. He is most ably assisted by a choir that would be a credit to any city church. It is composed of seven ladies, with Miss Thompson,, as organist. We might make special mention of this choir on account of the four parts, soprano, tenor, alto and bass, being taken by female voices. The sopranos are very fine, and are Misses Waffle, Clifford and McDonald; Miss Elliott sings a very rare quality of tenor; Miss Annie Thompson sings a very rich alto; Miss Eva Elliott, a most successful music teacher of Coboconk, sings bass. We listened with great interest to the harmony of mingled voices, and felt that while we listened we were raised heavenward. Long may such choice selections and well rendered music continue. The three congregations are swelled by tourists at the present time.

TO-DAY'S NEWS ON STOCK MARKET

Features of Market as Told by Special Wires.

By private wire from Richmond & Co., Inc'd., Pittsburg and Buffalo to W. F. Nelson & Co., correspondents:—

New York, August 11th, evening.—The stock market to-day was very strong. Those stocks on which we have been bullish were the leaders of the upward movement and they will continue in the front ranks. We have been advising purchase of M.R. daily for nearly 3 weeks. It will go to 138. This stock is not affected by war news as much the general list and is a purchase on quick breaks. Keep long of B.R.T., Atch., Mop., Co., A..CP., P.O., T.C.I., Rdg., USQ U.P., S.P. and M. Take advantage of any quick reactions of 1 to 1 1-2 points to add to long holdings or buy if you have not already done so. U.P., S.P., Mop., A.C.P. and U.S.Q. While we think wheat will ultimately go to $1.50 we do not think it will get there before the may option becomes the active feature and Sep. and Dec. should be bought only after a sharp break of 10 cents.—Wall Street Information Bureau.

New York, August 12th.—We look for some irregularity to-day but the continuance of bullish operations may be expected and the purchase of good active issues on soft spots is being recommended by well informed people. We would watch A.C.P. which seems ready to rise further. Sug. should be taken on reactions. Atch. looks like it might be made a leader soon, judging from information and other indications B.R.T. is tipped for better prices. If St. Paul can pass 150 offering we believe it will do much better. L.N. seems on the verge of betterment and Penna. is being prepared for an advance, according to Philadelphia advices. We would buy R.I. on Reactions also So. Pac. Maintain a trading position in U.S.Q. U.P. is tipped for a further rise this morning. The wheat rise, is, we believe due to manipulation entirely, and the steel disturbances more artificial than real. There was practically no change in the early London quotations for Americans this morning. The market was quiet and featureless.—Town Topics.

London steady cons. 83 3-8. Jay Gould knew that to do anything openly in the market always invited opposition; large interests act on this theory. The buying of the Pacifics is excellent. Mop. should be bought. J. P. Morgan is very optimistic as to the immediate future of business generally, and looks for an upward tendency in the market. Erie 1st will get a move on. Hold some S.P. S. Ry. will work higher. Buy lead conservatively.—Joseph.

Liverpool wheat 7-8 higher; corn quiet, not quoted.

Ain't You Glad You Waited?

This is the month that price reductions at Stratton's Bookstore speak loudest, and make you feel glad you waited. The drop in hammocks is one-fifth former prices; in croquet sets, it's a tenth off, and in sporting goods it's twenty off. This is about the way it goes in hundreds of other articles. As the ranks of summer goods get thinner the prices get slighter. A. H. Stratton & Co.

TO SAVE WORLD'S FAIR.

Railroads Agree to Run Cheap Excursions to St. Louis.

Chicago, August 9th. — President Francis, of the St. Louis exposition, has made a personal appeal to the presidents of the various railroads to come to his assistance in securing a better attendance. The first result of the appeal came yesterday, when the Illinois Central, Altons and other roads, gave notice that effective immediately, and continuing until September 1st, they would run daily excursions to St. Louis from all points within a radius of 160 miles.

The rate for these excursions will be one cent a mile, and it is understood that if this plan will not induce the people to go to the exposition certain railroads will announce still lower rates. The letter which President Francis is said to have written to the presidents individually calls attention to the fact that for the first three months of the exposition the attendance was only 5,000,000 in round numbers, including free admissions.

During the same period the attendance at the Chicago exposition was about 9,000,000. It is strongly intimated that this showing, if continued much longer, will result badly for the exposition.

JAPANESE FLEET SAID TO BE INTACT

Admiral Togo Reports None of His Ships Lost in Battle.

RUSSIAN SHIPS SCATTERED

Russian Warship at Woosung—Cruiser Askold Arrives in a Battered Condition—Other Ships of Port Arthur Fleet Reach Kiaochou Bay—Trouble Over the Cutting Out of the Ryeshitelni.

Tokio, Aug. 13.—Admiral Togo has reported as follows:

"On Aug. 10 our combined fleet attacked the enemy's fleet near Gugan Rock. The Russian vessels were emerging from Port Arthur trying to go south. We pursued the enemy to the eastward. Severe fighting lasted from 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon until sundown. Upward the close, the enemy's fire weakened remarkably. His formation became confused, and then his ships scattered. The Russian cruisers Askold and Novik and several torpedo boat destroyers fled to the southward. Other of the enemy's ships retreated separately towards Port Arthur.

"We pursued them, and it appears that we inflicted considerable damage. We found life buoys and other articles belonging to the Russian battleship Czarevitch floating at sea. The Czarevitch probably was sunk. We have received no reports from the torpedo boats and the torpedo boat destroyers, which were engaged in the attack of the ships of the enemy. The Russian vessels, with the exception of the Askold, the Novik, the Czarevitch and the cruiser Pallada appear to have returned to Port Arthur. Our damage was slight. Our fighting power has not been impaired."

The casualties in the Japanese navy numbered 170.

At Kiaochou Bay.

Che Foo, Aug. 13.—The report that two Russian cruisers and one torpedo boat destroyer had entered the port of Tsingtau, Kiaochou Bay, last night (Thursday) is confirmed. The cruisers are the Askold and the Diana, not the Novik, as previously reported. The German cruisers Fuerst Bismarck and Thetis are preparing to leave Che Foo for that port. Two Russian torpedo boats are said to have been captured on the Chinese coast. It is believed that the attempt of the Russian ships at Port Arthur to join the Vladivostock squadron has been thwarted.

Some at Shanghai.

Washington, Aug. 13. — United States Consul-General Goodnow cabled the State Department yesterday from Shanghai that a Russian torpedo boat destroyer had just arrived there, and that four Russian cruisers were expected to-day.

Confirmed at Berlin.

Berlin, Aug. 13.—The Foreign Office confirms the arrival Thursday night at Tsingchou (at the entrance of Kiaochou Bay, the German concession), of the Russian battleship Czarevitch (not the protected cruiser Askold), the protected cruiser Novik and an unmanned torpedo boat. The Czarevitch is not seaworthy, having been damaged in Wednesday's fight.

Askold Badly Damaged.

Shanghai, Aug. 13.—The Russian protected cruiser Askold arrived at Woosung yesterday with her fifth funnel gone close to the deck, and the funnels riddled with shell holes, one gun on the port side dismounted and seven large shell holes above the water-line. One lieutenant and eleven men have been killed and fifty men wounded.

The Order to Leave.

Berlin, Aug. 13.—The Government's instructions to Captain Truppel, Governor of Kiaochou, which is in the jurisdiction of the Navy Department, although explicit in that the Novik and the torpedo boat must leave Tsingchou within the twenty-four hours' limit, do not, it is understood, provide for the possible refusal of the Russian vessels to leave that port. The Czarevitch being unseaworthy, must naturally remain in the harbor. The Foreign Office probably will take no further action until Admiral Von Prittwitz arrives at Kiaochou and reports on the situation.

Trouble Over Ryeshitelni.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 13.—Russia has formally protested to Japan, through France, against the action of the Japanese torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni at Che Foo and towing her away from that port, and that the protest has been communicated to the powers.

This prompt action is based upon the official report of the Russian Consul at Che Foo, which is very explicit on the subject of the dismantling of the Ryeshitelni, saying that not only were the breech blocks of her guns and all her small arms removed, but her engines were rendered useless. The vessel therefore was reduced to the condition of a hulk. The Consul also reported that the Japanese fired upon the Russian sailors while they were in the water, but that the majority of the crew survived. Capt. Shestakovsky was severely wounded.

It is stated here that both France and Germany are supporting at Pekin the protest of the Russian Government against the action of the Japanese torpedo boat destroyers in attacking the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni in the port of Che Foo.

Chinese Tell the Story.

Interviews with Admiral Sah, [illegible] Japanese at Saiyung, indicate that Admiral Sah informed the commander of the Japanese destroyer that the Ryeshitelni must be returned, as neutrality had been flagrantly violated.

Capt. Ching says that when the Japanese destroyers entered the harbor of Che Foo he sent an officer on board and assured Commander Fujimoto that the Ryeshitelni was disabled, and that his officers and crew had signed a parole. Later the admiral followed his messenger, and personally repeated his information at length, whereupon Commander Fujimoto said he had no designs on the Ryeshitelni.

Capt. Shestakovsky, feeling insecure, requested that his ammunition and one torpedo be returned to him or a China cruiser prepare to guard him. To this the Chinese officer on the lightship replied that he had been ordered merely to report developments. Accordingly, Captain Shestakovsky assembled his crew and addressed them, saying that an attack was possible. All the men of the Ryeshitelni slept that night on deck with life preservers under their heads.

Prepared to Blow Up.

When the lieutenant from one of the Japanese destroyers boarded the Ryeshitelni, at 3.30 o'clock in the morning, the crew which brought him, with rifles in their hands and bayonets fixed, followed their officer. Captain Shestakovsky protested against this, saying: "I am unable to resist, but this is a breach of neutrality and courtesy." Capt. Shestakovsky then secretly commanded one of his lieutenants to prepare gunpowder with which to blow up the Russian destroyer. To gain the time necessary to make ready for this step, Capt. Shestakovsky argued the point of international law with the Japanese officer, whose reply to all the contentions of the Russian was: "Come to the open sea and fight, or prepare to be towed out."

In the meantime the command was issued quietly to the Russian soldiers to resist the Japanese with their fists in the manner which would be shown, them by their captain.

Went Overboard Together.

Continuing his account of the occurrence, Capt. Shestakovsky said: "The Japanese officer told me to surrender and that as a prisoner my life would be spared. This insult so stung me that I struck the Japanese before I intended to. I was afraid that the explosive to blow up our vessel had [illegible] been prepared. My blow knocked the lieutenant overboard. In going he dragged me with him. I fell into the water. I clung to his throat and pummelled him until my hold was broken."

The crew of the Ryeshitelni meanwhile had been fighting with the Japanese sailors, who used their rifles and bayonets. The fighting men scurried over the deck and fell overboard in struggling pairs after the example accidentally set by the captain.

Shot Four Times.

Capt. Shestakovsky, seeing his men fighting on the deck of the destroyer, attempted to climb back on board and command them. He was shot at four times, and while in the water he received a deep wound in the right leg.

There were 51 officers and men on board the Ryeshitelni, and up to this hour (noon yesterday) 35 have been accounted for. A number of the Japanese attackers also are believed to have perished.

Being unable to regain the deck of his ship, Capt. Shestakovsky swam towards a nearby junk, from which he was driven away by blows from a boat hook. He remained in the water for 50 minutes swimming in spite of his wound, and was finally picked up by one of the three boats sent by the Haiyung.

The Japanese Version.

Che Foo, Aug. 13.—The Japanese claim that they sent in a gig to the Ryeshitelni under a flag of truce. A lieutenant and an interpreter made a demand that the Russians come outside and fight. The Russian captain replied that his ship had been disarmed, her engines disabled and that the whole matter was in the hands of the Chinese. The Japanese were asked to investigate the disarmament. The Japanese interpreter claims that he overheard the Russian captain give a hurried order in a low tone, the words not being distinguishable to the interpreter. Immediately following the Russian captain seized the Japanese lieutenant and jumped overboard with him. Meanwhile the Japanese destroyers had their searchlights turned on the Russian ship. From the deck of the lightship observers could see this act, which was followed by the shooting of rifles and sabre strokes and Russians jumping overboard.

The fighting had lasted ten minutes, when an explosion followed. The explosion blew away the main bridge but did not damage the hull. The Russians [illegible] this time were mostly [illegible] Japanese at

A NOTABLE CONVERT TO FAITH IN TRENT CANAL.

Mr. Gourley of Colchester Speaks of His Visit to the Lift Lock Opening.

Mr. Samuel Gourley, the fire-eating member for Colchester in the House of Commons who regards the mastication of the United States as a mere breakfast appetizer, sometimes gets down to talking something less truculent. During the discussion of the estimates in the House while the Trent Canal was under fire, so to speak, Mr. Gourley delivered himself on the subject and professed his conversion by his visit to the lift lock opening. His speech in section is as follows:—

I desire to say a word on this question. I think that a member from a province in which the canal is not situated will probably be in a better position to voice the sentiments of Canada than one directly interested in the work. I want to say here that it gives me the greatest possible pleasure to support the building of this waterway. Ever since I have entered this House I have endeavoured to inculcate the principle that we should not view any public question from a narrow provincial standpoint. I have gone so far as to say that we should be the last to advocate expenditure in our own particular province. That should be left to people outside, because the members themselves should regard all the provinces as one country, and should be interested in the development of every other portion of Canada as they are in the little spot in which they happen to live. I am now in a position to justify the stand I have taken since entering the House. When I received the invitation to visit Peterboro ough, I made up my mind to go and see the opening of this great public work. I went, I may say, in fear and trembling, because I believe that if there is a stain on the escutcheon of the Conservative party, it is the Trent Canal. .....You can imagine my feelings when I found it to be such a splendid work for the development of the country. I believe in the development of Canada in every part—not less in Ontario and British Columbia than in my own country. I got hold of the map—I love maps and study them always. And as I studied the map, it was borne in upon my mind that, whether this canal was to carry through freight or not, did not matter, for it is a splendid internal waterway, and will develop an immense country. I devoted a night or two to the study of the map; and I assure you, Mr. Chairman, my esteem for the province of Ontario was not heightened. We, in Nova Scotia are apt to believe that the people Ontario are the narrowest people you can find. And, as I say, my esteem for them was not heightened by the study of this map. Why you should had this canal developed eighty years ago. You have settled along the St. Lawrence and taken the little Peninsula of western Ontario, but you have left the rest of the country up to James Bay, almost as bare as when Cartier came. And you deserve no credit for what has been done. If confederation had not come, you would have been as backward as you were thirty-seven years ago. But, the other provinces have joined you, and have helped to develop your province. I was amazed, when I looked at the map to think that any man of integrity could have opposed the development of his province by this splendid waterway. Every man in Ontario should have joined to get that country developed thirty or forty years ago. But the great misfortune of Canada is that we talk and dispute, and decades go by and nothing is accomplished.

Do you know why they use yeast in white flour bread?

When white flour is wet it forms a compact mass, and if cooked thus, as in some kinds of pastry, and eaten, the digestive juices would only act on the outside of each morsel and the process of digestion is greatly prolonged. So yeast is used to make it porous. Yeast, however, consumes a portion of the gluten in the flour, which is already greatly deficient, being lost in the bolting.

A GOOD POLICY.

"Cobalt" is to be the name of one of the new towns on the Temiskaming Railway. It will, according to the decision of the Town Site Committee, be situated on Long Lake, about fifty-eight miles north of North Bay, and from present indications it will be one of the most important mining towns in Canada. It was in this locality, that the rich finds of nickel, cobalt, arsenic and silver were made last fall, and cobalt has been given the preference in the naming, because the cobalt ores found are among the richest and the finest known to scientists. An army of prospectors are at work in the district, and T. W. Gibson, Director of Mines, states that although the country is a difficult one to explore, enough new discoveries have been made this spring to demonstrate that the mineral bearing area is larger than was at first supposed. It is circumstances like these which emphasizes the wisdom of the Liberal Government of Ontario in opening up this northern region of the province with the first state-owned and state-built railway in the province. As a result of this railway, lands are open to settlement and are being occupied as fast as surveyed, adding to the wealth and importance of the province. Timber and other provincial resources are largely increased in value, and now we have important mineral resources made accessible and open to development.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Lord Dundonald, says the Farmers' Sun, bids us keep both hands on the Union Jack. Which hand, then, is to guide the plough? To judge from the language held in "military circles," and by some of our contemporaries, it might be supposed that our people were here for the purpose of fighting their neighbours, instead of being here as they are, for the purpose of earning their own bread.

Every day of fine weather lifts a corresponding load of anxiety off the hearts of western farmers. There are splendid prospects for a harvest of seventy million bushels of wheat in the Northwest — if the frost only holds off. The period of ripening of Northwest grains is a source of much anxiety. The wheat is now well headed out, and, as remarked, barring frost, will give a magnificent yield, both as to quantity and quality.

The Globe and Col. Dennison, of Toronto, are having a little tilt over the question of Canadian defence. The best defence Canada can have is a contented, thriving population, each doing his duty in building up the country. Of course a well trained and equipped militia is a good thing, but there is no necessity for burdening the country with an oppressive military establishment and making every man a soldier like the army crushed nations of Europe.

"When it is considered," says Sir William Van Horne, "that all the present development of the Northwest has come from the cultivation of an exceedingly small percentage of the cultivable land, the future development must be regarded as being almost without limit." Incidentally this may be regarded as an excellent argument in favour of the new National Transcontinental railway, which is likely to add enormously to the percentage of land that will be brought under cultivation and to the prosperity which Sir William says is reflected on the faces of everybody you meet out there.

It is interesting, says the Montreal Herald, to note that our Conservative friends, who four years ago were frantic about keeping Canada "a British country," despite the machinations of the awful Mr. Tarte, are this year rejoicing because they have Mr. Tarte's support in the same work. He has praised Mr. Borden, and they are delighted. He has said the Dundonald business will cost the Liberal party votes, and they are tickled to death. If he would now say that the Province of Quebec is against Laurier he could have the keys of the party's pantry.

T. W. Gibson, Director of Mines for Ontario, has received a report from New Caledonia, the French penal island, which is practically the only nickel producing territory in the world besides Ontario, and it shows that the industry is flagging there. While in 1902 the island produced 129,653 tons of nickel ore, it raised only 77,360 tons in 1903, which is only about half of the output of the Copper Cliff, Ont., mines. This province has a valuable asset in her incomparable nickel deposits. The deposit in New Caledonia is the only other body of nickel in the world of considerable size. The advantage which Ontario enjoys in the possession of her nickel mines can hardly be estimated and will be more fully realized as time progresses.

The Hutchings Medicine Co., Toronto, Ont.

This is Canada's year in many ways, as the past few years have been Canada's years. Canada has gathered in the amateur rowing championship of the world this year. This year a Canadian has brought home the highest prize in military marksmanship of the Empire, the King's prize. This year a Canadian yacht has retained its grip on the Sewanhaka cup, representing the triumph of fresh water racing. With all these little causes of congratulation, with a rampant prosperity prevailing from ocean to ocean, with a new transcontinental railway to bind the Confederation still closer with hopefulness in every walk of life, with good government and confidence in the future, Canada feels very comfortable.

The child is born, and its name is Alexis. At the time the lively little fellow came into the world, the heir to the crown of the largest empire in the world, he came into a world of trouble. If the new-born heir of Russia knew where he was at he could quote Scripture, "Man that is born of woman is of few days, full of trouble." The little heir comes into his patrimony and finds it in a very shaky condition, with the Russian army and navy on the run before the plucky little Japs, with discontent, on the verge of rebellion, seething through the empire at large, with the battle ship named Alexis going to the bottom, as the infant Alexis came to the top. Russia might have avoided all its present trouble if its rulers had been content to rule rationally — if it had had thought for its people, if it had refrained from crushing them with oppression, and had pursued honest and honourable courses in its relations with other powers.

The jingoes still continues harping upon the demagogic appeal "keep both hands on the Union Jack." The Union Jack is old enough and respected enough to stand alone. Such a cry need not appeal to Canadians, who, if the flag is in danger, will not hesitate to throw down the tools with which they are building a Canadian nation, long enough to brace up the Union Jack. He upholds the Union Jack best who does his duty in building up and consolidating the Empire making it strong, self-reliant and resourceful. The man who in his age did more than any other to strengthen and uphold the Union Jack had only one hand and that hand was too busy signalling the cry of duty to British tars to indulge in flag waving of the sentimental kind. He knew that if British seamen and soldiers did their duty on sea and shore, the flag was safe. Canadians who do their duty by their country, are, directly or indirectly doing their duty by the Empire at large—doing more effective work for Imperial consolidation than the demagogues who alternate imbecile prating of lip loyalty with appeals to race prejudice a danger of making the most perilous of national schisms.

Mr. Dyment Around Again.

Ottawa, Aug. 13.—A. E. Dyment, M.P., was out yesterday, after being for five weeks in St. Luke's Hospital. The member for Algoma was on his way to Gore Bay to address a meeting on July 12, when he caught a severe cold, which utterly prostrated him.

Comfort for Old People.

Much of the suffering of the aged is due to the kidney derangements rheumatism, lumbago, and bodily pains. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills bring comfort to the old folks by keeping the kidneys healthy and active and so eliminating from the body the poisonous waste matter which causes pains, aches and fatal disease.

Old Maids.

The true "old maid," like the true poet, is born, not made, old maidishness being a question of innate character rather than of incidental condition. There are old maids of every state and age and sex, says Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler, creatures who revel in fuss, and batten upon detail, and abide in the narrowest of narrow ruts. Do we not all know married women with large families who are, nevertheless, old maids to the backbone, just as we know adorable elderly spinsters who have the minds of girls and the hearts of mothers? And do we not also know numbers of the (so called) stronger sex whose absorption in trifles and avidity for gossip proclaim them old maids of the purest water?

Imagination Runs Riot.

"But," the publisher complained, "the chief characters in your story are a man and a woman who go on making love to each other for years and years after they are married."

"Well," the young novelist replied, "you must remember this is a work of fiction."

THE THIBETAN JERUSALEM.

Lhassa, into which Col. Younghusband's expedition has entered, has long been known as the Forbidden City of Thibet, and the centre of Buddhism, the Dalai Lama, now ruler of the country having there his sacred abode. Other Lamas have been merely nominal rulers, a junta of priests governing and representing His Sublimity as a reincarnation of the Grand Buddha. About a century ago Thomas Manning, an English physician, attached to a Chinese General, spent several months in Lhassa. Some years ago Chandra Das, an agent of the Indian Government, succeeded in reaching the Buddhist sacred city and remained there about two weeks, disguised as a Lama. A Japanese priest, Ekai Kawaguchi, in the role of Chinese physician, also penetrated to the capital in 1900 and stayed there two years and two months, when his secret leaked out and he had to escape secretly to save his life. Ekai says the Tse Potala Palace is a wonder of richness. It is an imposing mass of buildings on the hill to the northwest of the city and commands a view of the great plain surrounded by mountains, on which cluster innumerable temples and monasteries. Potala is the monastery which is the winter residence of the Dalai Lama and corresponds to the Vatican.

While Potala is the headquarters of the real supreme power of the Buddhist pontiff, there is another monastery, that of Tachi-Slonpo, about one hundred and eighty-seven miles to the west of Lhassa, of which the head is the Pantchen Lama, who is held in even higher veneration than the Dalai Lama, being considered the reincarnation of the Deity as the Father, while the Dalai Lama is the reincarnation of the Son.

The present Dalai Lama is the first of many Lamas to reach manhood. Most of his predecessors for a century or two have died in infancy, it being the Buddhist belief that they were incarnated. As soon as they were able to notice things they were watched to see if they recognized the surroundings of their previous existence; and they generally did—so it was said. The present Lama is twenty-eight years of age and has assumed the actual prerogatives of his office in the way of personal government. He is described as having a fine, intelligent countenance. He wears the yellow Tartar hood, or priest's cowl, and robes of yellow silk and red wool, with many under robes of parti-coloured silks. He uses a rosary of beads from the fruit of the pipul, or bo tree.

The object of shutting Lhassa off from the world has been to preserve the fountain of Buddhism, and so great a horror have the Thibetans of foreign invasion of its sacred precints that the envoys begged Col. Younghusband not to enter lest the death of the Lama might follow the profanation.

The trouble with Great Britain dates from 1890, when the Thibetans took umbrage at the British annexation of Sikkhim, in the Himalayas, and violated their agreements with Great Britain. The Thibetans have since striven to achieve independence of China, and the Amban, the Chinese representative at Lhassa, has lost influence. At Col. Younghusband's approach, the Dalai Lama fled, and negotiations between Col. Younghusband and the Amban are now going on. While Britain will give every consideration to the Thibetans' religious scruples, she will insist on having assurances that Thibet will carry out her agreements and deal fairly with her people.

DISGUISED CATARRH

A Stealthy, Insidious, Weakening Enemy to Women—Many Thousand Women Suffer Needlessly From This Cause.

There are a multitude of women, especially housewives, and all other women obliged to be on their feet constantly, who are wretched beyond description, simply because their strength and vitality is sapped away by catarrhal discharges from the pelvic organs. These women get up in the morning tired, drag themselves through their daily duties tired, only to go to bed at night as tired as before.

Mrs. Eva Barthe, 133 East 12th Street, N. Y. City, N. Y., writes:—"I suffered for three years with what is generally known as leucorrhea, in connection with ulceration of the womb. The doctors advocated an operation which I dreaded very much, and strongly objected to go under it. Reading of the value of Peruna, I thought it best to give this well-known remedy a trial, so I bought three bottles of it at once. Now I am a changed woman. Peruna cured me; it took nine bottles, but I felt so much improved I kept taking it, as I dreaded an operation so much. I am to-day in perfect health, and have not felt so well for fifteen years."—Mrs. Eva Barthe.

MRS. EVA BARTHE.

MISS LOUISE MAHON.

MRS. KATE MANN.

MRS. ANNA MARTIN.

Miss Louise Mahon, 3 Glen Baillie Street, Toronto, Ont. Can., Secretary of the King's Daughters and Secretary of Lady Macdonald, writes:—"If all women knew of the benefits to be derived from taking Peruna we would have many happier and more healthful women. My health has never been too robust, and I am easily fatigued and can not stand much. About a year ago I was so run down that I had to take to my bed, and became weaker and weaker. A friend advised me to try Peruna, and I have great reason to be grateful, for in two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was perfectly well, and I now find that my health is much more robust than formerly, so that I take Peruna once or twice a month and keep well."—Louise Mahon

Peruna is such a perfect specific for each case that when patients have once used it they can never be induced to quit it until they are permantly cured. It begins to relieve the disagreeable symptoms at once. The backache ceases, the trembling knees are strengthened, the appetite restored, the digestion made perfect, the dull headache is stopped and the weakening drains are gradually cured. These results certainly follow a course of treatment with Peruna.

Barbara Alberty, corner Seventh and Walnut streets, Appleton, Wis., writes as follows in regard to Peruna:

"For years I have suffered with backache and severe pains in the side. I doctored so much that I became discouraged. A school friend told me how very much Peruna had benefited her and I sent out for a bottle, which did more to relieve me than all the other medicine I have ever taken. I used it faithfully for two weeks and it completely cured me. I have not had any pains since, anywhere, but feel like a new woman. I am truly thankful for what Peruna has done for me."—Barbara Alberty.

Mrs. Kate Mann, 266 Bathurst Street, Toronto, Ont. Can., Vice President of the Ladies Aid Society, writes:—"I am pleased to give praise to Peruna for the blessed relief I found through its use. I suffered for years with backache and dragging down pains and often had to go to bed and stay there when I was so busy that I could ill be spared. It was therefore a simple godsend to me when Peruna was brought to my notice. Every drop seemed to give me new life, and every dose made me feel much better, and I promised myself that if I found that it cured me I would advocate it so that other suffering women should know of it. I have been in perfect health for one year, I enjoy work and pleasure because in such fine health, and no trouble seems too heavy to bear when you are in good health. Peruna has simply been a household blessing, and I never will be without it again."—Mrs. Kate Mann.

Mrs. Anna Martin, 47 Hoyt St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:—"Peruna did so much for me that I feel it my duty to recommend it to others who may be similarly afflicted. About a year ago my health was completely broken down, had headache, dizziness and irregularities, and life seemed dark indeed. I had read Peruna in our home as a tonic, and for colds and catarrh, and I decided to try it for my trouble. In less than three months I became regular, my pains had entirely disappeared, and I am now perfectly well."—Mrs. Anna Martin.

Mrs. Wm. Hetrick, Kennard, Washington county, Neb., writes:

"I am fifty-six years old and have not felt well since the Change of Life began ten years ago. I was in misery somewhere most of the time. My back was very weak, and my flesh so tender it hurt me to lean against the back of a chair. I had pain under my shoulder-blades, in the small of my back and hips. I sometimes wished myself out of this world. Had hot and cold spells, dizziness and trembling of the limbs, and was losing flesh all the time. After following your directions and taking Peruna, I now feel like a different person."—Mrs. Wm. Hetrick.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Peruna can be purchased for $1 per bottle at all first class drug stores.

BOILERS EXPLODED

Western Wing of Kinleith Paper Mills Only a Heap of Ruins.

MEN'' MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

St. Catharines Men Were Working Right Under Arch Leading From the Main Building to the Demolished Wing—Wm. Sneath and Edward Hudson Hurt—What Might Have Been.

St. Catharines, Aug. 13.—About 6.30 last evening, just after the members of the night gang had got well started to work, the two immense boilers in the Kinleith Paper Mills situated on the old Welland Canal in the western part of the city, suddenly blew up. The boilers were used for boiling rags into pulp.

The explosion entirely demolished the western wing of the mills, in which the boilers were situated, three storeys in height, scattering bricks and timber in all directions. A few minutes later there was only a heap of ruins sticking out of the canal to mark the spot.

Escape Miraculous.

How the four men who were working in the vicinity of the boiler escaped with their lives is a question unanswerable. They were working right under the arch leading from the main building to the wing which was demolished. The men were Edward Hudson, William Sneath, Hugh Doherty and John Lawrence.

Hudson and Sneath were nearest to the boilers, and while Hudson was struck on the head by falling pieces of board and got some bad cuts, Sneath was only scratched a little. Doherty and Lawrence were untouched. The men were blinded by the escaping steam. Doherty had just changed his clothes beside the boilers, and he had left his pay envelope, containing two weeks' pay, in his pocket. He lost everything.

Boilers Ran Dry.

The explosion was probably caused by the boilers running dry. The loss to the paper mills will be heavy, though the amount is not yet known.

After members of the Kinleith Company had taken a look over the ruins, they concluded that the force of the explosion had damaged the main building also, but to what extent they were unable to say. It is probable that one boiler in exploding knocked the other one out into the canal.

There is no trace of either boiler anywhere. The rag boilers which are wrecked were of only twenty-five or thirty pounds capacity and were fed with steam from other boilers in another part of the mills altogether, which were of about 125 pounds capacity. The explosion was probably caused by the regulator on the boilers failing to work properly.

What Might Have Been.

Had the explosion occurred a few minutes sooner, fifteen or twenty men would undoubtedly have been blown to pieces, as most of the night shift were in the wing where the boilers are, changing their clothes, just shortly before, having just come to work.

There is a large hole knocked in the rear of the main building facing the canal, which is unaccounted for.

TRAM RAN AWAY.

Buried in Pulp Wood—Station Is Smashed —Track Plowed Up.

Quebec, Aug. 13.—A runaway freight train on the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway early yesterday morning, ended in a disastrous wreck at Hedleyville, on the north side of the River St. Charles, half a mile from Quebec. The loss to the company is estimated at $40,000.

A lumber freight train, consisting of an engine, thirty heavily loaded box cars, and the conductor's van run away at Loretto, nine miles from this city.

The engineer realized the condition of things, whistled down brakes. This was accordingly done, but it was of no avail.

On nearing Hedleyville the engineer and fireman realized that if they remained at their posts it meant certain death, and finally jumped. They were followed by the brakeman, who sprung from the roof of the box cars to the ground. The engineer, named Boucher, was afterwards picked up with one of his legs fractured and otherwise badly injured. The fireman escaped, as also did the brakeman.

The runaway train kept on its career until it reached within two hundred feet of the Hedleyville station, when the engine struck the switch connection and forced the rails apart, and then the big locomotive commenced to plough its way through the ties and earth. The tender broke its couplings and moved off the track. It was followed by the freight cars, which ploughed their way into the station. The premises were overturned and smashed into kindling wood. Twenty-six cars piled up on top of one another, making matchwood of the cars and scattering pulpwood in every direction. The pile of wrecked cars was fully twenty-five to thirty feet high.

Girl's Body Found.

Toronto, Aug. 13.—While the inquest on the Coatsworth Cut infant was in progress last night at the morgue, the patrol wagon drove up with another body. It was found floating in the bay at the foot of Bay street by P. S. Irving, and P. C. Dynes. It was identified as that of Isabella Snow. The deceased was 18 years of age, and lived with her parents at 204 Elizabeth street. The young woman has not been in good health, and was subject to fits.

Girls Saved; Man Lost.

Ottawa, Aug. 13.—William Lloyd, aged 21, was drowned in the Gatineau River, near this city, yesterday afternoon. He was out boating with two young ladies, when their craft upset. Lloyd succeeded in placing his companions on the overturned boat, from which perilous position they were rescued with difficulty. He, however, was swept down to death over the rapids.

ANAEMIA—POOR BLOOD.

Headaches, Dizziness, Heart Palpitation and Consumption Follows.

Anaemia — watery blood — is a treacherous trouble. It steals insidiously from slight symptoms to dangerous disease. The thin watery blood shows itself at first in pale lips, wan face, breathlessness, heart palpitation, lost appetite. If the trouble is not checked and cured, consumption follows; coughing, spitting, clammy night sweats, a total breakdown and death. What the anaemic sufferer needs is more blood —more strength. And there is nothing in the whole world will give new blood and new strength so surely and so speedily as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose helps to send new, rich, red blood coursing through the system, bringing strength to weak lungs and all parts of the body. Thousands testify to the truth of these statements, among them Miss Enerine Vilandre, St. Germain, Que., who says:—"While attending school my health began to give way. The trouble came on gradually and the doctor who attended me said it was due to overstudy and that a rest would put me right. But instead of getting better I grew weaker. I suffered from headaches and dizziness, and at night I did not sleep well. I was troubled with pains in the back, my appetite left me and I grew pale as a corpse. Finally I became so weak I was forced to remain in bed. As the doctor did not help me any, I asked my father to get me Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before I had used two boxes there was an improvement, and when I had taken a half dozen boxes I was again in perfect health. I believe all weak girls will find new health if they will take the pills."

Anaemia, indigestion, heart trouble, rheumatism, kidney trouble, and the special ailments of women are all due to poor blood, and are all cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You can get these pills from any medicine dealers, or by mail post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

TAXATION OF RAILWAYS.

Ontario Railway Commissioners Have Reached the Quaker City.

Philadelphia, Aug. 13.—How to equalize taxes on railroads is the question which the Commission of the Ontario Government has been investigating in this country for a month, spending yesterday in Philadelphia. H. J. Pettypiece, chairman of the Commission, stated that Canada was getting no taxes at all out of a great deal of railroad property. Their tax was simply based on the same value as the land through which the roads run.

They have been interviewing railroad commissioners in nearly all the United States and find many systems. Michigan taxes on the whole value of the railroad property; Connecticut takes one per cent. of the capital; Minnesota takes three per cent. of gross earnings; Pennsylvania combines three systems, but the average of all the States amounts to $154 a mile on 200,000 miles of railroad. In Canada it is about $50. In Massachusetts it is $1,100 a mile.

The Commissioners are meeting railroad tax experts as well as state officials wherever they go. They will next go to Baltimore, then to Washington, to Albany and home. The scope of their investigation takes in telegraph, telephone, express and like business.

Wm. Taggart's Kidney Disease Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Well-known Tilbury East Farmer Tells the Tilbury News how Easily he got Rid of His Trouble.

Tilbury, Ont., August 12th. (Special.) — Mr. William Taggart, a well-known and highly respected farmer of Tilbury East, tells of this remarkable cure of long-standing Kidney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"For about four or five years," says Mr. Taggart, "I was a sufferer from kidney trouble, and the scores of medicines I used gave me no relief. I was forced to get up three or four times each night and my life was simply unbearable.

"At last I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and I got relief from the start. After using two boxes I was completely cured and you can bet I was a happy man. I cannot speak too highly of Dodd's Kidney Pills."

All urinary complaints are caused by diseased kidneys Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure the Kidneys and therefore always cure urinary complaints.

Taken With Cramps.

Wm. Kirmse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicines.—Elkader, Iowa, Argus.

This remedy never fails. Keep it in your home, it may save life. For sale by all druggists.

TO BE THE GOVERNOR

Title of Administrator of the Hudson Bay District.

TO BE GIVEN TO MAJ. MOODIE

The New Official's Duties—Police Posts to Be Established in Fox Land, Baffin's Land and Other Points—Protection of Musk Oxen—Dog Mail Trains —Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Vacation.

Ottawa, Aug. 13.—Major Moodie will probably be given the title of Governor or Administrator of the Hudson's Bay district. It is intended to establish a police post in Fox Land, Baffin's Land and other points. A steamer will be chartered immediately to take 800 tons of coal to Fullerton, where the police headquarters are to be located.

Protective Proclamation.

Before leaving Hudson's Bay Major Moodie issued a proclamation prohibiting the exportation of musk oxen. American and Scotch sealers have been carrying off enormous quantities of musk oxen. One vessel took off 800 oxen and another 200 oxen. The sealers hire the natives to hunt the oxen and pay them in supplies. A musk head is worth $50, and the hide is also valuable.

Dog Train Mail Route.

During the winter time Major Moodie has promised to maintain communication between Fullerton and Churchill be means of dog trains. It will then be possible to get mails in and out from Hudson's Bay overland. Major Moodie left for the Northwest Thursday night to spend a few days with his family. When he returns to Hudson's Bay his wife will accompany him.

The Premier's Vacation.

The Prime Minister returned from Montreal yesterday morning. A Cabinet Council was held yesterday, at which all the Ministers but Sir Richard Cartwright and Sir Frederick Borden were present. Sir Wilfrid will leave about the middle of next week for Bonaventure county on a vacation.

The Cabinet met again in the afternoon, but it was given out that only routine business was transacted.

New Hope—New Courage.

Persons whose nerves are affected get blue and discouraged, are easily irritated and annoyed and also learn to look on the dark side. The restorative influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, soon shows itself on the feelings. It gives new hope and courage, new energy and confidence. By creating nerve force it affords new vigour and vitality for both and body.

FATHER OF A BOY.

Czar of All the Russias Mended and Comforted By the Birth of An Heir to the Throne.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 13.—A son and heir to the Russian throne has been born. The Empress and the child are doing well. The birth occurred at 12.30 p.m. yesterday. The child will be christened Alexis.

The birth so greatly wished for, that of an heir to the Russian crown, occurred in the Alexandra Villa, one of a group of four small palaces in a secluded corner of the magnificent Peterhof Park. In one of these buildings the Empress has been living for weeks. The other three are occupied by members of the Imperial family, gathered there in expectation of yesterday's event.

The birth of the heir to the throne was attended by all the ceremonial ordained by Imperial tradition. In accordance with the Russian law there were present, besides the Emperor, Baron Frederick, the master of the ceremonies, and Prince Dolgorouky, the grand marshal of the court, Dr. Rott, the Emperor's family physician, was the accoucheur, and Dr. Hiruch was the surgeon in attendance.

Dr. Rott personally announced the birth of the heir to the awaiting Imperial family. A formal announcement will be published in The Official Messenger. An Imperial salute of 101 guns was subsequently fired, first from Peterhof, and it was then repeated by all the forts around St. Petersburg.

The christening of the heir will occur in a fortnight. It will be a ceremony of the most elaborate sort. In accordance with Russian Imperial custom it will be performed in the Imperial chapel of the Peterhof Palace.

Both Making Progress.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 13.—(4 a.m.) —This morning the Empress and the heir to the throne are both making satisfactory progress.

An Imperial manifesto invites all Russian subjects to offer their prayers for the prosperity of the heir to the throne. In receiving congratulations yesterday, the Emperor in a brief reply said:

"I am happier at the birth of a son and heir than at a victory of my troops, for now I face the future calmly and without alarm, knowing by this sign that the war will be brought to a happy conclusion."

May Mean a Constitution.

Berlin, Aug. 13.—The Kleine Journal says it expects that the birth of an heir to the Russian throne will be followed in a few days by the proclamation of a constitution, claiming to have been informed that Emperor Nicholas vowed he would give a constitution to Russia if the Empress gave birth to a son.

Britain Protests.

Tangier, Aug. 13.—Hamet Jaiya, principal secretary to El Menebhi, the Moroccan Minister of War, has been arrested and imprisoned here and his goods confiscated under the orders of the Sultan. Jaiya is a British subject, and the European residents are indignant at his arrest. The British Legation has strongly protested to the Moroccan Government, but so far the protest has been entirely ignored.

MONUMENTS OF SHAME.

Mounds Erected to Men Who Were Liars While on Earth.

While other nations build monuments to the memory of men who have done great and noble deeds, the Dyaks heap up a pile of the branches of trees in memory of the man who has uttered a great lie, so that future generations may know of his wickedness and take warning from it.

The persons deceived start the tugong bula by heaping up a large number of branches in some conspicuous spot by the side of the main road. Every passerby contributes to it and at the same time curses the man in memory of whom it is.

The Dyaks consider the adding to any tugong bula they may pass a sacred duty, the omission of which will meet with supernatural punishment, and so, however pressed for time a Dyak may be, he stops to throw on the pile some branches or twigs.

This custom dates from very ancient times. It is interesting to notice that though the ethics of the Dyaks, even at the present day, do not agree in many points with the moral code of other and more advanced races, still from the earliest ages the Dyaks seem to have agreed in considering a lie a most disgraceful crime and a liar a man who deserves the curses not only of his own generation, but also of people yet unborn.

A few small branches, a few dry twigs and leaves—that is what the tugong bula is at first. But day by day it increases in size. Every passerby adds something to it, and in a few years' time it becomes a large and imposing monument raised to the memory of one who was a liar.

It has often been remarked by Dyaks that any other punishment would, if a man had his choice, be much preferred to having a tugong bula put up in his memory. Other punishments are soon forgotten, but a tugong bula remains as a testimony to a man's untruthfulness for succeeding generations to witness and is a standing disgrace to his children's children.

Believing, as the Dyaks do, in the efficacy of curses—a curse among them being a fineable offense—it is easy to understand how a Dyak would dread the accumulation of curses which would necessarily accompany the formation of a tugong bula.—Straits Settlements Budget.

An Encouraging Message

I have a message of hope and good cheer, of encouragement and inspiration to every suffering woman. I have endured the torture due to female troubles and the consequent despondency and mental agony almost to the point of despair, and I have been restored from this condition to a state of vigorous health, and to the happy, exhilerating frame of mind which accompanies physical well-being. This change has been brought about wholly by the use of ORANGE LILY.

In addition, I have had the privilege and pleasure of inducing multitudes of other suffering women to give ORANGE LILY a trial, and have received thousands of enthusiastic acknowledgements of the blessings it has brought to them. The following is a sample:

Truro, N. S., April 4, 1904.

Dear Mrs. Currah,—Your very kind letter was received yesterday. In reply to your question about my health, I am thankful to say that I am very well. As I have never given you a statement of my case you may be interested in it.

For several years I have suffered untold agony. This suffering was continuous, but I would have violent attacks every few weeks, each attack lasting several days. The first Sunday in November, I felt the pain increasing and so did not go to prayers. The rest of the family did go and soon after the forcing down pains seized me and I had to remain on the floor until their return. I was in great pain all night, and was very sick for a whole week.

Then Mrs. L. came to see me and told me of your wonderful medicine. I got my husband to send for it right away, as I was too sick to write myself. (My doctor could do nothing for me.) I have used 5 boxes of ORANGE LILY, have had three months of good rest, and am now well, never better in my life. I have not had the old pains since. I often ask my husband if it is myself that is going around and doing my own work. I can scarcely believe it. It brings tears of joy to my eyes. I could shout it to all the world. I cannot speak enough in its praise.

Your friend, MRS. E. H. D.

Receiving as I do, dozens of such reports each day, I felt impelled to make known to my suffering sisters the merits of ORANGE LILY. It differs from the other so-called remedies in that it is not taken internally. It is a strictly local treatment, and is applied directly to the affected organs. Its curative elements are absorbed into the congested tissues, expelling the stagnant foreign matter which has been irritating the membrane and oppressing the nerves, and a growing feeling of physical and mental relief is noticeable almost from the start. It is a positive, scientific remedy, and even if you use no more than the Free trial Treatment you will be very materially benefitted.

FREE TRIAL OFFER.

I want every reader of this who suffers in any way from painful monthly periods, irregularities leucorrhoea, inflammation or congestion of the womb, pains in the back, etc., to send me their addresses, and I will forward at once, without charge, 10 days' treatment. If your case is not far advanced it may entirely cure you, and in any event it will do you much good. I am so earnest in making this statement, and so positive that it is true, that I trust every sufferer who reads this notice will take advantage of my offer and get cured at home, without a doctor's bill.

MRS. F. C. CURRAH, WINDSOR, ONT.

Sons of England's New Trip.

The Sons of England have gallantly joined hands with the Daughters of England in a joint excursion on Civic Holiday, August 18th to Lindsay, Sturgeon Point and Bobcaygeon. Special arrangements have been entered into with the G.T.R. for an early train to leave Peterborough at 8.25 a.m., so as to connect in Lindsay with the fine steamer Esturion for Sturgeon Point and Bobcaygeon. The tickets are only a dollar for adults and 50c. for children. ANOTHER DISTRESSING DROWNING ACCIDENT

Miss Eliza Grace Bickell, of Lakefield, Met Her Death Yesterday.

But for Timely Assistance of Mr. R. B. Rogers Four Lives Would Have Been Lost—A Heavily Laden Canoe Sunk.

Another very sad drowning accident occurred in the Stony Lake waters last night, and the victim, as in the case of the former accident, was a young person, Miss Eliza Grace Bickell, the daughter of Mr. George Bickell, a retired farmer of Lakefield, a young lady just entering into full womanhood, nineteen years of age, met her death in the merciless waters of Clear Lake.

The accident, and its direful consequences, has cast a gloom over the entire community in which the deceased was a general favourite, and in which her bright personality and engaging manners made her the acknowledged leader in her circle of society.

The circumstances surrounding the death of this young lady are particularly sad. The deceased had been for some days at Young's Point, as the guest of her friend, Miss Hockerday, and last evening two young men from Lakefield, who had been camping on the shores of Clear Lake, Ernest Balsdon and Roy Kidd, paddled down to Lakefield, and took the two young ladies out for a sail on the calm waters of the lake. All day the water had been delightfully calm, but during the evening a brisk breeze suddenly sprang up, and the canoe, heavily laden as it was with the four in it, shipped so much water with the high sea prevailing, that it sank carrying with it into the water the four occupants.

The young men are both excellent swimmers, and when they were thrown into the water their first thought was of the ladies. Mr. Kidd assisted Miss Hoskerday, and Mr. Balsdon went after Miss Bickell, who apparently had gone down with the canoe. He had to dive three times for her, and when at last he succeeded in reaching the unfortunate young lady he was almost exhausted. However, with all his strength he manfully struggled on, and succeeded in keeping himself and his companion afloat, until Mr. R. B. Rogers, with his son Harry, opposite whose cottage the accident occurred, and who as soon as they saw the trouble immediately put out to their rescue in a punt, had reached them. All four were eventually brought to shore, where it was found that in the case of Miss Bickell life had become extinct, and the others were unconscious, and had not Mr. Rogers and his son acted with great promptitude and presence of mind, the result would doubtless have been a quadruple tragedy. The hard struggle which the young men had engaged in had completely exhausted them, particularly in young Balsdon's case, and in fact the whole four had been down twice, and had the rescuers been 15 seconds later in reaching them the whole party would have gone down to death. Mr. Rogers had to reach down into the water for Miss Bickell and Balsdon, who to the last still held the young lady up as well as he could.

When the four unfortunates had been gotten into the punt, every effort was made to resuscitate Miss Bickell, but from the first she showed no signs of life, and it was seen that she had been too long in the water. The other young lady though thoroughly exhausted still had life and it was only a short time before she was all right. The young men were also brought around, although Balsdon was so completely worn out by his struggle to save Miss Bickell that it was a long time before he recovered consciousness. Mr. Rogers conveyed the party with Miss Bickell's body to Lakefield last night, arriving there about 11 o'clock, when the sad intelligence was conveyed to the parents and relatives of the deceased.

Mr. Rogers, when seen this morning, stated that it was impossible for a canoe laden as that was, with four persons, to live in the water, as rough as it was last night, and it never should have been attempted. A canoe is the safest boat to ride in if it is properly understood, and not loaded too heavily.

The deceased young lady was the eldest daughter of Mr. Geo. Bickell, who with the deceased's mother, two brothers, Charles, of Lakefield, and William, on the homestead, and one sister, Edith, at home, survive her.

The body was taken charge of by Mr. D. Belleghem, of Peterborough, and the funeral will take place on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family residence, Smith street, Lakefield, to the Lakefield Cemetery.

HANDSOME MONUMENT AT CAMPBELLFORD.

In Memory of the Late Father McCloskey.

The Campbellford Despatch says of the anniversary of the death of Father McCosky:—

The first anniversary of the death of Father McCloskey, the late lamented pastor of St. Mary's church, was duly observed by the celebration of a solemn Requiem Mass by the Rev. Father Whibbs, P.P. A large congregation attended, and included Mrs. McCloskey, Miss McCloskey and Mr. Frank McCloskey, of Chesterville, and mother, sister and brother, respectively of the deceased.

The relatives have placed a handsome memorial stone at the head of the grave. It was manufactured by Courpalin Bros., Peterborough, and is a tablet-shaped monument of a new and very appropriate design. The central block contains the following inscription:—"In memory of Rev. W. J. McCloskey, who died August 10th, 1903, in the nineteenth year of his priesthood, and the 47th year of his age. He was pastor of Campbellford parish for 8 years. R. I. P." On the upper part is carved a chalice, and on the corners, shamrocks. The monument is of granite and is from the Canadian quarries at Iberville, Quebec. It is cut and polished and shows to advantage the beauty of the granite in three states: in the rough, after the hammer, and the finished polish. It is enclosed by railings with granite corner posts. There is also a marble tablet for the interior of the church wall of a very neat design with about the same inscription.

CHURCH ATTENDANCE AND RAINY WEATHER.

Statistics Regarding Church Attendance Last Sunday Night.

A gentleman of statistical turn of mind has been compiling figures of the congregations at the several churches last Sunday evening, his researches covering nine churches. The actual number by count present ranged from 30 the lowest to 120 the highest, the average being 50. The average membership of the churches dealt with is 400. We do not seem to be a very violently inclined church going people. But it must be remembered that last Sunday night, just about time to start for church the rain came down in torrents, dampening the ardour of prospective worshippers, who seemed to prefer a fire risk to the certainty of being deluged by water.

WHEN IN TROUBLE AFTER EATING.

Postmaster Jancouski Always Finds Relief in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—They Cure as Well as Relieve.

When you get that uncomfortable feeling after eating don't you just long for something to give you relief? Mr. R. Jancouski, Postmaster at Fesserton, Ont., will tell you what will just exactly fit your case. Mr. Jancouski says:—

"I have given Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets a fair trial and can with every confidence recommend them. I generally use only one-half Tablet after eating and it always gives me relief."

But Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets not only relieve—they cure and cure permanently. WILL PETERBOROUGH GET HASTINGS TANNERY?

Some of the Advantages which this Town Can Offer to the Industry.

HASTINGS' LIVE INDUSTRIES

Important Invention of Mr. W. P. Plant—The Tanning Industry Described—Other Industrial News.

Hastings, August 13 — (Special staff correspondence.) — Recognizing the importance, from the standpoint of Peterborough of the announcement made in yesterday's issue of the Examiner, that there was a possibility of a new industry coming to Peterborough, viz., the Hastings tannery, a representative of the Examiner was sent to the above mentioned town to learn at first hand whether there was any truth in the report.

The town of Peterborough offers advantages to such a varied list of industries, that it was thought the tanning industry might easily be one which the facilities enjoyed by the town might attract, and the result of this investigation fully bears out this supposition.

The Hastings Tannery.

The tannery here is owned by Messrs. John Welsh & Company, and is apparently prospering in proportion to all the industries of the Dominion. Yesterday, when the newspaper man called at the office of the tannery, the senior member of the firm, Mr. John Welsh, was out of town, having taken a trip with Mr. Lang, another tannery man, from Berlin, who has been in Hastings during the last week, as a guest of Mr. Welsh, and whose presence here has doubtless given rise to the report that there was to be a change in the local concern.

Mr. Harry Quigley, the junior member of the firm, was in the office, and willingly accorded the Examiner an interview. In reply to the question of the removal of the plant to Peterborough, Mr. Quigley said that such was not the present intention of the company, although he did not say that such a move might not be made, eventually, and from the conversation which followed, it was learned that the report as published in yesterday's Examiner, was not wholly foundationless, for, it appears, the Sugar Company's building had been considered as a probable future home for the Welsh & Company's tannery, and Mr. Quigley stated that in a great many ways Peterborough would make a much better location for the business than Hastings, although it is easy to believe that the removal of the industry from this town would be a very serious blow to its prosperity. The tannery is by all odds the largest employer of labour in the town, having on its staff, as was mentioned yesterday, about sixty men and boys, the latter being in the minority, consequently the removal of that number of men would prove a serious loss to the town, which now has about 900 inhabitants.

Peterborough's Advantages.

Mr. Quigley stated that there was one particular in which, in his estimation, Hastings offered advantages superior to those of Peterborough to his company, and that was in the matter of labour. He said that since living in Hastings was very cheap, wages were not as high, although, as a matter of fact, another large employer of labour in the same town stated later that he found that he had to pay his men just as much as manufacturers in Peterborough or elsewhere paid. Mr. Quigley's evidence on this point, however, may have been correct, since in the other case, skilled labour was referred to, while in the tannery comparatively little skilled labour is required, and for this work good men can be procured for $7 per week, which, with houses renting for $4 and $5 per month, is not so bad.

But, while this one point possibly may have been conceded, Mr. Quigley estimated that in numerous other ways Peterborough offered decided advantages over Hastings for the location of the tannery, and the impression certainly was gained, although such a statement was not made, that it was not altogether improbable that the Examiner was uttering a prophecy, which would surprise few, and Mr Quigley least of all, if it came true.

Excellent Shipping Facilities.

One of the great advantages offered by Peterborough was in the excellent shipping facilities, which were certainly far superior to those at present enjoyed in Hastings. With the two railway lines, shipping could be done much more cheaply here. At present the company buys a large quantity of hides from points on the line of the C. P. R. east of Peterborough, and in buying from these places the hides are first shipped to Norwood, and teamed over to Hastings, a distance of six miles, or, if there is a car-load, the car is sent to Peterborough and transferred to the G.T.R. for shipment to Hastings. Also in shipping the same disadvantage is experienced. The company ships a large quantity of leather to the North-west, all of which has to be teamed to Norwood, and this is an item of no small expense, and one which the company would gladly get rid of.

Peterborough's Cheap Power.

The power proposition, too, is one which Peterborough offers some strong inducements to such a concern. At present the company has two boilers of 90 horse power capacity each, with a horizontal engine of 100 horse power energy. One boiler would be required in any case, for the tanning operations require a certain quantity of hot water at various stages, and almost enough refuse is obtained to supply fuel for this, but in the case of the second boiler, which is required, coal has to be bought, and coal in Hastings is coal. It is, it is stated, considerably higher in price than the same commodity in Peterborough, and the proprietors of this tannery, who are men desirous of operating their business as economically as possible, look with longing eyes to Peterborough's $12 per year electric power, and they would gladly dismantle the tall brick chimney, which, while it points strangers to the largest industry in Hastings, burns up a good pile of elegant money in a year, nearly all of which might be saved if electric power could be used.

The Bark Supply.

Then, too, the bark, of which considerable quantities are used in the tanning operations, could be procured more cheaply in Peterborough than in Hastings. Up until recently the company has obtained the greater part of the bark used from along line of the Central Ontario Railway, from where it is shipped by rail to Hastings, but recently an experiment was made by having bark shipped from Stony Lake to Hastings by the Trent Canal, and Mr. Quigley is authority for the statement that the experience was so satisfactory, that in future practically all of the bark they use will be shipped by that route. The shipment of bark referred to above was that mentioned a few days ago as the first freight cargo to go over the Lift Lock, and Hastings has the distinction of having been the objective point of that cargo. This was but a small shipment, but in future scows carrying 80 to 100 cords will be used, the advantages of which will be recognized when it is learned that 15 to 20 cords constitutes a car-load.

Thus it will be seen that in a number of particulars, the town of Peterborough offers advantages over Hastings, and judging by the conversation yesterday, it would not be a great surprise if an announcement were made that the tannery of John Welsh and Company, were about to remove to Peterborough.

Importance of the Industry.

This industry is an important one, and was established in Hastings 24 years ago, the initial capacity being 100 sides or 50 hides, per week, but it has steadily increased, until now 200 sides a day are tanned, and on the pay roll there are about 60 men. It has also, of course, increased considerably in size, an addition having been built to it last summer. The building is a large frame structure, and Mr. Quigley when questioned as to whether the nature of the Sugar Company's building might not be more substantial than was required, stated that it was desirable to have the building as substantial as possible, and said that the building referred to would answer very well.

The Tanning Operations.

Mr. Quigley kindly escorted the Examiner representative through the tannery, and explained the methods of operation from the time the hides are placed in soaking vats, and afterwards into timed vats to take off the hair, through the tanning process, in the different tanks filled with bark extracts of varying strengths until the finished product is reached. From the time that a hide is placed into the first vat until it comes out finished leather about six weeks have elapsed.

The Company ships largely to Quebec, but there are large sales made also in Ontario and the North-west. Messrs. H. P. Ackerman, Son & Co., of Peterborough, buy considerable quantities of leather for horse collars from this firm, which apparently does a big trade since at the present time the tannery runs every night except Saturday until 10.30, and has orders enough booked ahead to keep the place running the rest of the year.

Another Large Industry.

The industry in Hasting, second in point of size to the tannery, is that of W. P. Plant, manufacturer of machinery. Mr. Plant's foundry and machine shop was seen to be a busy place, everyone from the proprietor down being at work, but Mr. Plant

FARE OF THE GREAT.

The Favorite Dishes of Some Famous Men and Women.

Queen Victoria is said to have given mutton the preference in the line of meats, and was nowise offended if offered "the cold shoulder."

Queen Elizabeth was very fond of roast goose. She was dining on this when the good news was brought her on Michaelmas day that the Spanish fleet had been driven back. And ever since that fowl has been to the English feast of St. Michael what the turkey is to our Thanksgiving day.

Henry VIII. was extremely fond of beans and imported a Dutch gardener to raise them, as in his day they were only used by the upper classes—"a dish to set before the king."

Napoleon's favorite dish was bean salad, much cheaper in his time, but equally good.

Louis XV. was "extravagantly" fond of a dish made of the eggs of various birds, which cost $100.

George Eliot, while at Brookbank, used frequently to walk over to the farm where she purchased her vegetables and chat with the farmer's wife on gardening and buttermaking, who was somewhat surprised at the great novelist's conversation on such homely topics and afterward remarked, "It were wonderful, just wonderful, the sight o' green peas that I send down to that gentleman and lady every week." This was the summer "Middlemarch" was written.

George Sand not only liked sauces, but excelled in making them.

Lincoln, in the days when he did his own marketing, often stopped at a certain shop for his favorite—gingerbread. He used to say, "It swells up and makes me feel as if I had had something."

Stonewall Jackson delighted in buckwheat cakes in season and out of season.

Ralph Waldo Emerson was fond of pie, especially that made of plums, which he called the fruit of paradise.

Dr. Holmes, on the contrary, said of the peach, "When nature has delivered it to us in its perfection we forget all the lesser fruits, and if not found by the river of life an earth born spirit might be forgiven for missing it."

Charles Summer's private secretary tells of the statesman's sweet tooth for chocolate creams.

Andrew Jackson surrendered to ice cream at first taste when Mrs. Alexander Hamilton introduced it into Washington and swore his usual oath, "By the Eternal!" he would have it at the White House, and he did—at the next reception.

Washington was noted for his fondness for hickory nuts, and the amount he could consume.—What to Eat.

The Lord High Constable.

The lord high constable of England was an official of high rank in olden times. The name is a contraction of comes stabuli, count of the stable, or, as we should now say, master of the horse. His functions were partly military, partly judicial and partly civil.

It became a hereditary office to the Staffords, by one of whom, the Duke of Buckingham, it was forfeited in 1521 for high treason, and has never been revived, save for special occasions, such as a coronation. This office still exists in Scotland and is reserved for the earls of Erroll. The present constable of the Tower, of Dover, Windsor, and other places is a remnant of the old office, and the term police constable indicates that the chief duty was to keep the peace.

Royal Ridicule.

Queen Anne of England and her husband George, prince of Denmark, had great similarity of taste. The two subjects that interested them most were horses and dinner. A Jacobite allusion to these pardonable weaknesses runs thus:

There's Mary the daughter, there's Willy the cheater,
There's Geordie the drinker, there's Annie the eater.

That King George II. of England was not popular with his subjects is evident from the following epigram, which was published in London on the death of Queen Caroline:

O cruel death! Why hast thou been unkind
To take our queen and leave our king behind?

Preferred a Bird in the Hand.

"Mr. Heavyweight," said the minister, "is willing to subscribe $10,000 for a new church provided we can get other subscriptions making up the same amount."

"Yet you seem disappointed," said his wife.

"Yes, I was in hopes he would contribute a hundred dollars in cash."

Violent Attack of Diarrhoea Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and Perhaps a Life Saved.

"A short time ago I was taken with a violent attack of diarrhoea and believe I would have died if I had not gotten relief," says John J. Patton, a leading citizen of Patton, Ala. "A friend recommended Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I bought a twenty-five cent bottle and after taking three doses of it was entirely cured. I consider it the best remedy in the world for bowel complaints. For sale by all druggists.

Almost Impossible.

Jack—Why wouldn't she marry you? She loves you to distraction. I know it, because she told me so. George—She insisted on my proving that I am not already married, because she says there is a great deal of bigamy nowadays. Well, it is easy enough to prove that one is married, but how the dickens am I going to prove that I am not?

Literature Versus Nature.

The essay naturalist observes and admires; the scientific naturalist collects. One brings home a bouquet from the woods; the other, specimens for his herbarium. The former would enlist your sympathies and arouse your enthusiasm; the latter would add to your store of exact knowledge. The one is just as shy of overcoloring or falsifying his facts as the other, only he gives more than facts; he gives impressions and analogies and as far as possible shows you the live bird on the bough.—John Burroughs in Atlantic.

A Knowing Dog.

Traveler—Here, landlord, what's the matter with your dog? I've driven him away a score of times, but he always comes back again and sits close up to my armchair watching every mouthful I take. Do turn him out and let me have my dinner in peace. Landlord—Please, sir, my Carlo is such a knowing brute. I expect you have got the plate he generally eats off.

Considerate.

"Why don't you take me with you sometimes of evenings, dear? I get so tired of staying at home alone."

"Because I can't afford to dress you as well as myself. I don't want to be seen around with a woman dressed as you are."

Absolute Proof.

"Do you consider Whiffley an honest man, Keene?"

"I know for certain that he contributes regularly to the conscience fund of the treasury department."

Don't judge a man by his failures in life, for many a man fails because he is too honest to succeed.

THE ROAD TO LAUGHTERTOWN.

THE ROAD TO LAUGHTER TOWN
Oh, show me the road to Laughtertown,
For I have lost the way!
I wandered out of the path one day,
When my heart was broke and my hair turned gray,
And I can't remember how to play,
I've quite forgotten how to be gay,
It's all through sighing and weeping, they say.
Oh, show me the road to Laughtertown,
For I have lost the way!

I used to belong to Laughtertown
Before I lost the way;
For I danced and laughed the livelong day,
Ere my heart was broke and my hair turned grey;
So it ought to be easy to find the way.
But crying has made me blind, they say,
And still toward Teartown my sad feet stray—
Oh, show me the road to Laughtertown,
For I have lost the way;

Would ye learn the road to Laughtertown,
O ye who have lost the way?
Would ye have young heart though your hair be grey?
Go learn from a little child each day,
Go serve his wants and play his play,
And catch the lilt of his laughter gay,
And follow his dancing feet as they stray
For he knows the road to Laughtertown,
O ye who have lost the way.
—Katherine D. Blake.

Spoiled His Chance.

"Yes, she rejected him because of a bad break he made when he was proposing to her."

"What was that?"

"He told her she was 'one in a thousand.' She thinks she's one of the Four Hundred."

Mrs. Wabash—Yes, once on the 5th, once on the 8th, once on the 10th and another time on the 16th; but I've switched off to October; that's my marrying month now.

POPULAR GEMS.

Latest Fashions in Precious Stones in England—Lady Warwick the Originator of the New Nets.

The popularity of the colored stone is, perhaps, the most distinctive note in the jewelry fashions of the hour in England. The fashionable woman is weary of the craze for art jewelry, and Parisian gems, which for a time wooed her from her old allegiance to stones of the first water.

To say that colored stones are rapidly replacing diamonds would not be strictly correct, but amethysts, sapphires, emeralds and less valuable stones, such as peridots, are now being mixed with a small proportion of diamonds to an extent that has not been known for years.

The necklace of mixed gems can be bought for half the price of the all-diamond necklace, and when the colored stones are carefully selected and set with a few diamonds the effect of the mixed necklace is decidedly good.

The Brazilian topaz set with diamonds appears in many of the new pendants, and there is a considerable demand for sapphires set with pearls or diamonds, or both. Amethysts are also popular, but the translucent green of the Egyptian peridot set with diamonds is the particular vogue of this season.

With the rage for colored stones the old-time fashion of the pearl border, seen in antique medallions and miniatures, has been revived.

While the dress chain set with turquoise in the rough has almost disappeared, the turquoise itself is used in many of the new bracelets and necklaces designed for young girls. Like pearls, turquoises are being set in enamel.

A simple necklace, suitable for a young girl, is of blue enamel forget-me-nots, in the centre of each of which is a pearl; and another design, also for a debutante, is of pearl daisies with diamond centres.

The opal, ill-omened stone though it is popularly supposed to be, is extraordinarily popular. Not for years has there been such a run on the stone. The fire opal—a flame-colored stone with the brilliancy of the ruby, but without its depth of inner fires—is rather more new in England than the ordinary opal. Set in a border of diamonds, it is being used for pendants and bracelets.

The turquoise is the only stone still being put into a heavy gold setting. In all the new designs the setting is, as it always should be, subservient to the gem, as is the frame to the picture. Delicate workmanship and intricate design are being aimed at, but not massiveness.

One of the latest little society fads for which the jeweler is catering is the jeweled hair-net. Made of the slenderest of gold chains and set with pearls, or with the ever-useful turquoise, the jeweled net has been seen on the heads of several smart women in the evening. Lady Warwick is credited with being the originator of the new net.

Origin of the Paper Collar.

In the early part of the eighteenth century there "flourished" a gentleman of considerable literary ability named Samuel Boyse. He was born at Dublin in 1708, and was educated at the University of Glasgow. In the course of an eccentric and extravagant career, he was often reduced to the last extremity of human wretchedness. An old magazine says that at one time in 1740 "He had not a shirt, a coat, or any kind of apparel to put on; the sheets in which he lay were carried to the pawnbrokers, and he was obliged to be confined to his bed with no other covering than a blanket." Whenever his distresses so pressed as to induce him to dispose of his shirt, he cut some white paper in slips, and in the same manner supplied his neck. In this manner he frequently appeared abroad, with the additional inconvenience of the want of breeches. His poetical pieces, if collected, would make six moderate volumes. He translated a poem from the High Dutch of Van Haren in praise of peace, on the conclusion of that made at Aix la Chapelle; but the poem which procured him the greatest reputation was that on 'The Deity.' He was employed by Mr. Ogle to translate some of Chaucer's Tales into modern English, for which he was paid at the rate of threepence a line. His most beautiful poem is, perhaps, 'The Recantation.' He died in obscure lodgings near Shoelane, London, in May, 1749, and the remains of this unfortunate author of 'The Tears of the Muses' was buried by the parish authorities. Never was a life spent with less grace than that of Mr. Samuel Boyse, and never were such distinguished abilities given to less purpose."

Sir Archibald Douglas.

Sir Archibald Douglas, who succeeds Sir John Fisher as Commander-in-Chief of the British navy at Portsmouth, is junior in rank to most officers who have been rewarded with what is regarded as the "blue ribbon" of the naval service, but he is in his sixty-third year. No Vice-Admiral has been appointed to the post since 1869. A Canadian by birth and education, he is best known as the head of the mission which went to Japan in 1873 and laid the foundations of the naval organization which has done such remarkable work in the present war. His services include the fighting up the Congo and Gambia in 1860, gunboat duty during the Fenian rising in Canada, and the Soudan campaign of 1884.

Dog Travels 70 Miles to Old Home.

A remarkable instance of a dog's love of home is reported from Cromlegh, Dunblane, Perthshire. A collie dog was given to Mr. Hunter of Herriotshall, Berwickshire, by his brother-in-law, Mr. Gilholm of Cromlegh, and was sent by train to the borderland. The animal worked among the sheep and then suddenly disappeared. It afterward turned up at its old home, having done the seventy-mile journey in forty hours. —London Telegraph.

Going for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Don't put yourself in this man's place, but keep a bottle of this remedy in your home. There is nothing so good for Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Diarrhoea. It is equally valuable for Summer Complaint and Cholera Infantum and has saved the lives of more children than any other medicine in use. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 35 cents.

CONSIDER CANADA'S FUTURE.

Senator Wark Writes of Some Changes He Has Seen.

Hon. David Wark, the 100-year-old Senator, writes to The Montreal Witness asking that the commission recommended by the Congress of Chambers of Commerce held in Montreal last year be called at once to consider Canada's future.

"This," he says, "would be the strongest tie to bind the Empire together. Every province and every part of the United Kingdom would no doubt send its ablest statesmen to the commission, which would advise on the great leading questions, and the commission could then be broken up into committees to settle details; and after closing their labors no time should be lost in calling the great new Parliament to enact into law a constitution and code for the whole new Empire. I have thought of an Upper House, and hope to see it taken up and dealt with by some of our ablest statesmen as one of the most important questions to be settled.

"If the commission is called now our population will be found to consist largely of the descendants of the loyalists and emigrants from the British Isles and their descendants, who would all be opposed to separation; but the number of new settlers coming in yearly from foreign countries may soon, with those already in favor of separation, form a majority and in the near future prove very embarrassing, and those who wish to avoid this will see the necessity of prompt action. I am a firm believer that God exercises a wise providence over the affairs of this world, and in my long life has given me opportunity of seeing many proofs of this.

"I remember when a husband died in India his widow was burned on the funeral pile, and when mothers cast their children into the Ganges. Now these acts have been put an end to. I can remember when British merchants sent their ships to Africa to bring home cargoes of men and women and sold them in the colonies to be reduced to slavery. Now an end has been put to the slave trade and slavery. I remember when a Bible could not be had almost at any price. Early in the nineteenth century a society was formed which has since been circulating Bibles in hundreds of languages. Scarcely a Christian missionary labored in any heathen land; now they are employed in thousands in many of the dark places of the earth, where they have converted savage cannibals into civilised peaceful Christians."

Plague of Caterpillars.

The dreaded army of tent caterpillar, which for some time ravaged the State of Washington has at last made its appearance within a few miles of Vancouver, and the agriculturists of the surrounding districts are making preparations for an earnest fight with the invader. The first of the tent caterpillars to show themselves in the vicinity of Vancouver attacked the Central Park suburban garden of Mrs. E. Barrett, who lives about six miles from the city. In the early morning she saw a lonely caterpillar making its way up the branch of one of her apple trees, and within a few minutes noticed that it had been joined by hundreds of companions, which appeared seemingly from nowhere in particular. Promptly Mrs. Barrett applied the only effective weapon, fire, and destroyed the whole band. Careful examination failed to reveal the presence of any others, hence it appears that this group of invaders was only an advance guard. Down in the rich Delta district, across the Fraser, the caterpillars are making themselves thoroughly at home. The insects swarm in millions upon millions, completely strip all trees of their foliage, and reduce bushes to nothing other than bunches of bare stems. For three or four weeks they continue to eat and destroy, but at the end of that time turn into butterflies and thereafter give no more trouble. The worst feature of the pest is the abnormal rate at which they multiply.

Lord Strathcona and Fine Art.

Lord Strathcona is a great lover of the fine arts. His gallery contains masterpieces by Corot, Dias, Van Dyke and other great artists. His collection of vases is rare and costly.

A magnificent suite of rooms in his palatial residence in Dorchester street, Montreal, is still known as the Prince of Wales suite, in commemoration of King Edward's visit to Canada. The same suite was occupied by the Duke and Duchess of York on their visit to Canada.

Lord Strathcona is very close to the royal family, and is highly esteemed by King Edward. He received greater special favors from Queen Victoria than any other peer in the United Kingdom.

In spite of his eighty-two years Lord Strathcona is strong and vigorous, and possesses a marvellous memory. His high, well developed forehead and snow white hair give him a patriarchal look. His keen, blue eyes are filled with intelligence and kindness.

He takes the liveliest interest in the leading topics of the day. When talking he weighs his words well, and he has a way of putting things with such force that he sweeps all before him.—New York Herald.

KITCHEN HELPS.

Have you double boilers for your cereals?

Have you a small dipper for dipping soups?

Have you a large pepper and salt shaker for the kitchen?

Have you a good chopper? If so, you can save the bits of meat and save your strength and time.

Do you use one of the extra large egg beaters? They are made for hotels and beat the eggs in no time.

Have you in your kitchen a potato ricer? It saves a world of potato mashing and makes the potatoes light and fluffy.

Make the kitchen duties as light as possible and keep your kitchen utensils in order. It is not half so much work to do the work when the kitchen is furnished wisely. If knobs are kept on the covers the scalding and burning may be avoided.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Tactful Wife.

A tactful wife, accustomed to study her husband's moods, soon realizes that the most important part of the day to a man's peace of mind is the ten minutes that follow his return from the work of the day. At that time one word may change his whole state of feeling. He usually comes home tired. The vexations of business during the day have frequently brought him to a point of fatigue or nervousness at which a very little thing may decide what his mood will be for the rest of the evening. Of course the particular disposition of every man is certain to tell here, just as it does everywhere else, but the rule will hold good for the average man. It is unwise to talk too much at first on any subject. Conversation in a torrent at the outset is likely to upset any one who is a little tired after a day's work and who then needs quiet.—London Lady.

WILL PETERBORO' GET HASTINGS TANNERY

kindly gave the Examiner an interview in which it was learned that the present business was established in 1895, with a staff of five men, which has now been increased to 15, and the concern does a good business principally in saw-mill and tannery machinery, although a number of specialties are made here, too. This is the slack season for this class of work, but the shops are turning out new work, and are bidding for, with a good chance of securing it, the contract for the equipment of the two new tanneries being erected in Ontario, one at Ottawa, another at Markham and an enlargement to King Bros. tannery at Whitby. The growth of Mr. Plant's business has been very satisfactory, due, doubtless to the good quality of the work turned out by him.

An Important Invention.

Mr. Plant is something of an inventor, too, the latest of his inventions being an electric fire alarm system which truly is a wonderful invention. This gentleman claims, and states that experiments have shown that these claims are founded on fact, that in a building equipped with this system should a fire occur that fact will be conveyed simultaneously to every other part of the building, and this system will also acquaint every other part of the building with the exact location of the blaze. For instance, the fire which occurred recently in Toronto in Eby, Blain & Co's warehouse, started in the attic and by the time it was discovered had gained considerable headway. With Mr. Plant's system this would be impossible, for the minute that a blaze occurs, even if it is but the spark of an electric wire crossing another, that fact is registered by the system.

In an hotel where there were 500 guests, each of these guests would be made aware of the fact that a fire had occurred in a certain part of that hotel, the instant that it occurred and also of its exact location. By this system the firemen are also notified, and should a fire be in progress in room, say No. 50, in the Oriental Hotel the firemen would know it as soon as the occupant of the next room, and they would be able to go direct to where the fire was.

A patent has been applied for on this system, and as soon as this is procured it will be placed on the market, and this is the first time that a statement of its capabilities has been published. Already a capitalist has offered to put $500,000 into the scheme should it be required.

The Power Proposition.

Mr. Plant's works are operated by water power obtained from the Trent River, 45 horse power being used and in addition to that used by this concern there are about 325 horse power developed here. Of this Fowlds & Co. use 150 horse power in the operation of their saw mill and electric light plant, from the latter of which the town is lighted. Another 100 horse power is used by F. Fowlds in operating a grist mill, and H. M. Fowlds uses 25 horse power in his elevator. It has been estimated, however, that with the normal flow of the river or a six foot head, 1,500 horse power would be available for development. No particular effort is being made by anyone to exploit the water power at Hastings, however, and it is not probable that in the very near future, the power development at this place will be materially increased.

The Question of Water.

The Examiner was informed that this year the water below the dam is at least two feet lower than it was last year, by reason of the stop-logs at Heeley's Falls dam being left out, and, as a consequence navigation between Hastings and the Falls is practically stopped. A prominent power user in Hastings informed the Examiner that in his opinion the water above the dam should be raised 18 inches, and he is also authority for the statement that if this were done, all the land that would be drowned is land upon which the Government has already paid the original owners an amount for drowning, and he believed that the present owners would have no claim for damages. He states that this summer, the farmers along the shore of the Trent River are pasturing their cattle on land which other years has been under water.

Upon this and other points in connection with the question of the heighth of water, the Examiner simply quotes the statements made to it, and has to accept its informants' information, in the absence of any personal confirmation.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

TO SEE OURSELVES as others see us is generally an illuminating experience. Our Barrie visitors were well pleased with Peterborough's prosperity and appearance, but in one case the reporter of the Barrie Examiner touched us on the raw. Disparaging words were written of the appearance and condition of our streets with the remark that in this respect Barrie can give Peterborough pointers. This can be well believed. Unfortunately we have little reason to be proud of our thoroughfares. What legitimate reason is there why nearly all of our chief streets should not be in the prime condition of a portion of Aylmer street which is a delight to use. The generality of the streets are in an uneven and rough condition not in keeping with the other progressive characteristics of the town. It is true that many of the streets are frequently broken up for sewer construction and sewer and water services. But this should not account for the condition of many of the streets following such operations. It is a condition of all contracts and all franchises or if it is not, should be made a condition, that the streets be left in the condition in which they were before being broken up. This, however, is not done, especially in the matter of sewer construction. As a rule the streets instead of being left in their original condition are left in an impassable state, to the annoyance of the public, who have to bear not only the inconvenience but also bear the expense of their being put into shape at the cost of the town, as it is said has often been done, the town thus doing at the expense of the ratepayers what the contractor was paid to do, for he or they doubtless includes the price of levelling in the estimate that forms the basis of tender.

WHILE THE DRIVEWAY of the streets is neglected the sides of our streets could, in the vast majority of cases, be made much neater and receive greater attention. In this regard the boulevard bylaw passed at the last sitting of the council was a move in the right direction. The principle of the bylaw is commendable but some of the details are open to objection. Why the bylaw should exclusively apply to boulevards with the pavement on the outer side is not easy to see. The stipulation that the level of the boulevard should be two inches below the level of the inner edge of the pavement is also of questionable merit. If the turf of a boulevard is kept flush, or nearly so, with the edge of the pavement, it can be cut with a mower and the "job" is finished; if it is two inches below the pavement there will be a ragged edge left which the mower cannot touch. Few owners of a boulevard, after cutting his stretch of turf, often under strong internal protest, does not feel like getting down on his knees and clipping from fifty to a hundred feet of grass which the mower cannot reach. The consequence will be that the average boulevard will have a ragged edge and the trimness and neatness, the object aimed at, will be wanting. Every visitor admires our well shaded streets, but admiration is not forth coming for the ragged and unkempt condition in which they are found. True, weeds on the street sides are cut, but they are allowed to lie where they fall, creating an unsightly effect almost as bad as the growing weeds.

THE EXAMINER is often asked why the good work of pruning the street shade trees stopped short of finishing several streets. The dwellers on these streets say that they do not seem to be favoured and cannot see why they should have to prune their own trees or leave them undone when other residents who pay no more taxes in proportion, have their trees nicely pruned at the expense, in part, of those who have to do the work on their own streets. They are anxious to know why, in this respect fish is made of one ratepayer and flesh of another.

ACCORDING to complaints which reach the Examiner, there is work cut out for the Trent Water Conservation Association. Whatever is the reason, complaint is made by lumbermen, vessel men, water power owners and fishermen, that the water in the river and connecting bodies of water, is very low. It is also said it will rise and fall a considerable distance within a very short time. Whatever is the cause, and it seems that there should be some remedy, a remedy should be provided. It has been demonstrated that if the water is properly conserved, there is enough to provide an even flow of sufficient depth. The Association should not long delay in giving practical attention to the concervation of our waters. If a man squanders the whole, or the larger part, of his bank account in one big "blow out" in the spring, he must expect to be short of cash in the summer. If the waters of our lakes are allowed to flow away too freely in the spring, we must expect low and unsatisfactory water in the summer.

• • •

A COSTLY WARNING — costing a human life, and the temporary, at least, blighting of a home, was the sad drowning accident at Stony Lake last night. A canoe at its best, is an unsteady craft, requiring expert skill in its safe management. But to overload an ordinary canoe with four adult persons is taking a tremendous risk. Even with four occupants of a canoe all males and all strong swimmers, prudent [illegible] know the canoe its capacity and its crankiness, will say that a dangerous risk is taken. The Examiner has frequently volunteered injunctions to carefulness at watering places and it feels bound to emphatically urge the greatest care in regard to canoeing, for it is to carelessness, that the great majority of accidents, fatal and otherwise, is due. It is a safe rule that only those should enter a canoe who can swim, and who, moreover, know how to navigate a canoe. Even then, care care of the greatest must be used. The custody of a human life is a terrible responsibility, and packing four persons in an ordinary canoe under almost any circumstances, though it may be done in unthinking good nature, and out of pure kindness of heart, may easily become criminal hospitality, liable to lead to life long regret.

LATEST SPORT

HOW LINDSAY'S DEFEAT OCCURRED.

Galt Base Ball Team Easily Trims the Lindsayites.

Another prophesy fulfilled! Just as was stated yesterday, the Lindsay Post roasts the umpire, and blames that individual for the defeat of the team in Galt on Thursday, when the much touted Lindsay sluggers fell down to the tune of 15-6. This is the way the Post reports the "great" game, of which the readers of that paper have been seeing so much written for weeks:—

Probably "the less said the better" about yesterday's game at Galt. Lindsay sent a make-shift team, without 1st and 2nd baseman. They picked up two players at Toronto, but the Galt boys fell on the locals with a dull thud, Score 15-6. Flaherty only pitched two innings. Lindsay hit well in the 1st getting five runs but the umpire, according to reports was away out.

"Curly" was replaced in the 4th innings by Cinnamon; Teddy Miller catching, Marks playing third, Menzies shortstop, and "Curly" in the field. Cinnamon held them down good, only allowing four wins to come in.

Menzies made a sensational catch.

For the benefit of the fans, the Examiner publishes the line-up of this "make-shift" team:—Taylor, 2nd b; Sharpe, 1st b; Cinnamon, c. and p.; Miller, s. s. and c.; McLaughlin, p. and c. f.; Menzies, 3rd b. and s. s.; Marks, c. f. and 3rd b.; Stabler, l.f.; Burke, r. f. It might be mentioned also that of the 12 errors recorded against the Lindsay team not one was made by the new players on it.

The Galt Reformer says of the game:—

The leaders of the Canadian League can show their heels to most minor league teams. Lindsay, the strong Eastern Ontario team, came here yesterday on the C.M.B.A. excursion, and in the match in the afternoon in Dickson Park easily beaten by a score of 15-6.

McLaughlin, the much boasted left hander, started in to twirl for Lindsay, but he was pounded all over the lot, and was jerked out of the box in the fourth.

The Lindsay team were completely outclassed. Their field work was ragged. On the other hand, the locals put up a clean game. Tab Johnson's throwing from third was a feature.

Saunders pitched seven innings, and Flaherty finished up. Only six hits were made off Saunders and none off Flaherty. In the first innings Flaherty pitched he struck out the side.

THE TRIGGER.

The Montreal Star rifle team held their annual shoot on Thursday the 11th. The conditions are 10 shots at 200 yards; 10 shots at 400 yards. Possible 100 points, 7 cash prizes:—

Local horsemen are discussing the proposed matched race between John R. Gentry and Blucher, both of which have a mark of 2.31 1-4. Such a race would no doubt be very interesting.

LACROSSE.

A great game may be looked forward to on Wednesday evening next, when Havelock and the T.A.S. come together in the final game for the Trent Valley League Championship. Both these teams have won their respective districts without a single defeat on either side so that this game will be well worth going to see. Havelock has a husky bunch this year, including Jack Mein of the old Peterboroughs; Maguire of Bellerille; O'Sullivan of Campbellford and Joe Muldoon of last years T.A.S. team and will make the local team go the limit to win out. Everybody should witness this game as it will be a good one and also the last league game of the season. Tickets can be had at Lynch's drug store, W. O'Brien's cigar store and the Examiner office.

BASEBALL.

In the article dealing with the Young Quaker baseball team yesterday mention was not made of Vernon Morphett, a regular player on the team, and one of the most useful men. He played in 14 games this year.

TO-DAY'S NEWS ON STOCK MARKET

Features of Market as Told by Special Wires.

By private wire from Richmond & Co., ind'd., Pittsburg and Buffalo to W. F. Nelson & Co., correspondents:—

New York, August 13.—While there was no sensational advances scored today, the market took an immense amount, realizing witout showing any weak spot on the S.P., A.C.F., U.S.Q., were the strong features to-day. The buying of all these stocks is for the account of people of large calibre and the reactions made by the room traders should be taken advantage of to buy and also to increase long holdings. While many bears covered in the early dealings this morning the shorts put out in the afternoon made up the difference and the markets position remained excellent. Buy and keep long of S.P., U.P., Co., V. C., R.I., pfd. and common C.F.I., Southern Ry., Wab. pfd., St. P., A.C.F., U.S.Q. Mop., Cons. Gas. The latter will have a twenty point rise from the level. We also advise buying At., Tex., R.G., MKT. pfd. and P.O. Our advice on wheat remains the same, do not buy Sep. or Dec. until they have reacted at least 10 points from the top.—Wall Street Information Bureau.

New York, August 13.—We look for an irregular market to-day; we also anticipate a reaction between now and Monday night. Whether it will be before or after bank statement which may not be favourable or postponed to the early part of next week we cannot tell.

Liverpool close, wheat 3-4 lower; corn 1-4 lower.

Catholic Order of Foresters' Excursion

Otillia and Lake Couchiching have been selected by the St. Peter's Court, Catholic Order of Foresters, as the attractive point for their Civic Holiday excursion. This is a favourite spot at this holiday season of the year, and combines strong features for interesting excursionists. Round trip tickets from Peterborough have been placed as low as $1.15 for adults, and 60c. for children, good for two days. In addition to other crowd-pullers a lively game of baseball between the T.A.S. and a picked Orillia team is being arranged. Semi-final lacrosse match, Bradford vs. Orillia, on the same day. See posters.

This is the month that price reductions at Stratton's Bookstore speak loudest, and make you feel glad you waited. JAP ADMIRAL SINKS A RUSSIAN CRUISER

Admiral Kemimura Sinks the Russian Crusier Rurik.

CROMOBI AND ROSSIA FLED

Battle Off Port Arthur was Costly to Russia—Admiral Withoft Killed with Many Other Officers—Japanese Land Forces Menace Russian Ships—Mikado Says: "Take Port Arthur."

Tokio, Aug. 15.—Vice-Admiral Kamimura encountered the Russian Vladivostock squadron at dawn yesterday north of Tsu Island in the Strait of Corea, and attacked the enemy at once.

The battle lasted for five hours and resulted in a complete Japanese victory.

The Russian cruiser Rurik was sunk and the cruisers Rossia and Gromoboi fled to the northward after having sustained serious damage.

Vice-Admiral Kamimura cables the Navy Department that the injuries inflicted upon his vessels were slight.

The fate of the crew of the Rurik is not known. It is presumed that many of them were killed or drowned.

The strength of the fleet under Vice-Admiral Kamimura is not known, but it is presumed that he had the Asumi, Idzumo, Iwate, Takashiho and other light cruisers.

Tokio is joyous over the news, as it gives Japan mastery of the sea and restores commerce.

WITHOFT'S SORTIE.

Russians Tried to Gain Passage, But Mines Were in the Way.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—Viceroy Alexieff, in a despatch to the Emperor, gives the following report from Captain Matouzevitch, the late Rear-Admiral Witthoft's chief of staff, under date of Aug 12:

"At dawn of Aug. 10 our Port Arthur squadron began to make for the open sea and emerged from the port at 9 o'clock. The squadron consisted of six battleships, the cruisers Askold, Diana, Pallada and Novik, and eight torpeco floats.

"The Japanese opposed us with the following force: A first detachment consisting of the battleships Asahi, Mikasa, Fuji, Yashima and Shikishima and the cruiser Nisshin and Kasuga, a second detachment consisting of the cruisers Yakumo, Kasagi, Chitose and Takasago, and a third detachment consisting of the cruisers Akitsushima, Idsumo, Matsushima, Itsukushima and Hashidate and the battleship Chin Yen, with about thirty torpedo boats.

"Our squadron manoeuvred to gain gain a passage through the line of the enemy's ships. Meantime the Japanese torpedo boats were laying floating mines in the way of our squadron, thus rendering evolutions very difficult.

Fought For Hours Without Advantage.

"At 1 p.m. our squadron, after forty minutes' fighting, succeeded in effecting a passage and shaped its course toward Shantung. The enemy following at full speed, caught up with us slowly and at 5 o'clock fighting again began and continued for some hours without either side obtaining any advantage.

"In the battle the commander of our squadron was killed and the captain of the battleship Czarevitch was wounded and lost consciousness. Almost at the same time the engines and steering gear of the Czarevitch were damaged and she was obliged to stop for forty minutes. This forced the other ships to manoeuvre around her. The command of the squadron devolved upon Rear-Admiral Prince Ouktomsky and the command of the Czarevitch upon the second in command.

Pursued By Torpedo Boats.

"After night fall the Czarevitch, being unable to follow the squadron and losing sight of it, took a southerly direction in order to attempt to reach Vladivostock under her own steam. She was attacked by torpedo boats during the night and at dawn was in the vicinity of Shantung.

"The officer commanding the squadron, having examined and determined the extent of the damage to the Czarevitch, concluded that she could not make Vladivostock and allowed her captain to proceed to Kiaochou for repairs.

"Those killed included Rear-Admiral Witthoft, Navigating Flag Lieutenant Azarieff and Navigating Lieutenant Draguishevitch. Those slightly wounded included myself and eight others. A number of sailors were killed or wounded, but just how many has not yet been ascertained.

"I arrived at Kiaochou at nine o'clock in the evening and found there the cruiser Novik and the torpedo boat Bezshumi.

"I am happy to bear witness to Your Majesty to the unexampled bravery of the officers and men during the desperate encounter."

Matouevitch Dead.

Che Foo, Aug. 15.—Captain Matouevitch, the late Rear-Admiral Withoft's chief of staff, who was wounded during the Japanese attack on the battleship Czarevitch, is dead.

The Japanese Losses.

Tokio, Aug. 15.—The following are the casualties sustained by the Japanese in the action of Aug. 10:

"On board the battleship Mikasa, Admiral Togo's flagship, there were four officers and twenty-nine men killed; six officers and twenty-nine men severely wounded and four officers and twenty-nine men slightly wounded, while the armored cruiser Yakumo had one officer and eleven men killed and ten wounded, on board the armored cruiser Nisshin seven officers and nine men were killed and two officers and fifteen men were wounded. Ten men were wounded on the armored cruiser Kasuga. On the torpedo boat destroyer Asagiri two men were killed.

"On board torpedo boat No. 38 one man was killed and eight others wounded."

The Imperial Prince Kwacho was hit in the region of the heart, but his wound is slight.

Tokio Rejoices.

Tokio, Aug. 15.—Flags are flying, lanterns are glimmering and cries of "Banzai" are ringing in the streets of Tokio in honor of victories gained at sea by Admiral Togo and Vice-Admiral Kamimura. The Russian squadron, which confronted Admiral Togo, refused battle. It was stronger than Admiral Togo's squadron in battleships and armored cruisers, and had it elected to fight the result might have altered the fortunes of war.

Only Four Left.

The best possible naval force that Russia can now concentrate at Vladivostock is four cruisers. In the fight of Aug. 10 the squadron under Admiral Togo was practically uninjured. The battleship Mikasa suffered the most, but she continues on the fighting line. The cruisers Yakumo, Nisshin and Kasuga also were hit, but temporary repairs already have been made and they are fully serviceable.

Admiral Withoft Killed.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—Rear-Admiral Withoft, who was in command of the Russian naval forces at Port Arthur, was killed during the engagement on Wednesday. The Emperor has received a telegram from Tsingchou, signed by Capt. Matousevitch, the rear-admiral's chief of staff, reporting that Withoft met his death aboard the flagship Czarevitch. Both his legs were blown off. Capt. Wanoff of the Czarevitch, Commander Samoff and several officers were wounded. Several officers besides the rear-admiral also were killed. The battleship sustained severe damage. Her rudder was broken beyond hope of repair.

Five Badly Damaged.

Tokio, Aug. 15.—Admiral Togo reports that five Russian battleships appear to have been badly damaged in the engagement of Aug. 10. The Pobieda lost two masts and one of her heavy guns was disabled. The flagship Retvizan, which was hit several times at a distance of 3,500 yards, seems to have ascertained the greatest injury. The damage inflicted on the Russian cruisers was comparatively slight. The Bayan has not appeared since the engagement.

The damage sustained by the Japanese vessels has been temporarily repaired.

Land Batteries Rule.

It is believed here that the Russians will not be able to repair the five battleships reported by Admiral Togo to have been damaged in the recent sea fighting at Port Arthur. The Japanese land batteries now commanding the entrance to the harbor could render this work impossible.

Novik Has Cleared.

Berlin, Aug. 15.—The Russian protected cruiser Novik left Tsingchou within the 24 hour limit, according to an official despatch. Several other vessels are still in the harbor in a disabled condition.

Burni Blown Up.

London, Aug. 15.—A despatch from Wei-Hai-Wei says the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Burni was beached Aug. 12 on the south of the Shantung Promonotory and was blown up. Three of the officers and sixty men, who walked from the scene of the accident, have arrived at Wei-Hai-Wei.

PORT ARTHUR MUST FALL.

Mikado of Japan Orders Taking of Fortress at Any Cost.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—The Bourse Gazette has received the following from its Liaoyang correspondent:

"Twelve Japanese regiments have left in the direction of Port Arthur.

"It is stated on trustworthy authority that the Mikado has ordered that Port Arthur must be taken at any cost, even if it necessitates the suspension of operations in Manchuria, and it is quite possible that the main Japanese force will proceed to Port Arthur within a few days. Rain has stopped all operations."

To Ask Non-Combatants to Leave.

London, Aug 15.—A despatch from Tokio Saturday, says: "Another sign that a general assault on Port Arthur is imminent is found in the fact that the Emperor of Japan has notified Field Marshal Yamagata, chief of the general staff, of his desire that non-combatants—women, priests, merchants, diplomats and officers of neutral powers—be allowed an opportunity to leave the fortress. The chief of staff consequently instructed the Japanese commander at Port Dalny to accord the necessary facilities for their removal.

A FATALITY IN A STORM.

Mrs. Bruce of Marnock and Mrs. Cousins of Cayuga Killed.

LIGHTNING'S FEARFUL WORK

Many Barns Burned in Western Ontario—Ten Persons Drowned—Terrible Accident During the Potomac Regatta—British Destroyer — Twenty Persons Drowned By the Sinking of Bark Inverkip

Cayuga, Aug. 15.—An electric storm of great violence passed over the village Saturday evening. Several places were struck. Mrs. Edmund Cousins was sitting in her house when an electric bolt struck the window, and piercing the glass killed her instantly. The bolt apparently struck her arm and neck. Her baby, about one month old, was in the mother's arms at the time and escaped, apparently unhurt.

Found Mother Dead.

Wingham, Aug. 15.—A severe electric storm passed over this section on Saturday. In Turnberry the barn of Wm. Robinson was burned and another in East Wawanosh. Mrs. Alex. Bruce was upstairs in her residence near Marnock when the electric fluid struck the house, setting it on fire. Her son ran up and found his mother dead and her clothing on fire. She was 72 years old. The family were all shocked by the lightning stroke.

Storm Concealed Engine.

Welland, Aug. 15.—At the crossing of the G. T. R., about three miles north of Port Robinson, Robert Misner, a prominent farmer of Thorold township, lost his life. He was driving with a lumber wagon from Allanburg and was probably blinded by the storm and did not notice a Wabash engine, which was running light. One horse was killed and the other badly injured.

Power House Ablaze.

Hamilton, Aug. 15.—Saturday the power house at Beamsville was struck by lightning and burned to the ground.

Barns Burned.

Woodstock, Aug. 15.—A severe electrical storm passed over this district Saturday evening. The lightning was exceptionally severe and several barns in this vicinity are reported burned, including a fine new barn, 80 feet by 95 feet, belonging to William Clark of the second concession of Blandford. Mr. Clark's wife and two daughters were milking when it was struck. They were uninjured, though the fluid passed close to them. The building was totally destroyed. The loss was about $1,500.

Barn Destroyed.

Cooksville, Aug. 15.—As a result of Saturday's severe electric storm, the barn of John Hopkins, Dundas street, was struck by lightning and completely destroyed with contents. Loss $1,500.

Blaves Around Guelph.

Guelph, Aug. 15.—In Eramosa the barn of Thomas Talbot, on the gravel road, was struck by lightning and the building, with all its contents, including some stock, was destroyed. The barn of W. H. Poole, Puslinch, below Galt, was also struck and burned, with the wheat, barley and hay. Samuel May's barn, Puslinch, on the Blatchford corner, on the Waterloo road, below Gourock, also fell a victim to fire caused by lightning.

Season's Crops Burned.

Grimsby, Aug. 15. — Lightning struck the barn on W. B. Russ' farm, south of this village, which, with the season's crop of hay and wheat, was destroyed by fire. Loss on buildings is estimated at $2,000.

The Union Jack Hoisted.

Kingstos, Island of St. Vincent, B. W.I., Aug. 15.—The British cruiser Tribune, on August 11, landed a party, under command of Lieutenant Thellallat Aves, on Bird's Island, 127 miles west of the north end of the Island of Dominica, and annexed it as a British possession. Guns were hauled through the surf and landed, the British flag was hoisted and a royal salute was fired. The Tribune left St. Vincent Saturday, being ordered to Venezuela to protect British interests at Caracas.

HAD RELATIVES IN PETERBORO.

Late George Kerr of Coldsprings had Brothers and Sisters Here.

That a good man has passed to his place in the eternal world was felt by all when it was all known that Mr. G. Kerr, Coldsprings, was dead. Suddenly the summons came to him, but the voice that summoned him called him home, for his life was good, and his death thus victorious. On Wednesday afternoon of last week he was engaged in the necessary work on his farm, when he was stricken with apoplexy. He never regained consciousness and passed away the following morning.

Mr. Kerr was a son of the late Mr. Wm. Kerr, of Hamilton Tp., and has lived all his life in that township, of which he was a staunch and honoured citizen. Some twenty-five years ago he was married to Miss Graham, a daughter of the late Robt Grahm, who, with three daughters and one son survives him. He is also survived by an aged mother, four brothers, Messrs. James and William Kerr, of Cobourg, Mr. Edward Kerr, of Toronto, Mr. John Kerr, Peterborough, and two sisters, Miss Annie Kerr, Peterborough, and Mrs. Carter, Jermyn. Very great sympathy is felt with all the bereaved relatives.

Mr. Kerr has been for a number of years president of the Coldsprings cheese factory. He was a man who never put himself forward and yet who fulfilled all civic and public duties that fell to his lot faithfully, ably and conscientiously. The work that was especially dear to his heart was the work for the advancement of his Father's Kingdom, and in this, too, he lived a true, strong life. In religion he was a Presbyterian, and for many years he efficiently discharged the duties of superintendent of the Presbyterian Sunday school at Coldsprings. He loved this work and in the Township and County Sunday school Associations held an honoured place, and took a prominent and helpful part. Faithful to his God, honourable in all his dealings with his fellow men, he was respected, trusted and beloved. At the early age of 55 years he has been called hence, beyond the sight of his loved ones, doubtless to larger duties and perfect service in the presence of the King. He has not gone far, and through memory of his genial personality and his strong, true life, his hushed voice speaks on, bidding those who follow to be faithful and they shall receive the Crown of Life.—Cobourg World.

Walking on the Ceiling.

Few people probably know what it is that enables flies to walk on the ceiling. It has been supposed that their ability to do so was due to the fact that each of their feet is a miniature air pump. This theory was found to be unsound, and it was then explained that the feat was made possible by means of a viscous substance which exuded from the hairs on their feet. This theory also was abandoned as being only partly accountable for the facts, and the preferred explanation is that flies are enabled to walk upside down on smooth substances by the help of capillary adhesion. An investigator has found by a series of nice calculations, such as the weighing and measuring of hairs, that a fly would be upheld by capillary attraction were it four-ninths as heavy again as it is. Each fly is supposed to be furnished with from 10,000 to 12,000 minute foot hairs. These exude an oily fluid, and it is because of the repulsion between a watery surface and this oily liquid that a fly finds it difficult to mount a dampened glass.

Spoiled It All.

A farmer went to hear John Wesley preach. Wesley said he would take up three topics of thought. He was talking chiefly about money. His first was, "Get all you can." The farmer nudged a neighbor and said: "This is strange preaching. I never heard the like before. This is very good." Then Wesley discoursed on "Industry," "Activity," "Living to Purpose," and reached his second division, "Save all you can." The farmer became more excited. "Was there ever anything like this?" he said. Wesley denounced thriftlessness and waste, and he satirized the willful wickedness which lavishes in luxury, and the farmer rubbed his hands, and he thought, "All this I have been taught from my youth up," and what with getting and what with hoarding it seemed to him that "salvation" had come to his house. But Wesley advanced to his third head, which was "Give all you can." "Ah, dear; ah, dear," said the farmer; "he has gone and spoiled it all!"

Heliotropism.

Heliotropism is the peculiar property shown by many plants, notably the sunflower, of always turning toward the sun. In the case of seedlings the phenomenon is especially marked. The cells on the light side are apparently retarded in growth, thus causing a curvature toward that side. Professor Romanes experimented with an intermittent light, such as that of an electric spark discharge, upon mustard seedlings and found the heliotropic effect produced in this way far greater than that caused by the sun or any other form of light. Strange to say, however, this abnormal influence is unaccompanied by the generation of phlorophyll, the green coloring matter in plants which requires sunshine for its proper production.—Pall Mall Gazette.

FRUIT CROP REPORT FOR MONTH OF JULY

Apples in Most Sections Will be Light to Moderate Crop.

Fruit Crop as a Whole is Light—Small Varieties Will be Scarce.

A full return for July has been obtained by the Fruit Division, Ottawa, with reference to the fruit crop of the Dominion.

APPLES.

Dividing the winter crop into fall and winter varieties the reports show a medium to full crop of the former. In the apple sections, from which the bulk of the winter fruit will be obtained for export, the crop is not as large as last year but may be classed as light to medium. A very clear distinction must be made between fall apples and good storing stock. The reports from Great Britain and Europe generally show a very large crop of fruit that will come into direct competition with our fall varieties and may slightly affect the market for winter fruit; but up to the present time European fruit has not competed seriously with our best keeping varieties. The apple crop in Canada appears to be singularly free this year from the attacks of insects and fungous diseases. It is quite probable that the codling moth will not be a serious pest but there are indications that the spot may yet develop to a slight, if not a serious, degree.

PEARS.

Pears, except in British Columbia will be a light crop. There will be very few for export but the quality of those will be good.

PEACHES AND PLUMS.

Peaches and plums are almost an absolute failure. They are, however, a few favoured sections where the winter did not materially affect these two fruits and in such orchards the crop will be medium.

The grape crop will be fairly good, but in the large producing districts of the Niagara Peninsular black rot has shown to a serious extent and it is impossible to predict the extent to which the crop will be curtailed by this pest.

SMALL FRUITS.

Strawberries have been very uneven. Where they were not winter killed the crop has been good, but the winter killing was so general that the yield has been a small one.

Raspberries were also a light crop.

INSECTS AND FUNGI.

Only one or two districts report serious depredations of insects and the indications at present are that fruit growers will be little troubled this year by either insects or fungous pests.

OTHER COUNTRIES.

The reports from the United States, particularly those portions that compete with Canada, indicate a large but not an extraordinary crop of fruit. The indications in England, France, Germany, Holland and Belgium point to a crop somewhat above the average.

GENERAL COMMENT.

The export trade for Canadian and American fall apples will be somewhat restricted, but owing to the better quality of our apples they will still have the preference in the European markets. There will be the necessity, however, of rigidly excluding all second quality fruit. Fall fruit of first-class quality will in all probability bring a fair price, but it is almost certain that second quality fruit will not bring much, if anything, over the cost of marketing. The supply of good winter stock of apples suitable for the British market during the months of January, February and March is not excessive, and it seems reasonable to expect that the demand will be almost equal to that of last year.

SELECTION OF STRAWBERRY PLANTS

A striking illustration of the value of plant and seed selection, as advocated by Prof. Robertson, is reported in the "Maritime Farmer" of July 19th by a New Brunswick correspondent. He says:—"A few days ago while visiting a neighbor, the conversation turned to berries, and he then showed me his patch. It was small but they were plants to be proud of. His plan is as follows:—He tells his children, when they are picking, to carry along some little sticks, pieces of lathe, and when they find an extra strong plant with a good fruit stem and plenty of berries, to put a stick down alongside it. After the berries are picked he takes up these plants and sets them out in a bed, letting them throw out runners in all directions. In the spring he has some fine plants to set, and his berries are improving every year."

Bobby Burns and the Mayor.

On one occasion, arriving at Carlisle on horseback, Bobby Burns is said to have turned his steed out to grass for awhile, and the animal strayed on to a meadow belonging to the corporation and got impounded. Although the horse was given up to him, the poet retaliated upon the mayor, whose tenure of office was to expire on the very morrow of the incident, as follows:

Was e'er puir poet sae befitted?
The maister drunk—the horse committed!
Fair harmless beast, tak' thee nae care;
Thou'lt be a horse when he's nae mair (mayor).

Sure to Be Overfed.

"Ah, doctor, glad to meet you," said Mr. Forsyte. "I wish you'd drop around to the house at about 9 this evening."

"None of the children sick, I hope?"

"No. But they will be when they get back from their grandmother's. They're there for supper."

Delicate Scorn.

"I observe that you invariably praise your rivals," said one actress.

"Yes," answered the other. "It's the wisest thing to do. It sounds magnanimous and also conveys the impression that you do not consider them worth being jealous of."

Chance For a Fortune.

A would be grateful public is waiting to reward the man who will invent a car window that can always be opened easily in summer, but can only be opened by consent of the majority in winter.

Economical.

Husband—You are not economical. Wife—Well, if you don't call a woman economical who saves her wedding dress for a possible second marriage I'd like to know what you think economy is like.

CON AMORE.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier as He Is Seen by An Enthusiastic Admirer in the House Press Gallery.

As the eyes of a maiden look to the hand of her mistress, so do the reporters in the galleries study the countenance of the Prime Minister at the opening of each sitting, writes the special Ottawa correspondent of The Toronto Star. Especially is this true of those whose location in the gallery prevents their seeing the faces of the members on the front rows of the Opposition benches. Sir Wilfrid is continually watching the Opposition, and his countenance in a measure reflects what he sees there, combined with his own attitude in view of what the Opposition is apparently going to do. When the Premier thinks, as the discussion begins to shape itself, that the Opposition are not playing fair or that the member on the floor deserves a castigation or a sharp rebuff, his frame stiffens, and his brow grows black with coming thunder. The characteristic of this session has been the Premier's physical "fitness." There is no appeal for sympathy in his countenance or any movement or attitude. He is ready for whatever comes, and the man must have good nerves and thick skin who can see that tightening of the frame, that flash of the eye, and gathering thunder, and know that he is the cause of it, without shrinking just a little from the coming storm. This session everything about the Premier indicates that he is a bad man to stir up.

Or it may be the First Minister sees where the man on the floor has made a false move, has forgotten a very inconvenient piece of history, or, perhaps, is only talking in a humorous way. Under such circumstances the Premier leans back in his seat, throws his head back, and while his physical eyes see the carved woodwork and prism glass of the ceiling, he is mentally conning over his reply. Pleasant smiles play over his face and the outline of his jocular reply can be seen.

As may be known to many, Sir Wilfrid is the deskmate of Sir William Mulock, while on his left sits Sir Richard Cartwright. As one or other of these Ministers is often out of the House, this leaves a vacant seat next the Premier, and, at other times, they accommodatingly move to an adjoining seat to give room for the Premier's visitors. When the House is in committee or when some subject is under discussion, say the Militia Bill, where another Minister is in charge, the Premier is comparatively free and members take advantage of the opportunity to press their views upon, or explain some matter to him. Sometimes it is Mr. Calvert, the chief Liberal Whip, alert, silent, and serious; upon whom the session seems to wear as much as upon anyone. Or it may be Mr. Taylor, the Conservative Whip, though, as a rule, Mr. Taylor transacts his business "outside the counter," from in front of the Premier's desk. At rare intervals, when some matter of procedure is being arranged, Mr. Borden, the leader of the Opposition, sits down gingerly and essentially as a visitor at the desk he hopes some day to occupy as a matter of right. Of another kind is the visit of Mr. Jean Baptiste Morin, of Dorchester, who has lived in the United States, and there learned to love his own country and the rights of a British subject better than ever. Mr. Morin, having built railways from the ground up, grows impatient with impossible projects to force railways over broken portions of Quebec or New Brunswick, when better routes (sometimes through Dorchester county), are available. He, therefore, feels when he crosses the House and talks hard, common sense, to his eloquent, but, as he believes, deluded fellow-countryman, he is doing good service to Canada. When Mr. Bourassa turns the chair about and faces the Premier, though his voice does not reach up to the gallery, the onlooker can almost imagine what he is talking about from his rapid and effective gesticulation. The Premier seems rather to like these visits, but, as a rule, he remains unconvinced.

He will laugh with Mr. Bourassa, but apparently will not agree with his enthusiastic reasoning. Some times it is a back bencher briefly making a request, sometimes it is Mr. Hance J. Logan of Cumberland, called by the irreverent "Handsome Hance," or Colonel Thompson the militia expert, the twin Apollos of the Government side. More frequently it is a member of the Cabinet who drops in for a brief whispered conversation about something going on in the House or about to come up. These visits sometimes stretch out and the Minister seems to be arguing out some rather important point. Upon such an occasion when the Premier does not take the same view as his colleague, and say "No," the onlooker realises how incomplete and erroneous is that view of Sir Wilfrid which represents him as a smiling jellyfish whose only skill is that of keeping the diverse elements in his Cabinet in harmony. To see him say "No," even at long range is to be convinced of his backbone and determination and to realise that behind the sunny ways there is a will of steel.

No Danger of a Salt Famine.

The amount of salt in the sea water of the globe, if extracted, would be greater in mass than the land so far as it appears above the surface. The seas cover 78 per cent. of the earth's surface, estimated at 9,260,000 (German) square miles. The percentage of chloruratrium in the sea is the same at all depths. Assuming that the average depth of the sea is a half (German) mile, there are then 3,400,000 cubic miles of sea water. A cubic mile of sea water contains on the average about twenty-five kilograms of salt. The 3,400,000 cubic miles of sea water would therefore contain 85,000 cubic miles of distilled pure salt.—From the German.

NATIONAL IDEALS.

As Its People Think So Is the Status of the Nation.

Thoughts are the mothers of deeds. A man's own desires are the worst tempters he has to fear. Whatever is most inside him he will live out sooner or later. The only way to reform him is to eradicate the evil from his heart. This can be done by supplanting the ignoble thoughts by a higher ideal.

We are just beginning to realize that the ruling world is the interior world. The social filth we see is but an indication of the mental filth we do not see. The greed everywhere apparent is the result of the love of money inculcated in the minds of the children for generations.

The fear of the law does not permanently reform men. If a man has it in his heart to steal and is deterred by dread of punishment, he will usually scheme around to overreach and cheat his neighbors in less hazardous ways. In other words, actions are ruled by internals, not externals.

Whatever the ideals of a people are will be shown in the national life. If they are greedy and covetous they will want conquest. If their chief aim is material wealth they will reverence and enthrone the man who has most of it. If they have little regard for the rights and liberties of others they will be less liable to resist oppression themselves. If they are corrupt in their hearts they will wink at corruption in others. In fact, they are more lenient toward a wrong that they would commit if they had the opportunity.

The roots of governmental wrongs are in the people themselves. The reform of the nation begins at the fireside. The man who would get society right must get right himself and teach others to get right. If we would have cleaner politics we must have cleaner hearts.

The world is just beginning to understand the power of thought and suggestion. Many a jailbird would do better if everybody did not regard and treat him as a thief. Many a woman who has gone wrong would get back into the right path if she had the help of a little love and confidence. Let everybody constantly suggest to a man that he is a rascal, and after awhile he may get to thinking so himself, and then he will become one.

Find out what a man thinks of most and you will be able to tell what kind of a man he is. His actions are only the outward expressions of his dreams. If his mind is full of carousing, of lewdness, of greed, of murder and he does not get rid of these thoughts, his actions finally will get in line with his desires.

The need is not only to guard the deeds and the words, but the thoughts. In them is the fountain head of evil. Set a warder on your mind. Quit thinking of the unworthy thing. Drive the unclean concept from you, for therein is the root of sin. You do not carry your exterior through the gates of death.

The man is not sinless who keeps his mind on the plane of wrong, filth and uncharitableness. Do you say you cannot control your thoughts? Oh, but you can. Use your will. That is sovereign. You are master, not your appetite. Your body is only a machine to obey you. It will rule you, it is true, if you are weak enough to let it. But, like a dog, it will be submissive if you assert and maintain your mastery.

Think of the good, the pure, the sweet, the beautiful. Every time you catch yourself thinking of something unworthy turn to nobler things. After a time the higher thinking will become a habit.

The Christ explained all these things perfectly, and it has taken us nineteen hundred years to begin to realize them. "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." Solomon expressed it also, "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." Some one else has put it, "To the pure all things are pure." And still another, "Evil to him who evil thinks."

Ideals are the dynamic force that rule the world. Keep your mind upon the true, the lofty and the loving, and your life will become as beautiful as the things you contemplate.

The Passing of the Home.

Thoughtful students of the currents and tendencies in American home life are having their attention arrested by the transformation which is taking place in domestic habits and surroundings in the large cities. One notable feature is the almost startling change in the house-building business in New York. The change in the organization of domestic life is indicated in the change from separate dwellings to the "tenement" and the "hotel," which has transformed New York from a city of private homes to a city of "associated dwellings." That change took three centuries in Paris; in New York it has taken but three decades. Last year only fifty-six dwellings, aggregating a cost of less than $3,000,000, were erected in New York, and the first half of the present year shows the total number of plans for private houses thus far is only thirty, and the cost less than a million. Of those eighteen are to be in Washington Heights, a residential suburb, while lower Manhattan, with its teeming life, will have only twelve.

This change from the separateness and independence of home life to the more complex and more artificial "associated dwelling" is fraught with danger to family training and to public welfare, says The Toronto Globe in commenting on the above facts, which every intelligent and reflective citizen must guard against and seek to avert. The change in some circumstances may be inevitable, but the supreme interests of the home and family must be preserved. The family is the unit of the Church and of the State, and in its well-being, its integrity and influence, every great public interest is involved.

Humor and Philosophy

PAYING THE FIDDLER.

When you're feeling pretty blue,
Don't know what you've done or said,
Feel as if you'd like to chew
Off some stupid fellow's head
Just to show him where he's at,
Throw a brickbat at the cat.

When your nerves are all unstrung,
Rasped and tortured through and through,
Do not try to hold your tongue;
Do just what you want to do—
Don't control yourself at all;
Kick the table through the wall.

Just give all your feelings vent;
Lay about from left to right;
Probably you will repent—
Doesn't matter; spit your spite
Out upon the fellow who Happens to run into you.

When your anger all is done,
When you've finished with your brawl,
You can have a lot of fun
Squaring up the bills for all
Damages your temper wrought.
This will give you food for thought.

The Mortgage.

High water never washes away the mortgage. It may uproot trees and take the hencoops sailing on down to the next state, but after the floods have subsided the mortgage is still there as firmly as though it had been anchored to the foundations of the earth and then nailed down to the sills of the barn to make it doubly secure.

Cyclones may blow away the wood shed, unroof the house or take the haystack on a Cook excursion over into another county, but when the blow is over it is always found that not even a corner of the mortgage has been jarred.

Talk about sticking closer than a brother! There is a friend that hangs to the place like a porous plaster. Thieves do not come in and steal it, the sun does not warp it; neither does it wander off down the road every time the gate is left open.

For a good, practical recipe for losing a mortgage, men would pay most any sum; but, try their best, they simply can't.

Why It Is There.

Though rain the prohibition state may fail

The drug store, always within hail,
Can break the fiercest drouth.

PERRY'S GREAT VICTORY

TRIUMPH OF MARKMANSHIP WHICH ADDS LUSTRE TO CANADA.

Some Bisley Records That Put the Reader An Fait With the Subject—The Famous Triple Tie Duel of 1899—How Kilmaa Lost by Shooting at the Wrong Target —The World's Greatest Rifle Club.

Private Perry's fine exploit at Bisley throws additional lustre on the Dominion of Canada, and in addition the winner gets the tangible N. R. A. gold medal, the N.R.A. gold badge and £250 in money. We had the distinction of sending a winner of the Queen's Prize from Canada once before. Nine years ago Hayhurst, the Hamilton man, defeated several hundred competitors in this great contest, and for the first time the champion rifle shot of the Empire's military forces was found elsewhere than in England or Scotland. Hayhurst got a great reception on his return home, and Hamilton people made a regular "Pretoria night" of it. That an equally warm welcome awaits Perry is certain, for the Western people are, to say the least of it, no whit less demonstrative than we of the effete east, says The Mail-Empire. We are particularly glad to see this famous prize go to Vancouver. Hitherto our fellow-countrymen on the Pacific coast have been too busy to concern themselves much with sports. When they do take a day off they are apt to make a killing.

Some Bisley Records.

Just what a triumph of marksmanship it is to win the King's Prize may be judged from the fact that sometimes there are 2,400 contestants. Just how many shot in the preliminary stages this year we do not know, but in all probability the number was not far short of 2,000. In the long history of this, the Riflemen's Derby, Scotch shots have won fourteen times, a Guernsey man won in 1899, a Canadian in 1895, and a Canadian again in this year of our Lord. Our grand aggregate is thus very satisfactory. One man had the supreme honor of winning this event twice. This was Ward, of the First Devon Regiment, who scored a victory in 1897, and again in 1900. Sergt. Wattleworth, of Liverpool, although he never won the blue ribbon of the breech-loader, has shot in the final stage several times, and is reckoned to be one of the best shots in the army. In 1897 and 1899 he won the Prince of Wales' Prize, and has been on an international team no fewer than seventeen times.

Famous Triple Tie.

Famous, indeed, are some of the duels in marksmanship that have been fought for the King's Prize, one of the most notable being that of 1899, when three men scored the same number of points, and were immediately ordered to shoot off. Praulx, Boyd and Anderson were the three who found themselves pitted against each other. In the regular shooting Boyd seemed to have had the prize at his mercy, because he was the last to shoot, and had only an insignificant lead to overcome. Victory seemed assured at the last shot. He had only to hit the target anywhere to win. So much depended on this single bullet that Boyd lost his nerve and to the dismay of himself and his friends he missed the target altogether. This made the tie, and in the shoot-off exactly the same thing happened. Boyd could have won by hitting the target anywhere, but again his last shot flew wide, and Praulx mounted the victor's chair.

This was the third time a triple tie had occurred in the shooting for the Queen's Prize, the previous occasions having been in 1861 and 1886. Another sensational incident was when a soldier named appropriately Kilman had all but won. He fired his last shot on the wrong target, and so the prize slipped from his fingers. In 1892 Pollock made a record which had never been equaled before, by winning at all three stages of the contest. Such a feat, all marksmen admit, is little short of wonderful, and almost equal to that of Ward with his double victory. The regimental record is that held by the Queen's Edinburgh. In the past thirteen years marksmen from this famous regiment have won the prize three times—1891, 1896, and 1901. The Third Lanarkshire had two victories, one in 1894, the other in 1898.

World's Greatest Rifle Club.

The National Rifle Association, under whose auspices the military rifle matches of the Empire are held, was founded in 1860, and is by far, the strongest rifle club in the world, with a membership of nearly 3,000 and assets of $350,000. Each year $60,000 in prizes is distributed, exclusive of the value of challenge trophies, that do not become the personal property of their winners. The King's Prize is the most famous of the competitions, but the Palma Trophy, the Kolapore Cups, the Grand Aggregate, the Volunteers' Aggregate, and the Evelyn Wood are known the world over as the greatest prizes that can fall to marksmen. The Palma Trophy, open to picked teams from any army in the world, was won by the American team last year, but was returned a few weeks ago because of the unpleasant scandal which attached to the performance of the riflemen from the United States.

Canadians at Bisley.

Canadians made their first appearance at Wimbledon on 1872, a team being despatched in a businesslike manner to capture the Kolapore Cup that had been offered for competition by the Rajah of that province a year before. To the surprise of their opponents, they won. In 1897 Australia sent a team for this express purpose also, and she also succeeded, repeating her victory in the following year. Since 1872 Canada has become well known at Wimbledon, and later, when the scene shifted, at Bisley. The Canadian bungalow is the largest of the regimental or national club-houses at Bisley, and is always the scene of much social gaiety during the riflemen's season. One after another the great prizes have fallen to our marksmen, and the names of Canadians—Hayhurst, Bertram, Perry—take their places among the Empire's great shots. This last victory should advertise the vastness of our native land as never before, for we can imagine an English rifleman enquiring:

"Say, Bill, where does this Perry live?"

"In Canada."

"Whereabouts in Canada?"

"On the Pacific Ocean, two or three thousand miles from the place Hayhurst came from!"

BANK LONG SINCE DEAD.

Old Bank Bill and Gold Coin Found in a Toronto Excavation.

It was an old tin can, dirty and rusty, about the size of a baking-powder tin. David C. Liddell, a cement plasterer, working on the new storage building of the Toronto Railway Company, in Yonge street, just north of Bloor, kicked it carelessly out of the way. Then, moved by curiosity, he picked it up, says The Star.

He drew out a soiled parcel, wrapped in an old newspaper, and tied with a string. He broke the string, opened the parcel, and found therein a number of bank notes, an American cent, and a small gold coin. The notes were those of the City Bank of Montreal, and were dated 1857. There was one ten, two fives, and thirteen four dollar notes. Each of them was signed, and each was decorated with odd figures and illustrations. The small gold coin was very thin and only 5-16 of an inch across. It was covered on both sides with hieroglyphics, somewhat resembling Chinese characters. The American cent bore the date of 1865. There was also a post-office deposit slip, undated and unsigned, but with the reckoning of the amount of the notes on it.

How long the notes had lain there is a question. The notes are of a rather good appearance, and have been well preserved, but the paper is not good stock, and the backs of the notes are a very pale color. On the front of some of the bills the word "Toronto" was printed in block letters. The notes total $72, but their present value will be considerably less than that. Liddell has already sold one of the $4 notes to a man who wanted it as a curiosity.

"There was a City Bank of Canada," said the manager of a Toronto bank. "I think it was merged into a Government bank. At all events, it was not one that failed of itself. I think it went into the Royal Canadian."

On looking up statistics on the subject, the manager found that his memory was not far astray. "I see here," he said, consulting a bound record, "that the City Bank and the Royal Canadian Bank were amalgmated in the Consolidated Bank of Montreal, which failed in August, 1879. However, both debts and deposits were paid, excepting some bank notes that had been stolen. These were unsigned, and not redeemable. The stolen bill were of the Consolidated Bank issue, not City Bank."

Cement Tests.

With the rapidly increasing use of cement in construction work, the time has come when a systematic system of testing cement should be established, says The Architect and Builder. It is quite as much to the interest of cement manufacturers and dealers all to the interest of owners, architects and builders, that all cement should be subjected to test. If this plan is not followed, we may expect to see failures in cement construction which will tend to weaken confidence in the material and greatly restrict its use. That there is a great deal of cement of poor quality on the market is a well known fact, and steps should be taken to prevent this material from getting into works of construction. A Canadian manufacturer of cement submitted a sample of his material to one of the Canadian scientific schools recently, and it failed to stand the hot test. If such was the result with a cement that may be supposed to have been specially selected for testing purposes, there is every reason to suppose that much of the cement bought and sold in the ordinary course of business is far below the proper standard of quality. In what way the testing of the material should be carried out is not quite clear. It has been suggested that the Government might inspect the material at the mills, as is done in Germany, but Governments are slow to act, and the adoption of a system might be indefinitely postponed if the Government were depended on to undertake the work. Perhaps a better plan would be for each city and town to adopt a regulation compelling all cement used within the municipality to be subjected to test. It is to be hoped that action will be taken in this direction at once, in order, as stated, that the development which Canada is now having, may not be retarded.

The Salmon Fisheries.

The steamer Nell, from the north, reported at Victoria the other day a big run of salmon at Rivers Inlet. The fish are so plentiful that some days the boats are not sent out. The Oceanic had 1,000 cases, the pack being considerably larger than that up to the same time last year. On the Skeena the run is not large, although it is stated the canners are satisfied. The number of spring salmon caught for this time of year is surprising. On the Naas, the run is also rather small, but both the Naas and Millbay canneries had each 500 cases up to the time of the sailing of the steamer for Victoria during the last week in July.

A BEAT THAT FAILED

HOW THE PLANS OF AN ENTERPRISING EDITOR WERE UPSET.

The Climax to the Great Dobbins-Domino Match Race as It Developed in the Office of One of the Metropolitan Afternoon Dailies.

"I never read of a close finish in a big running race nowadays that I'm not reminded of a famous punctured scoop in which I figured when I was working in a New York newspaper office," said an old time telegrapher who is now employed in Washington.

"It was back in the days when the great Domino was the star colt of the Keene stable and, with one exception, was acknowledged as the greatest two-year-old of the season.

"The exception was Richard Croker's flier Dobbins. These two youngsters finally met in the Futurity, and, although the Keene colt won, with Dobbins third, the latter's owner was not satisfied with the result, and a match was speedily arranged at the Futurity distance for $10,000 a side.

"Now, the paper I worked on was an evening sheet, and it was the ambition of the managing editor's life to beat the opposition evening paper and get the news of a big event like this on the street first.

"The other fellows had beaten us on the Futurity story a few days before, and the managing editor made no secret of the fact that he was going to get even.

"Accordingly he laid all of his plans a day ahead, and, although we did not know at the time what they were, we felt sure by the way he strutted around on the morning of the race that he had the winning combination up his sleeve.

"Along about noontime of that day the editor, the most nervous man I ever met, called me into his office and told me that, as the match race was the fifth event on the card, he wanted me to have one of the other operators take the result of the fourth race, and he also wanted me to get a wire in good working order and prepare to get the result of the fifth race.

"The scheme was to have two presses set and all ready to start. One of them was to have the big front page headline read 'Dobbins Wins the Big Match,' and the other just the same, except that Domino's name appeared in the place of Dobbins'. The Dobbins extra was on press No. 1 and the Domino extra on press No. 2. Whichever horse won, the managing editor was to call out No. 1 or No. 2, and the press would be started in quicker time than it takes to tell of the arrangement.

"I couldn't help but inwardly smile as I watched the managing editor striding nervously about, waiting for the start, just like a man who had thousands of dollars wagered on the chance of one of the racers.

"Suddenly the key of my instrument began to click, and he quickly stopped and looked anxiously at me, but it proved to be only the operator at the other end testing. Learning this, he resumed his walk up and down the room.

"Presently the key began to click again. This time the horses were on their way to the post. The next I got from the other end was that the horses were at the post and would be off in a minute. This information, instead of steadying the managing editor, only increased his jumpiness, for he ordered the men who were standing around to cease their talking and also called downstairs half a dozen times to know if everything was ready below in the press room.

"In the midst of this the key again began to work, and I called ont that they were off.

"The clicks of the instrument that followed now told me that they were moving along, nose and nose, at the quarter. At the half mile Domino was in the lead by a nose, and as I announced this I was watching the managing editor, and I could see his lips framing the words 'No. 2,' which was the Domino press.

"Dobbins just managed to shove his nose in front at the three-quarters and the boss moved nearer the speaking tube as I made this announcement. Coming into the stretch the two game colts were head and head, and the managing editor, with the mouthpiece of the speaking tube pressed tightly against his lips, was waiting for the result.

"Well, the result came along in good season. But never so long as I live shall I forget the expression on that editor's face when the key told me that the match race was a dead heat. I hesitated just a second before calling it out, for I could almost picture in my mind what effect it would have on him. Finally I called out in as firm a voice as I could, 'Dead heat!'

"Well, that editor's knees just gave way from under him. If he had not grabbed a chair I am positive he would have fallen to the floor.

"'Dead heat?' he gasped, with a livid face. 'Are you sure?'

"I told him that it had been repeated to me and that there could be no mistake. He was too dumfounded to move for two or three seconds, but when he saw all of the men who were about to jump to their places ready to throw together a new scare head, while others hustled around to find the stereotypers, who almost to a man had gone out of the building, he came to in a jiffy and was the same old hustler.

"Everybody took hold and worked harder probably than he ever worked before or since, and although we didn't beat the opposition paper, as we were so certain of doing, we were on the street only a minute or so behind it. We afterward learned that they had made exactly the same arrangements to beat us and had been fooled in precisely the same way."

MILL BLOWN UP.

Two Men Killed in South Norfolk County in Sawmill Wreck.

Langton, Aug. 12.—About five o'clock yesterday afternoon a fatal boiler explosion occurred at Smith's saw mill, on the 9th concession, Walsingham Township, two men being killed and one seriously injured.

The dead are: Isaac Lewerg, Norman Wingrove. The injured man is John Lelvorage. He will recover.

The explosion wrecked the mill, which caught fire. The men were just about preparing to quit work for the night.

Japs and Germany.

Tokio, Aug. 13.—It is anticpated that the Japanese Government will immediately make representations to Germany concerning the Russian warships which have taken refuge at Tsingchou.

The Friend's Convention.

Toronto, Aug. 13.—About 1,500 people attended the formal public welcome of the Friends' General Conference, held for the first time in Canada, at Massey Hall last night. Dr. Jaaney of Baltimore, occupied the chair. Addresses of welcome for the city by Mr. S. Alfred Jones, Acting-Mayor, and Hon. G. W. Ross for the Province and Canada, were both fine efforts in this direction, and were as unique in this respect as the visitors from the South and from England. The feature of the evening was an address on "The Friend and His Message" by Principal Graham of Dalton Hall, Manchester, England, who prefaced his set address with the remark that he could not avoid replying to the words of the Premier. No word brought the heart to the throat and the moisture to the eyes of Englishmen like a reference to their countrymen overseas, who helped to preserve that Britannic peace under which to-day dwelt one-fourth of the human race. The sessions continue three times daily until Thursday night of next week.

New Hope—New Courage.

Persons whose nerves are affected get blue and discouraged, are easily irritated and annoyed and also learn to look on the dark side. The restorative influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, soon shows itself on the feelings. It gives new hope and courage, new energy and confidence. By creating nerve force it affords new vigour and vitality for both and body.

Fall Was Fatal.

Hamilton, Aug. 13.—Pat Landers, who fell out of a window in the Bricklayers' and Masons Hall Thursday night, died last night about 11 o'clock. His neck was broken, but he lived 24 hours after he fell.

When an Iceberg Turns Turtle.

Think of sections bigger than Rhode Island being torn from a glacier and swept off into the ocean, to be ferried 3,000 miles on the bosom of the Labrador current until the heated waters of the gulf stream cause them to vanish from human ken. Then can one form some idea of the immensity of the ice area discharged from the Greenland seas each year. Thousands of miles of valley are constantly emptying their contents into the bays and fiords of the north waters, whence the tides hurry the detachments southward to cumber the wide Atlantic.

The disposition of icebergs to turn turtle is one of their most dangerous propensities. It arises from several causes. When they start out from Greenland their bottoms are heavy with the detritus gathered in their glacial period, and this drops off at intervals as they move south, causing their center of gravity to change and the berg to assume new positions. The scientific theory of the formation of the vast submarine plateaus which extend from Labrador to Fundy, and are commonly known as the Grand banks of Newfoundland, is that they are the products of bergs during countless ages.

Cannibalistic Scorpions.

During many years of scorpion hunting I never remembered to have seen two individuals living together in amity, and even their more tender relations are tainted at times with the unamiable habit of cannibalism. The males are decidedly smaller than their mates, whom they approach accordingly with the utmost caution. If the fair inamorata doesn't like the looks of her advancing suitor she settles the question offhand by making a murderous spring at him, catching him in her claws, stinging him to death and making a hearty meal off him. This is scarcely loverlike. On the other hand, if a dubious wife, the female scorpion is a devoted mother. She hatches her eggs in her own oviduct, brings forth her young alive—unlike her relations, the spiders—and carries them about on her back, to the number of fifty, during their innocent childhood, till they are of an age to shift for themselves in the struggle for existence.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Marcellus O'Dette, an Old Resident, Passes Away.

Marcellus O'Dette, one of the old residents of Peterborough, died on Saturday night about ten o'clock, at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. W. J. O'Brien, George street, after an illness of about eleven weeks, during which time he suffered from liver trouble.

The deceased had been a resident of Peterborough for 43 years, and for 37 years he was engaged in his occupation as a fisherman, and no one in Peterborough knew these waters better than the late Mr. O'Dette.

He was born in Boruway, Quebec, 76 years ago, and was married almost 50 years ago, and his wife is left to mourn his demise, with Messrs. J. B., of Peterborough; J. A. of Wolverine, Mich.; and Eustache, his sons, and Mr. Cullin, of Columbia, Pa., and Mrs. W. J. O'Brien, of town the daughters.

The funeral took place this morning from the residence of his son-in-law, to St. Peter's cathedral, and the Roman Catholic cemetery for interment.

COLONIAL INK CO'S ANNUAL MEETING.

Last Year's Business Shows Satisfactory Returns.

The New Officers of the Company—Prospects for the Future.

The second annual meeting of one of Peterborough's most promising industrial companies was held on Friday night in the head office of the Colonial Ink Company, Hunter street, when a good representation of the shareholders of the above mentioned company met to receive the reports of the officers of the past year, the second in the history of the company.

The reports presented showed that the business of the company is growing satisfactorily, that of the last three months having been highly satisfactory.. The goods manufactured here are being introduced throughout Canada, and the trade is taking hold of them in an enthusiastic manner, and as a consequence sales are increasing rapidly. The quality of the product is apparently all that can be desired, a fact, the truth of which is attested to be the growth of the sales during the past year, which, a director of the company stated, were considerably above expectation. In view of this fact, and also that the future prospects of the company are apparently very bright, there was a feeling of optimism prevailing among the shareholders at the recent meeting.

The following Board of Directors was elected to represent the shareholders during the coming year:

Messrs. G. C. Martin, G. W. Holmes, W. Marshall, C. B. McAllister, John Crane, Hugh Waddell, J. Francis O'Connor, A. H. Stratton, and at a subsequent meeting of the directors, Mr. G. C. Martin was elected president, and Mr. A. H. Stratton vice-president.

The company is now in an excellent financial condition, and if present prospects are any criterion the business during the coming year should largely increase.

A STONY LAKE BIG FISH STORY

A New Way of Capturing the Wily Lunge.

A fish story on a new line—or rather, without a line at all—comes from Stony Lake. And the unique feature about it is that it is a true one. On Saturday evening there were standing chatting on the wharf at "Oakdene," Mr. George Morrow's island, himself, Capt. Grylls and a boy. It was partially dark. Suddenly the boy called out, "There's something in the water." He and Captain Grylls put out in a canoe. The latter saw a fish swimming at the surface of the water and struck it with a paddle. The fish disappeared, it was thought, under the canoe. In a moment it came to the surface and Capt. Grylls gaffed it with his fingers and landed it in the boat. It was a 15 1-2 pound muskinonge. It was noticed that evening that for some reason the lunge were swimming close to the surface.

HOW THE CZAR'S BABY GOT THE NAME "ALEXIS"

Would You be Surprised if it was of Japanese Origin?

"Say, boss, kin I go to the Printers' Picnic?"

The printers' devil of the Examiner is something of a genius. His strong point isn't spelling according to orthodox orthographical prejudices. And, as he sets up the headlines, and forgets to hand down the "proof," there's often a little "picnic" when the paper comes out. But he likes the other kind better.

"Say, boss, kin I go to the picnic?"

"Yes, if you'll spell the word 'Czarevitch' right."

"I dunno; I can't spell the 'Czar' part, but I can spell the "which" part — 'w-h-i-t-c-h.'"

"Mebbe I ain't much of a speller, but I'm quite a puuner. If I make a good pun will you let me go to the picnic?"

"Yes; out with it."

"Well, it's about the Rooshian Czar namin' his new baby, 'Alexis.' Tain't the old yarn 'bout namin' Cheboygan out in Michigan, where a old Injun chief's squaw had several babies, all boys. When a new baby come, the old chief, when he was told about it, would say, 'She, boy agin,' and they called the name of the place 'Cheboygan.'

"Well, you know the Jap has been given' it to the Rooshian in the neck. And every day, and sometimes two or three times a day, an officer would come into the Czar, and the Czar he would ask, 'Well, wot's the Japs doin' now?'

"Then the officer he would crack his heels together, and makin' a deep bow, would answer, like in Richard-the-Lion story books — 'He licks us.' This thing went on so much that the words got scared into the Czar's brain like a red-hot poker.

"But when the ryle baby come the Czar felt better, and when the officer come in with his everlastin' 'He licks us,' he says, says he:

"'We'll get on better now, the new Czar will take the field and lick the Japs, and dictate terms of peace from Tokio.'

"The officer made his deep bow and backed out — them Rooshians is great at backin' out — and the Czar, thinkin' all the time about the ryle baby, he says, says he — 'Wot No! chamberlain, wot does the Czaress want to name the little chap?'

"The officer, thinkin' all the time about the enemy, and mistaken 'little chap,' for 'little Jap,' he says, says he — 'He licks us.'

"'Alexis!' says the Czar, so be it.'

"'Alexis' is a hully name. It means 'helper,' and I don't know anybody wot needs a helper mor'n the Rooshians. So be it. It is our Imperial will that the baby's name shall be 'Alexis.'"

GREAT CANADIAN ENGINEER.

Important Work Done by Thomas S. Rubidge.

Might Have Been Consulting Engineer for Panama Canal.

Many persons, in town and country, who will remember the late Mr. T. S. Rubidge, will read with interest the following sketch of his career from the Mail and Empire:

By the death at Cornwall of Thos. S. Rubidge, a former resident of Peterborough, who died about two months ago, Canada has lost one of her most eminent civil engineers. Mr. Rubidge was born at Oxford, England, in the twenties, the son of Mr. J. W. Rubidge, a celebrated painter, who died when the son was a mere boy. On his father's death he was sent to Canada to an uncle, Captain Charles Rubidge, a retired naval officer living in Peterborough. While still quite a lad he began his engineering career in Canada, under the Board of Works, and in 1844 we find that he was in charge of work on the Iroquois Canal, River St. Lawrence.

From the most reliable data obtainable the following appear to include the greater part of his professional life: 1844-48, ou engineering staff, Williamsburg Canals, and resident engineer at Iroquois; 1852-60, engineering staff of the Grand Trunk Railway, in charge of surveys and construction between Cornwall and Prescott; 1860-63, engineering staff Board of Works in charge of harbour and other surveys in Ontario; 1865-72, Intercolonial Railway Surveys and construction in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia; 1872-82, St. Lawrence Canals, engineer in charge of surveys for a fourteen foot navigation, Lake St. Francis to Kingston; 1881-88, superintending engineer in charge of Trent Canal's surveys and construction; 1888-1904, superintending engineering St. Lawrence canals, for 14 foot navigation, including intermediate river reaches. It was however as an hydraulic engineer that Mr. Rubidge was best known, and it was the improvement of the navigation of the River St. Lawrence between Montreal and Kingston, to which his great experience and ability were principally directed.

Upon the death of Mr. John Page in 1890, Mr. Rubidge was offered the position of chief engineer of canals by the late Sir John A. Macdonald. This honour he declined as he preferred to devote his remaining days to the improvement of the St. Lawrence route. A few years ago it was intimated to him, that he would be appointed one of the consulting engineers of the Panama Canal, if he were willing to accept the position; this he also declined, and at the time of his death the commission for the construction of the New York barge canal were about to offer him the position of consulting engineer, he having been unofficially notified of their intention. As an hydraulic engineer Mr. Rubidge was not only a man of great ability, but he was always abreast of the times. With him civil engineering was a progressive science, and he was ever ready to discard old methods the moment that he found that modern ones were better.

It was not only as an engineer that Mr. Rubidge was known, for we find that during the "Trent affair," in October, 1861, he was requested by the General Officer Commanding to raise a field battery for service along the St. Lawrence River and Canals between Cornwall and Prescott. This he at once did, and for several years Captain Rubidge was in command of it. As a recognition of his services he received a medal from the Canadian Government some years ago and the title deeds to a grant of land in Northern Ontario from the Provincial Government.

THE ANNIVERSARY AT PARK STREET.

The Baptist Sunday School Celebrates its Sixteenth Anniversary.

THE MARCH OF PROGRESS.

Special Services Yesterday — Rapid Growth of the Cause—Children's Afternoon Service—A New Place of Worship.

The sixteenth anniversary of the establishment of the Park street Baptist Sunday school was celebrated yesterday by services of a special character in the church, in the morning, afternoon and evening.

This event was one of more than usual interest and importance to the church referred to. It is sixteen years ago since the Sunday school, which in this case was the forerunner of the church, was first started in a little frame school house on Dalhousie street, and it is with no small degree of satisfaction that the present efficient superintendent, of the school, Miss Mann, may recall the fact that during those sixteen years she has faithfully stood by the school through its difficulties as well as its triumphs, and it is no secret to those connected with the school, and those who are acquainted with its history, that a very considerable portion of the present success is due to Miss Maun's work.

From the Sunday school a mission developed, and later a church, not, however, without a struggle, for Rev. J. E. Trotter, who at the time of the establishment of the Park street church, was pastor of the Murray street church, recorded yesterday how that some of the members of the mother church were fearful of the effect that another Baptist church in town would have upon the Murray street church.

These objections, however, were over-ruled, and the church was established, and has prospered ever since, and at the present time the size of the congregation worshipping there is so large that it has outgrown the accommodation of the present structure, and upon the walls of the church hang two frames containing the architect's plans of a new church which the people are now preparing to erect to replace that at present used, and which is too limited in its accommodation.

The services yesterday in commemoration of the anniversary occasion were attended by large congregations, the church being crowded at the three services.

In the morning, to a congregation composed largely of children, the pastor preached a very appropriate sermon on "Nature's Luxuriance," taking for his text, "Consider the Lilies of the Field," which, in view of the beautiful floral decorations with which the front of the church was filled, was a particularly apt subject, and one which the speaker handled very creditably.

THE AFTERNOON SERVICE.

In the afternoon the church was again filled, and a programme contributed to largely by the members of the school, was given. The pastor acted as chairman of the gathering, and Rev. Mr. Trotter, of Port Hope, was on the platform with him, and offered the opening prayer, followed the hearty singing of a hymn. The lesson for the day was read by the superintendent, Miss Mann, after which a song by the members of the infant class, was very nicely given by the little ones. Mr. Haddon's class recited the 23rd Psalm, and a song was given by Mr. Fair's class.

Rev. Mr. Trotter was then called upon for an address, and upon rising congratulated the officers of the school upon the signal success which had attended their efforts, and upon the present prosperous condition of the school. He reviewed the circumstances surrounding the beginning of the work in that part of the town, and said that the success which had attended the work there was ample proof of the need of the school and church, and a vindication of the wisdom of the policy represented by its establishment. The fact that the Murray street church was never so strong as at present proves that Park street church's formation had been beneficial to the mother church.

Many of those who were prominent in the school in the early days had removed, but their places had been filled by others who were equally as zealous, and the work still continued. He believed that there was a great work for the church to do in that part of the town, and he urged them to push forward in the work.

A solo by Miss Rena Johnston was next on the programme, and was followed by a chorus from Mrs. Jewitt's class, when the pastor gave a short address, which interested the children thoroughly. A solo by Master Trainor, and a recitation by little Miss Edna Boyle, closed the afternoon's service.

That the members of the school are taking a deep interest in the building of the new church, was evidenced by the fact that they have presented to the fund for its erection a considerable amount.

FULL CHURCH AT NIGHT.

At the evening service the church was again filled, and those who attended heard a thoughtful as well as practical sermon, which should prove very beneficial to those who heard it. The subject of the remarks made by the pastor, was "The Church's Problem," and in dealing with this important subject he said:

The subject suggests to us the driftwood in the eddies. There the driftwood is easily influenced and carried off. Our youth are also very easily influenced for good or evil. The great Edmond Burke the great Irish statesman and philosopher said we must begin with the children themselves. Though the mind of the child is as impressible as wax. When that impression is once made there it is as durable as if made in iron. In God's name and for the children's sake let's make it then.

The great value of the drift in this case—the soul value, the brain power the enthusiasm of youth, the magnitude of the personality, the sphere of influence.

I notice again that the drifting perish. They play in the eddies. They surge into the rapids and leap on to the cataract to their destruction. This means a deserted home. Family altar and domestic circle broken up. A forsaken church, school without help, church without officers and the life boat without a crew. Our year book warns us that something must be done right away to arouse our people to see the golden opportunity which is slipping away from them to bring their boys and girls to Christ while they are young. We pause here and ask a question. Are we pessimistic? Are we talking of a supposed case, or are we facing a problem? Are we up against stubborn facts which make us plead guilty with shame and confusion of face. Let me give you a quotation here at the Bay of Quinte Conference in Peterborough in June last. The Rev. Bartlett, in a rousing address which I read with much interest, said "The membership of our Sunday School decreased last year. The decrease in Canada was very great. He asked what are we to do to prevent it? He said as a matter of fact the pastors appear ready to look at the children as belonging to the Evil One and not until after the age of 16, 15 or 14 do they make any attempt to bring them into the church. So concerned are they that three of the best men in the church were set apart at the last general conference to inquire into the question.

But let us look at home. Our roll of Sunday School membership had an increase of 94, but in the average attendance we had a loss. Our young people's work does not appear to any better advantage. The young and brilliant president struck a doleful key when he said: "The young people's movement has reached a transition stage. The enthusiasm which greeted the movement at its inception has largely vanished and the movement is now at ebb tide. We have taken our bearings. We have examined facts. We are beginning to see where we are at. Our young people are drifting. Now for the cause.

I unhesitatingly make the statement it is palpable and wholesome indifference to the salvation of children.

A superintendent riding through a town saw a fine brick church with other buildings attached. "What is that?" he said to the driver. A French Roman Catholic church. On a little further he passed a delapidated wooden building, broken blinds and sadly in need of a coat of paint. "What's that?" A Congregational church. "What makes the difference? Driver —They take care of the children and these don't. There was a sermon in that. Cause. I have a two fold indictement against the home and the church.

Parental indifference to church and school for both self and the children. A little prayer thought for self, a little gentle pressure on children would find all attending the services of the sanctuary.

Parental unconcern to spiritual interests of child.

My second indictement against church. The church is guilty.

This shelving of the children by the church is cruel.

In facing this question Spurgeon said There are many who have no great faith in the conversion of children. They look upon a converted child as a kind of curiosity to be put into a museum. Others believe it is very desirable and possible yet they have strong suspicion of the piety of any child who is brought to believe in the Lord Jesus.

I cannot tell why he says the advantage is rather on the side of the child than the adult of two cases of conversion one 13 and one at 60. I would look on the elder with greatest suspicion.

I have never had to exclude one who was received into the church while yet a child.

Dr. Shaw, of Rochester, says, I believe it is the church that is keeping so many dear little ones away from Christ.

Never have I yet, he says, kept a child waiting at the door of the church if he gave any satisfactory evidence that he loved the Saviour and was trusting Him.

A Baptist pastor says, my four child ren gave evidence of change of heart at 6, 8, 9, 10, asked for church membership and received it. When they were born I did not think their physical health would improve by making them live in the barn instead of house and I did not favour any corresponding treatment as their second birth, and 12 years experience since my children started convinced me more and more of the importance of saving the children.

I want to say in my indictement of the church: this passing by the children is wilful neglect and it is having its reflex influence in their drifting.

The devil will never ask any more of a minister than to have him feel that his mission was chiefly to the grown up people, while anyone else was to look after the children.

Many pastors, more deacons and a number of teachers say children under 13 are too young to take upon themselves the responsibility of church membership. They don't understand things. They will be inconsistant. The result of such rearponing is the children are left to drift into hardened sinners, learn of the devil and become active members of the "Endeavour to do wicked society". President.

The devil does not think they are too young, but just the material for him to work upon

Mr. W. E. O. White read a paper at the last Toronto Convention. He gives startling figures on saving the young people. Out of 1,963 teachers nearly 880 were converted under 20; some at 8, 9, and 10

Baptisms with boys are rare over 17. He says when scholiars are baptized at the age of 8, 10 and 12. They should be admitted to church membership.

Dr. Wallace's testimony.— I can recall no case of deception during my pastoral experience in which members had joined the church under 13. I do not know on what ground the church could refuse membership.

Dr. Elmore Harris.—The church records make members that the conversion of the child and church membership is according to the mind of the Holy Spirit.

The plaster must be as large as the soul. The home and the church are greatly in the drifting and they must take the leading part in the remedial measures.

An altar for God must be erected in every home. This is the touch-stone of the consecrated lives of the children. Could take up the morning with cases of conversion at family altar. Parents should manifest deep anxiety for child and soul. That's the spirit for every parent.

A little girl was asked at the inquiry meeting if her parents were Christians. Oh, yes, and they will be so glad I have given my heart to Jesus. The father stood beside her as he heard her, breaking up and said so loud as all could hear, "My daughter has truly found the Saviour. She has found a fortune. I would rather hear this than to hear that she had made a million dollars.

There must be an example in school and church by the parents or grown ups. Take a class in the Sunday School or a seat in the Bible Class.

The whole church machinery must be focussed upon the young for three things: to attract, interest and save. The salvation of the children is the only cure.

Our veriest child must be led to Jesus and to the shelter of the blood. Woe unto us if we preach not the gospel to the children.

Teachers should study the lesson should be held with directions and point an after meeting with personal talks. With children from six upwards. There can be nothing substituted for the personal pointed talk about salvation.

Do you converse privately with your scholiars about the salvation of their souls.

The children are waiting for you to turn to them and you shall see their dear little anxious faces waiting to come to Jesus.

A steamer coming from California on fire ran toward shore. A miner was buckling his belt of gold around his waist. A pleading voice arrested him. Please Sir, can you swim. A child's blue eyes were piercing his very soul as he looked upon her. Yes, child, I can swim. Well, sir, won't you please save me. I can't save both. I must save the child and leave the gold. Yes! yes! little girl I'll try to save you. He unbuckled his belt and cast it away. Stooping down he bade her clasp her arm around his neck. There hang now and I'll try to make the land. With heart thrills

BRITAIN'S AGED POOR.

Some Noteworthy Figures From a Blue Book Recently Issued.

From a Blue-book dealing with old folks in receipt of parish relief in England and Wales in September, 1903, it appears that the number of paupers over 60 years of age was 338,634, and of these 48,064 were in London. The number over 16 years of age was 490,513, including 71,056 in London. The ratio per cent. of paupers over 60 to the total number of paupers over 16 was 69.0 (67.6 in London and 69.3 in England and Wales); and the ratio per cent. of paupers over 60 to the total population of the same age, according to the cens. of 1901, was 14.1 (15.8 in London and 13.8 in England and Wales). Of the 338,634 paupers (123,675 men and 214,959 women) over 60 years of age, 95,684 (56,471 men and 39,213 women) were in the workhouses and 242,950 (67,204 men and 175,746 women) were receiving outdoor relief.

The total number of indoor paupers over 60 years of age who, in the opinion of the medical officers of the institutions in which the paupers were maintained, could not satisfactorily take care of themselves owing to mental or physical infirmity is set down at 57,942 (30,769 men and 27,173 women); and the number of other paupers over 60 who were not described as being in this condition is given at 37,742 (25,702 men and 12,040 women). The indoor paupers who were described as being unable to satisfactorily take care of themselves by reason of mental or physical infirmity formed 60.6 per cent. of the total number of indoor paupers over 60, and 17.1 per cent. of the total number of both indoor and outdoor paupers over that age. It will be observed that the proportion in this condition in the case of women was much larger than in the case of men.

Returns relating to old-age pauperism were presented to Parliament in August, 1890, in January, 1892, in July 1899, and January, 1900. The figures are tabulated and compared with those of the present return. It appears that the paupers of 65 years of age and upwards on Aug. 1, 1890, numbered 245,687. On Jan. 1, 1892, the number was 268,397; on July 1, 1899, the number was 278,718; and on Jan. 1, 1900, the number was 286,929; while the present return gives the total of 284,265. In comparing these figures allowance must be made for the fact that the number of paupers is always higher in January than in July, August, or September, and also for the fact that the returns for Aug. 1, 1890, and Sept. 1, 1903, excluded, whereas the returns relating to the other dates did not exclude, persons who were only in receipt of relief constructively by reason of relief being given to wives or children. After making such allowances, it appears that the proportion of paupers over 65 years of age in the total number of adult paupers has not varied much, though it has risen since Jan. 1, 1892, and that the proportion of paupers over 65 years of age to the estimated number of persons in England and Wales over that age on the respective dates has remained almost the same.

English Election Humors.

The cable recently told us that the Chertsey bye-election was fought almost wholly on the issue of Chinese labor in the Transvaal. The English papers to hand give some instances of this. Mr. Palmer Newbound, the Liberal agent, hit the prevailing taste with a little song called the "Happy Rand:"

There is a happy land,
Far, far away;
Where impoverished ratepayers pay
ONE bob a day.
There Chin-Chins toil all day,
And, toiling, sadly say,
"Chinee man likee be Far, far away."

Once on that gold Rand—
He can't get away;
His not to question why,
But to obey.
Barbed wire surrounds teth him,
And police with faces grim,
Staves in hand, they slowly stag,
"Toil, toil all day."

There WAS a happy land
NOT far away;
Britain, we called that land,
Not far away.
But if Joe has his way,
And we allow his sway,
PIGTAILS will soon be seen
NOT far away.

There was great demand for a poster which read: "Wanted, for employment in the coal mines of Great Britain, 200,000 Chinese. Salary, 30s. a month. Deities (of the best Birmingham make) and chopsticks provided. Genial overseers. Gentlemen will be expected to bring their own birds'-nests. Opium allowed. Beri-beri discouraged, but all corpses returned at owner's risk to China. A warm climate guaranteed. Finger-prints preserved. Apply, stating age, weight, and length of pigtail, Messrs. Schoustein & Fleecem, 1904, Park lane, W."

Jubilee of a Great Library.

Such an event as the celebration of the diamond jubilee of so well known an institution as "Mudie's" circulating library in London, cannot be allowed to pass unnoticed. When the late Mr. E. C. Mudie gave up selling newspapers in his little shop in Southampton row in the year 1854, and instead started a small circulating library of the best books, he never had it in his mind that his modest venture would in time make his name famous all over England. A visit behind the scenes at Mudie's at the present day is a revelation. The ordinary popular novel in the cellars of Mudie's vast premises ("catacombs" the proprietor calls them) may be found stored endless thousands of works of fiction that have had their little day, and passed away. One development of modern civilization, and one only, Mudie's have set their face against—this is the telephone. The reason is obvious. Everybody knows the hash that is made of book titles even by quite intelligent applicants; to have them shouted over the telephone would make matters ten times worse!

LORD AYLMER.

Sketch of the Man at the Head of the Canadian Militia Force and History of His Family.

The Marquise de Fontenoy, writing to The New York Tribune, says:

Lord Aylmer, who has been appointed to the command of the Canadian militia, in the place of the Earl of Dundonald, has been adjutant-general of that force for many years, and is, indeed, I believe, its senior officer. Like his father, the late Lord Aylmer, who died about three years ago at the age of nearly 90, he was born in Canada, and has spent his entire life in the Dominion, where he owns landed property to the extent of some 16,000 acres. It was the present Lord's grandfather, a captain of the royal navy, who first took up his residence in Canada not long after the American war of independence, and married there, leaving a very large number of descendants. The first Lord was raised to the peerage by Queen Anne for his services as an admiral, and died as

LORD AYLMER.

Governor of Greenwich Hospital. The third Lord married a Miss Ann Pierce, a daughter of William Pierce of Richmond, Va., and while there are no descendants of this peer in the male line, yet there are still living in Virginia some descendants of his only daughter, who died as a Mrs. Tencke.

Lord Aylmer's family was founded by Sir Gerald Aylmer, who was Lord Chief Justice of Ireland in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, who was likewise the founder of the family of Sir Arthur Aylmer of Donadea Castle, in County Kildare. The last named married a daughter of J. Douglas Reid of New York, the union being however, dissolved some ten or fifteen years ago.

In Ireland, which the Aylmers regard as the land of their origin, they are considered as pursued by ill-luck, and in County Kildare, the cradle of the race, grim whispers are still to be heard about fate not yet having done its worst. One of the most shocking tragedies in the annals of this house was the death of John Harrison Aylmer, with his wife, his eldest son, Arthur, his niece, and several servants, while on their way from London to Ireland some years ago. The express train on which they were traveling to Holyhead ran into a number of trucks containing barrels of paraffine left on the main line near Abergele, a small station in North Wales. No one quite knows, or will ever know, just what happened. The force of the explosion killed all in the front carriages of the express, and the conflagration which followed obliterated every evidence of the terrible destruction. Not one of the Aylmer party escaped, and the only trace ever found of them or of theirs was a small dressing case, with young Arthur Aylmer's monogram, discovered in the wreckage of the luggage van. Two sons, who had been left at home, escaped the disaster. One of them was killed in South Africa; the other, now owner of Walworth Castle, near Darlington, served under Lord Dundonald in the relief of Ladysmith.

Housework.

A very wise preacher rises to remark: "That woman's work is never done is usually her own fault. The great knack of getting on in doing housework is to know which duties may be slighted, thus gaining time to expend upon those which demand one's best efforts. The woman who spends the same length of time ironing a sheet that she spends in ironing a damask tablecloth ought to work from sun to sun and even far into the night." Of course the woman who spends so much time on her sheets will claim that "what is worth doing at all is worth doing well," but the question comes simply in the meaning of the word well. The woman who spends a great deal of time on things which are of little or no importance never has the time for great duties.

Too Much For Him.

"Oh, sees langvage!" complained the distinguished foreigner. "Your wife he is upstairs when I come in and you call to beem: 'Monsieur d'Esprit have arrive. Hurry up and come down.'"

Takes Longer.

Husband—How is it that women's club of yours keeps you out so much later than it used to? Wife—Oh, we've made a new rule that only one member can speak at a time.

A Word of Warning.

HORSESHOE LUCK.

A Superstition Common to Nearly All Races and Nations.

The origin of belief in "horseshoe luck" is so ancient that it never has been determined with certainty, and no superstition is more universal. Ever since horses began to wear shoes those crescents of iron have been accounted lucky emblems of all peoples, races and nations that have been acquainted with their use.

The Chinese, for instance, say they nail them up over their doors as a charm against evil spirits because of the close resemblance in shape between them and the arched body of the sacred snake, Nagendra, one of their principal deities.

Ask a Turkish Mohammedan for information on the subject and he will tell you that it is because they are in form like a crescent, the sacred emblem of Islam.

A Polish Jew will explain that at the passover the blood sprinkled upon the lintel and doorposts, in the manner directed by their ritual, forms the chief points of an arch; hence, obviously, the value of arch shaped talismans such as horseshoes are.

The stolid and unimaginative Russian peasant, on the other hand, maintains that the luck associated with the horseshoe is due chiefly to the metal, irrespective of its shape, iron being traditionally a charm wherewith to nullify the malevolent designs of evil spirits and goblins.

Very different is the story by which the Irishman seeks to account for his liking for the same talismanic symbol. The name "Ironland" or "Ireland," he will tell you, originated as follows:

The whole island was once submerged in the sea, out of which it only rose once in seven years, and then only for a very short time. Many attempts had been made to break the spell and induce the country to remain permanently above the waters, but all were vain until one day a daring adventurer threw a horseshoe from a boat on to the topmost peak of the Wicklow mountains just as they were disappearing beneath the waves. Then at last was the ban removed. The Emerald Isle began forthwith to rise again from the ocean depths into which it had sunk. And it has been dry land—more or less—ever since.

In England, up to comparatively recent times, horseshoes were extensively used almost everywhere as anti-witch charms, and the custom is not even yet an extinct one. No witch, it used to be said, could enter a building over the door of which a horseshoe—or, better still, three horseshoes—had been affixed, prongs downward.

The origin of this particular belief is referable to the old legend of St. Dunstan. This versatile English ecclesiastic was a skilled farrier, and one day while at work in his forge the evil one entered in disguise and requested Dunstan to shoe his "single hoof." The saint, although he at once recognized his malign customer, acceded, but caused him so much pain during the operation that Satan begged him to desist. This Dunstan did, but only after he had made the evil one promise that neither he nor any of the lesser evil spirits, his servants, would ever molest the inmates of a house where a horseshoe was displayed.

A Dutch Fishing Village.

At Marken, a fishing village of Holland, few men are to be seen, as they are nearly always out at sea in their boats. Those whom one does see are like Dutchmen in a play, in queer headgear, in the most voluminous knickerbockers that ever delighted the heart of a caricaturist and having on clattering wooden shoes, which are, as a coasting skipper once said, the surest preventive of colds and of "cold feet" (which he spoke of as if they were a disease) to be found in the world. Clumsy enough these Dutch fisher folk look, but they are handy in a boat. But there is agriculture, too, of a simple kind at Marken. Not a man usually is to be seen working in the hay harvest or at other employment in the fields. The women do the farm work.

Had Tried Electricity.

A New York senator relates that he was riding in a car next to a motherly old lady, who asked him a question. He answered, but found the old lady very deaf. He repeated his answer in a shout, and conversation was thus established. "You are very deaf, aren't you, madam?" bellowed the senator.

"I am so," she replied, "and haven't been able to do a thing for it."

"Have you ever tried electricity?" asked the senator.

"Yes," she said, nodding vigorously. "I was struck by lightning last summer."

As His Wealth Grew.

Ascum—Have you seen anything of Jiggins lately?

Dr. Swellman—Yes, I just prescribed a trip to Europe for him this morning.

Ascum — Indeed? He's getting wealthy, isn't he?

Dr. Swellman—Well, I can remember when I used to prescribe for him simply a dose of sodium bromide for the same complaint.

A Chinese Dog Story.

The following dog story is a favorite one in China:

"There was a Chinaman who had three dogs. When he came home one evening he found them asleep on his couch of teakwood and marble, whipped them and drove them forth.

"The next night when he came home the dogs were lying on the floor. But he placed his hand on the couch and found it warm from their bodies; therefore he gave them another whipping.

"The third night, returning earlier than usual, he found the dogs sitting before the couch, blowing on it to cool it."

Natural Law.

The reputation of Mr. George Washington Jones for honesty had been slightly tarnished for some years, but his son Erastus was not supposed to know it.

"Cur's how cold contracts t'ings," Mr. Jones remarked thoughtfully one evening. "Now dere's Max'milian Smith's wood pile for a case. 'Pears like dat wood pile is shrinking steady since dis las' col' spell set in."

"Seems as if our pile behind de stove was getting bigger, paw," hazarded Erastus, gazing at his parent for explanation of this phenomenon.

"Course it am, chile," said Mr. Jones calmly, "'cause de room is hot an' heat expands t'ings. 'Pears like yo' gwine to school don' put much wisdom into dat head of yours."

HOW VANCOUVER IS AHEAD.

Western Canadian Cities Behind the Pacific Province City in Regard to Sewage and Water Service.

In two particulars Vancouver is away ahead of its compeers in Canada, viz., in its water supply and its sewage. Water is brought from the Capilano River, a beautiful stream of mountain purity fed by the melting snows and the springs among the hills. With an 800-foot head it is brought in a steel pipe under the three-mile-wide Burrard Inlet which forms one of our harbors. It is so soft that you only have to show it the soap to produce a lather, so that any lady coming here from the east would think herself in Paradise. It is so pure and sparkling that lager is an inexcusable extravagance and wine an atrocity; while as a tea-infuser it is unsurpassed. Water-supply and sewage are of course an indissoluble pair, like beauty and the beast. In most cities the beast is a great trouble. But here we have septic tanks. We do not pollute the tide water around us with sewage, though the salt tides might be supposed to deal with it even better than the depths of Lake Ontario with the Toronto sewage. The tanks are constructed of concrete arched over and of a capacity equal to eighteen to twenty-four hours' flow of sewage, with a depth of about five feet, the inlet and outlet pipes being turned down to a depth of about 18 inches below the surface so as to leave the scum, which forms on the surface and in which the bacterial action is carried on undisturbed.

After the tank has been in use about a week a brown scum forms on the surface which gradually increases until the full action is attained. In this scum the action, of what are known as anaerobic bacteria, goes on, the greater part of the sewage being liquefied, and a very small deposit resembling black ashes being deposited on the bottom. Analysis shows that about 90 per cent. of the organic matter in suspension and about 30 per cent. of that in solution are removed and that the deposit does not require to be removed for several years.

The practical result is that the offensive matter of the sewage is destroyed and the effluent is sufficiently clear for discharging into salt water. In the office of the city engineer I saw this afternoon several bottles containing samples of the effluent, which looked much like Toronto water looks after it has been kept for, say, a month in a bottle.

What are bacteria? The purifying agency in the septic tank is the anaerobic bacteria, and it might be just as well to say a word about bacteria themselves. Bacteria are minute forms of vegetable life, and they can be roughly classified as (1) parasitic (needing a living host), (2) saprophytic (living or dead animal or vegetable matter) and (3) those which adapt themselves to circumstances and exist indifferently as parasites or saprophytes.

Bacteria are also distinguished according to conditions under which they live and may be either anaerobic (living without air—that is, without free oxygen) or aerobic (existing with free oxygen. They vary in size from 1-15,000 of an inch to 1-25,000 of an inch in diameter.

Multiplication usually takes place by division. Each half grows to the size of the original bacterium and then splits in two. They grow very rapidly. With plenty of food and proper conditions a single bacterium will multiply itself to almost incredible numbers. In twenty-four hours one bacterium would produce 16,000,000; in two days 47,000,000,000, and in a week the number expressing them would be made up of 59 figures (Cohn).

The work the bacteria do in the purification of the sewage is first to break down and then to oxidize the foul matters of which it is composed. I take these particulars from an admirable article on the subject from the pen of our present Mayor, W. J. McGuigan, M.D., which appeared in The New York Municipal Journal and Engineer.

We have about seven septic tanks in the city averaging 20 feet long, 3 feet 6 inches wide and 5 feet deep. They are ridiculously simple and effective, and have not cost a dollar since they were put down. After working three or four years the black deposit at the bottom of the tanks is not more than one inch thick, yet nothing but apparently clear water has ever flowed out of them into the sea. No chemicals, no mechanical flushing, "no nothing." Do, for goodness sake, try one of these at the end of that Rosedale sewer that empties its corruption into the Don near the Winchester street bridge. It would cost $7,000 and the result would be that the boys would have clear water to bathe in. Besides, if the system were once tried, it would put an end to sewage going into the lake, Mansergh or no Mansergh.—Bernard McEvoy, in Toronto Telegram.

What $1,000 Will Do.

But free homes cannot be picked up and carted away or had for the asking, even in Western Canada, writes G. O. Porter in The Toronto World. There must be some money in sight. An experienced employe of the Immigration Department remarked to me that for a settler to get the best results he should have $1,000 in cash.

With this amount he can have everything his own way. From Winnipeg he secures the data that gives him the definite idea of the section he will homestead. He goes to the nearest railroad station and a Government guide takes him to the free land. He pays the transportation of the guide. Selecting his 160 acres he returns to the nearest land office and pays ten dollars. Lumber is $23 per thousand on the average through the territories. However economical several thousand feet must be purchased to go with the logs he may have free from the Government reserve. His team of horses will cost from one to two hundred dollars. A milk cow means an outlay of $25. The common crosscut plow is included in the necessary articles.

QUEBEC'S GAME PARK.

A Vast Wilderness of More Than 2,600 Square Miles.

More than a million and a half of acres have been set aside by the Government of the Province of Quebec as a national park for the protection of fish and game and the maintenance of the forests and water supply necessary to their propagation. Situated for the most part, in the heart of the Laurentian Mountain, it has been named the Laurentides National Park. If one takes a map of the province and traces the route which is followed by the tourist who travels from Quebec to Lake St. John by rail, thence to Chicoutimi and down the Saguenay to its mouth at Tadousac and back to Quebec by way of the St. Lawrence he will have marked out practically the exterior lines of the park, except a narrow strip of territory north of the St. Lawrence, south of Lake St. John and west of the Saguenay.

The exact area of the park is 1,689,400 acres, or 2,640 square miles, and upon much of its wild interior no white man has ever set foot.

The park includes the sources and head waters of every important river draining that part of the country of which it forms the centre. By preserving the forests alike from the danger of fire and the axe of the lumberman, efficient guardianship of the park insures a safe asylum for the antlered big game which roam their depths.

Among the rivers whose head waters are enclosed in this park are the Montmorency, the Jacques Cartier, the Ste. Anne de la Perade, the Batiscan, the Metabetchouan, the Upicaube, the Upica, the Chicoutimi, the Boisvert, the Mars, the Mal Mal, the Murray and the Ste. Anne, which are among the finest trout streams in the world. Some of these, like the Murray, the Jacques Cartier and the Mars, are salmon streams in their lower stretches after they have emerged from the confines of the park. More contained salmon in bygone days, and with a proper system of protection would still be good salmon rivers.

The grandest of mountain, river and lake scenery is to be found in this park, and the fly fishing cannot be excelled.

The Colonel and the Flag.

If Col. Kaulbach had only sung "The Red, White and Blue," in response to the urgent demands of his fellow-members, he would have left nothing to be desired in his presentation of the case for the Canadian flag. Col. Kaulbach, an Anglican, dignified and persuasive, a shipowner whose flag has flown in every sea, joins hands with his fiery combative French-Canadian compatriot, Mr. Bourassa, in defence of the flag. The other day in the House of Commons he read the account of the cutting out of the Canadian coat-of-arms from the flag of the ship M. J. Taylor by Ray Stamford, British Consul at Rio Grande do Sul, Argentine Republic, and went on to refer to another ship appropriately named the Canada (which he did not say was his own), the captain of which was forced to haul down the Canadian flag by the British Consul at Bahia, Brazil, May, 1901. Upon a previous occasion Col. Kaulbach had pointed out that by a warrant of February 2, 1892, the British Admiralty gave orders that the red ensign with the Canadian coat-of-arms in the fly was to be recognized as the flag of the Canadian merchant marine.

"Well may we say," said Col. Kaulbach, unfolding a piece of paper. Mr. Bennett—In the words of the poet.

Amid laughter the Colonel acknowledged the corn, and read:

"It's only a small bit of bunting,
It's only an old colored rag," etc.

The colors of that flag, he said, were symbolic—red, white, and blue—cries of "Three cheers for the red, white and blue," and "song, song." The Speaker resisted the pressure, but eloquently pointed to the colors symbolizing courage, purity and truth as marking out the path for Canadian youth.

Rain Storm Gets Settler.

An interesting incident occurred a short time ago in connection with the Immigration Office at St. Paul. Mr. P. J. Curtin dropped into the office of the Department of the Interior at that place to protect himself from a rain storm. There he became interested in what he saw, and in consequence has since sold his 800 acres of land at Rock, Minn., realizing by the sale over $32,000, and started for western Canada, where he bought land, and with his six sons will take up homesteads. In the family are five daughters, who will also go to western Canada. This is a desirable class of settlers to secure for western Canada.

English Characteristics.

The Englishman is less social than men of any other nationality; I mean he is less conscious of the ties which bind humanity together, his moral formation owes little to his relations with other men, he scarcely troubles himself about what they think, and if he ever considers the matter at all it makes no difference in his sentiments and actions. In short, the Englishman is to a certain extent a recluse; he is more aloof from the world in which he lives and the neighbors whom he elbows than the men of any other nationality.—Boutmy's "The English People."

Spanish Etiquette.

There is a curious story of how the Duke d'Aosta, when king of Spain, told a muleteer to whom he was talking to cover himself, the sun being hot, forgetting that by so doing he made him a grandee. Marshal Prim, to prevent this catastrophe, knocked the man's hat out of his hand, and according to some the muleteer had something to do with the assassination that followed a few days afterward.

The Exception.

"I am getting up a subscription list for the relief of the poor. Can't you put your family down, sir?"

"Madam, since you ask a personal question, I don't mind telling you that I can put 'em all down, except my wife's mother."

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

TRICOLOR AND COCKADE.

Origin of the Historic Red, White and Blue of France.

Some seventy or eighty years before France was involved in the flames of the revolution—that is, at the epoch of the war of the succession when she was in close alliance with Spain and Bavaria—it was thought desirable to distinguish the allied soldiers by a cockade which combined the colors of the three nations—the white of France, the red of Spain and the blue of Bavaria.

To none of such incidents, however, would it be wise to attribute the origin of the historic tricolor and cockade adopted by revolutionary France. At the outset there seemed a likelihood that green, which Camille Desmoulins had popularized at the Palais Royal, would have become the national color, but men remembered in time that it was that of the livery of the Comte d'Artois, the most unpopular of the Bourbon princes, and it was thereupon discarded.

A proposition was then made to assume the colors of the city of Paris—blue and red, as Dumas reminds us in his "Six Ans Apres." To these was added the white of so many glorious memories, because it had been selected by the national guard—always faithful to the throne and its traditions.

Not until some months after the capture of the Bastille was the tricolor definitely adopted, when Bailly and Lafayette presented it to Louis XVI. in the great hall of the Hotel de Ville, and the convention issued a decree in which it was described as consisting of three colors—"disposees en trois bandes egales, de maniere que le bleu soit attache a la garde du pavillon, le blanc au milieu, et le rouge flottant dans les airs"—that is, in equal vertical sections, with the blue inward, the red outward and the white between.

This is the historic flag which Napoleon's legions, in conjunction with their eagles, bore victoriously from the Seine to the Elbe, the Tagus, the Borodino and the Danube, which they planted victoriously on the walls of almost every European capital.—All the Year Round.

Dress Clothes For Foreign Travels.

"Here's a tip for you," said the man who has traveled to the one who is about starting for the other side. "Take your evening clothes, but if you are traveling light leave your frock coat suit at home. Even the Englishman of fashion no longer considers it absolutely necessary to appear in the daytime in his frock coat and silk beaver. For myself, a good serge is the thing in which to knock about the continent. The man who takes his frock and leaves his swallowtail at home is out of his reckoning. Over there at dinner, even in what we'd call a cheap lunch joint here, you'll find plenty of men carefully garbed in evening clothes. Dinner is a ceremony to dress for even though one be not rich."

THE Y. M. C. A. EASY FOR T.A.S.

Defeated Them on Saturday by Score of 16-5.

A Game for City Championship—Some Interesting Features of the Game.

There was excitement enough at the Murray street grounds on Saturday afternoon for an Eastern League base ball game, but that was not on the programme. It was simply a game between the T.A.S. and Y.M.C.A. teams for the city championship, and it certainly furnished plenty of amusement for the spectators, the chief mirth provoker, being "Reddy" Lamonte, who for a portion of the game twirled for the Y.M.C.A. team, and on the whole pitched well too, but his support was for the most part raw.

The game was won by the T.A.S. by the score of 16—5, just a shade worse than the Lindsay-Galt game.

The T.A.S. played their regular team with the exception that Parnell replaced Craig at short, and T. Pilling played centre field, while the Y.M.C.A. nine was a cosmopolitan combination of Peterborough and Guild Leagures, the battery for the first part of the game being that of the Charlotte street Guild team, Roddy, the rising young southpaw, doing good work while he was in the box. All the pitchers were hit fairly hard, but in the case of the T.A.S. the fielders by good work saved hits, while in the case of the Y.M.C.A. some bad errors were made behind the pitchers.

The umpire came in for some roasting from both teams, his decisions on bases and balls being, according to the judgments of the players, somewhat off, but both teams suffered alike, and no partiality was shown.

The T.A.S. took the field, and in the first innings only three balls were pitched by Quinlan, McDonald flying out to Derocher, Miller sending a liner to Trainor, and Lamonte flew to the same player. The abstainers got three. Pilling sent a hot one past second base, stole second and scored on Callaghan's drive over third. The latter stole second and scored on a high throw. Trainor was at first, and Grady fanned. A Lattermouile got to first on Wareham's error, and Derocher was hit for a base. H. Lattermouile hit to centre scoring his brother, but Parnell fanned.

Fitzgerald singled to centre and stole second. Wareham sacrificed, Pedlar flew to H. Lattermouile, and Fitzpatrick scored on the throw in. Thornton fanned, retiring the side. Score 3—1. Quinlan hit to first and was out, while Pilling reached first on Roddy's error. Trainor singled to left, Derocher fanned, and Pilling was caught stealing home. Adamson was out at first, Roddy fanned, and McDonald got to first on an error, as did Miller, but Lamonte flew to Grady retiring the side. In the last half, Grady singled, A. Lattermouile had three strikes called but Thornton dropped the ball and Grady scored on the throw to first. Derocher was out pitcher to first, and H. Lattermouile flew to Roddy, Parnell singled scoring A. Lattermouile. Quinlan fanned. Score 5—1.

In the third Fitzpatrick fanned, Wareham singled to left, stole second and third and scored on a high throw to the latter. Pedlar could not connect with Quinlan's shoots and Tohrnton was out, pitcher to first. Lamonte then went into the box and for a time it looked as it it were all over with the T.A.S. Pilling, Callaghan and Trainor going out in order, the latter fanning.

The next was also a short one, Adamson was out at first on a liner to Quinlan. Roddy hit safely to right. McDonald flew out to Callaghan, and Roddy was caught stealing. Lamonte was effective again, when only three men faced him. Grady flying to Fitzgerald, A. Lattermouile fanning and Derocher singled, but was out stealing second.

Miller fanned and Lamonte flew to Pilling, who made a nice running catch. Fitzpatrick laid one down in front of the plate, but could not beat the throw to first. There was trouble for Lamonte in the second half, when with two out three runs were scored. H. Lattermouile hit to Roddy and was out at first, and Parnell fanned, but Quinlan started the fireworks when he cracked a beauty out to centre, and Pilling followed suit making a double, Callaghan hit a grounder which Miller let go through, scoring Quinlan. Pilling scored on a high throw to third. Trainor got four wide ones and Callaghan scored on a passed ball. Trainor was caught off the base, retiring the side. Score 8—2.

The M.C.A. got another in the next innings. Wareham was given a pass, stole second and scored on Pedlar's single. Thornton fanned and Pedlar was caught stealing second. Roddy and McDonald both got nice hits, but Miller, with two on bases, fanned. There was trouble again in the second half after two men were out. Grady flew to Pilling and A. Lattermouile did the same to Lamonte. Derocher then started the "doings" by a nice hit over third base. H. Lattermouile was passed. Parnell laid down a nice bunt, and in the throw to first Derocher scored. Quinlan got first on Miller's muff of his fly, and on a high throw to second Parnell and Quinlan scored. Pilling singled but was out stealing second.

Another one came to the Y.M.C.A. in this innings. Lamonte got to first on balls, Fitzpatrick fanned, and Wareham flew to Quinlan, Lamonte stealing home. Pedlar was an easy out. After Lamonte had struck out Trainor and Grady four runs came in for the T.A.S. Callaghan was first up and got first on an error at short. A. Lattermouile sent one at Lamonte, but the latter was a little late in delivering the ball to first and the batter beat it out. Callaghan scoring on the play. Derocher had four balls, H. Lattermouile singled to short, scoring his brother. Derocher got home on a passed ball and Parnell's single scored H. Lattermouile. Pilling sent a nice one out to centre, and was caught trying to reach third on it by a nice throw from Fitzpatrick. Score 16—5.

In the first of the ninth four men were put out. Thornton hit to Quinlan and was out at first; Adamson fanned, Roddy bit to centre and McDonald was out by the pitcher first baseman route, and with three out Miller hit over third scoring Roddy. Lamonte flew to Trainor, ending the game 16—5.

The teams were:

T.A.S.—Pilling, cf; Callaghan, 3b; Trainor, 1b; Grady 2b; H. Lattermouile, c; Derocher, rf; A. Lattermouile, lf; Parnell, ss; Quinlan, p.

LACROSSE.

Get tickets for the T.A.S.-Havelock final T.V.L.L. game on Wednesday night, at the Examiner office.

* * * *

The game on Wednesday night between Havelock and the T.A.S., in the final for the Trent Valley League championship, will be one of the best games of the season. Havelock has had a good season's record, and the players are confident of their ability to give the T.A.S. a hard game. Their men are all in first class condition, and the home team will have to go some to defeat them. On the other hand the T.A.S. has gone through the season without a loss, and the players believe that they can continue this record.

The game will commence at six o'clock, and Mr. R. R. Hall, the hon. president of the League, will face the ball.

BASEBALL.

The Charlotte street Guild baseball club is going to Bobcaygeon with Mount Hebron Encampment on Thursday and will play the Kawartha League team of that place.

Canadian Girl Suicides.

Orange, N.Y., Aug. 15.—Miss Ethel K. Pardoe of Norval, Ont., 25 years old, who was employed by Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, wife of the inventor, as a governess for the Edison children, committed suicide yesterday at the residence of Mrs. Annie G. Miller, by turning on the gas. She worried much in the discharge of her duties as governess. Three years ago anonymous letters were received by the Edisons, containing threats to kidnap the children, and Mrs. Edison frequently cautioned Miss Pardoe to be careful. Miss Pardoe was of a nervous disposition. Letters found in her room indicated that her father, a Canadian clergyman, died last winter.

Explosion Exaggerated.

St. Catharines, Aug. 15.—The account published of the accident at the Kinleith Paper Company's mills at St. Catharines is said to have been grossly exaggerated. It was not the steam boilers, but a small boiler used for cooking rags under low pressure that exploded. As this boiler was contained in a separate outbuilding, very little damage was done, except to that building, and the adjoining wall.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Recovering the eyes which met his earliest gaze looked up with mute but eloquent benediction. Won't you please save me. Listen its echoing from child lips all around us.

Lest the pastor make occasional sermons for the parents and children Get the parents interested in the children's souls. Keep in touch with every teacher about the spiritual state of the individuals.

The deacons can do noble work and keep in the cure by making the church associations attractive and pleasant for the children and young people. Not merely speaking to the children but speaking and smiling and looking and taking hold of them so as to make them feel they are wanted and important and making church and school and young peoples the brightest spot on earth.

Our Deacons can speak. Yes, but they can speak in such a manner and tone of voice which will make the young people's hearts warm toward them.

A fond father sent his son to college. In a few weeks h efell sick and wrote home. The father could not read so he took it across the road for a..... to read. He was a rough burly fellow. Took hold of the letter and read in harsh tones: "Dear Father, I am sick, send me some money. Your son, John."

The father in a rage said I'll not send him a cent so long as he writes me that way, and went off in wrath.

His wife induced him to let th ebaker read it. Now the baker was a kind man so with sympathetic tones he read: "Dear FaDar, I am very sick, please send me some money. Your son, John.

The father listened and overcome with emotion said with tears in his eyes, "Yes, dear, he shall have all the money he wants as long as he writed to his father like that."

Dear pastors, teachers and workers God will give us our young people and our sons shall be like plants, grown up in their youth and our daughters like corner stones polished after the similitude of a palace.

It is not the will of your father that ons of these little ones should perish. If we are ready to be nursing fathers and mothers, God will send them in The several tongued Welsh preacher of Jarvis Street Renoure, rD, Thomas says: "If the child had a true mother there need be no hesitation in introducing the children of tender years into embrace. The difficulty is not with the child but with the mother.

Brothers and sisters, God will bless your faithful toil.

The results of the day's services from a financial standpoint were very successful, the sum of sixty dollars being realized in the three services, which amount will go towards the building fund of the church.

Ain't You Glad You Waited?

This is the month that price reductions at Stratton's Bookstore speak loudest, and make you feel glad you waited. The drop in hammocks is one-fifth former prices; in croquet sets, it's a tenth off, and in sporting goods it's twenty off. This is about the way it goes in hundreds of other articles. As the ranks of summer goods get thinner the prices get slighter. A. H. Stratton & Co.

GENERAL ASSAULT ON PORT ARTHUR

Events Leads St. Petersburg to Expect the Garrison's Fall.

IT MAY COME AT ANY MOMENT

Admiral Kamimura's Squadron Saved 600 Drowning Russians From the Sunken Rurik—Report That the Novik Has Gone Down and That Pallada Has Been Sunk—Awful Rain of Fire.

Chee Foo, Aug. 16.—That a general land and naval attack was made on Port Arthur yesterday is indicated by information from various sources. A statement that the naval attack was made at 4 o'clock in the morning comes from an authoritative, but not diplomatic, quarter.

Junks which arrived here yesterday say the Japanese recently occupied the Liatui Hills and Sushiyen, which is two or three miles north of the fortress.

Five warships and seven torpedo boat destroyers, according to the junks, returned to Port Arthur the night of Aug. 10.

A Seething Cauldron.

Paris, Aug. 16.—The Journal's St. Petersburg correspondent learns that the Japanese now hold all the positions which dominate Port Arthur. In the dark hours of early morning the great siege guns of the Japanese opened on all the hills around the stronghold, and a rain of fire fell on all the Russian positions, the town, dock yards and harbor.

The bursting of the Japanese shells, fires kindled thereby, and the flashes of the Russian guns in reply to the bombardment, made the space within the semi-circle of the Japanese lines visible a seething caldron of flame and smoke, as seen from surrounding hilltops.

May Fall at Any Moment.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 16.—The expectation here is that Port Arthur will fall at any moment. Especial significance is attached to the fact that Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel's wife and children went to Che Foo on board the torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni.

Threatened With Lyddite.

Che Foo, Aug 16.—Junks which arrived here yesterday, having left Port Arthur, Aug. 12, brought reports that the Japanese occupied new positions and that the firing was heavy, but intermittent and indicated that assaults were being continued. The Russians at Port Arthur are reported to be down-hearted.

The men who came on the junks declare that the commander of the Japanese fleet before Port Arthur informed the Russian commander of the place that if the warships which returned to the harbor after the sortie of Aug 10 were sunk by the Russians, the Japanese would shell the town with lyddite.

A Chinaman who has arrived here from Liaoyang declared that the casualties in the recent fighting in that vicinity have been enormous on both sides.

Oku Sends Aid.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 16.—The general staff is inclined to believe the reports that a large contingent of General Oku's army has gone to Port Arthur and that in the meanwhile he does not expect decisive operations.

Pallada Gone, Too?

Tokio, Aug. 16.—Admiral Togo reports that a vessel of the type of the protected cruiser Pallada was torpedoed and sunk in the engagement of Aug. 10.

Saved 600 Russians.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The Japanese Legation yesterday received a despatch from the Foreign Office at Tokio saying that Admiral Kamimura reports that at dawn on Aug. 14 his squadron discovered the three vessels of the Vladivostock squadron off Ulsan, southern coast of Corea, steaming southward.

The Russian vessels on sighting the Japanese squadron attempted to escape northward, but were prevented, and fighting commenced at 5.23.

All the enemy's ships caught fire several times by reason of the Japanese shells and apparently suffered heavily, especially the Iturik.

Eventually the Russians fled at full speed northward, leaving behind the Rurik, which afterward sunk.

Thereupon the Japanese squadron began the rescue of the drowning Russians, and picked up 600.

The Jap Losses.

Tokio, Aug. 16.—A despatch to the Admiralty from the naval establishment at Takashika says: The Rurik sank by the stern, her bow standing up perpendicularly. The Rossia and the Gromoboi caught fire several times and were heavily damaged. Only one of the Japanese ships was hit. Two Japanese were killed and seven wounded.

Novik Reported Sunk.

Che Foo, Aug. 16.—An unconfirmed report which has reached here from Tsingtau says the Russian cruiser Novik, which put into Tsingtau after the battle of Aug. 10, off Fort Arthur, and which coaled there and put to sea within her 24-hours' limit, has been sunk forty miles from Tsingtau.

Alexieff Leaves Mukden Hurriedly.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 16.—It is reported that Viceroy Alexieff has left Mukden hurriedly for Vladivostock on receipt of news that the illness of Vice-Admiral Bezobrazoff had taken a serious turn and that the admiral was not expected to recover.

Japs Driven Back.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 16.—The Emperor has received the following despatch from Viceroy Alexieff, dated Aug. 13:

"According to a report from Port Arthur, Aug. 10, the Japanese attacked Taku and Sahou Mountains in enormous forces during the night of Aug. 10. During a heavy rainstorm the Japanese attacked our east front, but were repulsed at all points. They also attacked simultaneously our whole front, from Wolf Hills to Taku Mountain, but everywhere were driven back. The fortress has been bombarded from the east side for four days."

Go Out and Get Caught.

Tsingtau, Aug. 16.—The Russian battleship Czarevitch and three destroyers are now in the hands of the Local Government for repairs but it is improbable that these vessels will fight again in this war. According to the regulations which govern such situations the destroyers will not be permitted to leave in a body, but must go out at intervals of six hours. It is believed here that the Russian cruisers Pallada and Diana have reached Vladivostock.

The Succession to the Throne.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 16.—Emperor Nicholas has issued a manifesto determining the order of succession to the throne. In the event of the Emperor dying before the Czarevitch attains his majority, the Emperor's brother, Grand Duke Michael, is to become Regent, the Empress assuming the guardianship of the Czarevitch. It is believed that this manifesto marks the curtailment of the hitherto dominant influence of the Dowager Empress.

LIGHTNING'S DIRE WORK.

Another Death Reported From the Storm on Saturday—Fires Have Also Reported in Several Districts.

Tilsonburg, Aug. 16.—John M. Hagerman, veterinary surgeon of Lyndoch, was killed by lightning on Saturday evening. He went out between 5 and 6 o'clock in the evening to get the cows, carrying a rifle with him for the purpose of shooting groundhogs. Other members of the family found his lifeless body, lying face downward, in a field a short distance from the fence, the rifle being under the body. The lightning had apparently struck the unfortunate man on the head, as his hat was badly torn, and was lying on the opposite side of the fence. It then ran down the body, both back and front, and into the ground through the right leg and foot, the shoe being torn to shreds. He leaves a wife and one child.

Barns in Guelph District.

Guelph, Aug. 16.—The barn of W. H. Poole of Puslinch, was struck by lightning and completely destroyed with the contents, including his whole crop on Saturday afternoon. The loss is $1,800, partly covered by insurance. James Near's small barn, Erin Township, was burned with his hay and fall wheat and seeding machinery. The barn of Thomas Cook, on the townline of Erin and Caledon, containing hay and a large crop of wheat, and also some implements, was completely destroyed. The loss is said to be $2,500, with $1,700 of insurance. Three children, living near Orton, were watching the storm out of a window when a foal, with a mare in a field nearby, was struck by lightning. The foal was instantly killed and the children were stunned. The new barn of the late John Kitching of Nassagaweya, near Cerwhin, with hay, fall wheat and all the outbuildings was consumed.

Lightning Went Down Chimney.

Forest, Aug. 16.—Saturday afternoon a severe electrical storm, accompanied by a strong wind and heavy downpour of rain and hail, passed over this town and adjoining townships. At Ravenswood the lightning struck H. Ford's house passed down the chimney and out of the front of the stove. Mr. Ford's daughter, Hattie, who was sitting near the stove, received a severe shock, her right side being partly paralysed for some time. In Bosanquet and Plympton Townships barns belonging to Wm. Culley, Jos. Moore, R. Mitchell and Thos. Thorn, and a house belonging to Jos. Slaughter were struck and more or less damaged. East of Arkona several barns are reported burned, together with the season's crops.

Drowned in Manitoba.

Winnipeg, Aug. 16.—Alain Lindsay was drowned while bathing on Sunday afternoon in the Assiniboine River, near Stockton. Lindsay was not a good swimmer and sank before assistance reached him. His mother resides at Trinity, Ont.

Swept Over the Falls.

Buckingham, Que., Aug. 16.—A man named Louis Paquette, who was working for the Jas. McLaren Company at the High Falls on the Lievre River, thirty miles north of here, fell off the dam and was swept over the falls. He was 35 years of age, and leaves a widow and six children.

Death List Reaches 84.

Pueblo, Colo., Aug. 16.—Two more bodies of victims of the Eden wreck have been recovered, one being the remains of Ray W. Ohannon of Washington, D.C. The total dead recovered thus far is now 84.

ALLAN PACIFIC LINERS.

Will Run to Orient From Pacific Terminus of G.T.P.

Montreal, Aug. 16.—A big sensation was sprung in shipping circles here yesterday afternoon, when it was semi-officially announced that the Allan Line is going into direct competition with the Canadian Pacific Railway fleet of steamships on the Pacific by themselves establishing a Pacific fleet which will be run from the Pacific terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway to the Orient.

The fleet will be ready when the G. T. P. is completed and will make a strong bid for the business of the east. No announcement will be made as to the details of the project.

C.P.R. Lake Liners For Ocean Service.

New York, Aug. 16.—The Canadian Pacific Railway, at the close of St. Lawrence navigation will put 17 ships on the New Orleans and Galveston service. In addition to the existing Atlantic fleet of 14 vessels, three liners will be brought through the canals from the lakes. Shipping circles fear disastrous competition this year.

MASSACRES OF JEWS.

Terrible Stories From Russia Which Are Partially Confirmed—Twenty Killed at One Place.

New York, Aug. 16.—The Jewish Morning Journal yesterday printed the following from its Warsaw (Russia) correspondent:

"On Sunday, July 31, in the city of Ostrovits, Government of Rodoms, a Jew was quarreling with a Gentile. The latter, who was an epileptic, fell during the encounter as a result of one of his epileptic fits. The Christian bystanders, however, raised the cry that the Jew murdered their comrade. In a short time all the Christian inhabitants of the town turned out and proceeded to avenge the alleged crime. The riot that ensued resolved itself into an awful massacre of Jews, of whom twenty were killed, and a great number were wounded. The massacre lasted all day.

"Another massacre occurred on Saturday, July 30, in the town of Fotzeveh, Government of Sedlits, in the following manner:

"A local clergyman induced a small Hebrew girl to embrace the Christian faith. The parents of the girl went to the church where their daughter was confined, accompanied by some of their Jewish friends, and demanded her release on the ground that the girl was under age and could not act independently in such matters, and that consequently her parents had the right to interfere with her action. The clergyman, seeing that the Jews were determined to use force if necessary, called the mayor to his aid. The two incited the populace against the Jews and a fierce riot ensued. More than 100 Jews were severely wounded. The number of dead is unknown, because the police withheld the facts."

One Killed, Twenty Wounded.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 16.—The department of police of the Ministry of the Interior said yesterday that one person was killed and twenty wounded in a Jewish riot at Ostrovits, and that a few persons were wounded in the Province of Sedlits. The disorders in the latter part of the country arose from a Jew having been converted to Orthodoxy.

The letter of Miss Merkley, whose picture is printed above, proves beyond question that thousands of cases of inflammation of the ovaries and womb are annually cured by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Gradual loss of strength and nerve force told me something was radically wrong with me. I had severe shooting pains through the pelvic organs, cramps and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said that I had ovarian trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation. I strongly objected to this and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found that my judgment was correct, and that all the good things said about this medicine were true, and day by day I felt less pain and increased appetite. The ulceration soon healed, and the other complications disappeared, and in eleven weeks I was once more strong and vigorous and perfectly well.

"My heartiest thanks are sent to you for the great good you have done me."—Sincerely yours, MISS MARGARET MERKLEY, 275 Third St., Milwaukee, Wis.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

UNION LABEL

Daily Examiner.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 16, 1904.

A JOURNALISTIC DEMOCRAT.

The Bobcaygeon Independen is decidedly democratic, and as much opposed to cant and sham as Charles Dickens, evidently believing that sentiments of loyalty, honesty, etc., are best expressed by living, instead of professing. In its last issue it says: "What is the use of making such a fuss over Dundonald's blathwrskiting about keeping both hands on the Union Jack. Keep both hands in the breeches pockets would be just as sensible. The man was lifted off his base a little by the adoration of a few military faddists, and was suffering from an attack of swelled head. That was all."

Another paragraph in the same issue is in the same strain. It is this: "Mr. Laurier considered it necessary to pass an address to Minto on his retiring from his job at Ottawa. The Conservatives lost no opportunity to impress upon ignorant minds, that loyalty to the throne is their special perquisite; that their loyalty is the only perfectly pure and unadulterated article on the market; and that all other brands of so-called loyalty are frauds and no good. Mr. Laurier had to work in a quantity of this loyalty gush and froth in order to show that his party were not traitors, fit only for the gallows. What rotten humbug this loyalty is. One man shouts his unalterable and undying loyalty, and the next has to try and outdo him. What manner of man speaks about his loyalty? What manner of woman speaks about her virtue? This eternal yelping about loyalty is sickening. Protesting too much and too often arouses suspicion, if not contempt."

THE FLAG! THE FLAG!

(Toronto, Star.)

The secret is out. At last we learn against whom Lord Dundonald warned the crowd in the Windsor hotel in Montreal who were carrying him on their shoulders! It has been no end of a trouble to find out who it was that the noble Earl feared might clutch away the hands of three gentlemen from the Union Jack. Our want ads. always bring results, but in this case, for some reason they failed. Nobody could tell us where in hay danger to the flag. At last, from an unexpected quarter comes light. The poet of the Ottawa Citizen, which is a newspaper that may be classed as militarist-and-always-under arms, breathes it out in fiery verse. It is to be the battle hymn of all who were "loyal" and vote against the Grits. It goes thus:

"Men of Canada who heard
Brave Dundonald's parting word,
Stand firm and true with both hands
gird
Our loved Union Jack.

The trained eye cannot be deceived, This form must have been written by the editor of the Citizen. But if is the next verse that confirms the pith of the matter:

"On yourselves depending,
What ye love defending,
Ye the separatists will scatter;
They'll repent of fending."

The Separatists! There you are. The issue is between the Separatists and the Loyalists, the Clutchers and the Clingers, or in the words of the Citizen's poet, the Fenders and the Defenders. In the country, then, on the verge of civil war, that Lord Dundonald deemed it necessary to remind Loyalists that they could rely on the militia against the Separatists? Not really, you know, but for political campaign purposes it is thought well to set up this grim sham. The poet proceeds:

"'Neath your righteous indignation,
All in vain will they be shielded;
The franchise by such stalwarts wielded
Shall soon make them reel."

It is, after all, to be a battle of ballots, and the militia will only be called out to vote for the party that does the most flag waving. The present party in power is to be made to reel out and the opposing party to swarm in. Thus the flag will be saved. Isn't it thrilling to live in the midst of such dangers and big doings!

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If it should be found necessary to bring up the infant Czar of Russia by hand, the Port Arthur bottle, Togo is using as a receptacle for the remains of the Russian fleet, might be utilized.

The Czar says he is happier over having a male heir to his throne, than he would be over a victory of his army. This is equivocal. He knows how it feels to be the daddy of an heir apparent, but he hasn't had a chance this innings to know what a victory by his troops would feel like.

THE SOO INDUSTRIES.

Steel Plant to Resume Operations September 1.

Waiting for Materials and Men—Ballasting Begun Again on the Algoma Central Railway.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 14.—September 1 is the date now set for the opening of the steel plant. Everything about the plant is in readiness to start work, and the only wait is for materials and men. The management is sending for a number of steel workers, including many former employees, with notice to report so that operations can be commenced the first of next month. The first ore for the blast furnaces is expected to arrive during the coming week. The ore will come from M. A. Hanna & Company of Buffalo. The pig iron to be used in the plant until the blast furnaces here are turning out the product will come from the blast furnaces at Midland. A gang of men was put to work to-day to get the ore docks in readiness for business.

The first sign of the resumption of work on the Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railway, is to be seen in the work of ballasting a stretch of track that was laid a year ago last fall, and which was the last construction work done. The work trains were put into service this week doing this work, which is between miles 50 and 65. It is believed it will not be long now before arrangements are made to have the construction work started again and pushed until the line has been built through to Michipicoten, in accordance with the company's agreement with the Ontario Government when the loan was guaranteed.

"THE NOISY SEVEN".

The following poem was used by Rev. A. H. Brace on Sunday night to conclude his sermon on "The Church Problem:—

I wonder if he remembers
That dear old man in Heaven
The class in the old red school house
Known as the Noisy Seven.

I wonder if he remembers
How restless we used to be
Or thinks we forgot the lessons
Of Christ and Gethsemine.

I wish I could tell the story
As he used to tell it then,
I am sure that with Heaven's blessing
I could read the hearts of men.

That voice so fondingly tender
Comes down to me over the years
A pathos which seemed to mingle
His own with the Saviour's tears.

I often wish I could tell him
Though we caused him so much pain
By our thoughtless, boyish frolic
That his labours were not in vain.

I would like to tell him how Harry
The merriest one of us all
From the bloody field of Shiloh
Went home at the master's call.

I would like to tell him of Steven
So brim full over with fun
Now tells the heathens in China
The tale of the crucified One.

I would like to tell him of Joseph
And Phillip and Jack and Jay
Are honoured among the churches
The foremost men of their day.

I'd like, yes, I'd like to tell him
What his lessons did for me
How I am trying to follow
The Christ of Gethsemine.

How many besides, I know not
Will gather at last in Heaven
The fruit of that faithful seeding
But the sheaves we'll surely be seven.

Taken With Cramps.

Wm. Kirouse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicines.—Elkader, Iowa, Argus.

This remedy never fails. Keep it in your home, it may save life. For sale by all druggists.

MR. DRYDEN RETURNS

Ontario's Minister of Agriculture is Back From Old Land.

HE TALKS ABOUT HIS VISIT

Purchased Cattle and Sheep For the Agricultural College at Guelph—Visited Royal Agricultural Society's Show, and Had a Look at the King's Farms—Sizes Up the British Farmer.

Toronto, Aug. 16.—Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, returned to the Parliament Buildings yesterday after a trip to Britain, where he has been in search of information for his department, and for the purpose of securing high-class cattle and sheep for the Guelph Experimental Farm. He was accompanied by Prof. Day and Mr. Gamble of the Guelph College. The party sailed from New York on the 10th of last July, and arrived in Liverpool on the 19th.

Royal Agricultural Show.

They went straight to the Royal Ahricultural Show at London, and spent a good deal of time on the grounds each day of the show. He regretted that the show was a financial failure, but it did not seem possible to interest Londoners in it. The exhibits in all branches, especially live stock, were the most complete he had ever seen. The variety was great and nothing on this side of the Atlantic came near it for completeness. He could only judge somewhat superficially of the management, but it seemed to him that affairs were left too much in the hands of officials.

He also visited the Highland Society's show at Perth, where the management was excellent, all the directors taking a close personal interest in the affair. The Highland show was not so large, and had not so many varieties in stock on exhibit, but every exhibit was a deserving one, and in this respect far superior to the Royal. The Highland show is a financial success, and has a very large reserve fund splendidly invested.

Visited the King's Farms.

He visited the King's farms at Windsor in company with Mr. Wm. Tait, the manager. Mr. Tait was a thoroughly practical, up-to-date farmer, and was one of the best cattlemen he had met. Mr. Dryden purchased some Shorthorn heifers from Mr. J. Deane Willis near Salisbury, three polled Angus cattle, and seven Leicester Border sheep from Colonel Fergusson of Pictston, near Perth, two prize heifers at the Royal show, and some sheep from Mr. Buttor of Perth. These animals have been sent to Guelph.

British Farmers.

Mr. Dryden says there has been considerable change in farming conditions in Britain during the past twenty years. The farmers are realizing that to succeed they must give close personal attention to farm work, and this a very large number are doing, and making money. They have an inexhaustible market at their doors, and they watch conditions closely. This enables them to market always to the best advantage. The British farmer always got a higher price for beef, mutton, butter, bacon and all other products than was paid for the imported article. Although this is Mr. Dryden's eighth visit to Britain, he was on this occasion more than on any other visit struck with the apparent complete and finished look about everything. Even buildings in progress had a solidity and a finish which he had seen nowhere else.

The Bacon of Denmark.

He heard a great deal in Britain about the excellence of Danish bacon, and he had sent Prof. Day and Mr. Gamble to Denmark to inquire into conditions there. He also instructed them to investigate thoroughly the system of canning fruits in France, which secured such a large sale for goods from that country in Britain. The department was resolved that nothing should be left undone on its part to insure Ontario products being placed on the British markets in the most approved style and quality, so that the best prices should be realized. He found that many British merchants now realized that the very best bacon came from Ontario. When customers asked for Danish bacon in many stores they were offered Canadian, and assured that it was superior to Danish. On the other hand, some merchants rather than say they had no Danish bacon gave customers Canadian bacon and represented it as Danish.

Spoke at Perth.

Perth was the only place where Mr. Dryden addressed a meeting during his visit to Britain. He was at one of the Highland Society Show banquets and responded briefly to one of the toasts. He did not talk politics. He reminded them that he was not an American, although called so by previous speakers, and by many others whom he had met in England and Scotland. He was a Canadian, and proud of it. He believed all Canadians were even more loyal, if that were possible, than the British themselves. They might slaughter Canadian cattle at the port of landing, they might fail to do some things Canadians thought should be done, but none of these things would affect the loyalty of the Dominion to the Empire. Canadians were as much British as the inhabitants of Britain. They believed that their happiness and prosperity was bound up with the Empire, and by the Empire they would remain for all time.

Change in British Sentiment.

These sentiments seemed to meet with the hearty approval of all present. He found a vast change in British sentiment towards Canada, compared with the feeling existing during Mr. Dryden's visit to the old land thirteen years ago. Then Canada was looked upon as slow, non-progressive, and part of the year at least snow-bound. Now they all knew something good about the Dominion, and were ready to show their appreciation of Canada's services to the Empire.

TO BREAK WHEAT RECORD.

C.P.R. Bulletin Indicates That Fine Spell Assures Heavy Yield.

Winnipeg, Aug. 16.—The latest crop bulletin C. P. R. issued last night, says the indications for wheat break all previous records for abundance. Almost every station agent agrees that the fine spell assures heavy yield. Cutting will be general by the end of the week.

Latest reports on crops collected by the Dominion Immigration Department is favorable without exception. In the far west the dry spell had no damaging effect generally. Superb weather in the preceding part of the season has brought grain to a very advanced stage. Government agents, estimating on wheat yield, never get below 20 bushels, while some expect over 40 bushels per acre.

Reports on Northern Assiniboia and Saskatchewan are particularly encouraging. The following are characteristic: Battleford, every indication points to this crop as being a record-breaker, with an acreage this year fully 30 per cent. larger than last. With splendid weather all the season crops had advanced too far to be damaged by the hot spell during the latter part of July. This spell of warm weather had the beneficial effect of drying up the hay swamps and relieving the ranchers from anxiety.

Yorkton—The outlook for an average crop encouraging. The area of new land under cultivation has increased over the acreage under crop last year by at least 25 per cent.

Manitoba—The Government is preparing the crop report and will estimate the average yield over the province at 23.5 bushels wheat per acre.

Violent Attack of Diarrhoea Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and Perhaps a Life Saved.

"A short time ago I was taken with a violent attack of diarrhoea and believe I would have died if I had not gotten relief," says John J. Patton, a leading citizen of Patton, Ala. "A friend recommended Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I bought a twenty-five cent bottle and after taking three doses of it was entirely cured. I consider it the best remedy in the world for bowel complaints. For sale by all druggists.

A Minister Deported.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Alfred Burleigh Hall, who was arrested at Ellis Island as he landed from England on the charge that he was attempting to enter the country in violation of the immigration laws, Saturday was ordered by the immigration authorities to be deported. It was alleged that he had been convicted in Great Britain of a crime involving moral turpitude. The enquiry developed the truthfulness of the allegations. Hall established the Church of St. Mary's in Brooklyn.

Comfort for Old People.

Much of the suffering of the aged is due to the kidney derangements rheumatism, lumbago, and bodily pains. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills bring comfort to the old folks by keeping the kidneys healthy and active and so eliminating from the body the poisonous waste matter which causes pains, aches and fatal disease.

Caught the Idea.

Bluster—Do you mean to say that I am a liar? Blister—I hope that I could not do so ungentlemanly a thing. But I see you catch my idea.

There would not be so many open mouths if there were not so many open ears.—Hall.

THE KING'S SPEECH

His Majesty Says Government Will Support Neutral Rights.

CASE OF KNIGHT COMMANDER

British Government Will Insist on Reparation—Position Regarding Neutrality of China Arising Out of Eyeshitelni Incident—Macedonia and the Transvaal—Hope Centering Around Lisbon Conference.

London, Aug. 16.—After an admittedly barren session, marked by no less than seven fruitless attempts on the part of the Opposition to turn out the Government on votes of censure, Parliament was prorogued yesterday afternoon, no more than twenty-five members being present, including one member of the Cabinet.

The King's speech, proroguing Parliament, was brief. After mentioning his visits to the King of Denmark and the German Emperor, at which, His Majesty said, his reception in each case was most cordial, and the agreement between France and Great Britain, which, he pointed out, will be advantageous to all concerned and materially strengthen the friendship uniting Great Britain and France, His Majesty said:

The War.

"Hostilities, I regret to say, are still in progress between Russia and Japan. Upon the outbreak of the war, I issued a proclamation declaring my neutrality and enjoining all my people to a strict observance thereof. Important questions involving the treatment of neutral commerce in the hands of belligerents have arisen in connection with these operations. The issues involved, which are of the gravest moment to the trade of the Empire, will, I trust, be amicably settled without prejudice to the vast commercial interests of this country. My Government will energetically support my subjects in the exercise of rights recognized by international law as belonging to neutrals."

Foreign Affairs.

The King said the scheme for the re-organization of the Macedonian gendarmerie under foreign officers promised satisfactory results, and expressed the hope that the introduction of the elective element into the Legislative Council of the Transvaal, which was a "step in the direction of ultimate self-government," would meet the united support of all his subjects in that colony.

In regard to Thibet, the King said that the arrival of the "political mission" at Lhassa afforded him the greatest satisfaction, and reflected credit on the officers and men of the small force. He hoped the conference at Lhassa would result in an arrangement of terms which would end the difficulties and friction on the northern frontier of the Indian Empire.

Parliament was formally prorogued at 6.05 p.m.

KNIGHT COMMANDER CASE.

British Government Considering Effect of Neutrality of China.

London, Aug. 16.—The final Cabinet Council of the Parliamentary session was held yesterday. After the Council closed the emphatic statement was made that Great Britain feels it absolutely essential to her own interests and those of the entire world that the neutrality of China shall be observed by the two belligerents. Great Britain will make earnest efforts to secure this result.

In the Knight Commander case the British Government will instruct Ambassador Hardine that it will insist that there was no justification in international law for sinking the steamer. The British note will be couched in the most conciliatory tone, and it is fully expected in Cabinet circles that the question will be adjusted by Russia paying an adequate indemnity.

The neutrality of China presents a more knotty problem to the London authorities, for the reason that they have to consider the effect upon their ally. The disposition of the Government is to go slow. In other words, while insisting that China shall continue neutral, the Government will give Japan every opportunity to show, if possible, a justification for the action of the torpedo boat destroyer in capturing the Ryeshitelni. Exchanges on the subject have occured between Great Britain and Japan.

British Subjects in Danger.

London, Aug. 16.—The Admiralty has instructed the British cruiser Tribune to proceed immediately to Venezuelan waters to protect British subjects and interests. It is understood that the request of the Government of Trinidad was based on reports showing that the British employes of the Bermudez Asphalt Company was in danger in consequence of the attitude of the Venezuelan Government.

Cruiser at Tangier.

Tangier, Morocco, Aug. 16.—The British cruiser Minerva arrived here yesterday in connection with the case of Hamed Jaiya, the British subject arrested by order of the Sultan.

CAGGED AND ROBBED A TEACHER.

Miss Edna Freek of Alma College Bound Fast By Burglars.

St. Thomas, Aug. 16.—A daring burglary was perpetrated at the residence of Jesse P. Freek, a city assessor, on Wellington street, early yesterday morning. The burglars effected an entrance to the bedroom occupied by Mr. Freek's eldest daughter, Miss Edna, a teacher at Alma College, and before she could make an outcry had bound and gagged her with a clothes-line secured from the yard, and some rags which they carried with them. The room was ransacked, and two rings, a diamond and a pearl, and $15 in money were secured. There is no clue

THE PACIFIC CABLE

Sir William Mulock Will Represent Canada at Conference.

TO CONSIDER COMPLICATIONS

Action of New South Wales Have Seriously Prejudiced the Financial Success of the Pacific Cable According to the Other Governments Identified With the Project—New Postal Rates to Mexico.

Ottawa, Aug. 15.—Sir William Mulock has been appointed to represent Canada at the conference of co-partners to the Pacific cable, to be held in London early in November, and will leave for England about the middle of October. The other co-partners are Great Britain, Australia and New Zealand. Lord Jersey will act for Great Britain, and Sir Sandford Fleming will be New Zealand's representative. The object of the conference is to consider the complications which have grown out of the action of New South Wales in having granted privileges to the Eastern Extension Telegraph Company which seriously prejudice the financial success of the Pacific cable. The other Governments identified with the project feel that their interests have been gravely affected by this action, and the conference will endeavor to reach a conclusion as to what should be done by Australia to overcome the disastrous results flowing from the course adopted by New South Wales.

Postal Rates to Mexico.

The draft convention for a reduction of the postal rates between Canada and Mexico has been received in Ottawa from the Government of the latter country, and to-day Sir William Mulock will execute the formal convention. It will then be despatched to the Mexican Government for them to execute. The reduction will probably go into effect on September 1st. The letter rate is lowered from five to three cents, and the rate on newspapers and periodicals mailed from the office of publication drops from eight cents to one cent a pound.

THEIR STORIES VARY.

Meanwhile the Captured Cruiser Ryeshitelni Will Be Returned.

London, Aug. 15.—The Che Foo correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, under date of Aug. 13, says: "Admiral Sah states that the Japanese promised to return the Ryeshitelni to-day."

The Russian Report.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—The Emperor has received a telegram from Capt. Shentakovsky, commander of the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni, in which he relates the attack of the Japanese cruisers and says his ship was unarmed.

As Told in Tokio.

Tokio, Aug. 15.—The Navy Department has issued a statement covering the Che Foo incident. It states that Capt. Fujimoto, anticipating its escape during the night, if possible, to attack merchant vessels, entered Che Foo with the two destroyers and found the Russian destroyer Ryeshitelni remaining undisarmed. Lieut. Terashima was then sent to the Russian vessel with a message to the effect that the Japanese commander expected him to leave by dawn or surrender. The Russian commander refused to comply with either demand, and while the conference was still going on he was heard instructting the men to blow up the ship. While this was progressing the forward magazine exploded, killing one and mortally injuring four of our men. We then captured the destroyer and retired. Lieut. Terashima and ten others were wounded."

France Asked to Act.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—By command of the Emperor, Foreign Minister Lamsdorff has instructed the Russian Ambassador at Paris to request that France, on behalf of Russia, shall lodge a strong protest with the French Minister at Tokio against what is described as an outrageous violation of Chinese neutrality and of universally recognized principles of international law. The foreign powers have also been informed of the Russian declaration.

British Cabinet Interested.

London, Aug. 15.—The cutting out of the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni by the Japanese torpedo boat destroyers at Che Foo has eclipsed for the moment in the public mind the steamer Knight Commander incident. Both, however, are receiving the earnest attention of the Cabinet.

Booth's Automobile Tour.

London, Aug. 15.—General Booth, who has begun a great evangelistic tour by automobile, is meeting greater enthusiasm than has been known since John Wesley rode through England on a similar mission. It is likely to be the same during all his journey to the north, for since the King and Queen put their stamp of approval on the social and religious work in which the general is engaged, his path has been strewn with roses. He started the tour at Penzance. A few years ago he was actually stoned in these same Cornish villages, where last week he was feted.

Sealers Carried Firearms.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 15.—A letter from Dutch Harbor, received Saturday, states that the sealer Teresa was seized on the 27th ult. for carrying firearms. The Teresa was followed by five other Victoria schooners and all are supposed to have been treated similarly.

Ottawa, Aug. 15.—Fred Aldrich, clerk in the Militia and Defence Department, dropped dead last night while bicycling. He was about fifty years of age.

TEN PERSONS DROWNED.

Terrible Accident at the Potomac Regatta—But the Races Proceeded.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Ten persons were drowned by the capsizing of a naptha launch on the Potomac River, Georgetown, the western section of this city, during the annual Potomac regatta Saturday. Four others who were on the launch escaped. The dead:

A. J. Boose, about 85 years of age, a salesman; J. George Smith; Charles F. Blumer, 40 years old, a druggist; J. Herbert Coates, about 35 years old, a tailor, of McKeesport, Pa.; John Waldman, 20 years old; William Smith, about 35 years old, an employe of the navy yard; Mrs. Lulu Dreyfuss; Miss Bertha Selbach, Helen Hiser, Helen Moore. All of the victims except Coates lived in this city.

Many of the spectators, including officials of the District Government, protested against the continuance of the racing, in view of the tragedy, but the officials in charge declined to stop the sport.

The cheering for the competing crews as they passed the scene of the tragedy, and the shrill and deafening whistles of the pleasure craft continued while the bodies of the unfortunate victims were being grappled for, dragged into view, and sent to the police station.

Twenty Were Drowned.

London, Aug. 15.—The British barque Inverkip, from Melbourne for Queenstown, was sunk and 20 persons were drowned as the result of a collision off Fastnet Rock, Ireland, Saturday night, with the British ship Loch Carron from the Clyde.

Man Burned to Death.

Arnprior, Aug. 15. — Saturday night, about half-past ten, John Berthianme, a Frenchman, was burned to death in a fire in C. A. Dagenais' hotel here. The unfortunate man, who had been overpowered by the flames, died a few minutes after assistance reached him. It is supposed that deceased had been smoking while in bed. Deceased was about 26 years of age.

Accidentally Shot.

Cooksville, Aug. 15.—Sidney Miller was accidentally shot by Stanley Roylance at the Reserve House yesterday morning. The men were dressing, when Roylance took a revolver from his pocket and, not knowing it was loaded, pulled the trigger. The ball entered Miller's left side, struck a rib and glanced downwards, lodging in the fleshy part of the hip. It is not thought serious results will follow. Miller and Roylance are cousins, 21 and 19 years of age respectively, and are here on a two months' holiday. Their home is in London, Eng.

New Hope—New Courage.

Persons whose nerves are affected get blue and discouraged, are easily irritated and annoyed and also learn to look on the dark side. The restorative influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, soon shows itself on the feelings. It gives new hope and courage, new energy and confidence. By creating nerve force it affords new vigour and vitality for both and body.

Going A-Sailing.

Chairs are arranged as in "going to Jerusalem," in two rows back to back. The number of chairs is one short of the number of children.

Each child is named after some article that one would take or have to do with on a fishing trip.

The child who is chosen or counted out tells the story of his adventures when going a-fishing, bringing in the name of each player. As his name is spoken each child must rise and, taking hold of the dress or coat of the player ahead, follow the leader around the chairs.

The line goes faster and faster until, as the last player rises, they are running around the chairs.

When the leader, in the course of the story, calls out that he has a "bite" the line breaks, all run for seats, and the player left out must act as story teller the next time.—"Book of Children's Parties."

Cautious.

Dr. Bill (meeting former patient)—Ah, good morning, Mr. Jones! How are you feeling this morning? Mr. Jones—Doctor, does it cost anything if I tell you?

Only Wanted a Chance.

Mother—Perhaps the young man needs a little encouragement. Daughter—Yes, mamma; I wish you would keep out of sight more while he is here.

If you are to be hanged, people won't boast that they used to know you.—Atchison Globe.

POISONED.

Rank Poison is Created when Food Does Not Digest, and that is when Sickness Commences.

If the man or woman who does not feel right, will at once look to putting the stomach right they will strike the right key—Every ache and every pain is a cry of poison, too much of which has been made in the process of converting food into nutriment. It may be the backache or sideache of the kidneys telling they are overtaxed and cannot filter the poison—It may be weight, pain or distress in the stomach that tells of fermentation and decomposition instead of digestion—It may be headache, dull, depressed, which tells poison has reached the fluid which surrounds the brain cells. The first cause is the same—lack of gastric juice to properly digest. ANTI-PILL, the Great System Treatment, is a new discovery which so acts on the mucous membrane of the stomach, a natural supply of gastric juice is assured. To prove the wonderful action of ANTI-PILL, you may have a free trial bottle by addressing Wilson-Fyle Co., Niagara Falls, Ont.

To Rice Lake Thursday

Court Stanley A.O.F. never does things by halves and on Thursday the excursion under their auspices to idyl Wyld and Jubilee Point on the steamer Sovereign will be about the most enjoyable way to spend the holiday. A first-class orchestra will accompany the excursion and provide music for dancing at the boat and at the pavillion. Go with the Foresters to Rice Lake Thursday and enjoy yourself for a whole day.

The Big Question Settled.

Go where you will, 'mid the sunny shores of Stony Lake, the breezy banks of Rice Lake, the pine woods of Chemong, or the far-famed Muskoka, there's no place on earth where health, picturesque scenery and wonderful attractions are more in evidence than at Niagara Falls and through the "Whirlpool" route, via the Foresters' excursion on Civic holiday. The trip to Toronto, sail across lake Ontario, as well as the chance to see Buffalo at greatly reduced rates, should settle the question where to go on civic holiday. Tickets good for three days to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, two days to Toronto. Follow the Foresters.

PRINTERS ENJOY A HALF HOLIDAY.

Annual Picnic Held Yesterday Afternoon at Jubilee Point.

A Baseball Game Again won by the Examiner—Some Incidents of the Trip.

Yesterday the printers of Peterborough enjoyed their annual outing, which, in some respects, differed from those of previous years. The printers' picnic has been an event, which in former years has been looked forward to and enjoyed by many outside the ranks of the printers, and it had been anticipated that this year the usual public excursion would have been run, but the traffic on the Otonabee has apparently been extra heavy and a steamer could not be procured for a Saturday afternoon. Consequently it was decided since this was the case, to hold a semi-private picnic for the printers and their friends.

This took place yesterday afternoon at Jubilee Point, whither the party was conveyed by the trim little steamer Sovereign, which, with about one hundred passengers left the Wolfe street dock about two o'clock and after a delightful run down the river landed the passengers at the Point about five o'clock.

The shortness of the time prevented running off a programme of sports, but, a baseball game between the Examiner's unvanquished nine and a team composed of the best of the Review and Times staffs, was played, and, as usual the Examiner again won, and the score was 9-5. Since the defeat that the Examiner administered to the Review earlier in the season, our back door contemporary has been saying, "Just wait till the printers' picnic, and we'll show you a thing or two, and this they proceeded to attempt yesterday, but as for doing it, that's another story. Suffice it to say that the Examiner is still an undefeated aggregation, and will probably remain so perpetually, so far as the Review team is concerned. Paxman, who was in the box for the winners, was always master of the situation, and just think! the heavy hitter of the Review team, Samuel Samson Moore, struck out twice, and didn't make a hit—except with the ladies. This was most disappointing to the Review fans, for they had counted on at least a three bagger, if not a home run from him, every time he went to bat. It is a significant fact that the only two bagger made by the losers was made by Hulf, a ringer on the team. Smith played first base for the defeated ones, and didn't do it so badly either, for of course you couldn't expect a man to reach ten feet over his head and catch the ball. But to make a long story short, the Examiner team gave their twirler good support, and won the game squarely, a fact which even the defeated ones admit. Wilson, the Young Quakers' wonder, was doing the pitching for the losers, and you should have seen the way he was landed on for singles, doubles and triples, all through the game.

The Review thought they would like to go to bat first, but the best they could do was one measly little run scored by Wilson. In the second half, the Examiner just made a tally, too, in order that the other fellows might not get discouraged. In the second the Review combination was shut out, and the winners made six runs and the result of the game was never afterwards in any doubt. In the last two the other fellows got two each, while the winners contented themselves with two in the last, making the final score 9—5.

The teams were:

Examiner — Paxman p, Glover 1b, Long ss, Hutchinson c, Gilman 3b, Richea 2b, Reid lf, Graham cf, Shearard rf.

Review — Wilson p, Smith 1b, Moore c, Hulf 2b, Dredge 3b, Robinson ss, Bowers rf, Henley cf, Hubbs rf.

Score by innings—

Examiner...	1	0	2
Review...	0	2	2
	9	11	1

Mr. Jas. Lynch umpired the game and showed not only a desire to give both teams a square game, but a scientific knowledge of the game. Of course the Review kicked some at his decisions, but then they would kick at anything.

After the game the whole party took tea, and shortly after a start was made for home, the wharf being reached at 10.30.

During the trip down and on the return, Mr. R. S. Dudley enlivened the trip with a number of selections on his zonophone, a new musical instrument, which is apparently the best of its kind. Those who were on the boat were highly delighted with the entertainment provided by Mr. Dudley, and his instrument, which he kept in almost continuous operation.

The committee also wish to express their appreciation of the kindness shown the party by Mr. Snider, and the officers and crew of the Sovereign.

The picnic of 1904 was pronounced by all who participated in it as being highly successful and one of the most enjoyable events of the season.

An interesting event took place last night in the Salvation Army Barracks, Simcoe street, when Miss Bessie Boorman and Mr. Charles Gadd were united in marriage, in the presence of a barracks full of people, who were attracted by the unique character of the event, doubtless. The bride, who was attended by Miss Olive Boorman, her sister, was dressed in her regular uniform, without her bonnet, and wore in addition a white sash over her shoulder. Mr. Wesley Boorman, brother of the bride, assisted the groom.

Brigadier Turner, of Montreal, who was spending the week-end here, performed the ceremony, preceeding which and also after it, the band played selections.

After the interesting ceremony a number of addresses were given by representatives of the different sections of the corps; including Deputy Bandmaster Northcott, Mr. R. C. Braund, Capt. Miller, of Port Hope, the bride's father and Staff Capt. MacNamara, the officer in charge. RECEIVED HOLY HABIT AND TOOK FINAL VOWS.

Solemn and Beautiful Ceremony at Mount St. Joseph.

Four Postulants Take Habit at St. Joseph Sisterhood and Seven Make the Final Vows.

On Monday morning the Chapel of Mount St. Joseph, the mother house of the Sisterhood of St. Joseph for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Peterborough, was the scene of a beautiful, solemn and interesting ceremony — four postulants received the holy habit and seven novices made the final vows.

The ceremony began at nine o'clock in the presence of the immediate relatives and the friends of the young ladies who entered upon the respective stages of their devotion to a special religious life under vows of poverty, charity and obedience. The beautiful Chapel was not only filled, but also the halls, corridors, and even the outside approaches to the building.

A procession had been formed in the Community Room of the Mother House, and proceeded to the Chapel in the following order: First came two beautifully dressed little girls, carrying the baskets containing the habits of the Order to be assumed by the postulants. Then followed the seven novices, who were to make their final vows; next came the postulants to receive the holy habits. These were attired as brides, significant of their becoming the brides of the Church. They wore robes of white organdy over white satin, and upon their heads were floral garlands, and bridal veils, and in their hands they carried bouquets of white carnations. Each of the postulants was attended by a little maid of honour, white robed and with a garland of flowers on her head. The procession, closed by the Rev. Mother Superior Clothilde, and Assistant Mother Superior Mother Annunciation, entered the Chapel, and occupied the places assigned.

The ceremony began by the celebration of Low Mass by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, assisted by Rev. Dr. O'Brien and Mr. Victor McFadden. Within the sanctuary were also Rev. Father Bader, C.S.S.R., the rector of the recent retreat at the Mother House, Rev. Father Fitzpatrick of Enniamore, Rev. Father McGuire, Hastings, and Rev. Father F. O'Sullivan, Lindsay.

The music was provided by the Sisters' choir, accompanied by the organ and two violins.

Following the service of the mass, came the special sermon preached by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Enniamore. The sermon, which was an eloquent and beautiful one, dealt with the significance of the solemn and decisive step that day taken by the young ladies, dealt with the religious privileges and blessings which the holy life to which they had devoted themselves, opened up, and also referred to the triple nature of the vows they had made, including poverty, chastity and obedience.

The postulants for the holy habit then answered the questions prescribed for such occasions, after which they retired to the Community Room, where they were invested with the holy habits, shortly returning to the Chapel. The young ladies who took the habits, were all of Peterborough. Their names in religion, as well as the names of the maids of honour, were as follows: Miss Mamie Mahoney, Sister M. St. Madeline, maid of honour, Miss Madeline Rutherford; Miss Lilian O'Brien, Sister M. St. Bernard, maid of honour, Miss Helen O'Brien; Miss Annie Coughlin, Sister M. St. Bertha, maid of honour, Miss Kathleen Gorman; Miss Lizzie O'Brien, Sister M. St. Patricia, maid of honour, her little niece, Kathleen O'Brien.

The novices then entered the sanctuary, and each in turn, in an audible voice, pronounced the final vows of poverty, chastity and obedience. They received also the cross of their profession, and his Lordship the Bishop, briefly addressed them, congratulating them in suitable terms, upon the happy choice they had made in devoting their lives to the service of Almighty God, and of His Church. The ceremony concluded with the chanting of the psalm, Te Deum Laudamus.

This concluded the ceremony, and the novices, and those who had by their act and the ceremony of the morning separated themselves from the world, repaired to the Community Room, where they received the congratulations of their friends. The names of the professed Sisters are: Frances Sullivan, Sister St. Mary of Lourdes; and Lizzie Lynch, Sister M. St. Gerald, Peterborough; Mary Le Beau, Sister M. Eugenie, Sturgeon Falls; Katie Greenan, Sister M. Perpetua; Miss Carmody, Sister M. Cyril, and Miss Fleurey, Sister St. Agnes, Lindsay; and Miss Sibley, Sister M. Francis Joseph, Toronto.

There are now seventy-four professed Sisters of the Order, which was established in the diocese in 1890, thirteen novices undergoing the usual novitiate of two and a half years, and four postulants, a total of ninety-one. The Mother House of the Order, formerly in Lindsay, was removed to Mount St. Joseph, Peterborough, nine years ago.

ANGLING'S CLUB'S ANNUAL EXCURSION.

A Delightful Day was Spent at Idyl Wild on Saturday.

The C. G. E. Angling Club held their annual excursion to Idyl Wild on Saturday last. The weather was very unfavourable in the early part of the day. Old Sol, however, made his appearance by noon, and everything looked rosy for a good afternoon's outing. About 275 boarded the staunch steamer City of Peterborough, and the sail was Idyl Wild was greatly enjoyed. A pleasant hour was spent at the point, when the steamer was again headed for home, which was reached in due time. Prof.. Kanevitchski's orchestra supplied music for dancing, which was a delightful amusement for a good number of the excursionists. Some others enjoyed themselves with cards, etc.

The anglers wish to thank the Calcutt Company and crew for their kind attention and thoughtfulness. Everything was done to make this the best outing the anglers have had the privilege of running. The committee also wishes to thank all those who patronized the excursion, as well as to apologize to those who were unable to procure meals, as the people were not notified in time. We guarantee that this will not be repeated. The excursion from a financial standpoint was a success.

BOBCAYGEON'S NEW RAILWAY.

The First Stock Shipment Made Over the New Line.

The Bobcaygeon Independent is pleased with the new railway, and it records the first shipment of stock by it in these words:

"The first shipment of stock by the Bobcaygeon Railway was made on Wednesday, and consisted of three car loads. The shippers were Messrs. Silverwood, and Moore, the former shipping a car load of hogs, entirely Tamworths, to Matthews, of Peterborough, and one car load of sheep and lambs to Toronto. The load of pigs was said to be a remarkably fine one, well bred and well fed. The sheep were also a good quality. Mr. Moore's load was of a mere miscellaneous description, but were fine pigs, and went direct to Toronto. The shipment consisted of 150 pigs and about the same number of sheep, for which the two buyers paid out in cash, as delivery was made to the car, fully two thousand dollars. The price was 5 1-4 cents per lb. for hogs live weight.....The advantage of a close market is easily put into figures representing clear cash. The loading facilities are not yet up to C.P.R. standard but convenient and up-to-date facilities will be provided by the company at an early date. The shipment was a new experience to the farmers, and the distribution of two thousand dollars was a new and pleasing experience to the store keepers."

THE QUESTION OF RESPONSIBILITY

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me space in your columns to take exception to a few statements made by "Observer" in Saturday evening's issue of the Review. Although not addressed to me, yet the statements are very faulty. The writer personally examined this part of the boat the morning after the fatality and found the stanchions to sway back and forth to an alarming degree. Whether they were rotted or worn I do not know. Mr. Davis did not say in his evidence that he passed the railing and supports as being all right. What he did say was that when he inspected the North Star there was no railing in place at the bow, but understood that it had been removed for the handling of freight, also that he heard no conversation with the captain about that part of the boat this year, but had notified the officer in charge on former occasions that the rail was not what it ought to be. "Observer" states that the crews are often annoyed beyond endurance by passengers acting as though they owned the boat, etc. Now, sir, what do we find on this occasion. Some of the boat crew assisting in placing the planks in position to make seating accommodation on this same part of the boat which is now claimed was forbidden to passengers and which the inspector stated in his evidence the captain and mate are responsible for keeping clear. This occurred immediately under and in front of the captain's post of duty. If the crew did not know the rules of the boat, is it reasonable to expect passengers to do so. I question very much if even our wise "Observer" would have the required knowledge to keep him within the proper enclosure. Who is responsible for this lack of discipline?

It appears to be rather a shaky defence for the jury to take refuge behind. Some minor points of difference in the testimony of the three young girls (who appeared for the first time in public on an occasion of this kind,) such as whether it was the right or left hand side of the boat the child fell off at. The facts are these passengers were not only permitted but were accommodated in this very part of the boat that night. According to the inspector's testimony the captain and mate were responsible. Yet the jury say the captain and crew were not negligent. It looks like a transparant coat of whitewash.

It seems to me it is enough to suffer the consequences of this sad affair without having the unjust responsibility heaped upon the child by the rendering of such a verdict. The rail was a death trap as has been admitted by Captain Harris, who stated to the writer that he fully expected to lose his papers on account of this occurrence. He held himself responsible and yet the jury practically places the responsibility on an innocent child.

This jury that "Observer" claims rec's no defence for their actions! How generous he appears to be! I do not make the above statement with any view of injuring the captain or his boat, but feel obliged to set "Observer" right by resenting the responsibility being placed where it does not belong. In taking this matter up it is not only in justice to ourselves, but also that the public interests would be safeguarded.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space,

Yours truly,
R. J. KIDD.

THE DEPTHS OF LONDON

THINGS THAT FEW OF ITS MYRIAD OF VISITORS KNOW OF.

Where the Thieves of the Great City Gather—Ways of the Vast East End Population—The Great Curse of the East End of London Is Drink—Sows Care For Their Own Indigent Poor.

The shrines of men and places and things known to song and story usually occupy the time and attention of the visitor to Europe. England and its ancient capital are no exception to the general rule. In London the House of Parliament; that venerable structure erected in honor of St. Peter, Westminster Abbey, and that other noble church edifice, St. Paul's Cathedral; the ostentatious palaces of South African millionaires, the refined and luxurious city homes of the nobility, theatres, clubs, parks, museums, and all such essentials of modern civilization, each in turn receive their meed of praise and adulation; while almost within a stone's throw of these evidences of wealth and prosperity those unlovely appendages of the modern Babylon, South and East London, remain unknown not only to the sightseers but also to the dwellers in the metropolis itself.

The Thieves' Quarter.

In Southwark, on the Surrey side of the Thames, is a neighborhood, rarely ever visited except by the police authorities and a few self-sacrificing people, known as the thieves' quarters. This section, which is south of Guy's Hospital and east of Bermondsey Market, occupies the space within a triangle, the base being Kent street. From this street radiate a number of long lanes and blind alleys. The houses in Kent street, the main thoroughfare, have an exceedingly poverty-stricken appearance, but are palaces in comparison with the rookeries in the offshoots. Eight thousand people are housed in this small space, consisting of dock laborers, costermongers and makers of toys and ornaments. The remainder, a large proportion of the whole, are criminals, receivers of stolen goods, trainers of young thieves, false coiners and degraded women. There is scarcely a house in parts of this region of which some of its members have not had trouble with the police.

The Little Ones Suffer.

Swarms of children sunk to the lowest depths of degradation and destitution play in the gutters among the filth; children whose parents, either through shame of their rags or through carelessness, will not allow them to attend school. The better class of boys, those wishing to make an honest livelihood, soon leave the place; the others, who cannot be costermongers, become thieves. The moral depravity of the younger generation is so great that the various societies who endeavor to reclaim these youthful criminals report more lapses from boys coming from their district and that of Drury lane than from all other parts of London together. There are, however, not a few honest people in this neighborhood, but more or less familiarity exists between them and the criminal class. The same antipathy to the police exists among both, and criminals have often been notified by their honest neighbors of an intended police visit, after which capture is almost impossible. The people are keen, alert and vivacious, and on Sunday, which is market day, more goods are sold than during all the rest of the week.

Kindness Breeds Consideration.

Many instances of the most devoted self-sacrifice are to be met with here, as in other of the city's dark places. The parish physician and his helpmeet, the missionary and district visitor are all treated with the greatest respect and courtesy, and when on their errands of mercy may go into dark lanes, tumble-down tenements, filthy rooms, and even into well-known houses of thieves without molestation. A story is told that the parish doctor, while on his way to visit a bad case of fever, was relieved of his handkerchief by a boy thief lately arrived in the district. On his return he was met by the youth, who had in the meantime been informed of the identity of his victim, and the handkerchief restored, with the apology that he did not know he was the doctor. The business of flower-selling carried on by the dwellers of this district is often merely a blind to give the would-be vendor an opportunity of picking up things, or of "laying a plant" where the jimmy might be used without too great a risk. None but criminals or their connections are permitted to visit the public houses, shops and lodging-houses of the neighborhood.

Strangers Not Wanted.

Should a stranger inadvertently enter one of these places, he must retire as soon as possible, or remain at his peril. Far away from the public ken and surrounded only by their own kind, plans can be discussed without danger. Usually all the burglaries and crimes committed are known to the quarter, but the information is never allowed to leak out. Criminals pay enormous rents for the privilege of living together, and the most modern of conveniences and every known luxury are provided for those who can pay. The quarter has a world all its own. Balls and entertainments of all kinds are given, with which the police do not interfere unless something is wrong. Some of the criminals are known to the police authorities, others are not, except that it is surmised they are probably like those with whom they are associated. When the quarter of one city becomes too hot for a criminal he flies to another, and there is fairly safe, unless the crime committed is of an exceptional nature. There are two schools in the district and two churches; the larger of the schools was formerly the residence of the notorious highwayman, Dick Turpin. The congregation of St. Stephen's Chapel on Sunday evening numbers about three hundred gathered by a personal visit of the minister to nearly every house in the neighborhood. The attendance at the Wesleyan Chapel is much smaller.

Where Labor Is Housed.

That beehive of industry of over two millions of people, called East London, with little of beauty and nothing of history to commend it, the growth of little over half a century, its population the poorest of the poor, is a district known only by name to the residents of other parts of London and never visited by the stranger, yet this portion of the metropolis, with its interminable rows of low-fronted houses, earns a large part of the city's wealth; the producers themselves making barely sufficient to keep body and soul together without the assistance of all the members of the family, and for whom life contains so little brightness that to drown for a time the daily misery men and women have recourse to drink. The inhabitants of this quarter are Polish Jews, the makers of clothes and furniture, in Shoreditch and Bethnal Green; bootmakers on Mile End road, silk workers in Spitalfields and Bethnal Green, dock laborers, factory girls, seamstresses, shop girls, who, Sir Walter Besant says, are sweated by sweaters, who are themselves sweated. The Jewish emigrants appallingly poor, upon their arrival in the city, are received by the Jewish Board of Guardians, and work is found for them at the lowest possible wage at which life can be sustained. As soon as they learn the ways of the country and something of the language they move, and in turn exploit their newly-arrived co-religionists and Christian neighbors.

The Gin Curse.

St. Jude's Church on Commercial road, decorated with paintings by Watts, is an oasis in this desert. Toynbee Hall, adjoining, is a memorial to Arnold Toynbee, originator of the University Settlement, in which highly educated young men, by living and working among the people in this region of ignorance and darkness, strive to raise them to a higher plane of living. The great enemy to all progress in South and East London, in fact everywhere among the laboring classes, is drink. This curse is responsible for the majority of crimes, from common assault to the most brutal murder; for this men sacrifice their manhood, and go down, down, until, brutalized and dead to all human feeling, they live upon the degradation of wives and children; and the women, mothers of the future generation, strive whenever possible to forget the ever-present wretchedness of their existence by visits to the neighboring gin place, the very babes at the breast being stupified by the same soporific which unsexes the mothers. And all this that the rich owners of these leper spots may become richer; that high church dignitaries may live in a mere princely style and entertain in a more lavish manner; or that hereditary legislators of ancient lineage may purchase a few more old masters and articles of virtu, adding to their already priceless collection; or some lordling created from among the "noveau riche" may salve his conscience and debauch the public mind by presenting hospital ships to the nation, building barracks known as "improved flats" or workmen's houses and other so-called charitable acts.

Real Christianity.

It is among the submerged tenth that brilliant young college men, clergymen, born in luxury and bred in refinement, men who might aspire to the highest position in the gift of the Church, cast aside all hope of preferment, subject themselves to insult, and even to death from disease, that they may carry to this region of Stygian night the Gospel. These humble followers of the lowly Nazarene are everywhere received with reverence, fights and rows are stopped, and mouths which but a moment previous gave utterance to oaths are silent until the "parson," as he is called, has passed, perhaps on his way to comfort some poor soul about to enter the valley of the shadow. In this manner these men spend their lives, and when they become known are allowed to enter, freely and unharmed, dens which even the police dare not penetrate unless in force. In this strange quarter of the city, the East End, is to be found George's secondhand book shop, the largest in London, the specialty of which is matching odd volumes, the business being done principally from stalls in the open air.

A Writer on Canada.

Sir William Butler, who entertained the officers of the German fleet at Plymouth recently, is one of many Irishmen who have risen to fame in the ranks of the British army. But his chances in this respect looked slender enough at one time. Those were the days of purchase, and the £1,500 needed to get him his company were hopelessly beyond his resources. So he cabled to Wolseley, then in command of the Red River expedition, "Please remember me," followed the first Canadian boat "on spec.," and by the sheerest good luck obtained the appointment he coveted.

Sir William is the author of several books of travel, the best known and most popular of which is "The Great Lone Land," the outcome of a special mission to the Saskatchewan territories of Canada, which he undertook in 1870. In the following year he published "The Wild North Land," in 1875 "Akimfoo," and five years later a book of traveling reminiscences entitled "Far Out: Rovings Retold." His recall from the command at the Cape at the time of the late war, and the subsequent vindication of his action by the evidence given before the War Commission, is recent history, of course.—Westminster Gazette.

First Person Cremated In America.

The first white person lawfully cremated within the present limits of the United States, according to wishes and desires expressed by himself, was Colonel Henry Laurens, one of the Revolutionary patriots. He was born in Charleston, S. C., in the year 1724, and died on his plantation near that place on Dec. 8, 1792. His will, which he had requested them to open and read the next day after his death, was supplemented with the following: "I solemnly enjoin it upon my son, as an indispensable duty, that, as soon as he conveniently can after my decease, he cause my body to be wrapped in twelve yards of towcloth and burned until it be entirely consumed." The request was carried out to the letter and was the beginning of cremation in America.

First English Letter.

The oldest letter written in English of which there is record was that to Sir John Pelham in London by his wife, who was then in Kent. That letter is dated March 22, 1339, and was sent to London by messenger.

Up to the commencement of the reign of Edward I., all letters, even of the most private nature, were written in Latin. About the time of Edward's accession, French, which had been the spoken language of the court from the time of the conquest, began to be used in written correspondence. In the reign of Edward III. the English language, in pursuance of an act of parliament, was made the language of legislation.

Sensible.

Cholly—Charming widow, isn't she? They say she is to marry again. Algy—I wouldn't want to be a widow's second husband. Cholly—Well, I'd rather be a widow's second husband than her first, doncher know.

Expensive.

"They say her wedding beggared description."

"Oh, more than that!"

"Indeed?"

"Yes. It beggared her father."

To Be Ironed.

Mr. Troomer—Where on earth is my new silk hat? I've looked everywhere for it. His Bride (sweetly)—You said you wanted it ironed, dear, so I have sent it to the laundry.

ECZEMA ON LEG FOR TEN YEARS.

Would Scratch Till the Blood Flowed—Entirely Cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mrs. Hiram Frey, Norwood, Ont., states:—"I was troubled for ten years with eczema on one leg. The itching was terrible, and when scratched the blood would come. The doctors could not cure me. Fortunately I heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and its persistent use has completely cured me. There is now no trace of the disease left.

My little girl two years old, has also been cured of Eczema by Dr. Chase's Ointment. Her face was a mass of sores and we had to bandage her hands to keep her from scratching it. To-day her face is clear of even the scars which the ugly sores made, and she is thoroughly cured. I am glad of an opportunity to let people know what a blessing Dr. Chase's Ointment has proved itself to be."

HOMESICK.

On the brown beach the children play
With little pink feet in the foam,
And when they tire they know the way—
The short soft way that leads to home.

But ah! for us how broad the beach!
How all the sand with thorns is strewn
Back to the gate we may not reach,
Though we should walk from June to June!

The warm lights in the windows start,
Across the dark the red flames run,
Twining hot hands about my heart
And searing old wounds one by one.

A cold wind from the grey North Sea
Flecks the tall twilit cliffs with foam;
My wandering feet a man's may be
But my heart's a child's for home!

⊕TE. S. J. PERRY.

"Cool-Headed, Quiet Chap, Who Minds His Own Business.

Color-Sergeant R. Freemantle, messenger in the Imperial Bank, has been in "D" Company of the Royal Grenadiers for twenty years, and has never met a squarer, better head than Pte. S. J. Perry, G.M. It was in '99 at the Long Branch ranges that Mr. Freemantle became intimate with Perry as a marksman. Perry was then a member of Freemantle's team, selected for his good regimental shooting, says The Toronto News.

"Yes, I knew Perry in Africa," said the sergeant. "I was under canvas with him at Belmont and under smoke with him a good many other places, including Paardeberg."

"Did Perry ever get a bullet down there?"

"No. He hurt his knee scrambling over a kopje at Houtnek on the road to Winborg though. That was about May 3rd, 1900, I guess. He got invalided to Cape Town from there. He was in No. 2 section of "C" Company in the first contingent and was in every engagement up till Houtnek."

"Much of a shot down there—that is did he do any sharpshooting?"

"Can't say that he did. Oh, it's all rot for the average man to talk about picking off Boers in South Africa, anyhow. The men who did those things and knew anything about it are about as rare as hens' teeth. Perry was never a man to talk anyhow. He doesn't advertise. A quieter fellow I never knew."

"Has the cold, blue eye you read about, I suppose?"

"Yes, blue eyes. Good on long sight. That's where he always got ahead of me. I can't stand glaring at a dot a mile away. Perry can."

"Of course, he has the traditional story-book nerve, too?"

"He certainly has. An you can put it down for granted that a man has to have it or he can't shoot. Target-shooting and tight-rope walking are a good deal alike that way. But the marksman is probably the most pernickety piece of machinery ever made. A man must eat moderately, sleep well and keep out of swift sport."

"Does Perry smoke?"

"No, nor drink, either. No, I can't say that he was a crank on religion, or anything of that sort. Just a cool headed, quiet chap that minded his own business. And he was willing to shoot at Boers as well as targets, too."

"How about his sportsmanship?"

"Well, Perry was never much of a man for hunting. That requires a different kind of shooting from range work. Perry is better at the cold calculation of a long distance shot at a thing that isn't moving. Yes, his score has beaten Hayhurst's. He's young yet, too. About 28, I think."

"Useless to make any predictions about him, I suppose?"

"Altogether. Perry is a good deal like Brer Rabbit. He keeps himself squat. Anyhow, shooting is a precarious job."

Exclusion of Yankee Money.

When Sir Francis Hincks was Finance Minister of Canada, American silver infected our circulation as it does to-day. Sir Francis therefore proposed in 1870 and the House adopted a plan for ridding the country of the Yankee money. It was this: First, to prepare for filling the void which would be made by the expulsion of the American money, he provided for the coinage of $1,000,000 of Canadian money in 50 and 25c. pieces. But as that could not be got at once, he arranged to issue fractional note currency of 25c. denominations. These small notes are vulgarly called "Shin-plasters." Then he provided for the co-operation of the banks, with whom arrangements were made to receive and ship the American silver for a small commission. Of course, the banks would be willing, for their circulation would be increased, their one and two-dollar bills taking the place of much of the American silver. As a matter of fact, the clearance enabled them to raise their circulation from $8,000,000 to $15,000,000. These preparations having been made, it was then proclaimed that on and after April 15 American silver for any sum not exceeding $10 should have a legal tender value equal to only 80 per cent. of its face value. This measure proved effective. In a very short time the silver was flowing to the banks, where there were paid out in exchange for it bank notes and Dominion fractional notes. Five million dollars of the foreign coin was gathered up and shipped to New York, where the Government sold it at the market price, which, by the way, had become less fluctuating so long after the war.

"When I commenced taking your medicines, eighteen months ago, my health was completely broken down," writes Mrs. Cora L. Sunderland, of Changeville, Calvert Co., Md. "At times I could not even walk across the room without pains in my chest. The doctor who attended me said I had lung trouble, and that I would never be well again. At last I concluded to try Dr. Pierce's medicines. I bought a bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' took it, and soon commenced to feel a little better, then you directed me to take both the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the 'Favorite Prescription.' which I did. Altogether I have taken eighteen bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' twelve of the 'Favorite Prescription,' and five vials of 'Pellets.' I am now almost entirely well, and do all my work without any pain whatever, and can run with more ease than I could formerly walk."

EUROPEAN TRIPS.

Some Points For the Traveler Who Would Be Economical.

The apparent cheapness of cab fares in Europe will at first lead one into unnecessary extravagance, which can easily be avoided. In every large city and many smaller ones little hand books of the tramway lines can be had and the cars are so plainly marked that the intelligent traveler soon learns to use them. You do not really know a city or its people until you have studied both at close range in the street cars; you are too far away from them in a cab.

Museums, galleries and palaces are always open one day at least in each week free of charge. To arrange for a visit on this day will save quite a tidy little sum in entrance fees when the expenses are counted up at last.

To sum up, $2 a day is a liberal allowance for living expenses, for they will not rise to this sum in cities where a long sojourn is made, and so the greater cost of short stands will be equalized to this one average. Almost all European countries offer special cut railroad rates for a number of tours during the summer months. Information as to this is obtainable in the bureau of information in every city railway station, where officials speaking English can always be found. These round trip tickets cover about everything to be seen in the country in question, and international routes can also be covered by their help at a cost less than that offered by the tourist agencies. Steamer travel is cheaper than rail, but the great time demanded makes the question of meals a serious one, as there is no helping yourself out with a sandwich bought at a station.

To be able to avail oneself of all these possibilities for saving money and really getting the most out of one's trip a good guidebook is absolutely necessary.—Pilgrim.

The man who has a large lawn to mow thinks he has discovered perpetual motion in growing grass.

A tramp never takes a telescope to look for work, no matter how anxious he may be to find it.

The average man is never so happy as, when he has succeeded along some line, in putting another man out of business.

If he hasn't one of his own, a boy selling matches has to hire a sick mother as a part of his stock in trade.

Some people by reason of the very superior quality of their nerve miss few of the good things of the world.

Heroes are men who have the good judgment to die at the psychological moment.

Some people are so light hearted that they won't take even a mother-in-law seriously.

THE PICNIC.

Away
With care; let joy have sway.
Put aside your labors,
Leave trouble at home to quarrel with the neighbors.
Please
Fling business to the breeze;
Spoil
Not the day by thinking of toil.
Lock up your goods
And to the woods.
Take your family in one hand, dear brother,
Your lunch basket in the other;
Your awkward shanks unlimber
And break for the tall timber.
Leave your books on the shelves
To look after themselves
And
Go where you can woo fair nature at first hand.
In other words, make a quick
Connection with the picnic.
What though mixed with the charms on closer view
Are a few
Disagreeable features—
Crawling creatures,
Bugs, ants,
Plants
With stickers and things
With stings!
But contact with that sort
Is part of the sport.
Then hie
Away where you can sit down in the pie;
Seek
The spot where you may fall in the creek,
Drink water from the slough
And do a few
Other restful things.
It brings
Back youth again,
Or at least makes you feel ten
Years younger. So haste away.
Don't delay,
For, dear
Me, picnics come but thirty or forty times a year.

MEALS AND EMOTIONS.

An Odd Difference That Exists Between Men and Women.

I cannot understand the difference between men and women about eating. It is such a radical difference and there doesn't seem to be any reason for it. It gave rise to the old saw, "The way of a man's heart is to his stomach," and many maidens have profited thereby—if gaining a permanent position as cook is to be regarded as profit.

I have seen men at the time of a great crisis, when their faces were white with emotion, when a life, or a fortune, or a name—or a woman was hanging in the balance, answer a dinner call with alacrity, and eat, eat heartily. I have seen a chafing dish tempt a man from an important business engagement, and a cup of tea even make him sacrifice a train. The man who comes home a nervous wreck, cross, irritable, taciturn, after a meal to his liking is a creature to conjure with, so great is the change wrought. It is an established fact that criminals eat well when awaiting trial and even execution. Men in destitute circumstances will sacrifice everything for the sake of three hearty meals a day, where with women clothing, or, in rarer instances, reading matter, is a first consideration.

Men in distress go and eat—and feel better; if women attempt it they feel worse. The very thought of food repels them, it chokes them, and actually does them more harm than good. To eat in a time of grief seems to them sacrilege. They cry out against the necessity after days of fasting and yield only in degrees. Women cannot suffer and eat at the same time. Men can. And that is the difference I cannot understand.

Smoking In Berlin Streets.

Before May 23, 1832, no smoking was allowed in the streets or parks of Berlin, and offenders were punished by a fine for the first infraction of the rule and by imprisonment afterward. The king of Prussia in those days detested smoking and the police and the military men were under strict orders to arrest any one who dared to smoke in public. It is recorded that when Napoleon occupied Berlin a hundred years ago the Berliners eagerly took advantage of the opportunity to smoke, and took a special delight in puffing smoke in the faces of the police, who had then no power to arrest them. In 1832, however, the restriction was withdrawn, and since then the people have celebrated the anniversary with great joy.

Extinguisher.

"I followed good advice about returnin' good for evil," said Mr. Rafferty. "Casey has done me some bad turns, but he wanted a favor, an' I heaped coals iv fire on him."

"Coals iv fire, is it?" said Mr. Dolan. "Well, there's no great danger. As he cem past the house awhile ago yer wife, be way iv neighborly repartee, tossed a bucket iv wather on 'im, so the chance of his burnin' alive is over."

Cured When all Else Failed

"Could I live my early life over, this testimonial would not be necessary, though I was no more sinful than thousands of other young men. Early indiscretions, later excesses, exposure to contagious diseases all helped to break down my system. When I commenced to realize my condition I was almost frantic. Doctor after doctor treated me but only gave me relief—not a cure. Hot Springs helped me, but did not cure me. The symptoms always returned. Mercury and Potash drove the poison into my system instead of driving it out. I bless the day your New Method Treatment was recommended to me. I investigated who you were first, and finding you had over 25 years' experience and responsible financially. I gave you my case under a guarantee. You cured me permanently, and in six years there has not been a sore, pain, ulcer or any other symptom of the blood disease."

POPULAR WIN FOR MR. DENNISTOUN

At Sturgeon Point Won Championship in Sailing Race.

The Regatta a Great Success—Some of the Peterborough Winners.

Lindsay, Aug. 15.—(Special)— The regatta at Sturgeon Point on Saturday was a great success and was well attended, in spite of the fact of the rain in the morning, which kept a number from a distance away. The Chemong people came 100 strong in a steamer, bringing three dinghies and two sailing canoes, and entered heartily into all the events. Mr. Wm. Mackenzie's handsome new yacht came from Balsam Lake, with Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie and a large party on board, and altogether there were about 4,000 people at the sports.

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun's win of the Sturgeon Lake championship flag was popular, and he was loudly cheered as he sailed by in his handsome boat, flying the flag, at the conclusion of the races. This flag is causing keen competition on the lake, and already Mr. Dennistoun has two challenges to defend his title, viz.:—

First race, championship flag, fastest sailing craft—R. M. Dennistoun, Chemong.

Dinghy race (seven starters)—1, R. Yerson, Sturgeon Point; 2, Nesmith, Sturgeon Point; 3, Hopwood, Chemong.

Sailing canoe (five starters)— 1, Bruce Hopkins, Sturgeon Point; 2, Fred. Hopkins, Sturgeon Point; 3, Dumble, Chemong.

Men's tandem, canoes—1, O'Leary and Grantham; 2, Simpson and Gladman.

Canoes, ladies' tandem—1, Misses O'Leary; 2, Misses Neelands and Allan.

Canoes, boys under 17.—1, Gladman adn Parr; 2, Wilson and Sylvester.

Canoes, boys under 13—1, Knowlson and Warner; 2, Dixon brothers.

Canoes, pairs—1, Misses Allan and V. Gladman; 2, Miss O'Leary and Gordon O'Leary.

Crab race—1, Gordon O'Leary; 2, Fred. Hopkins.

THE R. R. HALL CUP A HANDSOME TROPHY.

Presented to the Trent Lacrosse League to Represent Championship.

The T.A.S team will doubtless play to-morrow with more than the usual vim and enthusiasm, in view of the fact that the ownership for this year of the handsome silver cup in Mr. Alex. Gibson's window, will probably depend upon the result of to-morrow's game. Mr. R. R. Hall, the hon. president of the Trent Valley Lacrosse League, some few weeks ago intimated to the League his intention of donating to that body a trophy to represent the League championship. An order for the was placed with Mr. Alex. Gibson, and the trophy is now on view in that gentleman's window, and is indeed a handsome and valuable one. It is wrought entirely of silver, and stands about fifteen inches high, surmounted by a draped figure holding a laurel wreath. On the bowl of the cup the inscription ingraved is "The R. R. Hall Lacrosse Trophy—Trent Valley League Championship." Above the base, which is also of silver, are two lacrosse sticks crossed.

The cup has a rich appearance, and its possession by any team which may own it, will be a credit to it.

Mr. Hall's interest in the promotion of sport, as evidenced by his generous gift to the League, will be appreciated by not only the teams composing the league, but by those interested in the promotion of pure sport.

LACROSSE.

To-morrow evening the last home game for the T.A.S. in the Trent Valley League will be played at the Murray street grounds, when Havelock will be here to play the first of the final games for the League championship. The Havelock team is a fast aggregation and a good hard game is sure to result. Mr. R. R. Hall, the hon. president of the League, will face off the ball. This will likely be the hardest game of the season for the T.A.S., but they are confident of their ability to continue their winning streak. The game will commence at 6 o'clock.

BASEBALL.

One of the attractions of the Catholic Foresters excursion to Orillia, on Thursday, will be the baseball game between the T.A.S. and Orillia. The Orillia team is figuring on a victory that day, and in anticipation of a hard game has secured an imported battery. The T.A.S. will strengthen up some, and the game will be warmly contested. The T.A.S. team is very anxious to sustain its good reputation, and will put on its strongest team.

The Ponies Here Saturday.

The Kingston Ponies baseball team headed by the famous George (Smily) Sullivan and Chancer Elliott will be here Saturday, August 20th, for a game with the locals. The local management went to considerable expense in securing the Ponies for a game, which should be a rare treat to the Peterborough public and every one should take in this opportunity as it will be without a doubt the best game seen here for some time.

The locals had a rattling good practice last night and will be in great shape for Saturday's game.

BOWLING-ON-THE-GREEN.

LAWN GBOULHING

At the Dominion Lawn Bowling Tournament which opened in Toronto yesterday, three Peterborough rinks participated. In the preliminary round G. Giroux's rink was defeated by C. Swabey's rink, 16-13. R. M. Waddell was also defeated by B. Jones. R. H. Kerr, however, was more successful, his rink defeating Mount Forest, 22-11.

In the draw for to-day R. Kerr is against Lugsdin.

Notwithstanding the absence of three rinks in Toronto, there were three games played last night as follows :—

G. Stevenson	J. Little
Rev. J. Wilson	J. McClung
G. A. Cox	F. Clarke
D. H. Moore	W. Smith
R.J.Frost, sk. 10.	W. Armstrong 14.
A. R. Kidd	W. F. Johnson
M. G. Constant	Dr. Wightman
W. Atchison	F. Dixon
A. Stratton, sk. 12.	G. Lech, sk. 9.
M. G. Constant	G. Stevenson
J. McClung	Rev. J. Wilson
D. H. Moore	G. A. Cox
I. Dixon	R. Frost
W. F. Johnson	W. Salmbury
sk. 13.	sk. 4.

The green was in fine shape last night and some fine bowling was done.

There is no schedule for to-night, but all who attend early may be sure of a game.

HOCKEY.

Kingston News and Times: Harry Brown, cover point on last year's crack Belleville team, is enaged in the locomotive works in this city, and will be available for the team that will bear Kingston's colours next winter. In fact he is very anxious that a team should be formed, and his wish will be echoed by hundreds.

PLEASURE TRIP ON THE TRENT CANAL.

Enjoyable Outing of a Party of Tourists in a Gasoline Launch

Through Sturgeon, Pigeon, Buckhorn, Lovesick, Stony and Clear Lakes. Over the Peterborough Lift Lock into Rice Lake Waters, to the end of Navigation at Healey's Falls.

The trip down this—the new portion of the canal from Lakefield to Peterborough—was most interesting. The Roy was joined by the Viking, manned by Captain Fred and Messrs Bruce and Bert Hopkins, William and Robt. Allen, and as the gate was being closed the clear note of the bugle announced the arrival of another craft, which proved to be another launch belonging to Mr. Bickford of Toronto, who with his wife, was making a tour of the lakes. They put their boat into the water at Port Perry, and after visiting Cameron and Balsam Lakes, and Burnt River had then traversed the same waters as we had traversed, stopping each night at hotels en route. Enjoyment and appreciation were written on their faces and a more comfortable family party could not well be imagined.

The cutting through the rocks at Lakefield is very deep, but the result has been one of the most substantial portions of the canal. The lock chambers and approaches are all made of cement, which answers the purpose better than either stone or wood, and presents a better appearance; in fact it is more satisfactory in every respect.

To reach Peterborough we had to pass through nine lock gates all within a reach of nine miles, and as the locks had been very little used they were consequently rather stiff. The look-masters are green hands at their jobs, so the labour was rather heavy on the working members of our party, and the long reach leading to the lift lock gave a welcome cessation of labour. As we neared the lift lock, crowds of sightseers lined its approaches, to whom the advent of the three launches was a welcome sight.

The men in charge of the lock gave the party the same attention as would be given to the largest boat on the inland waters, and the Roy and its escorts sailed into the big steel box with as much dignity and fuss as would any of its larger sisters. As a full description of this — the largest lift-lock in the world—was published in The Post in a previous issue, we will not repeat it. The sensation of being in the large tank, with many thousands of gallons of water, and of being lowered 65 feet in about a minute was unique. After the end had been dropped down like the tail-board of a waggon, we were able to sail out and away; then after a run of a few hundred yards, we encountered another gate lock, which was speedily put behind us. We then entered Little Lake, and were soon safely moored at Peterborough's town wharf.

LINDSAY MENS' FOUND MONEY

Realizing Money from Logs Sunk in the River for Years.

A couple of Lindsay men are making good money raising sunken oak logs out of the river above and below the town. The other day they disposed of a bunch of logs to Mr. J. Carew for $200, and since then one man operating above the town has realized $80 from two days' work. This news revives the old tradition about the sinking of a big raft of oak logs in the vicinity of Pleasant Point about 50 years ago, and in quest of which, Mr. F. K. Begbie, Superintendent of the Waterworks, engaged in several diving expeditions.—Post.

THE SUMMER WIDOWER

He sleeps in his deserted home. The house is empty, hollow cavernous. When he arrives at night he half expects to find the place turned upside down by burglars. He wonders if he left that dining-room door open like that when he went away in the morning. He shuns the place until the hour for retirement. In the morning he waters the plants, but finds the palms are gone—confided to some friend or neighbor, and this lack of faith in him on his wife's part, wounds him. He decides to trust the other plants to some neighbor, likewise. When he tries to read of an evening the silence of the house interrupts him, and reading loses its pleasure. He goes out, but he has noghere to go. He is alone in a great city, the most homeless, friendless objects in it.

To tell the truth, he expected that he would like the freedom of his old bachelor days for a couple of months. He thought it would be like old times, and that he could float around as he used to do. But he finds that he has forgotten how to float. The club is not the same, for none of his old friends are there, or, if they are, they do not amuse him. He invents an excuse for hurrying off, and, outside, he hesitates where to go. At one time in his life he used to enjoy a trip to the Island. He tries it once, but there is nothing in it for him. The young people seem foolish, and he wonders why girls giggle now as they did not years ago, and why young men slap each other on the back and tip off each other's hats.

At home, if he sits on his verandah some acquaintance comes along and talks politics, but he is tired of it all and cannot get interested. He is invited out to dinner, d esn't want to go, but goes, and wishes he had not. Dull affair. He leaves the house and puts up at an hotel. In two or three days he quits the hotel—more comfortable in his own room at home. At this period he begins to take a deep interest in his garden, his intention being to astonish his family on their return. This enthusiasm keeps him going for two weeks, until he discovers that all the best flowers will have bloomed and faded ere they return. He lets the garden go to pot. All this time he is writing his wife the most cheerful letters—he takes a grim, almost a fierce, pleasure in making it appear that he is contented. His wife sends him a group picture of herself and the children in a rowboat, and next day he arranges with his partner that he will join his family for a fortnight and bring them home three weeks earlier than was originally intended.

The summer widower is a distressing object. He does not fit into the scheme of things at all. He is in the world, but not of it. He pretends to be happy, but he is not; his laugh is false, his smiles are forced. And yet the misapprehension prevails that he is a man who has a very good time of it. The city just now is full of these haunted men.

TO ROCHESTER.

Civic Holiday, August 18th, with Otonabee Lodge I.O.O.F., good for three days. Fare from Peterborough, $1.80; from Millbrook, $1.55; from Lindsay, $1.95. This is the favourite excursion trip of the season, via G. T. R. and Str. North King. Tickets on sale now. See large posters.

If We Get Our Wish

We will sell all our summer clothing, summer furnishings, hats, caps, etc., during the next two weeks. We want to wind up the season in that time, as our new fall stock has commenced to arrive. With prices a third, a half and two-thirds off we ought to have a quick clearance; so long as we get cost in any case we will be satisfied. "Times up" out go the goods! Now's the time for lots of bargains at the City Clothing Store. H. LeBrun & Co.

Silkworm Fishing Lines.

A tourist friend who has recently returned from a trip through the south of Europe was telling the other day of the large proportions assumed by the production of silkworm gut for fishing lines in Spain since the decline of silk culture there. The grub is fed on mulberry leaves as usual in silk culture, but before it begins to spin—that is, in May and June—it is killed by immersion in vinegar. The substance which would have formed the cocoon is then drawn out from its body in the form of a thick silken thread, which is treated with chemicals and afterward dried. These threads are made up in bundles of a hundred each, and the Spanish peasants travel with them along the shores of the Mediterranean as far as France. The best quality of the gut, as every fisherman knows or ought for his own protection when shopping to know, is round. The flat shaped article is always inferior and is due, not, as often supposed, to careless drawing of it, but to unhealthiness in the worm which furnished it.—Forest and Stream.

South Polo Seals.

Seals, according to the crew of the antarctic exploring ship Discovery, are abundant near the south pole. They are very tame and can be clubbed by any one without showing more fight than opening their jaws and making a harsh noise. They are possessed of extraordinary vitality and are not easy to kill. Antarctic seals are not provided with marketable fur. The skins of the majority of seals in the antarctic regions show an extraordinary number of cicatrices, some old and some recent, which for some time have been a puzzle to zoologists. It is a question whether they are the result of warfare among the bull seals or are caused by attacks of some monster not yet known to science. Some light has been shed on this subject by the discovery of remains of an ordinary seal in the stomach of a sea leopard, which is provided with a very fierce set of teeth, quite in keeping with the possible habit of feeding on other seals.

Sons of England's New Trip.

The Sons of England have gallantly joined hands with the Daughters of England in a joint excursion on Civic Holiday, August 18th to Lindsay, Sturgeon Point and Bobcaygeon. Special arrangements have been entered into with the G.T.R. for an early train to leave Peterborough at 8.25 a.m., so as to connect in Lindsay with the fine steamer Esturion for Sturgeon Point and Bobcaygeon. The tickets are only a dollar for adults and 50c. for children. This is not a new alliance, so far as parties of the first and second parts are concerned, but it is a new trip for them, and it's going to be a "Rule Britannia one."

PORT ARTHUR'S DIRE PLIGHT

So Bad that the Japs Urge Russians to Surrender.

HEAVY FIGHTING CONTINUES

Admiral Kamimura's Report of Sunday's Victory—Germans Warn Japs Against Entering Tsingtan at Night Without Lights—A Compelled Sortie by Russian Ships—British Protest Delivered.

London, Aug. 17.—A despatch to The Central News from Tokio says that a big oil warehouse at Port Arthur is blazing furiously and that the position of the besieged is such that the Japanese are urging them to surrender.

Humane Note Delivered.

Tokio, Aug. 17.—The Emperor's offer to release the non-combatants at Port Arthur, coupled with a demand for the surrender of the fortress was delivered Tuesday. An answer is expected to-day (Wednesday).

Sortie By Russian Ships.

Che Foo, Aug. 17.—The Russian ships at Port Arthur made a sortie early yesterday. They are now being pursued by the Japanese. A severe engagement is expected. The Russians, it is reported, did not encounter the Japanese fleet. Nevertheless they returned to Port Arthur.

Yesterday's sortie of the Russian warships from Port Arthur is regarded as a confirmation of the previous reports that the Japanese have occupied an important land position, the fire from which compelled the Russian vessels to leave the harbor.

Junks, which left Port Arthur, Aug. 13, report that heavy fighting was continuing.

Kamimura's Report.

Tokio, Aug. 15.—(Delayed in transmission.)—Admiral Kamimura in his detailed report of last Sunday's victory of the Vladivostock squadron says:

"At dawn Sunday morning the armored cruisers Idsamo, Capt. Ijichi; the Adsuma, Capt. Fuji; the Tokiwa, Capt. Yochimatsu, and the Iwater, Capt. Taketomi, while engaged in a search off Fusan, Corea, discovered three of the Vladivostock squadron steaming southward. Seeing us, the enemy endeavored to flee northward. We immediately closed their retreat. The engagement opened at 5.28 a.m.

"The Rurik, being the slowest of the enemy's vessels, was constantly left behind, and she formed a target for our incessant fire. The Rossia and the Gromobol gallantly attempted several times to protect the Rurik. They frequently returned to the Rurik, and, when united, the three advanced together.

"Our fleet thus had the advantage of pouring its fire from a formation in the shape of a letter 'T.' The enemy's ships were seen to be on fire several times, showing thereby that they were heavily damaged. The Rurik was finally disabled and her fire weakened. She began lowering in the water, listing to port. The Rossia and Gromoboi finally abandoned the Rurik. Just then our fourth detachment, consisting of the protected cruisers Naniwa, Capt. Wada, and the Tahachiho, Capt. Mori, having been seen attacking the Rurik, our squadron pursued the Rossia and Gromoboi. Severe fighting continued for several hours.

"The Rossia and Gromoboi escaped to the northward at full speed. At 10.10 a.m. our squadron changed its course to the starboard and went south in search of the Rurik. In the meantime the Rurik had been sunk. Our ships steamed over the locality and succeeded in saving 600 members of the Rurik's crew. Our damage was not serious. The spirit of our men was excellent."

Germans Will Fire.

Tsingtau, Aug. 17.—A Japanese destroyer entered the harbor a short time ago having on board the Japanese Vice-Admiral Dewa and his staff, for the purpose of calling on the governor of Kiauchou.

At the governor's mansion Governor Truppel assured the Japanese admiral that all the Russian ships were dismantled, that their guns had been disabled and their ammunition removed. The Admiral then departed, and as the Japanese destroyer left she was saluted by the German warships.

The Germans have notified the Japanese that they will fire on any ship entering the harbor at night without lights.

Pallada Sunk.

Tokio, Aug. 17.—It seems certain that the Russian protected cruiser Pallada was torpedoed and sunk during the naval battle of Aug. 10. She failed to return to Port Arthur, and has not been reported since Admiral Togo's fleet departed on various missions the night of Aug. 10, when the Russians retreated. One destroyer reports that she hit a vessel of the Pallada type, and it is thought the vessel foundered, and it is believed to be probable that the entire crew were either killed or drowned. Admiral Togo, in reporting to the admiralty, says it appears certain that the Pallada was sunk.

Alexieff Arrives.

Liaoyang, Aug. 17.—The Japanese are reported to be much nearer Anshanshan on the southeast than 12 miles, and Lieut.-General Zassalitch's troops, who had a severe skirmish on the 13th, are having daily touch with the enemy.

British Protest Delivered.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 17.—The formal British protest against the treatment of neutral ships was delivered to the Russian Government yesterday. It follows the lines of Foreign Secretary Lansdowne's and Premier Balfour's recent statements on the subject in Parliament.

Will Exact Reparation.

London, Aug. 17.—From a diplomatic source it was learned yesterday that England has taken an uncompromising attitude towards the action of the Russian warships in sinking the steamer Knight Commander. In her latest note to Russia, Great Britain informed the St. Petersburg officials that they must pay damages for the sinking of the Knight Commander. If this is refused, England will resort to extreme measures. Also, if there is a repetition of the sinking of a British ship, British cruisers will be ordered to exact reparation from the offending warships.

The natives were defeated with heavy losses. Five German officers, including Count Von Arnim, and nineteen men were killed. Six officers, among them Baron Von Watter, and fifty-two men were wounded. Two are missing. Thousands of cattle were captured.

He is survived by a widow.

WOMAN TERRIBLY BEATEN.

Mrs. Malcolm Lennie Clubbed Nearly to Death By Her Husband.

Toronto, Aug. 17.—Mrs. Catherine Lennie, wife of Malcolm Lennie, a laborer, residing at 493½ King street east, was beaten almost into insensibility about 9.30 o'clock yesterday morning, and her husband is under arrest on a charge of feloniously wounding, which may be charged to something more serious. He was taken before Magistrate Denison and remanded for a week. The weapon used was a rolling pin.

Mrs. Lennie had laid a charge of non-support, but later also asked for an order of protection, and he was wroth about it.

The first notification of trouble was a loud scream. Mrs. McCarthy and Miss Lennie rushed up to the room. Mrs. Lennie was lying across the bed, with her hands in front of her face, as if for protection, and the husband standing over her with the rolling pin uplifted, preparing to strike another blow. There was a big gash in the woman's head, where the first blow had been struck. The daughter rushed in front of her father, but he pushed her aside. Mrs. McCarthy did the same; she was shoved to one side, and again the heavy wooden weapon descended on the woman's skull. The two women ran out screaming for help. In their absence Lennie dragged the woman off the bed on to the floor and beat her on the face with his fists. She was unconscious when assistance arrived.

Lennie is 50 years of age and his wife is about 40.

DUCK SHOOTING METHODS.

Game laws are for the protection of game, and its perpetuation. Game laws are however passed, not so much in the interests of game, as in the direct interest of sportsmen, who, but for such protection, would soon have no game to afford them sport, and even with game laws, lack of respect for them in some kinds of sport, threatens the extinction of game. This is especially applicable to ducks. A few years ago it was said that we had good duck shooting, in all the waters adapted to that sport in Peterborough district. Now a good bag of ducks is a rather difficult thing to compile, though it is said that ducking promises to be good at Rice Lake this season. That the scarcity of this game is to be attributed to the neglect or disregard of the laws provided for their protection, is too evident. Even at this time of year, and for almost weeks before the first of September, in spite of it being the close season, the popping of guns, in the parts frequented by ducks, is heard. The ducks are dispersed, and the real sportsman, who respects himself and the law,—who will wait for the open season—finds his sport spoiled. And even among the latter there are some not free from blame, because they cannot, or do not, resist the temptation to shoot at unlawfully early and late hours, morning and evening, disturbing the birds at feeding time, and driving them altogether, to a large extent, from their chosen haunts. Under such, and similar circumstances, it is not surprising that duck shooting is becoming more and more unsatisfactory. The remedy consists, in part, in a stricter and more conscientious observance of the laws and regulations governing the shooting of ducks, and to a larger extent, perhaps, in the establishment and maintenance of preserves, where game can be fostered, and dealt with under conditions that prevent, the out-of-season slaughter of birds, and encourage ducks to make the preserves accepted haunts, spring and autumn, during the migration from south to north and vice versa. There exist several of these preserves in Ontario, owned, or controlled, by companies or clubs, under charter. That of the Long Point Shooting Club, is situated at Port Rowan Bay. At Long Point there are the preserves of another company, and adjacent to Long Point are the preserves and club house of the Toronto and Big Creek Shooting Company. Opposite Long Point are the preserves of the Turkey Point Shooting Company, and at Port Perry, Lake Scugog, are the grounds of another shooting club.

Experience has shown that the existence of these preserves has, not only increased the number of duck, by preventing slaughter at improper seasons, but has created resting places for duck, where their rights are respected. On the grounds now covered by these preserves, a few years ago a brace of blue bills was found to be a good bag; on the same grounds now a bag of 50 brace of canvas back — the juciest and most luscious variety of duck — is no uncommon day's work. The regulations of these preserves are strict, and the members are not closely bound by the game laws either. In this sense, a true sportsman is a law unto himself. The members of some, at least, of these clubs, keep the game laws more strictly than the law itself. The regulations of—if we mistake not—the Toronto and Big Creek Club, call for morning shooting to begin not sooner than eight o'clock, instead of half an hour before sunrise; and evening shooting to cease an hour, instead of half an hour, after sunset. The best hours for feeding are thus prohibited, but on that very account conditions are created more conducive to the ducks making the preserve a permanent haunt, and thereby attracting other ducks. Space will not permit of detailed reference to the good results coming from the proper maintenance of such preserves. Not only is there an increase of ducks for the owners of the preserve, but the shooting in the entire vicinity is improved, and the advantage of the observance of the law is impressed upon those on whom its requirements have heretofore sat lightly. In view of these good results, the Rice Lake district, perhaps the best natural ducking grounds in Ontario, might be considered in the light of establishing one or more preserves.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

MINING INDUSTRY FORGING AHEAD.

Satisfactory Report of the Bureau of Mines.

GREAT IRON ORE RESOURCES.

They Have Been Greatly Extended During the Last Few Years—Valuable Nickel Deposits.

The annual report of the Provincial Bureau of Mines has just been issued. It states that the output of minerals for the year was valued at $12,870,593, a decrease over 1903, of about four per cent.

"The chief decreases," explains Director Gibson, "in the metallic production were in iron and steel, the greater part of the shrinkage being accounted for by the paralysis that fell on the Sault Ste. Marie industries, involving, as it did the closing of the Helen Iron Mine, from which the greater bulk of the iron ore raised during the last four years in Ontario, has come, as well as the stoppage of the Algoma Steel Works. A diminution in the yield of the precious metals and a smaller output of pig iron also contributed to the result. On the other hand, 1903, was the record year in nickel and copper, the production of which, both in quantity and value, considerably exceeded that for 1902, or any previous twelve month. When the increasing facilities for mining and treating the nickel-copper ores of the Sudbury district now being provided for, come into operation, the output from this field will doubtless show still further advance."

As for the non-metallic substances, the most notable advances were in Portland cement, corundum, fieldspar, iron pirites, calcium, carbide and mica.

SHOW HEAVY YIELDS.

A summary of the mineral production shows that 10,283 ounces of gold, worth $188,036, and 16,688 ounces of silver, worth $8,948, were mined. The figures for some of the other products were as follows: Copper, 5,331 tons; nickel, 6,998 tons; iron ore, 208,154 tons; arsenic, 257 tons; calcium carbide, 2,507 tons; Portland cement, 695,260 barrels (worth $1,182,799); corundum, 1,119 tons; graphite, 4,400 tons; gypsum, 4,520 tons; peat fuel, 1,100 tons; petroleum, 16,640,338 gallons; salt, 58,274 tons.

For the production of the $12,870,593 above noted, 10,658 men were employed at a wage for the year of $4,222,386.

Since 1893 the increase in production has made a gain of 100 per cent., the nickel production in 1903 being double that of 1900. The total last year was $2,499,069.

GROWTH OF IRON INDUSTRY.

Referring to the iron industry of the province, the report says:

"The potential resources of the province in iron ore have been greatly extended during the last five years by the discovery of the following iron ranges situated in widely separated portions of the province: The Michipicoten range of the Michipicoten mining division, east shore of Lake Superior, containing the Helen, Josephine, Frances and Braut Lake hematite deposits; the Hutton or Moose Mountain range, north-west of Lake Wahnapitae, where the ore is magnetic; the Lake Temagami ranges, including those on the north-east arm, Vermilion, Iron and Ko-ko-ko Lakes, where the outcroppings are chiefly magnetite banded with jaspar, but which also show a little hematite; the Flying Post or Ground Hog River ranges of banded magnetite and hematite; the banded hematite belt of Black Sturgeon Lake, south-west of Lake Nepigon, and the extensive range of interbanded hematite and jasper stretching, with some interruptions, from the east shore of Lake Nepigon to Little Long Lake, a distance of some 70 miles, the western terminations of which on Nepigon and Little Long Lakes respectively have long been known."

During 1903 there were sold and patented 6,437 acres farming lands, the purchase money received by the Department of Crown Lands being $15,123.89, as against $8,202.52 in the previous year.

There were 18 mining accidents during the year resulting in deaths.

VALUABLE NICKEL AREA.

The report also says:—"Dr. A. P. Coleman, professor of geology in the University of Toronto, and mineralogist of the Bureau of Mines, has spent two consecutive seasons in the Sudbury nickel area, and his paper in the present report, entitled "The Northern Nickel Range," presents a continuation of the work begun in 1902, the results of which were given in the twelfth report under the heading "The Sudbury Nickel Deposits." Dr. Coleman has arrived at the conclusion that the nickel bearing area is really comprised in a continuous band of eruptive rock, entirely enclosing a roughly elliptical or boat-shaped area composed in the main of trufts, slates and sandstones, about 35 miles long and eight miles wide. This nickel-bearing band on its inner edge is acid in composition and tends to phases of granite or syenite, but becomes more basic and passes into gabbro or norite as it approaches the outer rim, where the ore bodies are found. Dr. Coleman regards the belt of eruptive as probably synclinal in form and as really constituting a gigantic laccolithic sheet, whose upturned edges rest on rocks of archaean age both on the north and the south. He will probably complete his examination of the nickel field during the season of 1904, and it is intended to issue a full account of the region and industry, with maps, in the fourteenth annual report of the bureau, and perhaps also in the form of a monograph."

VICTIMS OF A MOB

Two Negro Murderers Burned at the Stake in Georgia.

THE MILITIA OVERPOWERED

Prisoners Were Then Taken From the Courthouse to Meet a Terrible Death—Had Been Found Guilty and Were Under Sentence to Hang on the 9th September—The Scene Photographed.

Statesboro, Ga., Aug. 17.—With clothing saturated with kerosene, writhing and twisting in their agony, screaming to Heaven for the mercy that the mob would not show, Paul Reed and Will Cato, negroes, two of the principals in the murder and burning of Henry Hodges and wife and three of their children, six miles from Statesboro, three weeks ago, were burned at the stake yesterday. At 1.21 yesterday afternoon a determined mob, charged on the court house, secured Cato and Reed, who had been found guilty, after a legal trial and sentenced to be hanged, took them two miles from Statesboro and there burned them alive.

The climax came quickly and unexpectedly. The forenoon had passed quietly, the trial of Paul Reed, the ringleader in the murder, being concluded and a verdict of guilty rendered. Both he and Will Cato, found guilty the day before, were sentenced to hang Sept. 9.

A member of the mob recounted the horrors of the crime. The men were then chained to a large stump and a wagon load of pine wood was piled around them and ten gallons of kerosene was thrown over all. A photographer got several views of the scene. Frenzied cheers rent the air.

When the match was applied to the pyre, Reed was asked to tell the truth before he died: "Yes. I killed Mr. and Mrs. Hodges, he replied.

"Who killed the children?" he was asked.

"Handy Bell," came the response as the flames leaped upwards.

The men died in fearful torture.

Henry Hodges was one of Statesboro's most prominent men. His summer home is several miles out of town. On the night of July 20 the country home was burned. It had been completely destroyed when the local firemen reached it. A search of the ruins revealed the bodies of Hodges and the members of the family, and it was evident that they had been murdered before the house was fired.

TO COME TO CANADA

German Emigrants to Be So Persuaded by Herr Wagner.

TAGEBLATT EDITOR'S VISIT

May Be Effective in Turning Many Sons of the German Fatherland in Canada's Direction—What He Has Already Done and What He Still Intends to Do—Delighted With Canada.

Toronto, Aug. 17.—Herr A. Wagner, editor of the well known and influential Berlin newspaper, The Tageblatt, is at present in Toronto. He is now on his return journey after spending some considerable time investigating for himself the natural conditions of the Canadian west and its advantages as a field for German emigration. It is his intention also to examine the central and eastern counties, and with that object he will spend eight or ten days in Ontario visiting the chief towns, the peninsula and the northern region. In all, his tour of inspection will cover a period of four or five months.

Herr Wagner has been interested in German emigration for a good many years, and deplored the choice of Brazil, which has been made by so many of the people. They are, he said, sent to the plantations and many succumb in two, three or four years. "My attention was drawn to Canada, and I satisfied myself that it offered a far better field for German emigrants. These views I expressed in a series of articles in my paper, but I was met with the objection that as I had never been to Canada, I could know nothing of the country or its resources. You must know," said Herr Wagner, with a laugh, "that Canada to most Germans is another Siberia, a waste of desert and snow for eight months of the year. So I determined to make this journey in order that I may be able to speak from personal knowledge.

"The opinions I formed have been fully confirmed. I am delighted with Canada and am satisfied it is far better suited to German emigrants than any of the South American States. Of all the districts I have yet seen, I am most of all impressed by British Columbia. It is a wonderful country and possesses a greater variety of callings than the farming states. I consider it an ideal field for the settler with a little capital. It is a pity the European emigrant so frequently is without any more than the sum requisite to take him to his destination. I think the Government might well do more in the way of assisting deserving men to take up the land.

"I am securing everywhere illustrative photographs of typical Canadian scenes, and these I will use in connection with the lectures I intend to deliver throughout Germany and the Austrian provinces. Then I will contribute a series of articles to my own paper and to other leading journals. I am now able to support my contentions by my own personal testimony, and I hope to divert very largely the stream of emigration towards Canada.

"Do you know anything of the old country, as Canadians call Britain?"

"Yes, I have been in England several times, and I always feel that after all it is the grandest country in the world. Of its great cities, I prefer Liverpool, where I have always felt myself to be in the society of gentlemen and men of character."

"And what is the feeling in Germany towards Britain?"

"Every intelligent German is the greatest and truest friend of England. There is no general ill-will in Germany towards Great Britain. Every educated German realizes that the British people is the first in the civilized world and desires the two countries to be on terms of neighborliness and friendship."

STIFF CENSORSHIP.

Publication in Finland Will Have Its Difficulties.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 17.—A new law governing newspapers and periodical publications in Finland is promulgated.

If an editor has published an article objectionable to the authorities he must publish their "warning" to him at the top of his front page on the following day. The authorities may direct that the editor be changed, and if this is not done the paper will be suppressed. The subject matter of periodicals appearing once a month must be submitted for censure at least three weeks before publication. Persons wishing to sell any kind of printed matter must first obtain the permission of the Governor.

Publications abroad which show themselves to be systematically hostile to the policy of the authorities are forbidden entry.

"Bull" Reports Untrue.

Winnipeg, Aug. 17.—The weather is cooler, but the rain holds off and conditions are favorable for the ripening of grain. The C.N.R. weekly reports issued yesterday are generally favorable. All the districts covered report the crops much benefited by the warm spell. The feature of the Chicago bull market has been the reports of rust damage to Canadian wheat, especially in the Boundary District and on Portage Plains. There is possibly some slight truth in the former, but the Portage Plains story, affecting as it does the richest district in Manitoba, is a fabrication from beginning to end. There is no suspicion of rust in that district.

Be in Earnest.

Be in earnest about your health. Do not suppose that the head-aches, back-aches, and other symptoms from which you suffer will pass away of their own accord, instead of developing into serious and chronic disease. If you are subject to kidney, liver and bowel derangements there is no preparation which will be so helpful to you as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose.

With Catarrh of the Stomach—Pe-ru-na Cured.

Congressman Botkin, of Winfield, Kan.

In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman, Congressman Botkin says:

"My Dear Doctor—It gives me pleasure to certify to the excellent curative qualities of your medicines—Peruna and Manalin. I have been afflicted more or less for a quarter of a century with catarrh of the stomach and constipation. A residence in Washington has increased these troubles. A few bottles of your medicine have given me almost complete relief, and I am sure that a continuation of them will effect a permanent cure."—J. D. Botkin.

Mr. L. F. Verdery, a prominent real estate agent, of Augusta, Ga., writes:

"I have been a great sufferer from catarrhal dyspepsia. I tried many physicians, visited a good many springs, but I believe Peruna has done more for me than all of the above put together. I feel like a new person."—L. F. Verdery

The most common form of summer catarrh is catarrh of the stomach. This is generally known as dyspepsia. Peruna cures these cases like magic.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advise gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

As Dangerous a Plaything.

"Primitive man had to get along without the automobile."

"Yes, but he had a club which, while much cruder, was quite as effective."

The Summer Boarder.

In regard to the summer boarder there is yet another side. We only hear about it from the standpoint of the lady who has been lured into the country by the seductive advertisement and dumped down on a spot that had already been pre-empted by a colony of mosquitoes and where the canned goods of commerce serve as a poor substitute for fresh country vegetables; a place where the ice trust lays no tribute, and where oleomargarine performs thrice a day in place of real butter that has been shipped away to the lucky city customer.

The other side is the side of the woman who runs the ranch. For $4 a week she is expected to furnish board like that of the Waldorf-Astoria, to have scenery that is a combination of the mountains of Switzerland and the lakes of Scotland, to have a cool breeze trained to spring up at the touch of a button and to furnish a band concert eight evenings in the week.

Between these two extremes there is a medium—unhappy, it may be, but if the scientific investigator will take the trouble to look up each case he will see that the summer boarder gets just about what he pays for and no more.

Cause and Effect.

He ate a piece of hotel pie,
And when he had a morbid dream
And thought the nightmare was a team
He couldn't figure why.

A Family Resemblance.

"The peach crop must be of the cat family."

"How do you make that out?"

"It appears to have nine lives."

Natural Consequence.

"What crime is he charged with?"

"Stealing a watch."

"Of course he will have to 'do time' for that."

He Knows Them.

Baldheaded men may pious be
And always walk the chalk,
But the mosquito cannot see
It thus. He's heard them talk.

Point of View.

"Is it wrong to steal watermelons?"

"Depends on whether you are doing the stealing or are owner of the patch."

Painless Spanking.

Father (cutting the whip smartly through the air)—See, Tommy, how I make the horse go faster without striking him at all. Tommy—Papa, why don't you spank us children that way?—Glasgow Times.

Stingy Steps.

An old man was passing our house one afternoon, taking exceedingly short steps. My little cousin watched him for several minutes and then said, "Mamma, doesn't he walk stingy?"—Exchange.

ERRATIC LIGHTNING,

Tumbled the Furniture in a Farmhouse Near Streetsville About, But Did Not Set the Place on Fire.

Streetsville, Aug. 17.—Lightning played some strange freaks at the farm of Albert Quenell, near this village, yesterday. His wife and child, with Mrs. Bookbank, were coming down stairs when a bolt struck the house and all three were knocked down stairs and stunned. The furniture in the house was demoralised, and some of the woodwork damaged. The parlor furniture was cracked into kindling wood and piled up in one corner of the room. The house did not take fire.

Phone Poles Riddled.

Greenwood, Aug. 17.—A severe electrical storm passed over this locality yesterday afternoon. Several barns and driving sheds were struck and destroyed by lightning. Telephones were burnt out and wires destroyed. In Brougham the telephone poles for one mile were riddled to atoms and wires destroyed.

Hail Smashes Windows.

Berlin, Aug. 17.—In a fierce hailstorm which passed over the village of Bridgeport yesterday afternoon hailstones an inch and a half in circumference came down and about 1,000 windows were broken at the sugar beet factory alone. The fruit trees were badly hurt.

Barn Struck at York Mills.

Toronto, Aug. 17.—During the thunderstorm yesterday afternoon, lightning struck the barn of Mr. Wicks, near York Mills, and spread to the adjoining stables, all of which were entirely consumed.

Meteor Fell During Storm.

Shelburne, Aug. 17.—During the electric storm on Saturday last, following a noise resembling continuous thunder, a meteor fell on the farm of John Shields, about three miles from here. It buried itself a considerable distance into the ground. It is a metallic substance and weighs 13 pounds. It is evident that this is only a small portion of it.

Barn Burned.

Seaforth, Aug. 17.—John Sproat's barn, about three miles from here, in Tuckersmith, was struck by lightning Monday night and totally destroyed, together with a quantity of hay.

Barn and Crops Gone.

Merrickville, Aug. 17.—A fire broke out early yesterday morning in a barn owned by Wm. Nicholson, containing hay and grain. The stables and other out-buildings were also destroyed. Loss about $1,500. Insurance, $1,800.

Two Inches of Hail.

Aurora, Aug. 17.—Aurora and vicinity got the full benefit of a big hail storm yesterday afternoon. The hail was 2 inches deep on the sidewalk in places.

New Hope—New Courage

Persons whose nerves are affected get blue and discouraged, are easily irritated and annoyed and also learn to look on the dark side. The restorative influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, soon shows itself on the feelings. It gives new hope and courage, new energy and confidence. By creating nerve force it affords new vigour and vitality for both and body.

An Acknowledgment.

Dr. and Mrs. Gray desire to take this means of acknowledging the great kindness they have received under the circumstances connected with the death of their daughter, Noble. Thanks are especially due to those who generously contributed floral offerings, and to those who sent letters of sympathy. While these latter are very warmly appreciated, the large number of them prevents individual acknowledgment, and therefore this form of general acknowledgment is employed. Dr. and Mrs. Gray will never forget the universal kindness they have received during this, the greatest affliction of their lives.

INDEPENDENT FORESTERS POSSESS PETERBOROUGH

Annual Meeting of the High Court of Eastern Ontario.

HUNDREDS OF DELEGATES

The Opening Meeting of the High Court—List of the Delegates Progress of the Order.

Independent Foresters, the town is yours!

Last night from every train, from east, west, north and south the Foresters came, a well-groomed, business-like, intelligent lokoking crowd of men, and women, too, and the hotels are all crowded with guests.

The Oriental Hotel, last night, where the headquarters of the High Court are located during the meeting, was crowded and the registration room was a busy scene from seven o'clock until well on to midnight.

The occasion for all this is the fact that the High Court of Eastern Ontario Independent Order of Foresters is now in session here and will be for the next two days.

There were some pleasant greetings exchanged last night as the delegates recognized among the throng some one whom they had met on similar occasions in former years, and "Well, well, Bill, how are you? I'm glad to se you here again, and how are things down in————?" or similar greetgreetings were frequent'y heard.

A large number of the delegates arrived last night, and by noon today the greater part had arrived. Last night the principal business of the majority of the delegates was the securing of hotel accommodation, and after this to register with the Credential Committee, which certainly had a busy time of it for a few hours.

Court Chemong held a meeting last night at which 20 candidates were initiated, the local officers being requested by the High Court officers to perform the initiatory ceremony. The H.C.R. Dr. Herald, of Kingston, occupied the chair.

After the initiation the visiting members of the Order, of which there were a number present, were welcomed to Peterborough by Chief Ranger Cowling, on behalf of Court Chemong and by Dr. Greer, for the Companion Court. These gentlemen extended a very cordial welcome to their visiting friends, and hoped that their stay here would prove not only pleasant but beneficial to themselves and to the Order. They assured the visitors that the local Foresters considered it an honour to have the High Court meet in Peterborough.

Replies were made by Past High Chief Ranger A. H. French, K.C., of Ottawa, who delivered a short but brilliant speech in response to the kindly greetings extended. H. C. R. Dr. Herald, Kingston, H.C.R. Pratt, Ottawa, High Councillor; J. E. DeHartt, Perth, High Journal Secretary; J. S. R. McCann, High Treasurer; D. L. Dickinson, High Secretary; W. E. Crane, Chrysler, H.V.C.R.; Rev. B. A. Wood, Metcalf, High Orator and others.

After the meeting the Executive Committee met in the parlour of the Oriental to settle matters of detail in connection with the High Court meeting.

The delegates appointed to represent the different courts in the Eastern Ontario District, and most of whom are in attendance are:—

Explanatory.

The Examiner's attention has been called to an error made in yesterday's issue. In connection with the report of the C. G. E. Angling Club's excursion to Idyl Wyld on Saturday the Examiner said: "The committee also wishes to thank all those who patronized the excursion as well as to apologize to those who were unable to procure meals, as the people were not notified in time." While it should have said that "the people were notified in due time." The committee regrets that better provisions were not made, but states that the members took what they considered ample means of securing refreshment accommodation.

DAYLIGHT BURGLARY IN SMITH TOWNSHIP.

The Residence of Mr. Andrew Fairbairn Entered and Money Stolen.

The Robber was no Hog—Left Some Money Behind.

The residence of Mr. Andrew Fairbairn, 9th concession of Smith, was entered on Monday afternoon, about three o'clock, and the sum of $52.00 taken. The family was absent attending the funeral of the late Miss Bickell, and there was nobody about the premises but the hired man, who was at work in the field. He says he had occasion to come to the house for a drink of water, and found an open window, which had been left closed. He shut it, and reported the circumstances to Mr. Fairbairn's daughters when they returned home shortly afterwards. When they went into the house they found desk in Mr. Fairbairn's office open, and upon the lid of the desk found an empty pocketbook which had contained $52 in bills. This money was taken, but, lying on this was another and smaller pocket book containing the sum of $2.13 in cents and silver. This had been in the desk along with the other money and why the thief did not take it also is hard to understand. He evidently was after big spoil, for nothing else in the house was disturbed, a drawer containing Mrs. Fairbairn's purse, and with five or six dollars, having been overlooked entirely.

No clue of importance to the identity of the thief exists, though suspicion points to a man, apparently a stranger, who was seen coming towards Peterborough, and wearing no coat, who is thought to be responsible for the robbery. Mr. Fairbairn on Monday night notified the police in Peterborough, Lakefield and Chemong to be on the lookout for any suspicious party.

DON'T FORGET

the Maccabees' Excursion to Midland, by G.T.R., on Civic Holiday, Aug. 15th. Tickets, Adults $1.35, Children 70c. This is the finest trip of the season, without a doubt. The special amusement of the day will be a football match between the Bridgenorth team and the Midland champions. The Peterborough Baseball Club will go to Midland with the excursionists and will play the team of that place. You get the most for your money on this trip to Midland. Special rates for meals. Train leaves the G.T.R. station at 8:15 a.m.

WHERE TO SPEND CIVIC HOLIDAY

List of the Attractions for To-morrow's Pleasure Seekers.

A General Exodus from Town—Where One May Go to Enjoy the Day.

To-morrow — Civic Holiday — the annual exodus will take place, and from present indications the number of persons leaving town for the day will be larger than ever before. Excursions have been arranged to almost every conceivable point, and it would be a very fastidious person who cannot find in some one of the multitudinous array of excursions, one which will meet his taste.

The Examiner does not pretend to be able to advise one where to go, but publishes below a list of the excursions arranged for to-morrow, with their respective attractions, as told by the promoters of them:

THE FORESTERS TO RICE LAKE.

Court Stanley, A. O. F., never do things by halves, and on Thursday the excursion under their auspices to Idyl Wild and Jubilee Point on the Sovereign, will be about the most enjoyable way to spend the holiday. A first class orchestra will accompany the excursion and provide music for dancing on the boat and at the pavilion. Go with the Foresters to Rice Lake on Thursday, and enjoy yourself for a whole day. Tickets 50c.; children 25c. The boat leaves the Wolfe street wharf at 8 o'clock.

TO MIDLAND WITH THE MACCABEES'.

Don't forget the Maccabees' trip to Midland per the G.T.R. to-morrow, August 18th. Tickets, Adults, $1.35; Children, 70 cents. This is the finest trip of the season without a doubt. The special amusement of the day will be a football match between the Bridgenorth team and the Midland champions. Special rates for meals. Train leaves the G.T.R. station at 8.15 a.m.

ANNUAL TRIP TO NIAGARA FALLS.

Go where you will, 'mid the sunny shores of Stony Lake, the breezy banks of rice Lake, the pine woods of Chemong, or the far-famed Muskoka, there's no place on earth where health, picturesque scenery and wonderful attractions are more in evidence than at Niagara Falls and through the "Whirlpool" route, via the Foresters' excursion on Civic holiday. The trip to Toronto, sail across lake Ontario, as well as the chance to see Buffalo at greatly reduced rates, should settle the question where to go on civic holiday. Ticket is good for three days to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, two days to Toronto. Fare $2.20; train leaves G.T.R at 6.30 a.m.

FOUR DAYS IN THE FLOWER CITY.

A four days' visit to one of the prettiest cities in the United States is what people may enjoy who patronize the excursion by Otonabee Lodge I.O.O.F. to Rochester, on Civic Holiday, Thursday, August 18th. The fare is only $1.80 for a three days' stay, but by paying single fare from Port Hope on return, excursionists may remain in Rochester over Sunday. This will be the best trip of the holiday. Special train leaves G.T.R. at 10.45 a.m.

NEW C. P. R. TRIP TO BOBCAYGEON.

Mount Hebron Encampment's excursion to Bobcaygeon on the Civic Holiday, over the C. P. R.'s new line, via Burketon and Lindsay, is the best excursion on Thursday. One hundred and forty miles by rail and 8 hours in Bobcaygeon, for adults only 85 cents, children, 45 cents. This line skirts the picturesque river and Lake Scugog. The excursionists will have ample time for fishing and sight seeing. One of the most interesting sights will be Mossom Boyd's famous herd of buffaloes. A special train leaves the C.P.R. station at 7.30 a.m.; returning leaves Bobcaygeon at 6 p.m.

TO BOBCAYGEON BY RAIL AND BOAT.

The Sons of England have gallantly joined hands with the Daughters of England in a joint excursion on Civic Holiday, August 18th to Lindsay, Sturgeon Point and Bobcaygeon. Special arrangements have been entered into with the G.T.R. for an early train to leave Peterborough at 8.25 a.m., so as to connect in Lindsay with the fine steamer Esturion for Sturgeon Point and Bobcaygeon. The tickets are only a dollar for adults and 50c. for children.

ATTRACTIONS IN THE ORILLIA TRIP.

Orillia and Lake Couchiching have been selected by the St. Peter's Court, Catholic Order of Foresters, as the attractive point for their Civic Holiday excursion. This is a favourite spot at this holiday season of the year, and combines strong features for interesting excursionists. Tickets $1.15 and 60c. Good to return next day. The T.A.S. baseball team will also accompany the excursion and will play the Orillia team. The train leaves the G.T.R. station at 9 a.m.

ROUND TRIP ON KAWARTHA LALES.

Peterborough Lodge of Oddfellows will take the round trip through the Kawartha Lakes going by Lakefield and home by Lindsay on Civic Holiday. You have only to ask those who were there last year to be convinced of the fact that this trip is gaining in popularity every year. Train leaves G.T.R. station at 8.00 a. m. arriving home at 9.45 p. m.

TRIP OVER THE HYDRAULIC LOCK.

The Salvation Army has arranged with the "City of Peterborough" proprietors to convey an excursion over the lift lock, leaving the Wolfe street wharf at 8.15 a. m. and going up over the lift lock to No. 5 lock, where dinner will be taken in the pleasant grove there. In the afternoon the boat will come back again and go for a sail down the river, returning home at 8 o'clock. The fare for the trip will be 50 cents and 25 cents, and it should be a popular one.

LOU SCHOLES AT YOUNG'S POINT.

A number from town will doubtless go to Young's Point to-morrow, where Father Phelan's annual picnic will take place, the chief feature of it being the appearance of Lou Scholes, the champion amateur oarsmen of the world. Lou is being married in Toronto to-day, and will go to Young's Point on his wedding trip. In addition to Scholes' visit to the picnic there will be other attractions. Addresses will be given by Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mr. J. P. Downey, M.P.P., Jas Kendry, M. P., R. R. Hall, Senator McHugh, D. O'Connell and others.

The steamer "Stony Lake" will connect with the morning train at Lakefield. Dinner will be served on the grounds. This should be a popular trip for to-morrow.

Grand Rink Concert.

In honour of the Supreme and High Court I.O.F. officers, to be here next week, a grand concert will be given in the Brock street rink. Barlow Cumberland, Past Deputy Supreme Secretary; Dr. Milman, Supreme Physician, and Dr. Herald, H. C. R., will give addresses. The Fifty-seventh Band will be present, and in addition a first class programme of vocal and elocutionary selections, will be presented. An all-round first class programme will be provided. Admission free; the public cordially invited. et

TORONTO, NIAGARA FALLS, BUFFALO.

Just a reminder that the Civic Holiday is not far off and that your arrangements to take in the Foresters' Excursion to Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo should be made now. No other trip is its equal. No other trip has half the good things for you. See posters for rates, time of leaving and other facts.

Ain't You Glad You Waited?

This is the month that price reductions at Stratton's Bookstore speak loudest, and make you feel glad you waited. The drop in hammocks is one-fifth former prices; in croquet sets, it's a tenth off, and in sporting goods it's twenty off. This is about the way it goes in hundreds of other articles. As the ranks of summer goods get thinner the prices get slighter. A. H. Stratton & Co.

REGIMENT PREPARING FOR BARRIE TRIP.

Last night the 57th Regiment had a good drill when the trooping the colours was gone through, in preparation for the Barrie trip when it will be given for the benefit of the Barrie people.

Next Thursday night the regiment with Brass and Bugle Bands will parade. All Non-Com. officers and men are expected to turn out. All arrangements have been made for the trip to Barrie on Labour Day.

EIGHTEENTH TRIP ACROSS ATLANTIC

Mr. Dickson Hall has Returned From a Buying Trip.

Mr. Dickson Hall, of the firm of Richard Hall & Son, returned last night after having made his eighteenth annual trip across the Atlantic on business for his firm. Mr. Hall, during his nine weeks' absence, has travelled 10,000 miles, and has visited a large number of cities, on business for his house. The purchases made on this trip, Mr. Hall states to have been larger than those of any preceeding, and he has secured some especially attractive goods, and, what is equally important, at very attractive prices. Mr Hall first visited Manchester, and from there he went to London, and afterwards by way of Hooks, Holland, to Berlin, where he spent a week, and went to Paris, via Cologne. Coming back to London Mr. Hall went in turn to Nottingham, Bradford, Bailiff's Bridge, Manchester, Belfast, Glasgow and Liverpool. He left for home on the "Cedric" of the White Star Line, which made the trip from Liverpool to New York in seven days, ten hours and thirty-eight minutes. The steamer left Liverpool on August 6th, and arrived at New York on the 13th. Mr. Hall remained in New York until Monday, picking up some novelties and returned home last night.

Business in England, according to Mr. Hall, is somewhat dull, the result of overstocked supplies of manufactured goods, and, as a consequence, some snaps were secured.

TO ROCHESTER.

Civic Holiday, August 18th, with Otonabee Lodge I.O.O.F., good for three days. Fare from Peterborough, $1.80; from Millbrook, $1.55; from Lindsay, $1.95. This is the favourite excursion trip of the season, via G. T. R. and Str. North King. Tickets on sale now. See large posters.

ARCHBISHOP DAVIDSON.

The Primate of the Church of England—Something About the Career of a Great Ecclesiastic.

In view of the coming visit to Canada of the Archbishop of Canterbury, the following notes by an Anglican clergyman are of interest:

Dr. Davidson is a Scotchman, the son of a physician. He, now, in the British House of Lords ranks next to the Royal Princes. His name stands immedfately below Prince Leopold, the Duke of Albany. He is a member of the Privy Council and a Knight of the Grand Cross of the Royal Victorian Order. Consequently, in the House of Lords he appears as "the Right Honorable and Most Reverend Randall Thomas Davidson, G.C.V.O., D.D., Lord Archbishop of Canterbury." He was the spiritual adviser of the late Queen Victoria when he was Bishop of Winchester, and Clerk of the Closet, and was present at the death of the late Queen. On the death of Archbishop Benson he was offered the Archbishopric of Canterbury, but declined on the score of health. When Archbishop Temple died he accepted the post.

He did not "take honors" at Oxford, as he was a very delicate young man, but he has always been regarded a scholar. He was private secretary to Archbishop Tait, whose daughter he married. He was also secretary to Archbishop Benson. He was first consecrated Bishop of Rochester and was translated to Winchester. In churchmanship he is considered an "Evangelical" or Low Churchman. His sympathies are entirely in that direction. He attended the funeral of the late Rev. Mr. Spurgeon and pronounced the benediction at the grave of the eminent Baptist preacher. The Archbishop is frequently heard in the House of Lords; but he is not, as has been said in some American papers, "a politician." He would indignantly repudiate such a statement. He is a man of very deep piety and earnest convictions, and while he is undoubtedly a Low Churchman he has always maintained that the existence of the Established Church depends on her toleration of all parties. He was born in 1848, and is, therefore, in the very prime of mental vigor. His health is said to be completely restored.

Dr. Davidson is the 27th Protestant Archbishop from the time of Cranmer.

The stipend of the Archbishop of Canterbury is $75,000 a year—a princely income, with which he has to keep up Lambeth Palace and all the dignity required of one who takes precedence of the Lord Chancellor of England and stands next to Royal Princes. The wife of the Archbishop, however, has no social rank except that which is conceded to her by courtesy. In letters the Archbishop is addressed as "The Right Honorable and Most Reverend Archbishop of Canterbury," and, in England, in conversation, he is entitled to be called either "Your Grace" or "My Lord Archbishop." He signs his letters and documents with the ancient formula of "Randall Cantuar."

Death of Sir John Simon.

Sir John Simon, who was born in 1816 and whose death has just been announced, was the pioneer of the modern system of the sanitation of cities. In 1848 the city of London officership of health was instituted, and he was appointed to the post, holding it until he became Medical Officer of the Local Government Board seven years afterward. He continued in the service of the Government till 1876.

Such a conservative publication as "Men and Women of the Time" declares that "the lay mind can scarcely estimate the stupendous importance to civilization and humanity of Simon's pioneer work. The wide-reaching sanitary legislation of 1848 might have remained a dead letter but for the practical shape into which he of all others put it.

Sir John drained London, abolished central cesspools under house, abolished slaughter houses and other unhealthy trade establishments within the city, and agitated actively against smoke, intramural graveyards, the pollution of the Thames, impure water, overcrowded dwellings, and other unhealthy conditions.

It has been said that to enumerate the full details of Sir John's official career would be to write a history of hygienic reform during the last half century. In how great esteem he was held may be gathered from the honors conferred upon him, including honorary degrees from universities in England and on the continent, and membership in so many learned societies that to enumerate them is impossible.

Mme. Sarah Grand.

Madame Sarah Grand has had a career in which the successes ought to make full amends for the disappointments. Her "Heavenly Twins" went the round unheeded until Mr. Heinemann became their godfather, and then they were established as prime favorites. The public loves a fat book; and here it had given to it something like three books as one. Madame Grand had waited, and all things came to her, including that homage of women rarely accorded to a champion of the sex. Perhaps her own tolerance had something to do with it—she advised the woman missionary to cultivate good looks and to see to her bonnets. "Don't be too easily pleased by a man," is her advice to girls; and perhaps there was once a generation of girls who stood in need of it.

Don't Set Trees Too Deep.

Experiments in planting trees of different depths have been tested at a German experiment station with characteristic thoroughness. A number of trees were set at the usual depths, all lower than the nominal, to see what effect this would have upon the roots of the trees. In every case the tree, both in top and roots, grew more slowly with every increase in depth in planting beyond the usual depth.

"PUNCH" ON CRICKET.

English Paper Preaches a "Flannelled Fool" Sermon.

Wasted labor, misdirected enthusiasm, and the Empire's need form the subject of the epilogue to the 126th volume of "Punch," which takes the shape of a conversation between Mr. Punch and a famous cricketer.

The cricketer details the labors which make up his day. "To-day I made 120 not out," he says, "was interviewed twice, photographed three times, and wrote half a column for the 'Daily Demagogue.' I'm off now to get a bit of dinner, and before I turn in I've got to finish an article on the Economics of Sport for The Statist. If I get to bed by twelve I shall consider myself lucky."

"That's the pity of it," observes Mr. Punch. "Energy and ability lavished on games, when the country is crying out for efficiency and intelligence in commerce and the army and navy.

"Has it ever occurred to you that you are over-doing all these athletics, that it is time to grow up and be rather more serious? Cricket is a splendid thing; football is a splendid thing; but no healthy, fine young fellow like you ought to spend the whole summer in knocking a solid ball about and the whole winter in kicking a hollow one. That is only a small part of life, and you are making it the whole.

"Is there no Empire to expand, no country to be defended? Are we not menaced at every turn by clever young Americans and plodding young Germans? Against their quickness and thoroughness are we to offer no resistance but fine averages?"

Marie Corelli on Literary Life.

The rewards and emoluments of the happy life, such as I have always found the life literary to be, are manifold and frequently incongruous. They may be considered in two sections—the outward or apparent and the interior or invisible. Concerning these I can only of course speak from my own experience. The outward or apparent occur (so far as I myself am concerned) as follows:

First—Certain payments, small or large, made by publishers who undertake to present one's brain work to the world in print, and who do the best they can for their authors, as well as for themselves.

Second—Public appreciation and condemnation, about equally divided.

Third—Critical praise and censure, six of one and half a dozen of the other.

Fourth—Endless requests for autographs.

Fifth—Innumerable begging letters.

Sixth—Imperative, sometimes threatening, demands for "interviews."

Seventh—Hundreds of love letters.

Eighth—Continual offers of marriage (average number one a week.)

Ninth—Shoals of MSS. sent by literary aspirants to be "placed" or "recommended."

Tenth—Free circulation of lies, caricatures and slanders, concerning one's self, one's personality, friends, ways of work and general surroundings.

Eleventh—The grudging and bitter animosity of rival contemporaries.

Twelfth—Persistent public and private misrepresentation on one's character, aims and intentions.

All these things, taken together, weigh very little when compared with the other side of the medal—the interior and invisible delight and charm of the life literary—the unpurchasable and never-failing advantage which no external advantage can give, no inimical influence take away.—Marie Corelli, in The Strand.

An Italian Scottish Peer.

There is nothing very Scottish-sounding about the name of Don Sigismondo, Prince Guistiniani and Marquis Bandini, who kept his 84th birthday recently in Rome, says The London Chronicle, but that venerable patrician is nevertheless, not only a naturalized British subject, but is also eighth Earl of Newburgh and Viscount Kynnaird in the Peerage of Scotland; and is entitled, if he so please, to vote at any election of Scottish representative Peers, and to sit himself in the House of Lords if duly elected. These ancient dignities passed many generations ago into the Roman family of Bandini, owing to the Italian marriage of the daughter and heiress of the house. A connection has recently been re-established with this country by the marriage of one of the Prince's daughters to a scion of the ducal family of Howard, and the Prince's grandson and eventual heir is probably coming to England to finish his education at Christ Church.

Some "Smallests."

The late Mr. M. A. Lower, the antiquary, is responsible for this Lullington anecdote: One Sunday morning the curate, a man of diminutive stature, preached from the shortest text in the Bible, "Jesus wept," to a congregation of a dozen people, and the offertory realized only eightpence; whereupon a stranger remarked that it was the smallest church, the smallest congregation, the smallest parson, the shortest text, and the smallest collection he had ever known. But a well-endowed Congregational minister in Dorset once told the present writer that often only a penny was to be found in his "weekly offertory" box, and that a special collection amounted to only 4½d.

The Color of Man.

The color of the skin in the various races of man has never yet been scientifically accounted for, although numerous mythological stories have been told and senseless theories advanced as reasons for the remarkable variations in hue. Nor have we any certain data concerning the color of the cuticle of the primeval man, the original "lord of creation." A pretty African legend is that he was as black as the proverbial ace of spades and that the present pale color of the Caucasian race is the result of the scare God gave Adam at the time of the fall.

It is proper to state here that the same legend says that the present black race are descendants of one of Adam's sons that was born and left Eden before the great change in color overtook our first parents. The Chinese believe that the original man was a creature half god and half man and that his color came about as a result of bathing in a river of liquid gold. The Mussulmans, the American Indians and several oriental tribes and nations account for their prevailing red or copper color by telling the story of the Great Being creating the first pair from red kaolin, the common fire clay of the potter shops.

Best Selling Book in the World.

The Bible is the best selling book in the world. It leads, and by a long interval, all other publications in copies purchased in the ordinary channels of trade without regard to what may be called the official distribution.

Every bookstore which undertakes to carry a full line of stock sells the Bible. Several important corporations confine themselves to the manufacture and sale of Bibles, and others find in the Bible their leading feature. Of no other book can this be said. Speaking some time ago of the insatiable demand for the Bible as an article of merchandise, an officer of the Methodist Book Concern said: "Like all publishers, we have to keep watch of the sale of books in general, even the most popular, so as not to get overstocked. But this never occurs in printing the Bible. We just keep the presses steadily at work, and if we happen to find that we have 40,000 or 50,000 copies on hand it gives us no uneasiness. We are sure to sell them, and we go straight ahead printing."

The Dirtiest People in the World.

With possible exceptions in the cases of Tibet and Lapland we are compelled to admit that the English working classes are probably the dirtiest bipeds in the world, alike in their clothes and in their persons, and that they display themselves in public and even travel by public conveyances in conditions which would not be tolerated in any other civilized country.

Nothing like English working class dirt is ever seen in public on the continent of Europe unless in its far eastern portions, and dirt is prejudicial to health not only by its direct physical operation, but, in a still greater degree, by reason of the absence of self respect which it entails and which removes from the dirty man or woman at least one safeguard against drunkenness and against misconduct.—London Lancet.

Asparagus.

Asparagus, deservedly a favorite vegetable, was extensively cultivated by the ancient Romans, but was not introduced into England before 1660. In some parts of Europe the seeds are used as a substitute for coffee, and a spirituous liquor is made from the ripe berries. Asparagus is both lithic and diuretic, and its roots used to be extensively used in medicine. In some old recipe books directions are given for boiling asparagus one hour, but this is a great mistake—twenty or thirty minutes is long enough to cook it sufficiently—but there was one suggestion worth following. Instead of cutting off the white parts it advised that they be broken, saying that if they were too tough to break they were unfit to eat.

Sheep Sorrel Pie.

A Kansas editor pays tribute to the sheep sorrel pie, which was one of the luxuries of primitive Kansas. "It was dried apple pie from December until grass, or until the squaws came around with wild gooseberries. But, happy thought, with the coming of the johnny jumpup came sheep sorrel, and, with sorghum sweetening, what lovely pies were made! Corn bread and Missouri bacon, sorghum and buttermilk, with a quarter section of sheep sorrel pie to finish up! Kansas people of this day and generation don't know what real good living is."

On the Pyramids.

It is said that Richard Harding Davis once made a joke about the pyramids that is still repeated at Shepheard's hotel, the fashionable hostelry of Cairo. Mr. Davis was studying the pyramids, and a guide approached and said to him:

"It took hundreds of years to build them monuments, sir."

"A government job, eh?" said the novelist.

Pleasant Anticipations.

"Why can't you marry me? It's true I'm not enormously rich; still I have an income plenty big enough to support us nicely."

"Yes, but think how ridiculously small the alimony allowed out of it will be."

A LIFE'S TRAGEDY.

Florence Maybrick, Closed Within Prison Walls For Fifteen Years, Now Given Her Full Liberty—Her Case.

Months ago the prison gate, closed for fifteen years, opened to Florence Maybrick. Her release was partial. She was a convict at large, enjoying liberty by ticket-of-leave. Now this woman, famous or infamous as one reads her story, has been conceded her full liberty. Does this end the most remarkable murder case of modern times? There are many who say it is only the beginning of the most sensational chapter. Mrs. Maybrick's friends are pressing for a new trial. Now evidence, they say, is forthcoming, and a different conclusion is assured.

Story of the Case.

Of the Maybrick case whole libraries have been written. Public interest first attached to the case because of the social prominence of its principals. James Maybrick was a member of the English aristocracy; his wife, Florence Ethel, was the grandchild of Cyrus Field, forever famous as the father of the Atlantic cable. By marriage and blood she was related to some of the most illustrious families of the United States. These facts are enough to explain the unusual importance which attached to the trial.

At Maybrick's Deathbed.

Florence Ethel Maybrick, aged 26, the mother of two little children, was charged before Mr. Justice Stephen with the murder of her husband at Garston, near Liverpool, on May 11, 1889. The evidence proved that the accused had dishonored the name wife, that while her husband lay on his deathbed shameless love letters had passed between her and her paramour, Brierley, and that she had tried to give the dying man arsenic concealed in meat juice. These points were beyond question. An array of medical testimony was adduced to show that Maybrick died from arsenical poisoning. Doctors for the defence denied this, despite the fact that the presence of arsenic in the dead man's stomach was revealed by an autopsy. The defence asserted that the quantity found was not sufficient to have caused death, and attempted to establish the fact that Maybrick was an arsenic eater. Stronger testimony on the latter point was available after the trial.

Two Countries in Ferment.

The greatest lawyers in England battled for weeks, the judge occupied two days in charging the jury, a verdict of "guilty" was returned, and the death penalty was imposed. All England was in a ferment, the United States seethed with excitement. After the most sensational trial of the times, the granddaughter of one of America's most honored citizens was to be given over to the hangman. The popular clamor in both countries became so deafening that Home Secretary Matthews, with the concurrence of Lord Salisbury and the trial judge, altered the sentence to imprisonment for life.

Remarkable Petitions.

Foolishly, as must be admitted, Mr. Matthews said that "as there was a reasonable doubt" that James Maybrick died from arsenical poisoning, Her Majesty had been pleased to commute her punishment to life imprisonment. The trial judge had stated to the jury that the certainty that Maybrick died from the administration of arsenic was essential if a verdict against the prisoner was to be returned. The Home Secretary confessed that there was a doubt about this. Why should not the woman get the benefit? Why was she not released? These were the fierce demands from the United States.

The position of the Government was best explained by Lord Salisbury in reply to the most imposing petition ever sent to a Premier. It was signed by the Vice-President of the United States, the President of the Senate, Cardinal Gibbons, all the members of the Cabinet, many chiefs of bureaus, generals, clergymen, and diplomats, including the Minister to France, and prayed for the woman's release. Acknowledging the receipt of this, but politely refusing to grant the request, Lord Salisbury referred to Mrs. Maybrick as "an adulteress who attempted to poison her husband under the most cruel circumstances, while pretending to nurse him." In other words, while the British Cabinet had doubts as to the cause of Maybrick's death, it had no doubt that Mrs. Maybrick tried to kill him. She was a murderess at heart, anyway. Let her stay in prison.

American Women Threaten.

Petition followed petition. One was signed by Mrs. Harrison, wife of the President of the United States, the wife of the Secretary of State, the wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, and the wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, and was addressed to the Queen. No answer was vouchsafed. Another communication from the same source declared that "the wrong would be referred to Congress for international exposure and redress." A committee of prominent English lawyers, among them the late Lord Russell, censured Mr. Justice Stephen, declaring that his charge to the jury sealed the fate of Mrs. Maybrick. Later, a mental disease led to Sir James' retirement from the bench, and it was said that his mind had been deranged during the trial. In spite of all, the Cabinets, both Liberal and Conservative, refused to interfere in the case, but still the devoted mother struggled on, year after year, exhausting every device which might serve her daughter's cause, and winning for herself the admiration of the people of two countries. At last her prayers are fulfilled. Her daughter is released—not because she is innocent, but because justice is through with her. She entered Woking practically a girl; she emerges a woman past middle age.

The burnished plumage of the peacock owes its brilliancy and splendor to a healthful condition. Let the bird be sickly, and the plumage droops and grows dull. There is no exception in nature to the rule that beauty depends on health.

Women who see their beauty waning rarely associate the external change with failure of the womanly health. They do not understand the close relation of the general physical health to the health of the delicate womanly organism, until after being cured of womanly diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they find the color returning to the cheek and the flesh to the body.

"Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"Several years ago I was very poorly," writes Mrs. May Kelley, of Sylvia, Kans., "so weak I could hardly walk across the floor, and at times suffered severely. I took two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and got well and hardy—gained twelve pounds in two months and was the picture of health. Your medicines have cured me. Almost everybody I meet says, 'You look so much better than you have for several years; you look well now.'"

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a lady's laxative. Nothing equals them for gentleness and thoroughness.

When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 35 cents.

HIDE-AND-SEEK.

Life is a game of hide-and-seek.
We played it first, unskilled and weak,
And when we hid, for all our care,
He came at once and found us there.

And so through youth we played it still,
And hid from Him, and had our will;
Only He found us slower then,
We had the strength, the skill of men.

And next it was His turn to hide;
And was it carelessness or pride?
Was He so quick or we so blind?
We sought Him and we could not find.

And we are old, and still we play,
But have not found Him, and to-day
The game is only not despair
Because we know He must be there.
—Hugh Macnaghten.

Window Dressing as a Fine Art.

In one important department, unmolested by public criticism, the advertisers have even now established tastefulness as the underlying essential principle of their competition. This is in window dressing, a vital part of advertising. The beautiful, not the bizarre; the attractive rather than the startling; the alluring and interesting are now sought in the window effects of every shop, from the great department store to the little candy kitchen; from the basement lights of a modest florist to the long plate glass front of a shoe emporium. Salaries of several thousand dollars a year are paid in cities to the "artists" most skilled in window dressing, and their requisitions for plants or ribbons—totally irrelevant as these may be to the stock on sale and designed merely to add to the beauty of the window picture—are honored ungrudgingly. In effect the merchant says, "Give me a beautiful window that people will stop and look at, and that yet shall indicate generally the sort of goods I handle, and I do not care what it costs."—Charles M. Bobinson in Atlantic.

Ice In India.

Dr. Wells, a London physician, in 1818, in his published essay on dew, was the first to draw attention to the curious artificial production of ice in India. Shallow pits are dug, which are partially filled with perfectly dry straw. On the straw broad, flat pans containing water are exposed to the clear sky. The water, being a powerful radiant, sends off its heat abundantly into space.

The heat thus lost cannot be replaced from the earth, for this source is excluded by the straw. Before sunrise a cake of ice is formed in each vessel. To produce this ice in quantities clear nights are advantageous, and particularly those on which practically no dew falls. Should the straw get wet it becomes more matted and compact and consequently a better conductor of heat, for the vapor then acts as a screen over the pans, checks the cold and retards freezing.

Birds Are Mathematicians.

The English naturalist, Morris Gibbs, devoted years of study to birds' nests, their formation and their contents, and asserts that birds lay their eggs in accordance with geometrical lines, so that every inch of space is used to the greatest possible advantage. Birds which lay many eggs arrange them in circles, the pointed ends turned to the inside. Others, whose eggs are elliptically shaped, place them in longitudinal rows. If an egg is moved out of its original position by an intruder, it will be found on the following morning that the bird has returned it to its first position. Among the numerous and often difficult cases which Gibbs made a matter of study, not one was found which would not do credit to a mathematician.

Cromwell and the Specter.

The stories of the "White Lady" that periodically visits the German royal family and of the "Little Red Man" that frequently paid his respects to the great Napoleon are tolerably well known, especially that of the former. But few, perhaps, are familiar with the story of Cromwell's "Giant Specter." It appeared to him one night when he was wide awake and quietly resting on his couch. In appearance the apparition was a woman of gigantic proportions. Approaching him she announced in tones like thunder, "Within the year you, my son, will be recognized as the greatest man in Britain."

Creation of a Knight.

The ceremonies at the creation of a knight have been various; the principal were a box on the ear and a stroke with a sword on the shoulder. John of Salisbury tells us the blow with the naked fist was in use among the ancient Normans; by this it was that William the Conqueror conferred the honor of knighthood on his son Henry. It was afterward changed into a blow with the flat of the sword on the shoulder of the knight.

Not That Kind.

"What did you think of Philadelphia?"

"I never was more imposed on in my life," answered Colonel Stilwell of Kentucky. "They told me Philadelphia was famous for its mint, and all they showed me was a place where they make money."

Funny.

Borroughs—Mr. Merchant's out, you say? Why, he had an appointment with me here. That's very funny. New Office Boy—Yes, sir; I guess he thought it was too. Anyways, he was laughin' when he went out.

Japanese Buddhists.

Japanese Buddhists have a word, "nazoraeru," which is translated by the dictionaries as "to imitate," but it has the esoteric meaning of "to substitute in imagination one object or action for another, so as to bring about some magical or miraculous result." An example of this is laying a pebble before the image of Buddha to show that you would like to build a temple in his honor if you were rich enough, and making a bookcase revolve which contains the 6,771 volumes of the Buddhist canon and earnestly wishing that you had time to read them, by which you acquire the same merit in the eyes of heaven as if you did read them. The bookcase is fitted with a kind of capstan for the purpose.

Peg Tankards.

The pegging or marking of drinking cups was introduced by St. Dunstan to check the intemperate habits of the times by preventing one man from taking a larger draft than his companions. But the device proved the means of increasing the evil it was intended to remedy, for, refining upon St. Dunstan's plan, the most abstemious were required to drink precisely to a peg or pin, whether they could soberly take such a quantity of liquor or not.

Dutiful For Once.

Boy—My tooth aches, and mamma said I should come here and let you look at it. Dentist—I see. It must come out. Won't take but a minute. Now be a brave little man, and I'll—Boy (hastily backing off)—Mamma didn't say I should let you pull it; she only said I should let you look at it.

A Paragon.

Mamie—Florence's love of truth amounts to a passion. She really goes to extremes. Kittie—In what respect? Mamie—Why, she admits that her best friend is younger than she is.

All Serene.

"Has Jones an assured reputation as an author?"

"Absolutely. Why, he says he can now turn out poor work all the rest of his life."

Back in a nook where none could see,
And when a star shot through the air,
Of course he kissed her, which was fair.

Fuel economy is an important feature in a range. Almost as important as good cooking facilities. Every housewife wants to do good cooking but she doesn't want it to cost her too much in fuel. The good cooking qualities of the are enhanced by its great fuel economy. The big scuttle of coal of other style ranges is replaced in Imperial Oxford homes by a smaller scuttle less often used.

The fire-box is evenly proportioned to the size of the oven, so there is no more fire needed than the size of range demands—no waste heat. The arrangement of flues and drafts concentrate the heat in the stove—it doesn't lose itself up the chimney.

STONY LAKE SEASON NOW IN FULL SWING.

August a Very Enjoyable Month at The Island Lake.

Some Items of Interest From the Popular Summer Resort—An Upset—Sunday's Services.

The holiday season at Stony Lake, the ideal spot for summer pleasure-seekers, is now in full swing, and every day brings out as many as can avail themselves of the opportunity of spending a few days or weeks, enjoying the beautiful scenery of the islands and picturesque waters, and profiting by the pure and bracing atmosphere, which is one of the charms of the lakes. Everything seems to be at its prettiest, and one could hardly wish for a more ideal, none more thoroughly adapted to the requirements and pleasures of the "out-er." The cottages are, with but few exceptions, all occupied, and, for the most part, taxed to their utmost, while the hotels and boarding places are also well patronized, and there is but little room to spare.

August has certainly been the popular month this year, the number of people visiting the lakes being greatly in advance of that of last month, which was somewhat behind previous years in respect to numbers. The weather has been generally pleasant, with moderate winds to suit the likings of the sailor, and not sufficiently severe to prevent boating and canoeing. A few weeks more will end the summer season at Stony Lake and many of the visitors from the States are already beginning to leave for their homes.

The Stony Lake crack paddlers were not represented at the regatta at Sturgeon Point last Saturday afternoon. An excursion was arranged per steamer Stony Lake, but at the hour advertised for leaving the rain was descending in pailsful, and the expectant of a day's sail through the chain of Kawartha Lakes stuck his nose out of the window about 6 o'clock, and murmured, yawning,—"Not for me, thanks!" However, the rain ceased, or lessened somewhat, about 8.30, and the boat proceeded on her way with about one hundred on board, but only went as far as Bobcaygeon. The rain kept off during the day and the trip was an enjoyable one.

SUNDAY AT THE LAKE.

Sunday was one of the most beautiful days of the month, and in consequence the services at Juniper Island were very largely attended. The pavilion was over-crowded in the morning, when Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, of St. Luke's church, Peterborough, preached a very practical and eloquent sermon from the text, "Zacchaus, make haste and come down, for to-day I must abide at thy house." The evening song sermon was also well attended. Rev. Mr. Langfeldt conducted the service, assisted by Rev. Dr. Torrance, of St. Paul's church, and Rev. W. J. Jolliffe of the Charlotte street Methodist church, Peterborough. Rev. Mr. Langfeldt preached from the text, "Unto me, who am less than the least of all saints is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ." A male quartette, Messrs. J. Legg, R. Friend, R. N. Jolliffe and E. H. Jolliffe, sang two selections, "Lead, Kindly Light," and "The Wayside Cross."

Next Thursday evening the annual masquerade ball will be held at the Juniper Island pavilion. This event was a great success last year, and another very enjoyable evening is anticipated.

Several from Stony Lake intend taking a trip to Young's Point on Thursday. Lou Scholes is the attraction.

A young men from Toronto was sailing in a canoe on Sunday afternoon, and when opposite Breese's, his craft upset. Fortunately he was a good swimmer, and he held to his canoe until assistance arrived from one of the islands.

The boat service is much improved this season by the addition of the new and popular steamer, Stony Lake.

"When is the regatta coming off?" is a question heard by many this year. Nothing appears to have been done along the line of having this event, which has hitherto been an annual one, and the honours will fall to Sturgeon Point and Chemong Park.

Eko Camp, which has been flourishing during the past week, broke up on Monday morning much to the sorrow of its various members. All kinds of reports about getting lost and other things, have been in circulation about Messrs. Jackson, Caniff, and others, but they stoutly deny all such rumours.

A party of Peterborough young men, on the yacht, Myrtle, passed through the lakes on Saturday evening. In the party were Messrs. H. Millard, A. Fuller, G. Morton, M. J. Breckenridge, A. Goodwin and A. Davidson. They left Peterborough on Saturday morning and will make a two week's trip as far as Balsam Lake.

Among the visitors to the lakes for Sunday were Messrs. J. J. McBain, R. Thompson, J. Lawrence, W. Runton, S. Hall, R. Friend, J. Comstock, A. Gibson, G. Ferguson and others.

Rev. Dr. Torrance is holidaying at the "Headlands" guest of Mr. Irwin.

One of the jolliest camping parties on the lakes is the "Glenwood" party which is summering at Breezes'. Reports of splendid luck at fishing came from their quarters.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt is the guest of Mrs. R. B. Rogers for a few days.

The week-night dances at the pavilion have as a rule been well attended during the past few weeks and the young people have heartily enjoyed themselves in "tipping the light fantastic."

ECZEMA ON LITTLE GIRL

Sleepless Nights for Mother and Awful Suffering of Child.

CURED BY CUTICURA

Had Given up All Hope of Ever Making Any Cure.

"My little girl has been suffering for two years or more from eczema, and during that time I could not get a night's sleep, as her ailment was very severe.

"I had tried so many remedies and spent much money, deriving no benefit, I had absolutely given up all hope of making any cure. But as a last resort I was persuaded to try a set of the Cuticura remedies, and to my great delight a marked change was manifested from the first application. I gave the child a bath with Cuticura Soap, using a soft piece of muslin cloth. This I did twice a day, each time following with the Cuticura Ointment, and at the same time gave the Resolvent, according to directions. One box of the Ointment and two bottles of the Resolvent, together with the Soap, effected a permanent cure. I submit this for publication if you desire, hoping it will add to your success and assist so many thousands of sufferers in curing themselves." Mrs. I. B. JONES, ADDINGTON, IND. T.

The first step in the treatment of the chronic forms is to remove the scales and crusts and soften the skin, by warm baths with Cuticura Soap. The scalp, ears, elbows, hands, ankles and feet will require frequently a thorough soaking in order to penetrate the thickened skin and crusts with which these parts are often covered. Dry carefully, and apply Cuticura Ointment, lightly at first, and where advisable spread it on pieces of soft cloth and bind in place. Take the Resolvent, pills or liquid, in medium doses. Do not use cold water in bathing, and avoid cold, raw winds.

Cuticura Resolvent, Pills and Liquid, in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; India, Bombay; China, Hong Kong. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.

A SERIOUS LOSS FOR A YOUNG MAN.

Mr. Gorge Forbes the Newsboy Looses the Sum of $12.

Mr. George Forbes, the young man who keeps a news stand at the corner of George and Simcoe streets, has met with a serious loss. On Wednesday he lost the sum of $12. Mr Forbes, though he lost both hands as the result of an accident, shows an industry, enterprise, steadiness and courtesy, which many with two hands might well emulate, and his loss of $12 of hard earned money will appeal to the sympathy of every good citizen, and it is hoped, especially, to the honesty of the finder of the lost money, and cause its return to the loser at his news stand.

FORESTERS CLOSE HIGH COURT MEET

Public Meeting Held Wednesday Night in the Rink.

ELECTION OF THE OFFICERS

Supreme Delegates Elected—The Advantages of the Order Explained—Successful Year's Business Reported.

At the Wednesday afternoon session of the Independent Order of Foresters a letter was read from Supreme Chief Ranger Oronhyatekha expressing his regret at being unable to be present.

On the advice of Supreme Executive as to holding election of delegates to Supreme Court, at this meeting, the High Court so decided.

Deputy Supreme Chief Ranger Barlow Cumberland, paid an official visit t the court, being introduced by Past H. C. R. Matheson, and P. H. Phys, Dr. Basken, Bro. Cumberland bought the personal greetings of the Supreme Chief Ranger, Dr. Oronyatekha.

Fraternal greetings were received from High Court of Western Ontario.

Alderman Morrison on behalf of the mayor representing Peterborough Town Council was introduced and presented an address of welcome to High Court to the city.

A deputation from the Companion and Subordinate Courts of Peterborough were received and Dr. Greer presented an address of welcome.

Dr. Herald, H.C.R., replied at length to the address received from the city and Dr. Wade P. H. Pyhsician, replied to that received from the local courts.

The nomination of delegates was then proceeded with.

THE PUBLIC MEETING.

Wednesday night a practical demonstration of the enthusiastic support of Independent Foresters to this order was given when the members of the High Court meeting here, with the local members, paraded, following the 57th Regiment Band to the Brock Street Rink, when an entertainment was given to an audience of about five hundred persons. The rink had been very prettily decorated for the occasion with flags and mottoes by Messrs. J. J. Turner and Sons and presented a very pleasing appearance. Preceding the programme of addresses and songs, the band played a selection which the audience greeted with very hearty applause. The meeting was a characteristic Forestry gathering and those who listened to the arguments of the eloquent speakers, might well believe that the magnificent Order of Foresters is a great fraternal institution. Mr. A. W. Fraser, K.C., of Ottawa, P.H.C.R. of Ontario High Court was chairman of the gathering, and gathered on the platform were:—Barlow Cumberland, (the Deputy Supreme Secretary, Thomas Eugene, Dr. Thos. Millman, Supreme Physician, Toronto; Dr. John Herald, High Chief Ranger, Kingston; and Dr. Crain, High Vice-Chief Ranger.

Interspersing the addresses made by the above mentioned gentlemen, solos were given by Mr. Wm. Shea, of Kingston; Mr. R. Carruth of Perth; and Mr. Jas. Dawson of Peterborough. Mr. Shea who was heard in comic selections seemed to catch the fancy of the audience just right, for he was recalled twice. Mrs. Metherall acted as accompanist for Mr. Shea while Mr. John Crane performed a similar duty for Mr. Carruth and Mr. Dawson.

The chairman Mr. Fraser in a short address expressed to the Foresters of Peterborough and the citizens generally, the sincere thanks of the visiting for the kind reception which had been accorded them and said that they would go away feeling that a splendid time had been experienced.

He then introduced Mr. Millman, the Supreme Physician, who said that he had had an Independent Forester for twenty-five years and during that period of time he had watched the order grow until now it was one of the best and greatest benefit institutions in existence:—He paid a high tribute to the work of the Supreme Chief Ranger who had worked faithfully for the success of the Order, and who never knew what discouragement was, but had seen into the future and with prophetic vision had seen the I.O.F. grow to its present magnitude.

The Order had been instituted in 1874, and in 1881, it was reorganized by Oronyatekha. At that time there were three hundred and fifty members and no money in the treasury, while at the present time the membership numbered 224,000 and there is a surplus of $7,800,000. There was an order which in 25 years had not raised its rates to its members. For this reason perhaps, the lapses in the I.O.F. are less than in other societies.

The old line companies are attacking the I.O.F. and the line of this attack is that the order is not asking enough for the increased risks. In answer to this the speaker said that the I.O.F. collected just as much for carrying insurance risks as the old line companies. He did not wish to decry these because they were necessary, just as the I.O.F. is necessary, but the expenses in connection with this operation were very much higher than those in the I.O.F.. This order issues insurance from $500 to $5,000, and at the age of seventy, the insurance may draw out 1-10 of his insurance, and an equal amount for the remaining nine years should he live. Or if a member becomes disabled he may draw out half his insurance. There is a sick benefit department from which sick members may draw $3 per week for the first two weeks, $5 for the next ten weeks, and a fair amount for the balance of the sickness. The Order receives $275,000 each month, and pay out $180,000 in the way of benefit claims. The present surplus is nearly $8,000,000, all of which is safely invested, and the society has not yet lost a dollar. A song by Mr. aCrruth followed this address.

Dr. Crain, H. V. C. R. was the next speaker, and he remarked that he was much pleased with Peterborough, the people in which he has found to be energetic and the town deserved all the good things that had been said of it. He also referred to the rapid progress made by the .OO.F. and stated that the membership is being increased at the rate of between 2,500 and 3,000 each month. The order commenced with $387, and it now received each month $225.00, and its surplus, which now reached nearly $8,000,000 was being added to at the rate o nearly $3,000 per day. The speaker laid special stress on the benefits for total disability, and pointed out that during the past thirty days, almost $9,000 had been paid on such claims.

After a solo by Mr. Jas. Dawson Mr. Barlow Cumberland spoke. Mr. Cumberland is a very interesting speaker and his address was listened to intently. The speaker, who had recently arrived from England said that he had been authorized by his English brethren, who are just as enthusiastic in their belief in Forestery as their comrades in Canada to extend to the latter their warmest greetings. He asked the question why the members had such faith in the Order, and in answering this question said that Ald. Morrison, who welcomed the High Court in the afternoon referred to the progress the town had made since the time ten years ago when the High Court were here last, as the speaker said that while Peterborough had doubled in size and possessions in this time, the I.O.F. had increased its surplus from $830,000. to over $7,000,000, or nine times what it was then, and the end has yet been reached. This was one of the things that give the members faith in it, In 1900, after a death, disability and sick benefit claims and all expenses had been paid there was a surplus of $699,000.

In 1,01. it was $747,000, in 1902 $994,000 and in 1903, $1,224,000. This tells that the rates are based on correct calculation. The I.O.F. has justified itself as a safe institution, speaking of the death rate, he said that while the average death rate in the sixty societies constituting the Fraternal Congress was in 1902, 8.37 per thousand, that in the I.O.F. was 0.60 as for 1903 the rate was reduced even below this figure. He believes that a man would live longer by being connected with the I.O.F. because he would not come into contact with men who lead him astray. He remarked that the low death rate was largely due to the care exercised by the supreme physician in accepting risks. Provision is also made for the orphans of the deceased members f the Order by the Orphan's Home at Deseronto, for which he made an appeal for support. Mr. Shea gave another song and as an encore danced the Highland Fling in costume. The last speaker was Dr. Herald, the H. C. R. of Eastern Ontario, whom the chair referred to as the orator of the High Court.

Dr. Herald has somewhat of a humourous turn of mind and started out by saying that he felt sad, the cause of his sadness being that the I.O.F. was suffering from dry rot, and as evidences of this fact he proceeded to quote some facts, concerning Eastern Ontario High Court, saying that during the last two years thirty-two or thirty-three new courts had been added to the district, and an increase of 1668 members. They had paid off a debt of $500 and today they did not owe a fraction of a farthing and had money in the bank. He said that no one could make money out of insurance, but by paying in a small sum each month they could provide for widows and orphans after death had called them.

He had been a member of the order for twenty years and if it should cease to exist to-day, he would be glad he had been a member of it were it only for the fact that in this order $1,000,000 a year is paid out to benefit the widows and orphans of members. Although he had been High Chief Ranger of this High Court, he did not take the credit for the work accomplished. The members had responded to his call for work and it was to this that the credit is due. He believed that he voiced the sentiments of all his brethren in expressing his pleasure that the High Court decided a year ago, to meet this year in Peterborough. Their most ardent expectations have been exceeded by the right royal and generous manner in which they have been welcomed by Peterborough citizens, and each Forester on returning home, will prove an unpaid advertiser for the future city of Peterborough. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

THURSDAY MORNING'S SESSION.

The High Court resumed its session at nine o'clock, when the Committee on Petitions and Appeals reported that they had no Appeals or petitions.

The Committee on New Business reported recommending that the members of the district be called together on the morning of the second day to choose the District Deputy for each district.

With regard to the joining of Companions to the local Courts, where there are not enough Companions to form a Court, they reported that they were not in favour of the proposed change. On motion it was resolved to send the matter to the Supreme Court, as in clause 23 of the H.O.E.'s report

As regards the admission of orphans to the Orphanage, they recommended that they should be recommended, first by the subordinate Court, to which the parents belong, then to the High Court.

Bro. Dr. Millman, Sup. Physician, was introduced, and addressed the High Court.

A telegram was sent to Supreme Chief Ranger Oronytekha congratulating him on his restoration to health, and his return to his home at Foresters' Island.

The Finance Committee reported recommending a grant of $60 to the High Court of New Ontario.

A grant of $150 was recommended to the orphanage at Deseronto; that mileage of 4 cents per mile one way and $1.50 per day for two days, be paid the delegates in attendance.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

The afternoon session of the High Court opened at 2.30 o'clock, and after the confirming of the minutes, the election of officers was proceeded with and resulted as follows:—

H.C.R., Bro. Dr. W. S. Craine, of Crysler.

H.V.C.R., Bro. W. H. Lowrie, of Russell.

High Secretary, Bro. G. L. Dickinson, of Manotick.

High Treasurer, Bro. J. S. R. McCann, of Kingston.

High Physician, Bro. J. M. Shaw, M.D., of Keene.

High Counsellor, Bro. S. S. Lasier, Belleville.

High Auditors, Bros. Samuel Lowe, Kingston; Walter Rowan, Ottawa.

The members of the High Court presented Bro. High Secretary Dickinson with a valuable and handsome gold watch. Bro. Herald made a congratulatory speech and made the presentation, to which Bro. Dickinson feelingly replied.

A message was read from Bro. Dr. Oronyhetka, in answer to the message of congratulation sent by the High Court.

The Committee on State of the Order reported that they congratulated the High Court on the increase in courts and membership, and recommended that District Deputies give their best efforts to try and save lapses and withdrawals.

On motion a memorial was sent to the Supreme Court to do away, with the offices of High Physician and High Counsellor, and arrange for the election of two committee men in their place.

The Finance Committee reported. Estimated receipts... ... ... $8,747.65
Expenditure... ... ... 8,594.14

Balance..... .... 153.51

The High Court passed a resolution asking the Supreme Court to confer on Bro. Dr. Herald, the Grand Cross of Merit.

The High Court decided to meet next year in Belleville.

The election of delegates to the Supreme court meeting to be held in Boston was the last business of the afternoon session, and this exercise occupied considerable time. The successful aspirants for this honour in the order of this election were:—Dr. Craine, H.C.R.; Dr. Herald, P.H. C. R.; G. L. Dickinson, High Secretary; A. W. Fraser, P.H.C.R. Ottawa; H.O. E. Pratt; Geo. Spence; D. H. McDermid, Carleton Place; J. S. R. McCann, Rev. H. O. Wood, Metcalf; Dr. Basken, Ottawa; J. A. Garratt, Havelock; W. J. Shore, Ottawa; Dr. T. Newton Greer, Peterborough; R. Carruth, Renfrew; T. A. Kidd, Burritt's Rapids; W. Rowan, T. A. Scott, Winchester. At the evening session the installation of the officers elected in the afternoon took place, after which the High Court meeting adjourned to meet next year in Belleville.

The delegates were loud in their praise of the entertainment provided by the local courts, and the unanimous opinion was that their stay in Peterborough had been a very pleasant one.

The trip over the lift lock arranged on Wednesday when the delegates were the guests of the local courts, was an enjoyable part of the visit and no doubt had an elevating effect on the delegates.

A REUNION AFTER FORTY TWO YEARS.

Messrs Edward M. and S. S. Taylor Natives of Peterborough to Meet After Long Separations.

Edward M. Taylor of St. Louis, is here and stopping at the Snowdan. His eldest brother, S. E. Taylor, left New Zealand, on the 12th of August, for a visit to his relatives in the United States and Canada, and the World's Fair. There will be a reunion of these two brothers either here or in Toronto. It is now some 42 years since they saw each other. They are the sons of the late Rev. R. J. O. Taylor, rector of St. John's church, many years ago.

OBITUARY.

Sad Termination of a Prominent Young Life.

The circumstances surrounding the death of Miss Muriel Scott, the sixteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Scott of Maria and Mark streets, are particularly sad. The deceased, who was a bright, intelligent and lovable girl, was taken ill last fall with acute pleurisy and bronchitis, and although she was operated upon in October for the disease she continued to grow weaker until her death, which occurred on Wednesday night about 11 o'clock. The deceased was a member of St. Luke's Sunday school, and was beloved by all who knew her. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from St. Luke's church to the Little Lake cemetery.

Miss Gannon, Sec'y Detroit Amateur Art Association, tells young women what to do to avoid pain and suffering caused by female troubles.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can conscientiously recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to those of my sisters suffering with female weakness and the troubles which so often befall women. I suffered for months with general weakness, and felt so weary that I had hard work to keep up. I had shooting pains, and was utterly miserable. In my distress I was advised to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it was a red letter day to me when I took the first dose, for at that time my restoration began. In six weeks I was a changed woman, perfectly well in every respect. I felt so elated and happy that I want all women who suffer to get well as I did."—MISS GUILA GANNON, 359 Jones St., Detroit, Mich., Secretary Amateur Art Association.

It is clearly shown in this young lady's letter that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will certainly cure the sufferings of women; and when one considers that Miss Gannon's letter is only one of the countless hundreds which we are continually publishing in the newspapers of this country, the great virtue of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine must be admitted by all; and for the absolute cure of all kinds of female ills no substitute can possibly take its place. Women should bear this important fact in mind when they go into a drug store, and be sure not to accept anything that is claimed to be "just as good" as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for no other medicine for female ills has made so many actual cures.

How Another Sufferer Was Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot praise your wonderful remedies enough, for they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. For the last eight years and more I suffered with female troubles, was very weak, could not do my housework, also had nervous prostration. Some days I would remain unconscious for a whole day and night. My neighbors thought I could never recover, but, thanks to your medicine, I now feel like a different woman.

"I feel very grateful to you and will recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all. It has now been four years since I had the last spell of nervous prostration. I only weighed ninety-eight pounds at that time; now I weigh one hundred and twenty-three.

"I consider your Vegetable Compound the finest remedy made. Thanking you many times for the benefit I received from your medicine, I remain, Yours truly, MRS. J. H. FARMER, 2300 Elliott Ave., St. Louis, Mo."

Remember Mrs. Pinkham's advice is free and all sick women are foolish if they do not ask for it. She speaks from the widest experience, and has helped multitudes of women.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

HOUSE OF REFUGE QUESTION.

A few days ago a paragraph appeared in the Examiner respecting a case of hardship, which urgently calls for the establishment of a House of Refuge for the county, or town and county combined. Though the man was charged with insanity, it is more than probable that he is not insane at all, in a way that would warrant his admission to an institution for the care and treatment of the insane. It rather seems to be a case of an unfortunate man suffering from an incurable disease, taken from a general hospital, where, perhaps, no provision could be made among other patients for his care, and where incurable cases are not allowed to be accepted, and pitched into jail, where in turn, there are no provisions made for the proper care of such an inmate. The proper place is, evidently, in a House of Refuge, and the lack of such an institution reflects upon the good name of the county. It is a pity and a shame, that a man, as in this case, without friends, who are in a position to supply the means which his case demands, suffering from a disease accompanied, perhaps, with some mental disturbance, should be thrown into a prison cell, to herd with criminals, when his only crime is his misfortune and lack of means. Such cases are not proper subjects for an institution for the insane. In our public institutions of this kind there is room for all who can be properly classified as insane. Unfortunately, there is a desire on the part of some individuals, and some municipalities, to evade responsibility for the care of their relatives, or residents, who may be afflicted in such a way as to make their proper care a little troublesome, and to unload such cases upon the provincial asylums, with the result, if their desires are met, of excluding those who are actually proper inmates for such institutions. It is therefore manifestly improper, that cases should be confided to the care of the province which can be accommodated in properly equipped county institutions, such as a House of Refuge, as it is manifestly improper to impose upon a House of Refuge cases which relatives with means should themselves provide for. Rightly considered, the public institutions are for the care and treatment of those who, from their mental ailment, cannot be effectively dealt with in a local institution, like a House of Refuge, and the latter is for cases that cannot, for lack of means, or other reasons, be looked after in the home by relatives or friends. There should be a fairer distribution of responsibility in these matters. In the case in question, the municipality from which the man was sent, or any other municipality in a similar condition, may not be in a position to give the needed care upon the spot, but such municipalities might pay for maintenance in a House of Refuge, if such a palpably desirable institution existed. Such cases as are not proper subjects for a general hospital, or an insane asylum, can, and should, be looked after in a House of Refuge. Peterborough county should have one. Year after year, grand juries which, selected as they are, from every part of the county, may be held to pretty accurately represent public sentiment, have denounced the practice of punishing the innocent afflicted with the disgrace of confinement in jail, and have recommended the establishment of a House of Refuge. Less excuse is afforded for the neglect to erect such an institution, since the Government has provided liberal financial assistance. Many counties have taken advantage of this provision, and the county of Victoria is now erecting a House of Refuge at Lindsay. The wealthy and progressive county of Peterborough should not suffer its next door neighbour to surpass it in enterprise, especially when a House of Refuge means a real saving in dealing with the problem of caring for the indigent poor; for it can be done, as experience has demonstrated, much more cheaply than by the desultory way in which it is necessarily done by the individual municipalities comprising the county.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Stealing sermons is a new departure in robbery. A Rev. Mr. Cattanach, of Winnipeg, is bewailing the loss of a sheaf of sermons, valued at $500, which were included in his baggage, gone through by a railway train thief. The reverend gentleman should look upon this event as a compliment, rather than a crime. There are doubtless ministers who would be proud to concoct sermons which would be considered worth stealing. The thief is probably embarking in the sermon brokerage business, and is pretty safe from detection, for the parson who would buy a sermon would be pretty sure not to "give it away."

In the wild and woolly Canadian west, it is not the mere fact of the rust on the wheat that troubles the people, but the thought that will come to outsiders that anything, even wheat, is slow enough in the west to gather rust.

BIG STEP TOWARDS THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

T. A. S. Took Havelock Lacrosse Team Into Camp 7-1.

First of Final Games for Trent Valley League Championship—A Clean Game.

It looks like the T.A.S. lacrosse team for the Trent Valley League Championship this year. On Wednesday night the first of the final home and home games between the T.A.S. and Havelock, the winners in their respective districts, for for the championship, was played on the T.A.S. grounds here, and the local team won, the score being 7-1, which gives one a fair idea of the relative abilities of the two teams. The T.A.S. had the better of the argument all the way through, and the final result of this game was never in doubt. The T.A.S. team outclassed their opponents in every department, both individually and in team work, the Havelock team showing lack of team work, and although there are some good men on the team, they are in a different classs to the winners, who played a splendid game, working in some pretty combination play which was very effective. The game was clean, only three T. A. S. and two Havelock men being ruled off, no period being longer than two minutes, and the winners certainly played in championship form. During the first quarter the play was close, the T.A.S. scoring only one goal, which was the only tally made in this period, but the home team was better able to stand the pace and after the first quarter the visitors were outclassed, the play being confined almost entirely to the vicinity of the Havelock goal, which was in a constant state of danger, and Dineen had his work cut out to stop the shots sent in upon him in close succession, while on the other hand O'Brien in the T.A.S goal had little to do.

The first goal went to the T.A.S. in two minutes after the face off, Parnell placing a nice shot in the nets on a pass from Judd. Derocher shortly afterwards made a pretty shot, which Dineen stopped before it got into the nets. The ball then travelled to the T.A.S. goal, O'Sullivan sending in a hot one which O'Brien stopped easily. Crowley now took about in the game making a nice run from the defence field, and passed to Judd who shot in goal, with the score 1-0.

In the second quarter three goals were scored, and it was in this period that the Havelock team got their one goal. Judd sent the first one into the Havelock nets in 1-2 minute from the face-off, the ball being handled by only three men. Derocher was credited with the next goal in two minutes on a pass from McGrath from Judd, and the next went to Havelock in three minutes, O'Sullivan doing the trick on a pass from Stibbs. This goal seemed to put new life into the Havelock players and for a few minutes they played an aggressive game. McGuire, getting into the game making a great run to the T.A.S. goal, but it was unavailing, and the scoring ended for this quarter with the figures standing 3-1.

In the third quarter, the last played, the T.A.S. went in four more goals, making the final score 7-1. The Havelock goal was pressed hard in this period, and that team played a defence game. McGrath scored the first in two minutes. Derocher scored the second in two minutes on a pass from Judd. Judd, the rising young player on the T.A.S. team scored the next goal in four minutes and Derocher on a pass from Judd got the last tally in two minutes ending the game with the score 7-1. Just before time was called Stitts made a pretty run in an attempt to score, but the attempt was futile.

The T.A.S team played a good strong game and deserved the win. Every man played his position well, and the team worked in some good combinations. O'Brien in goal had not much to do, but he was always ready in an emergency, while Boyle at point played a most effective and relieved the goal on several occasions. The other members of the defence portion, McCabe, Donovan, Meagher and Crowley were right in their places when they were required and the two latter frequently took the ball into the opponents' defence field. McGrath at centre and the other players on the home field were always conspicuous in the play and fed the outside and inside home men well. Parnell and McGrath both played an excellent game and figured in a majority of the goals scored. The shooting and passing of the home players were good, and but for the great work of the Havelock defence, which comprised such well seasoned men as Main, Andrews, McGuire and Lancaster, the score would have been much larger against the visitors.

Derocher scored a majority of the goals for the T.A.S. and was always after the ball. He was ably assisted by L. F. McCorry. Judd, the youngest on the team is a promising player, and in his work Wednesday fully demonstrated his ability to play in fast company.

The Havelock team is not a well balanced aggregation, their home being weak. They stated that four juniors were on the team taking the place of senior men, who were unable to accompany the team. With their full team the Havelock dozen would would doubtless prove a dangerous aggregation, but as at present constituted the scoring division is weak. Easterbrook and O'Sullivan played a good game and Stibbs, a junior gave a good account of himself. J. Muldoon, who last year was with the T.A.S. still understands the game and is an effective player.

The teams were:—

T. A. S.		Havelock.
O'Brien	Goal.	T. Dineen
Boyle	Point.	J. Main
Donovan	Cover point.	Andrews
McCabe	1st defence.	Lancaster
Meagher	2nd defence.	McGuire
Crowley	3rd defence.	Barlow
McGrath	Centre.	Bullied
F. McCorry	3rd home.	W Rose
Parnell	2nd home.	J. Muldoon
F Derocher	1st home.	Easterbrook
Judd	Outside home.	O'Sullivan
L. McCoy	Inside home.	Stitts

Referee, R. M. Glover.

Summary of goals scored:—

1. T.A.S. in 2 minutes by Parnell.
2. T.A.S. in 1-2 minute by Judd
3. T. A. S. in 2 minutes by Derocher.
4. Havelock in 3 minutes by O'Sullivan.
5. T. A. S. in 2 minutes by McGrath.
6. T. A. S. in 2 minutes by Derocher.
7. T. A. S. in 4 minutes by Judd.
8. T. A. S. in 2 minutes by Derocher.

The T. A. S. will probably go to Havelock during next week to play the last game, which will finally decide the championship for this year.

Excellent Prospects for This Years Exhibition Here

The Board of Directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, is flattered at the number of enquiries for copies of the prize list, and the present prospects are that the entry list will be well up to double what they were in any previous year. Every day the secretary, Mr. E. Eardley-Wilmot, manager of the Bank of Montreal, receives numerous enquiries for the lists, which, in point of typographical excellence, are the most artistic ever gotten up here, and the Board is being complimented upon this fact, as well as upon the elimination from it of all advertisements, and the high prizes offered for exhibits.

The Board was fortunate in securing the services of the Black Watch Band, for the evening of September 27th, and this will be a popular feature of the Fair. This year the street railway will run to the fair grounds, and the fare will be only five cents each way. The railway company promises to give a good service to the fair.

It has not yet been decided who will open the fair this year, but the directors will arrange to have some distinguished dignitary to open the exhibition.

The secretary, Mr. E. Eardley-Wilmot, is untiring in his efforts to give intending exhibitors and the public the very best of service, and is working night and day for the success of the fair.

Black Rust in the Wheat.

Winnipeg, Aug. 19.—Despite official denials and reports, railway companies reports of rust in a portion of Manitoba are taking concrete form. Although it would be unwise to assume that these are not exaggerated it is fairly clear now that the damage to wheat will, after all, be considerable. A significant feature is the failure of the Manitoba Government to issue the usual crop bulletin, which was promised last week. Still there is no necessity to be pessimistic, for it is evident that the damage is not universal, being confined to the late seeding.

THREE DAYS' BATTLE

To Gain Position Advantages Japs Sacrificed 20,000 Men.

REFUSED TO SURRENDER

Gen. Stoessel Received Terms Proposed By Japanese As a Bad Taste Joke and a Burst of Profanity—Russian Request For Grace Refused—Japs Intend to Cut the Ashold Out.

Che Foo, Aug. 19.—A battle of huge proportions raged around Port Arthur Aug. 14 and 15 and was resumed Aug. 17. The Japanese, it is reported, sacrificed 20,000 more men, but gained important advantages in the matter of position. The news was brought here on junks, one of which, having on board three Russians concealed in the baggage of Chinese, to escape from the Japanese left Port Arthur Wednesday night and was blown rapidly to Che Foo by a gale.

The main force of attack was directed against the left wing and resulted in the capture of Pigeon Bay positions and some of the forts at Liaotieshan. At Paiunchang the Japanese hastily mounted guns, which did excellent service in aiding the storming of the right wing, where the Japanese are said to have captured two forts of minor value, mounting eight 4-inch guns, two siege guns and six quick-firing guns.

Terms of Surrender.

The position that the Japanese occupy is on Liaotieshan Peninsula, and numerous Chinese sources aver that the Japanese have been seen in force in that section. Apparently a cruising attack, originating in Louisa Bay, swept through the Pigeon Bay positions into the peninsula, in the doing of which a majority of lives of the expedition were sacrificed. On the night of the 15th the battle lulled somewhat, and the Japanese sent the terms of surrender to Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel.

The terms provided that the garrison should march out with the honors of war and join Gen. Kuropatkin, that all civilians be brought to a place designated by the Japanese admiral; that the Russian warships in the harbor, numbering seven, namely, the battleships Retvizan, Sevastopol, Pobieda, Perseviet, Poltava, the armored cruiser Bayan and the protected cruiser Palada, and twelve or more torpedo boat destroyers and four gunboats be surrendered to the Japanese.

Stoessel's Reply.

Lieut.-Gen. [illegible] is alleged to have received the terms with a burst of wonderful humanity, his habitual taciturnity deserting him.

He strode the floor until he became calmer, and then remarked that if the Japanese proposition was a joke it was in bad taste.

Unable to Accede Grace.

London, Aug. 19.—A despatch to The Central News from Tokio says it has been announced there that the Japanese commander in front of Port Arthur has been unable to accede to a Russian request for grace in order to permit the removal of non-combatants from that place.

No Surrender, Says Stoessel.

London, Aug. 19.—A despatch to the Japanese Legation from Tokio announces that a reply was received from the commander of the Russian forces at Port Artuur Wednesday refusing either to surrender to the besieging forces of Japanese or to send out the non-combatants.

What St. Petersburg Expected.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 19.—The report that Gen. Stoessel, the Russian commander at Port Arthur, declined to capitulate in response to the Japanese summons creates no surprise. The War Office would have been amazed if he had yielded.

Japs to Stone Askold, Et al.

Shanghai, Aug. 19.—M. Odagira, the Japanese Consul-General, has notified the Taotai of Shanghai that a Japanese fleet is coming to seize the Russian cruiser Askold and the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Grozovoi.

The repairs being made by the Russians on the Grozovoi will be completed in about ten days. It is uncertain when the repairs to the Askold will be finished.

There is no uneasiness here, although the situation is thought to be acute.

The foreign Consuls are determined to preserve the neutrality of the port.

The Taotai will allow the Russian cruiser Askold and the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Grozovoi to remain in port until Aug. 23, when one day's notice to leave or disarm will be given them. The arrival of Chinese men-of-war is expected.

Looks Bad For Pallada.

Tokio, Aug. 19.—A report from Admiral Togo says the gunboats Maya and Amagi, near Shampoingtao, on Aug. 11, discovered the Russian gunboat Giliak and another gunboat near Shenshen shelling the Japanese land forces and attacked them A shell from the Amagi hit the Giliak, which retreated to Port Arthur.

It probably was the fifth torpedo boat destroyer flotilla that sank the Russian cruiser Pallada on the night of Aug. 10. Capt. Mathuoka reports that he approached a cruiser of the Pallada type and fired a torpedo which he saw hit the cruiser and explode.

Won't Give It Up.

London, Aug. 19.—Japan has officially notified Great Britain that she does not propose to give up the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni, captured in the harbor of Che Foo, Aug. 12.

Will Recognize.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 19.—It is understood that Russia will recognize the validity of the British and American view differentiating between conditional and absolute contraband of war, and the Russian reply will be couched in this sense. Specific claims on the part of Great Britain for seizures of vessels and cargoes will probably be reserved for later consideration.

AUSTRALIA'S PIGMY CAPITAL.

Dalgety, With Population of 300, Chosen From 100 Others.

Melbourne, Aug. 19.—The Commonwealth House of Representatives has selected for the Federal capital, Dalgety, in the Bombala district of New South Wales, which has already been chosen by the Senate.

The selection of Dalgety will thus probably be final.

Dalgety is a township 296 miles south of Sydney, on the Snowy River.

It has at present a court house, police barracks, two hotels, two stores, a public school and Anglican and Roman Catholic churches. The population, including that of the vicinity, is about 300.

Originally there were 100 places submitted as having claims to become the Federal capital, but these were finally reduced to eight, of which Tumut, a little town of 1,400 inhabitants, almost half way between Sydney and Melbourne, was placed first.

Friends' Convention Ended.

Toronto, Aug. 19.—The closing session of the Friends' General Conference was held yesterday morning, and the delegates, numbering nearly 1,000, in the afternoon began returning to their homes. In the speeches that concluded the convention the meeting in Toronto was characterized as the "best ever held." "Purity" was the subject for the last day. The discussion was opened by an address by Isaac Wilson of Bloomfield, Ont., on "The Pure in Heart," after which a series of interesting papers was read on the factors that make for pulity—the home, the school, the press and the Church. A PAINTER ELECTROCUTED.

Touched Live Electric Wire Carrying Over 2,000 Volts in Hamilton—He Died Instantly.

Hamilton, Aug. 19.—Jas. Herman Fowler of Smith's Falls was electrocuted yesterday afternoon at the Hamilton Bridge Works at 4.30. He was at work on the inside near the top of the building when he touched a live wire carrying 2,200 volts. He was killed instantly and his body thrown to the roof. It fell across three wires stretched along the building forty feet from the floor and was suspended there until the current was turned off. The dead man was a painter and boarded at 222 North Hughson street. He had been standing on a transformer platform, but climbed up higher to do some painting. Some part of his body came in contact with a live wire that was not insulated and which ran along an iron girder. Fowler was 22 years of age and unmarried. He helped to support his mother, a widow, who lives at Smith's Falls. This was his last week at the Bridge Works, as he had made all arrangements to go to Winnipeg Saturday. He belonged to the 91st Highlanders and to the Painters' Union.

LYLETON LIGHTNING STRUCK.

Man Struck and Instantly Killed at Moosomin, Man.

Winnipeg, Aug. 19.—A heavy storm is reported as having passed over a portion of Manitoba yesterday. A devastating storm also swept over Lyleton, in Brandon district. Lightning struck and totally destroyed the following buildings: McKay, general store; Cheney Bros., hardware; M. Boyd, hardware; Harley Bros., general store; Jas. Murray, implements.

It is impossible to ascertain the extent of the injury to the standing crop, but it must be very heavy.

At Moosomin, Archie Latimer, a farmer eight miles north of Moosomin, was struck by lightning and instantly killed, as was also his team. He leaves a wife and two children.

At Melita the house of A. T. Broderick, manager of the Union Bank, situated eight miles north, was struck by lightning and is an almost total wreck. Mrs. Saunlay and two children who were inside are uninjured.

Killed at the Humber.

Toronto, Aug. 19.—W. C. Hoffman, aged 71, who lived with his son on the Lake Shore road, is dead. He was driving a team of horses which ran away at the Humber bridge, and in crossing the car tracks he was thrown off the wagon and fatally injured. He died an hour and a half after the accident.

Brakeman Killed.

Thorold, Aug. 19.—The dump car train ran off the track at Larkin and Sangster's contract on the Cataract Power Company's works near here yesterday afternoon, killing Lawrence Lockerby, a brakeman belonging to this town.

Killed on Railway Track.

Rat Portage, Aug. 19.—Yesterday morning a man named Ole Johnson, a native of Sheen, Norway, while walking on the C.P.R. tracks, just east of the town, was overtaken by No. 1 express, the engine of which struck him on the hips, killing him instantly.

Auto Plunged Into River.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—A racing automobile of the huge touring car pattern plunged into the Chicago River at Rush street bridge at 10.50 o'clock last night. Four persons—three men and one woman—were in the vehicle at the time. All sank, but were rescued by a brave sailor and the crew of a tug boat.

TILL THE ELECTION

Three Bureaus of Information for Liberals to Be Maintained.

THE COMMISSION IS COMPLETE

To Construct the Transcontinental Railway—Mr. Robert Reid of London Appointed—Must Reside in Ottawa—Mr. F. B. Ryan Secretary and Mr. H. D. Lumsden Chief Engineer—The Salaries.

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—Now that the House of Commons has prorogued, Mr. Alexander Smith, barrister, Ottawa, Liberal Secretary and Dominion organizer during the years 1898 to 1903, is being deluged with letters and inquiries from all directions, and to prevent confusion has issued a circular letter to candidates and others. In this statement he points out that in the general election contests of 1896, 1898, 1900 and 1902, all of which resulted in the return of the Liberals to power, the Liberals had three bureaus of information in the Province of Ontario, and from now until the next Dominion general election is held the same centres of information will be maintained. The Secretary of the Western Bureau is George M. Reid, London, Ont. The Secretary of the eastern bureau is W. J. Harvey, 48 Sparks street, Ottawa. The Secretary of the central bureau is James Vance, 34 Victoria street, Toronto.

Sir Wilfrid's Holiday.

The Prime Minister and Lady Laurier leave this morning for Carleton in Bonaventure. There Sir Wilfrid will rest for about ten days amid the bold scenery and favored by the sea breezes of the Baie de Chaleurs. From such charming surroundings he cannot but return to duty thoroughly invigorated. Before coming back to Ottawa Sir Wilfrid and his good wife will spend a few days at their charming home in Arthabaskaville, to which they have almost been strangers during the last two years.

Trent Canal Surveys.

The Minister of Railways, Hon. Mr. Emmerson, has appointed Mr. E. J. Walsh, C.E., to be engineer in charge of surveys in connection with the Trent Valley Canal. One of these will be along the Port Hope route to Lake Ontario, and the other will be for the purpose of determining the best channel between Lake Simcoe and Georgian Bay. Mr. Walsh, who will have two parties under him, will enter upon his duties at once. He is an engineer of considerable experience, having carried through works of considerable importance at Antigua for the Imperial Government.

The Commission Complete.

The Transcontinental Railway Construction Commission is now complete. The forecast recently sent out proves to be correct, save in one particular, the name of Mr. Robert Reid has to be substituted for that of Mr. James Dufferin, London. The Commission therefore will be composed as follows: Mr. F. B. Wade, K.C., Annapolis, N.S., Chairman; Mr. Alfred Brunet, Montreal; Mr. Robert Reid, London; Mr. C. A. Young, Winnipeg. It is reported that Mr. F. E. Ryan, Secretary to the Temiskaming Railway Commission, has been appointed to act in a similar capacity to the present commission. Mr. H. D. Lumsden of Toronto, is the chief engineer, and Premier Parent the Government representative on the Grand Trunk Pacific directorate. One of the conditions of their appointment is that the Commissioners and the engineer shall reside in Ottawa.

The Chairman of the commission, Mr. Wade, will receive $8,000 per annum. Each of the other commissioners $7,000. The stipend of the chief engineer will be $6,000. Quarters for the commission will be provided in the Railway Department.

Rumored Cabinet Changes.

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—(Globe Special.)—The report that Mr. Aylesworth will shortly enter the Dominion Cabinet is taken to mean that Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick is about to retire, as the former would no doubt be given the portfolio of Minister of Justice. Rumor connects Mr. Fitzpatrick's name with the Chief Justiceship of the Supreme Court. It is said that Sir Henri Taschereau may retire, in which event he would be succeeded by Mr. Fitzpatrick. However, there is nothing official in regard to these reports as yet.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A MIGHTY EXODUS ON CIVIC HOLIDAY

A Round Dozen of Excursions to Various Points.

All Well Attended, Happily Successful and Without Accident—Excellent Railway Arrangements.

Seldom, if ever, has a Civic Holiday in Peterborough been more universally celebrated, than was that held yesterday. The town was almost deserted by the residents, and had it not been for the large number of visitors in town attending the Foresters' convention, the streets would have resembled Goldsmith's "Deserted Village."

The day was all that could be desired for holidaying, perhaps a trifle cool for lake trips, but, on the whole, most pleasant, and thousands of townspeople, many of whom had not been out of town since the last Civic holiday, took in the excursions arranged for their benefit, and last night, as the excursion trains arrived home, one by one, it was found that each of them carried tired but fully satisfied crowds.

The G.T.R. station yesterday morning was a very busy scene, and fully three thousand persons left town by that line during the day. The station grounds early in the morning were crowded with coaches for the different excursions, and as the trains left the number gradually decreased. Ten trains left the G.T.R. station yesterday morning inside of a little more than an hour, and the officials are to be congratulated on the almost perfect arrangements made for the expeditious despatch of these trains. Mr. Irwin, the trainmaster of this division, was on hand, and personally conducted the operations, which were incidental to the handling of this immense crowd, and that everything passed off without any mishap, and that the trains got away almost on time, is due largely to the excellent management of the officials. Not in a good many years have there been as many engine crews in Peterborough at one time as there was yesterday, and the vicinity of the G.T.R. station was a very busy place yesterday. In addition to the excursion trains, the regular trains all carried extra coaches, single fare being allowed to all points on either railway in Ontario.

The C.P.R. also carried large crowds out of town. The regular morning local was the most popular train on that line, and a special was also run to Bobcaygeon over the new line, and was largely patronized.

The steamers, too, has a good share of the trade, and all were busy. The Calcutt liners both carried well crowded excursions, and the other boats were also in the swim.

In town everything was quiet, and those who remained at home amused themselves in a quiet way. The Oriental Hotel, the headquarters of the I.O.F. High Court, was about the liveliest place in town.

The excursions, all of which were successful, are briefly summarized:

SONS AND DAUGHTERS OF ENGLAND

The unification yesterday of the sons and daughters of England proved most satisfactory to all concerned. These two lodges jointly ran an excursion to Bobcaygeon by rail and steamer. A special train left here for Lindsay at 8.25 a.m. when, after two hours stay the steamer Esturion was boarded for the very pretty boat trip to Bobcaygeon and Sturgeon Point. A stop at the former place enabled the excursionists ample time to enjoy the beautiful scenery around this picturesque town. The sail down to Lindsay in the evening was thoroughly enjoyed and two hours were again allowed in that town before the train had to be boarded for home. The trip was thoroughly enjoyed by the 175 who participated in it.

A DAY AT RICE LAKE.

Court Stanley A.O.F. with a large number of friends went to Idyl Wild and Jubilee Point, whither they were conveyed by the trim steamer Sovereign. The boat with about one hundred and twenty-five personages on board left the dock at eight o'clock and after a delightful sail arrived at Idyl Wild about noon. Dinner was taken at this point, and after a short stay there the party left for Jubilee Point where the afternoon was spent very pleasantly in dancing and in the enjoyment of other pleasures. Tea was taken at the point, and a start was made for home arriving here about 8.30. A first class orchestra accompanied the excursion and provided music for the dancers at the point and on the boat. The committee wish to express their appreciation of the kindness of Mr. Snider and the crew of the Sovereign.

ANOTHER CANAL TRIP.

The steamer Water Lily conveyed a jolly crowd yesterday to Young's Point, via the Lift Lock and canal, to Lakefield. Young's Point was reached about one o'clock, where dinner was partaken of and a pleasant time spent until the boat left on the return trip about half past four. The sail down was enlivened by music and singing, a special feature of which was the college yells and songs indulged in by a number on board.

Messrs. Sisson, Moore, and the other members of the committee who had the affair in charge, did everything possible to add to the pleasure and enjoyment of the party, and a very pleasant day's outing was spent.

AROUND THE KAWARTHA LAKES.

Peterborough Lodge of Oddfellows took for their return excursion the round trip on the Kawartha Lakes and about three hundred persons were in the party. They left here on a special train for Lakefield, where the "Kenosha" were in waiting to take the excursionists around the beautiful chain of lakes. This part of the trip was a thoroughly highly pleased with it. The steamer proceeded to Lindsay, where another special train was waiting to convey the excursionists home, Peterborough being reached early in the evening, and all who took this trip are expressing themselves as being thoroughly satisfied with their days outing.

ODDFELLOWS TO ROCHESTER.

The Rochester trip, under the auspices of the Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows, is always a popular one, and this year the usual large number participated in it. When the special train arrived here at 10.45 there were a number on board from Lindsay and Omemee, and they were joined here by a large crowd, the whole party numbering about 300. This year, instead of going by the regular train at 11.45 a special was chartered leaving here at 10.45, which gave the excursionists ample time to take dinner at Port Hope, before boarding the steamer North King, which was to convey the party across Lake Ontario to the beautiful Flower City, Rochester, where doubtless those who took in the excursion would thoroughly enjoy the two days allowed them. The greater part of the party will return to-morrow night, but the privilege of remaining over Sunday is given to those who wish it.

THE NIAGARA FALLS TRIP.

The Canadian Order of Foresters' Court Littlejohn, hold annually an excursion to Niagara Falls. This is a trip which is always well attended, and one on which the participants always enjoy themselves. That held yesterday was no exception, and the three hundred or more who comprised the party certainly spent a most enjoyable day. The special train left here at 6.30 sharp, and after a quick run to Toronto, the steamer Chippewa was boarded for a trip to the Falls. The journey from Lewiston to the Falls was made by the Great Gorge Route, and the awful grandeur of the whirlpool and rapids was seen to good advantage.

A number of the excursionists went on to Buffalo, returning in time to catch the boat for Toronto. The special train left Toronto at 11 p.m., and Peterborough was reached about 3 o'clock this morning. A number of those who took in the trip remained over in Toronto for a few days The excursion was one of the most enjoyable participated in by Peterborough people.

TRIP OVER THE NEW LINE.

"Eight hours at Bobcaygeon," headed the bills advertising the trip to Bobcaygeon over the C.P.R. and the new line from Burketon, and this trip had the advantage over all the others in that the route was entirely new and those who took the trip are loud in their praise of the beauties of the trip and the excellence of the service. That it was the most popular trip of the day was evidenced by the fact that 430 tickets were sold, the largest number to go on any one excursion yesterday. A quick run was made to Burketon, where more passengers were taken on and the trip over the new portion of the road was made. The members of the party speak in warm terms of the quality of the new road, they say it rode just like an old, well kept road bed. The objective point was reached in good time. And as promised, eight hours were allowed at Bobcaygeon in which to enjoy the locality of that famous resort. On beauties of that famous resort. On o'clock and Peterborough was reached at nine o'clock.

At Bobcaygeon a baseball game between the Charlotte Street Guild Team and Bobcaygeon was played, resulting in a tie, seven runs each.

SALVATION ARMY.

The members and friends of the Salvation Army to the number of about 300, went for a trip up the canal yesterday by the steamer City of Peterborough. The steamer with a jolly crowd on board, started out at eight o'clock, with the first-class band of the Army on board, and proceeded to the Lift Lock, where a record lockage was made, the event occupying only two minutes and ten seconds. The steamer passed up through the canal to the grove at No. 5 dam, where the party disembarked and spent a few hours very pleasantly, games being played for the younger portion of the party. Dinner was taken here, and after a few hours pleasantly spent the boat turned her prow for home, going through the Lift Lock about 6 o'clock, and a trip down the river to Telephone Point was afterwards taken, returning home about 8 o'clock. The whole trip was a most successful one, and was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present. From a financial point of view the day was also a success.

PLEASANT DAY AT ORILLIA.

Those who went to Orillia yesterday with St. Peter's Court Catholic Order of Foresters excursion certainly had a very pleasant day's outing. There were about three hundred on board the special train which left here sharp at nine o'clock and arrived at Orillia about noon. During the afternoon the excursionists enjoyed themselves in various ways, a number going to the asylum where the attendants very kindly showed the visitors through the beautiful grounds and the buildings.

Two games were on at the athletic grounds, and a fine lacrosse game between Orillia and Brantford was seen. The Orillia team won by 8-1, but the Bradford team gave them a hard game, and the score does not indicate the style of play, as the Orillia team had its work laid out all through the game. Orillia people are enthusiastic lacrosse supporters, but know little about baseball, and according to the opinion of some who saw the game of ball between the T.A.S. of Peterborough

A GREAT DAY AT YOUNG'S POINT

Rev. Father Phelan's Picnic a Successful Event.

SOME EXCELLENT ADDRESSES

Lou Scholes Gave an Exhibition of Sculling—A Popular Place to Spend the Holiday.

Rev. Father Phelan's annual picnic has always since its inauguration been a most successful event and this year was no exception. The picnic held yesterday afternoon at beautiful South Beach, Young's Point, was attended by about 500 people. The weather was all that could be desired and the occasion was heartily enjoyed by all. While the programme of sports and speeches was a most interesting one, the chief interest was centred in the fact that there was present the amateur sculling champion of the world. Mr. Lou Scholes whose name has become a household one in Canada. The whole proceedings were very interesting and while the attendance was somewhat smaller than in previous years, this can be accounted for by the fact that there were twelve excursions out of Peterborough yesterday and considering this, Father Phelan's picnic received its full share. Numbers do not constitute all the elements of a successful picnic, and all the other elements conducive to a successful gathering was strikingly manifest yesterday.

About 150 from Peterborough were present, the trip being made over the Grand Trunk to Lakefield and per steamer Stony Lake to the scene of the picnic. Those who had not been aboard the new steamer previously were highly delighted with it.

PROGRAMME OF SPORTS.

A short programme of aquatic sports was run off and the races were well contested. Mr. R. R. Hall acted as starter and judge. A rather stiff north wind rendered the course rather choppy for canoeing and the paddlers were kept busy keeping to the course. The following were the results:—

Single canoe—1, W. Knott, Young's Point; 2, A. Welsh, Young's Point; 3, Simpson, Lakefield.

Double canoe—1, N. Bell, of Peterborough and Simpson, of Lakefield; 2, H. Godfrey and L. Godfrey, of Young's Point. In this race the latter pair took a lead at the start but at the first buoy the winners closed up the gap and forged ahead, gradually winning by about 4 lengths. The losers were hindered by shipping considerable water shortly after the start.

Upset race—1, Bell; 2, Simpson.

THE CHAMPION SCULLER.

Lou Scholes then gave an exhibition of the stroke which pulled him to victory at Henley recently winning such great laurels for himself and Canada by defeating the fastest amateur scullers of the Empire. Scholes is a fine looking young man of splendid build, standing six feet and weighing when in condition for racing 185 pounds. He looked the picture of health was brought out from Peterborough for the exhibition and unfortunately the sliding seat refused to work, but, nevertheless, the champion pulled over the course with remarkable ease and speed He was given a hearty ovation at the conclusion. Mr. Scholes was married on Wednesday in Toronto and was accompanied to Young's Point by his bride, Mr. Mulqueen his trainer, and a few others of the bridal party.

THE SPEECHES.

The Chairman for the afternoon was Rev. Father Cotey, of Hamilton, who spoke a few words of welcome before introducing the speakers.

HON. J. R. STRATTON.

Hon. J. R. Stratton was the first speaker. He was very glad of the opportunity of again meeting with the people at Father Phelan's picnic. He was pleased that the day was such a beautiful one and wished to congratulate the directors of the picnic upon the fine success which had attended their efforts. He was pleased to see so many of the distinguished clergy of the province present for their influence in a community was always good. The picnic was honoured by the presence of the distinguished Canadian, Mr. Lou Scholes, who was good enough to be present with his bride and assist in making the event a greater success than it would otherwise have been. The speaker hoped that all efforts of the champion in life would meet with the same success which had attended him on his recent trip to England and that he would have the courage and ability to retain for many years to come the Diamond Sculls which he had won so nobly. There was rejoicing throughout the whole of the Dominion when the news was learned that for the first time in history the Diamond Sculls had been won by a Canadian.

As Canadians, said Mr. Stratton, we should be glad of the opportunity of assembling here with all denominations and societies represented; while the Roman Catholics are in majority to-day there are also distinguished Orangemen present, which goes to show that there is good feeling existing here between the two and this same feeling is becoming more and more widespread throughout the Dominion. The Roman Catholics are in the majority in this province but they have their separate schools, and carrying on education and enjoy the same privileges as those in the majority. In Quebec the Roman Catholics are in the majority, but the Protestants have their separate schools and are extended their full rights and privileges. The speaker hoped that the present good feeling existing would continue to grow.

We welcome to our soil those of other countries no matter where they may be from, as long as they are good citizens. We are glad to welcome our friends from across the line for we bear them no ill feeling, but are pleased to know that they are in accord and sympathy with Canada. We feel certain that no such trouble as existed in by-gone days will occur in future between the two countries. We are glad to see our friends from the States avail themselved of the opportunity of making homes in the great west, a part of Canada with a glorious future. If the time ever comes when there is a union between Canada and the United States, we hope that it will be under our flag and then those who join us will come under a better system of government with greater privileges and where the expression of the will of the people will be carried out more energetically and more systematically than is the case over the line. Mr. Stratton referred briefly to the prosperity which Canada was enjoying at the present time, stating that no province had made more rapid progress in the past five years than Ontario. The west had also seen grand development and in the north of this province where a few years ago, dense forests existed, now were to be found flourishing towns and villages. In comparing the products, manufactures, etc., with those of previous years, a remarkable increase is to be noticed. This prosperity has reached our own town and with the manufacturing and agricultural industries we shall soon make Peterborough what it is intended to be. In closing Mr. Stratton again congratulated Father Phelan upon the success same prosperity which had marked the progress of our Dominion and Province.

MR. JAS. KENDRY, M. P.

Mr. Jas. Kendry, M. P., was the next speaker. He was pleased to meet his friends again at Father Phelan's picnic and while he would have liked to have seen more present, he was aware of the fact that twelve excursions were being run from Peterborough that day. He spoke of the prosperity which Canada was enjoying at the present and hoped that it would continue to flourish. He had visited the west a few weeks ago and thought that no one could form an idea of that section of the country until they had visited it. Ontario was a great province, but the speaker believed that the west would build this province up. We do the manufacturing and they do the farming, said Mr. Kendry. He congratulated Rev. Father Phelan upon the success of the picnic and hoped to have the opportunity of attending other such events.

SENATOR McHUGH.

Senator McHugh, of Lindsay, the next speaker, had known Rev. Father Phelan for many years and was greatly pleased to be present at his annual picnic. He spoke of the good feeling existing between the Protestants and Roman Catholics and thought that the old feeling of unpleasantness was gradually dying out. He spoke briefly upon the great possibilities of the country, especially the west and Ontario; he believed that the chief industry in our province was agriculture and that the farmers should be encouraged in every way possible.

MR. R. R. HALL.

Mr. R. R. Hall was next called upon. He congratulated the committee whose efforts in promoting the success of the picnic had been so marked. The expression that "Canada leads the way," was a familiar one to all and it was a true one, said Mr. Hall. It was true in sports as in other things. We were proud of Mr. Scholes who had won such great laurels at Henley and of Private Perry who captured the King's Prize at Bisley. Not alone in sports but in other ways, Canada was leading. During the last ten years Canada was the one of all countries to double her aggregate trade while in the Post Office department it was shown that Canadians write more letters in comparison than any other people. The savings banks show that the people are well-to do and that the wealth and importance of the country are on the increase. In agricultural affairs the same success was being enforced. The success did not come by mere accident but from the fact that the country was being governed by prudent men and by the fact that the men at the head of the different enterprises outside political world were men of the right stamp. Mr. Hall was greatly pleased to be present and wished all present every success in whatever might be their call in life.

MR. LOU SCHOLES.

Rev. Father Cotey in introducing the next speaker remarked that men with a strong "pull" weren't always politicians and he took great pleasure in introducing Mr. Lou Scholes, who was loudly cheered. Mr. Scholes expressed himself as being greatly pleased with the picnic and was only too happy to do what he could to further its success. He had appreciated the reception accorded him and hoped to have the privilege of again visiting Young's Point.

REV. FATHER PHELAN

made a few remarks at the close, thanking those present for their attendance. The afternoon could hardly have been a more pleasant one for all concerned and the picnic was pronounced a great success.

The Quaker Football team was present with the intention and desire to play the Indian River team. Perhaps the fame of the Quakers has become too widespread for the Indian River youths were remarkably conspicuous by their absence, and there was "Nothin' doin'," much to the disappointment of the Quakers.

PETERBOROUGH SENDS ANOTHER MISSIONARY

Mr. Walter Oldfield Decides to Devote His Life to This Work.

Will go to South China to Work for the Christian and Missionary Alliance.

A young man who is about to enter the ranks of missionaries was in town on Wednesday calling on his old friends here, on his way to Tweed, where he will visit his sister, before going to China, where he will enter upon his active work as a Christian missionary, representing the Christian and Missionary Alliance.

Mr. Walter Oldfield, the young man referred to was for two years a resident of Peterborough, and employed in the store of J. C. Turnbull and Company, having charge of the staple department there. During his two years residence here he made many friends, and upon these he was calling on Wednesday, bidding them farewell before he starts for China, where he will spend seven years in the missionary work before he returns.

About two years ago Mr. Oldfield left Peterborough to go to the Missionary Alliance Institute at New York, N. Y., to prepare himself for what he has chosen for his life work, and having graduated from that institute, he is now fitted to enter the foreign work, at the graduation exercises Mr. Oldfield represented Canada, delivering an oration on this country with credit to himself. There are 200 students there all in preparation for missionary service.

Mr. Oldfield, with a number of other young people, among them Mrs. Aiward, of Toronto, will leave New York in September, for China, sailing first to England, and then through the Suez Canal, past India to China. It is supposed that the war has made the trip across the Pacific impracticable, consequently the longer route is being taken. It will take nearly six weeks to reach Kinong Si, province in South China, the district in which Mr. Oldfield will work. He will live in Wes Chow for a year to learn the Chinese language, after which he will enter actively upon his work, which, while it will entail many hardships, Mr. Oldfield esteems as a priviledge.

There are at present in South China about 45 missionaries and native teachers who are working under the direction of the Alliance, and the population in this district is about 10,000,000, so that there is not an over supply apparently as yet.

A meeting was held in Bethany Tabernacle Wednesday night addressed by Mr. Oldfield.

This is the month that price reductions at Stratton's Bookstore speak loudest, and make you feel glad you waited. Murdered Blacksmith Ernest Eggert in Eganville.

MIDDLESTADT IS ARRESTED

Victim Was Attacked in His Blacksmith Shop Because He Good-Naturedly Suggested to His Murderer That He Should Go Home With His Wife—Pickaxe Was Used.

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—Dead, at his home in the town of Eganville, lies the body of Ernest Eggert, a blacksmith, well known in that district, while in custody on a charge of murder is Gustave Middlestadt, a prosperous farmer of Gratton township, who resides about four miles from the town. The whole community up there is in a state of great excitement over the occurrence. Eggert died about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon as the result of injuries inflicted upon him the day before by Middlestadt. The crime is one more that can be traced to the influence of liquor.

On Wednesday afternoon Middlestadt went to Eganville, accompanied by his wife. He visited a number of the hotels and was drinking, and though generally of a good disposition was not considered accountable for his actions when under the influence of liquor. Along with his wife, he did some shopping, and afterwards he had occasion to visit Eggert's blacksmith shop.

When Eggert saw that Middlestadt had no inclination of leaving, he suggested to him in a good-natured way that he had better go as his wife was waiting. The man left the shop, but in a few minutes he was back again. Eggert once more reasoned with him, and, tapping him on the shoulder, told him to go.

At this point, it is stated, Middlestadt stepped towards the door as if to leave, while Eggert went back to his anvil. The German did not go far, but laying hold of a pick-axe, which lay on the floor, he went savagely at Eggert, striking him with the point of the axe in the region of the temple. Afterwards, as if nothing had occurred, he went to his rig and drove home. Eggert, despite medical aid, gradually sank. The dead man was 50 years old and leaves a widow. Middlestadt is about 42 years old and the father of a large family.

Excise Officer Cuts Throat.

Berlin, Aug. 19.—Edward Kilroy, excise officer at the Seagram distilleries in Waterloo, attempted suicide at his home in Allan street, Waterloo, about 4 o'clock yesterday morning. He slashed his throat with a razor, but the doctor says he has good chances for recovery. It is said that the man's mind had become unhinged by excessive drinking.

Escaped From Police.

Kingston, Aug. 19.—The police are on the lookout for John Johntis, who escaped from constables who were taking him from Clinton to Napanee jail, he having been committed to trial for thefts. Heavily shackled, he was being driven to the county seat. About 1 o'clock at night he said he was sleepy and asked leave to lie down in the rig. This was granted, and he worked off the shackles and escaped. He was gone some time before his pursuers knew it. He stole a horse, drove to Croydon, abandoned the outfit, and started afoot for the frontier. He is of Italian-French blood, and a decidedly clever youth of 21 years.

TILBURY WEST AUDIT.

Treasurer Refunds Amount of Shortage Due to Bad Bookkeeping.

Windsor, Aug. 19.—The audit of F. H. MacPherson of this city of Tilbury West, disclosed the fact that the township treasurer, Thomas Beattie, was $9,000 shy in his accounts.

Mr. Beattie at once deposited the full amount in the bank. There was no intention of defrauding the municipality. The shortage was due to bad bookkeeping.

It was also found that J. Anderson, township clerk, had in his possession a considerable sum of money, collected by the clerk at various times. He promised to make the amount good within a short time.

Several adjacent townships were reported to be indebted to Tilbury West, and these municipalities will be requested to settle.

STRATHCONA'S ADVICE.

Words of Counsel in Regard to the Church Quarrel.

London, Aug. 19.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Strathcona, laying the memorial stone of the new parish church at Forres, made up the anticipated deficiency of £1,500, expressing also the view that the Free Church was the small body that remained. But though there was disappointment on one side and almost exultation on the other he hoped all would go together to provide a solution of a most serious question.

Speaking at the Forres Academy Club dinner Lord Strathcona referred with much satisfaction to the visits of the royal family to Canada. He thanked the Forres people for their kindness to the Canadian bowlers, a reception which would be returned when the Forres bowlers visited Canada.

Scolding.

Scolding is mostly a habit. It is often the result of nervousness and an irritable condition of both mind and body. A person is tried or annoyed at some trivial cause and forthwith commences finding fault with everything and everybody within reach. Scolding is a habit very easily formed. It is astonishing how soon one becomes addicted to it and confirmed in it. It is an unreasoning and unreasonable habit. Persons who once get into the way of scolding always find something to scold about. If there is nothing else, they begin scolding at the mere absence of anything to scold at. It is an extremely disagreeable habit. It is contagious. Once introduced into a family, it is pretty certain in a short time to affect all the members.—Exchange.

Tell of Exhausted Nerves—A Peterborough Man Cured by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mr. Harold Crane, Sophia street, Peterborough, Ont., and who is employed in Hall's store, states:—"I believe the close confinement of shop work was responsible for my becoming very nervous, and as a natural result I did not sleep and at times had severe attacks of splitting headaches. I heard of the good results obtained by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and decided to try it. I can now say that I am more than pleased with the results, as it has benefitted me very much. It built up my system, restored my nerves, and I am now entirely free from headaches. I have every reason to give the credit to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

WHAT ONE GARTER COST.

Fees and Gratuities Exacted by the Heralds and Other Officials.

Among the minor details attaching to the ancient ceremony of the election and installation of new Knight Companions of the Order of the Garter in Solemn Chapter not the least interesting, both to the recipients of the honor and to the outside public, are the fees and gratuities which are exacted by the heralds and other officials upon the memorable occasion. Whether the scale is to-day the same as that fixed in the reign of Charles II., would seem to be a mystery only known to the College of Heralds; though, if rumor does not speak falsely, it is still sufficiently heavy to cause heart-burnings among the newly-elected who are of a frugal turn of mind.

It appears from the report of the Knights drawn up in 1663, that the actual fees payable for strangers were payable, not by the stranger, but by the Sovereign, Charles I. having set aside a special pension of £1,200 to this end. For the installation of the Prince of Orange in 1603, the following fees were paid out of this fund:

To the Dean of Windsor, as Registrar..... 33	13	4
To Garter Principal King of Arms..... 20	0	0
To the Usher of the Black Rod..... 20	0	0
To the Officers of Arms....20	0	0
To the Canons..... 10	0	0
To the Choir and Choristers..... 6	0	0
To the Vergers, Sextons and Bellringers... 2	0	0
To the Poor-Knights... 10	0	0

Making a total of £126 13s. 4d. These were, of course, the fees due on the installation of a Stranger Prince, and varied with the rank of the recipient. Those for a Stranger King were proportionately higher—for instance, the fee to Garter in the case of King was £80.

In spite, however, of this apparent generosity in the matter of fees, such an installation was no light matter for the purse of the honored royalty. It was his duty, within a year from his election, to send plate of the value of £200 at least for the use of St. George's Chapel. Further he was expected to bestow largesses and rewards upon the College of Arms, the officers of the Order and of Arms, the King of Arms. For instance, in the time of Henry VII. the Garter obtained from Maximilian, King of the Romans, "100 Rhenish guildings," and from Philip, King of Castile, a large gown of cloth-of-gold and forty crowns of gold. Ferdinand, Archduke of Austria, gave the lucky man "a crimson velvet gown furred with Luzarts, a cup of £22 value, 100 Rhenish guilders, and sixty crowns of the sun." Francis I., King of France, gave him a "robe of blue velvet lined with cloth of silver, with buttons of gold enamelled, and eighty crowns of the sun;" James V. of Scotland, "a gown of black velvet furred with black budge, with sixteen pairs of agiets of gold, and 100 crowns of the sun, and another gown;" while Charles, King of Sweden, surpassed all his predecessors in generosity by the bestowal of a medallion set with diamonds, valued at £404. Further, the Officers at Arms had to be satisfied and the sums handed over to them by the unfortunate victims varies from the 100 crowns of the King of Castile to the £13 6s. 8d. of Frederick Prince Palatine. And, lastly, we have the crowds of small fry—the Alms Knights, Trumpets, Drums, Fifes and Musicians; the eight nobles for the Vergers of the College, six crowns for the "Vicars and Clarks," three crowns for the choristers, two crowns for the sextons, and fifty more to be distributed among the Master and Officers of the Household, the Gentleman Ushers, guard, and "others of the Chamber." Truly, even the "Stranger King" must needs have the purse of a Fortunatus to face the ordeal of the Garter!

President Board of Agriculture.

William Hillier Onslow, fourth Earl of Onslow, grandson of the second Earl, was born on March 7, 1853, and educated at Oxford University, where he graduated M.A. He married in 1875 the Hon. Francis Coulston Gardner, daughter of the third Lord Gardner. Lord Onslow was Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies between 1887 and 1888, Parliamentary Secretary of the Board of Trade from February to November, 1888, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of New Zealand from 1888 to 1892, and Under-Secretary of State for India from 1895 to 1900, when he became Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies. In 1900 he was given the important part of President of the Board of Agriculture, rendered vacant by the death of Mr. Hamburg. The appointment has been a most popular one, and Lord Onslow has justified the opinion held by him as an able man and an earnest worker. He has, however, followed the example set by his predecessor and steadily refused to remove the embargo on Canadian cattle.

Art v. Photography.

Two artists were regarding in a gallery a print of Millais' "Chill October." One of them said:

"Sir John Millais once showed me the original of 'Chill October,' and at the same time he told me a story about it.

"He said that as he sat painting one grey afternoon among the reeds and rushes of the Tay a voice from behind a hedge asked:

"'Man, did ye ever try photography?'

"'No, never,' said Sir John, and he continued to paint slowly.

"'It's a hantle quicker,' said the voice.

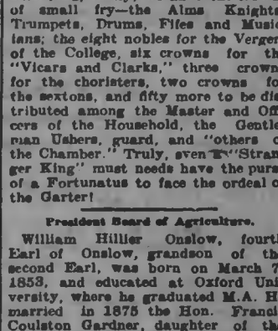
"'Yes, I suppose so,' the painter agreed.

"Then the voice said, bitingly:

"'An' it's mair like the place.'"

Her Answer.

She met him in the darkened hall. Said he, "I've brought some roses." Her answer seemed irrelevant, it was: "How cold your nose is!"



The Pace That Tells.

In the six day bicycle races the pace tells terribly at the end. Man after man falls out exhausted. The victor wabbles wearily over the line. In the business race it's the same. Man after man drops out exhausted. The successful man is often a dyspeptic, unable to enjoy success. When the stomach is diseased there is not enough nutrition assimilated to sustain the body and repair the daily waste of tissues. The result is weakness, tending to collapse.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect assimilation of food by which the body is built up with sound, healthy flesh.

"I have taken one bottle of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for indigestion and liver complaint," writes Mr. C. M. Wilson, of Yadkin College, Davidson Co., N. C. "Have had no bad spells since I commenced taking your medicine—in fact, have not felt like the same man. Before I took the Golden Medical Discovery I could not eat anything without awful distress, but now I can eat anything I want without having unpleasant feelings. Last summer my baby was teething and was so poor he was almost a skeleton. We gave him your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and now he is as healthy and well as any child. I will speak a good word for your medicine wherever I have an opportunity."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure sick headache.

Going for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Don't put yourself in this man's place but keep a bottle of this remedy in your home. There is nothing so good for Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Diarrhoea. It is equally valuable for Summer Complaint and Cholera Infantum and has saved the lives of more children than any other medicine in use.

When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 35 cents.

THE SOUP PLATE.

A Seventeenth Century Cookbook Tells Why It Was Invented.

A valet of Louis XIV. published a cookbook in 1655 in which he gives as follows the reason for the invention of the hollow soup piste:

The plates of the guests will be hollow in order that they may help themselves to as much soup as they may want without being obliged to take it spoonful by spoonful, because of the disgust they may have for one another on seeing the spoon go from the mouth to the tureen.

Guests, it will be seen, used their own spoons to fill their plates, the large spoon to be used for serving the soup not being invented till some time later. Yet even a hundred years after the invention of the soup plate (1749) a work on civility advised that all the dishes should be so placed on the table that every one could reach them with his spoon and that if the soup was served in a dish (tureen) every one should help himself with his own spoon without seeming to be in a hurry. A work on manners that appeared just before the French revolution deemed it best to advise its readers that it was impolite to pass the spoon back and forth between the mouth and the tureen.

A Plea For Descriptive Titles.

Setting aside the flood not to be counted as literature, the naming of a book that is worthy of a name is a matter of real moment. Two methods seem to have been followed—that of using the name of a leading character, as "Jane Eyre" and "Rob Roy;" the other that of giving some hint of the nature of the book, as in "Vanity Fair" and "The Cloister and the Hearth." The first method has no justification. What we plead for is that a title shall contain the soul or the keynote of the book. Then the author and reader start on fair terms. Jane Austen, a consummate artist, understood this well, as in "Pride and Prejudice," but forsook her advantage in "Emma"—a better book and susceptible to as telling a title. It is difficult to estimate what would have been the loss to literature if "The Scarlet Letter" had been labeled "Hester Prynne" and "The House of Seven Gables"—a title that has worked its way into architecture—had been called "The Pyncheons."—Dr. Theodore T. Munger in Booklovers' Magazine.

Speaking From Experience.

"If a man tells the exact truth at all times," said the philosopher, "he has done as much as ought to be expected of him."

"My friend," answered the weather forecaster, "he has done a great deal more than ought to be expected of him."

A Doubtful Compliment.

He—You are just as sweet as you can be. She—I don't think that much of a compliment. You see, it all depends upon how sweet you suppose I am capable of being.

Not What He Meant.

"So you really think that dogs sometimes possess more intelligence than their masters?"

Certainly. I've got one myself that does!"

If the people who know us best did not deceive us pretty often we should consider them disagreeable.—Puck.

THE FEMININE FIB.

A Judicious Blend of Black, White, Gray and Chinese Lies.

A distinguished preacher once divided lies into "black lies, white lies, gray lies and Chinese lies." The feminine fib is generally a judicious blend of the white lie and the Chinese lie. For the benefit of those who have never graduated in the special mendacity tripos it may be explained that a Chinese lie is, as a rule, purely ornamental, being of the nature of embroidery, which is intended to add beauty and color to the plain object on which it is used as trimming.

The Chinese lie is prompted by the very highest and noblest of motives—namely, a desire to give pleasure to others, many a plain, dull fact being served up and made quite tasty and appetising by a little judicious garniture of Chinese—er—embroidery. Directed into the proper channel, a Chinese liar becomes a skillful writer of fiction and turns her gift to profitable account. But the everyday feminine amateur, who has not this outlet for her tarradiddular talent, turns her attention to the afternoon tea table and adds a spice to whatever gossip is going by a gentle peppering of fibs.

Unfortunately this gift of imagination is often accompanied by a defective memory, whereas to make a good—er—prevaricator nothing is so essential as a good memory. Without this the employer of the Chinese method is almost certain to get found out sooner or later—generally sooner—and then she has the mortification of finding that her little efforts to please quite fail in their effect. And not only that; but, what is more trying still, she even finds that when from lack of material for fictional purposes she does for once serve up the cold, ungarnished truth her hearers have so got in the habit of disbelieving her that her plain statement is received with incredulity. That is why any one who aims at distinction in the fibbing world must carefully cultivate a good memory and so follow the Golden Rule to avoid being found out.

Sex In Eating.

A woman enjoys well cooked, well served food, but her happiness does not depend upon it so completely as does a man's. Without regular, abundant meals a man is disturbed in spirit and considers himself abused. When a man loses his appetite it is because of some physical ailment, never a mental one. A great blow may make the touching of food an actual impossibility for his sister for hours, or even days; but, no matter if the foundations of the earth were shaken, the ordinary man can eat. He can eat at any time or all the time. I know a man who is "living on the street" during his wife's absence, and he confesses to averaging five meals a day.

Food so often is not more than ratment with a girl. Investigate the light housekeeping arrangements of sky parlors, or even first class rooms, and consider the well gowned girl therein and see if it is. I know a girl, and a college girl, who existed on 87 cents for one week in order to buy an expensive trifle her mother's good sense had denied her. Shopgirls, they say, sacrifice their lunches to buy a Laura Jean Libbey novel; but where is the man that ever goes without a reasonable amount of good food for any need he may have?

Powerful Odor of Ambergris.

The druggist held in his hand a lump of gray substance like putty. It was smaller than a baseball and as light as cork. Through it, here and there, ran streaks of yellow and black.

"This is a lump of ambergris," the druggist said. "It is worth about $500, I judge. Smell it."

The patron put his nose to the ambergris. Then he said, surprised:

"Why, it has no smell."

The druggist, smiling, rubbed it with his sleeve, and immediately a powerful, musklike odor filled the air.

"Crude ambergris," he said, "never smells until you warm it or rub it.

"This chunk of ambergris here smells like musk. That is because it is crude. The odor of prepared ambergris has not the least resemblance to musk."

He rubbed his hand over his sleeve.

"From handling this" he said, "my coat will smell for months. My hands, no matter how I wash them, will smell for several days."

Crystallising Flowers.

The process of crystallising flowers is simple and can be satisfactorily accomplished by any one who has artistic skill. Arrange some basket forms of any desired pattern with pliable copper wire and wrap them with gauze. Into these tie to the bottom violets, ferns, geranium leaves—in fact, any flowers except full blown roses—and sink them in a solution of alum of one pound to a gallon of water. Wait until the solution has cooled, as the colors will then be preserved in their original beauty, and the crystallized alum will hold them faster than when formed in a hot solution. When you have a light covering of crystals that completely envelope the articles, remove cheerfully and allow it to drip twelve hours. These baskets make a unique ornament and long preserve their freshness.

Rameau and the Dog.

Many eccentricities are pardoned in musical geniuses, especially by those who do not suffer from them. Unfortunately the object of a musician's wrath is quite apt to be unable to appreciate why he has offended.

One can fancy the possessor of the untrained voice who figures in the following story thinking hard things of the celebrated composer Rameau.

One day Rameau while calling on a lady fixed a stern glance on a little dog who sat in her lap and was barking good naturedly. Suddenly Rameau seized the poor little fellow and threw him out of the window.

"What is the matter?" asked his hostess, much alarmed.

"He barked false!" said Rameau indignantly.

A Puzzler.

At an examination in an English school the teacher was so pleased with his class that he said they could ask him any question they liked.

Some were asked and replied to. Seeing one little fellow in deep thought, the teacher asked him for a question. The boy answered, with a grave face:

"P-please, sir, if you was in a soft mud heap up to your neck and I was to throw a brick at your head, would you duck?"

The answer is not recorded.

Quite Different.

Mother—You've been sitting in the conservatory all this time, and with young Charlie Brown! Am I never to instill a sense of decency in you? Daughter—'Twas Lord Copperbulge I was with, mamma, dear. Mother—Oh, that's a different matter. Girls will be girls!

For a Rainy Day.

Smith (newly married)—Don't you think we had better lay aside something for a rainy day? Young Wife—Charley, dear, I am so glad you said that. While I was out shopping this morning I bought two lovely silk umbrellas, one for you and one for me.

His Public Speech.

Mrs. Littlewit (proudly)—Only just think! Charles has gone to address a public gathering. Friend—I didn't know he was a speechmaker. Mrs. Littlewit—Nor I, but he's been called upon to make a statement before a meeting of his creditors.

His Recipe.

Long Haired Poet (singing)—There is no breeze that can cool the heat of love. Disappointed Benedict—Ever tried the marriage refrigerator, son?—New Orleans Picayune.

Monkey Brand Soap cleans kitchen utensils, steel, iron and tinware, knives and forks, and all kinds of cutlery.

MASQUERADE BALL AT JUNIPER ISLAND.

Last Evening's Dance Proved a Great Success.

Was Very Largely Attended—Some of Those Who Were in Costume.

The event of the season at the pavilion on Juniper Island, Stony Lake, was undoubtedly the masquerade ball which took place last evening. The evening was an ideal one to attract the cottagers to the scene of the festivity and consequently a very large crowd was present, the pavilion being crowded to overflowing. The dance was in every way a most enjoyable one both to the participants and to the onlookers. The costumes were elaborate, humours and otherwise and the spectacle presented to the spectators was one of brilliancy and gayety. There were all kinds of things represented, from ghosts to niggers, and from knights to farmers who had a decidedly "hay-seed" appearance. It was apparent that the sympathies of the young ladies at least is with the Japs in the present war for not a solitary one was attired in a costume representing Russia while those in Japanese garb were plentiful. The twelve ghosts from Dennel's were very terrifying but their discipline shown in the drill was praiseworthy. The long-necked giraffe came to grief unfortunately when the gas light came in contact with his neck, which was not made of rubber and consequently burned.

The Examiner procured the following list of names which includes the majority of those in costume. It was not possible to get the exact representation of some of the dancers.

A feature of the dance was the cake walk in which four couples took part. The antics of the "Coon" were very amusing.

HAS KIND WORDS FOR PETERBOROUGH.

St. Thomas Journal Says it has Unsurpassed Facilities.

Public Buildings not Equal to Those of St. Thomas, Though—The Cemetery is Praised

Mr. W. A. Buchanan, formerly a journalist of Peterborough, now managing director of the St. Thomas Journal, has recently returned to that city after a vacation spent in this vicinity, and the journal contains the following article from his pen:—

St. Thomas is an up-to-date city. Visits to places of similar size in the province impresses you with that fact.

Conditions here, however, are vastly different than in Peterborough, a city of our population. St. Thomas lacks waterpower and cannot expect to entice manufacturers to its doors as easily as a city with power facilities unsurpassed in the Dominion, as in Peterborough. As St. Thomas is ahead of Peterborough in some respects, principally permanent improvements, Peterborough is ahead of us in other ways. A comparison may be helpful to citizens who are interested in our development. First it must be remembered that Peterborough is an industrial city. Its progress depends upon its manufactures. St. Thomas is a railroad city and no one will deny that our growth depends, to a very great extent, upon the development of our railroads.

Peterborough, too, is in the centre of a new country, compared with this section of Ontario, and it is not affected by the competition of large cities and towns, in the neighborhood, as is the case here.

Peterborough lacks a paved main street like Talbot street. Its city hall and fire hall do not compare with the fine structures in St. Thomas. Its court house occupies a magnificent position on the brow of a hill but the building is old and many classes behind the imposing building which Elgin County possesses.

Peterborough had a street railway some seven years ago and is going to have one again. The line will cover the city's principal streets and it will, in all likelihood be extended to summer resorts within easy reach. From what we could learn the eastern city's waterworks and sewerage systems are not as improved and advanced as those of our city.

But Peterborough is ahead of us in a number of cases and it is of these we want to speak in order that St. Thomas may benefit.

Peterborough possesses many public spirited citizens, who have invested their money in local industries and local capital, just as much as water power has had to do with the manufacturing boom there. There are very few concerns in the place that are not supported by the money of local men. The Cordage Co., The American Cereal Co., The Canadian General Electric Co., The Colonial Ink Co., are in this class. They employ a large number of hands, but the city prides itself in the possession of industries that are owned, if not absolutely, almost so, by local men. They are not small concerns, as the fact that most of them employ from 50 to 200 hands is an indication. These include the Wm. Hamilton Machine Works, The Peter Hamilton Agricultural Implement Co., and The Acerman Harness and Saddlery Co., The Auburn Woollen Mills, The Stanley Piano Co., The Geo. Matthews Pork Packing Co., The Macdonald Lumber Co., The Dickson Lumber Co., The J. J. Turner Tent & Awning Co., three large canoe factories, The Peterborough Lock Co., and several others. St. Thomas certainly has not Peterborough's natural advantages, but if our citizens were to encourage manufactures in the manner Peterborough has done, we would soon have more industries in our midst.

It is a far cry from the busy hives of industry to the cemetery, but if there is one thing, more than another that Peterborough owns that can put us very far in the background, it is its "City of the Dead." The cemetery is situated on the shores of Little Lake, a more beautiful spot could not be selected. If you drive through the cemetery you will find that the roadways are macadamized, and if you walk your feet tread granolithic walks. There is not a spot in the cemetery that is not green and covered with flowers. Some of the plots are even marked off by foliage, and wherever you go, neatness and fine taste, mark the attention given this pretty spot. In the centre of the cemetery and directly in front of the main entrance is a chapel of fine architecture. The cemetery company maintains a caretaker and staff to keep the cemetery in condition. Every plot is looked after and the company is not in debt.

—Yesterday was evidently a lucky day for the local fishermen. Mr. J. W. Wood, who is becoming an ardent disciple of Isaak Walton, succeeded in landing 25 speckled beauties.

—Mr. Reg. Thompson was up the Lakes yesterday, and, unlike a great many who made the trip, he has something to show for it. He hooked a 23 lb. lunge, and landed him. There are some more pretentious fishermen who would like to duplicate Reg's catch.

—At the police court this morning information was laid against two boys who are charged with stealing fruit from an orchard on Rubidge street. This case will be up on Tuesday. Considerable trouble has been experienced lately in this way, and offenders caught will be punished. On Wednesday three boys were in a Water street orchard, and one of them, who was caught, gave his name as Robinson. The case of the boys who will be tried on Tuesday should be a warning to other boys.

Sure to Be Overfed.

"Ah, doctor, glad to meet you," said Mr. Forsyte. "I wish you'd drop around to the house at about 9 this evening."

"None of the children sick, I hope?"

"No. But they will be when they get back from their grandmother's. They're there for supper."

THE GYPSIES.

Something of the History of the Roving Tribes.

The word gypsy, of curious and interesting origin, is at once illustrative of the tenacity of a corruption and suggestive that the propensity of children for acquiring bad language is a racial trait. The gypsies on their first appearance in England about the beginning of the sixteenth century were mistaken for Egyptains, and so called by men of education, but the common people, finding some difficulty in mastering the name, rendered it "gypsies," and so the wandering people have ever since been called.

During the reign of Henry VIII., in 1531, a statute was enacted expelling the gypsies from the country under penalty of imprisonment and forfeiture of property. According to The Grey Friars' Chronicle, the statute recited that "many outlandish people, calling themselves Egyptians, using no craft nor faict (practice) of merchandise, have come into this realm and gone from shire to shire and place to place in great company, and used great subtle and crafty means to deceive the people; bearing them in hand that they by palmistry could tell men's and women's fortunes, and so, many times, craft and subtlety have deceived the people of their money, and also have committed many and heinous felonies and robberies." Six years later Cromwell, in a letter to the president of the Marches of Wales, accuses "the Gipsians," as he calls them, of "falsehoods, felonies and treasons," and orders the execution of such as fail to leave at command.

The gypsies had spread over the continent of Europe several centuries before their appearance in England, and an Austrian monk, writing of them in the twelfth century, calls them the progeny of the son of Magar, or Ishmaelites. Modern historians, however, have by the peculiarities of their language, traced their origin to India. Throughout the orient and continental Europe they were known as 'metal workers, and Sir John Lubbock attributes to them the introduction of metallurgy, especially of bronze, into Europe.

Delicate Scorn.

"I observe that you invariably praise your rivals," said one actress.

"Yes," answered the other. "It's the wisest thing to do. It sounds magnanimous and also conveys the impression that you do not consider them worth being human at."

REPORTED REPULSE OF THE JAPANESE

The Story Brought by Chinese Refugees and Lacks Confirmation.

PT. ARTHUR STILL HOLDS OUT

Russians Will Destroy Warships in the Harbor if They are Unable to Escape—Trouble Brewing at Shanghai—A Russian Gunboat Sunk—Japanese Capture a Vessel Near Che Foo.

Che Foo, Aug. 20.—Chinese who have arrived here from Port Arthur declare that the Japanese position at Palung-Chong, from which they poured a heavy fire into Port Arthur and the inner forts, have been re-taken, the Japanese retreating to Shushiyen.

The German authorities at Tsingtau have sent a guard of 100 men to a point fifteen miles east of that place for the purpose of frustrating an expected attempt on the part of the Japanese to erect a wireless telegraph station.

Will Destroy Warships.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 20.—Acute anxiety prevails regarding the situation at Port Arthur, though the War Office does not seem to believe that the danger of the fall of the fortress is imminent. According to advices, there is still an ample supply of ammunition and provisions there. While it is realized that the Japanese probably outnumber the defenders six or seven fold, the strength of the fortifications, it is believed, will make up for the disparity in numbers.

Imperative Instructions.

It is declared certain that if the fortress falls the fleet will not be taken by the Japanese. On this point the admiralty's instructions are of the most imperative character. Prince Onktonisky has been ordered, should the worst come, to sally forth for a death struggle. If for any reason a final sortie is impossible, the admiral is to destroy his ships and make certain that their wreckage shall be irreparable.

In the meantime Rear-Admiral Rojestvesky's Baltic squadron, including the new battleship Orel, is standing off Cronstadt with steam up.

Pallada at Port Arthur.

The admiralty has received official information that Vice-Admiral Prince Ouktomsky's five battleships and the protected cruiser Pallada are at Port Arthur. A telegram received here from Che Foo does not mention whether the vessels are damaged and makes no reference to the report from Tokio that a gunboat of the type of Otvajni has been sunk.

THE SHANGHAI INCIDENT.

An Interesting Point—Britain May Yet Be Involved.

London, Aug. 20.—The correspondent of The Times at Shanghai says that the dock there now occupied by the Russian cruiser Askold belongs to a British company and is not subject to Chinese juridiction.

The question, therefore, arises, the correspondent says, whether it is the duty of the British authorities to define and enfore neutrality.

Leave Port or Disarm.

Shanghai, Aug. 20.—Despite the Taotai's decision to allow the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Grozovoi and the cruiser Askold to remain in port for a reasonable period to make repairs, the Japanese consul-general made three demands yesterday that the vessels either leave port or disarm. The ships are guarded by customs officials. Lighters will coal the Askold.

Semi-official reports state that the Japanese fleet will make a demonstration outside the harbor on Tuesday. Neutral consuls believe the Japanese threat to seize the vessels is a bluff. A pacific end of the controversy is anticipated.

The damage to the Askold cannot be repaired under three weeks.

Want Squadron Sent.

Tokio, Aug. 20.—The Askold has docked and is refitting and evidently intends to endeavor to rejoin the Russian fleet and resume its place in the naval campaign.

This, it declares, to be an open violation of neutrality, which the Chinese Government evidently is powerless to prevent. Many Japanese openly urge the despatch of a squadron to Shanghai to seize and remove the Askold. The Government desires to respect the neutrality of Shanghai, but is unwilling to suffer the Askold to escape.

It is possible that a Japanese squadron will require that the Askold be disarmed, leaving her thereafter in the possession of the Chinese.

After the Fugitives.

Che Foo, Aug. 20.—It is asserted that the Japanese torpedo boat destroyers which entered the harbor yesterday hoisted only one flag when they departed.

The Japanese naval attache here says that these vessels sought the Russian cruisers Diana and Novik, the only Russian warships unaccounted for since the sortie from Port Arthur of Aug. 10, or for some ship which may have escaped from Port Arthur.

Russian Gunboat Sunk.

Tokio, Aug. 20.—A Russian gunboat of the Otvajni type struck a mine and sank off Laoti Promontory, the extreme southerly point of the Kwangtung Peninsula, on which Port Arthur is situated, at 8 o'clock on Thursday night.

Japs Capture Steamer.

Washington, Aug. 20.—The State Department has received a cablegram from Che Foo, dated yesterday, the substance of which is as follows: This morning seven Japanese destroyers entered the harbor and met an unknown steamer which they captured. Two Japanese cruisers are outside the harbor.

The despatch is so worded as to leave in doubt the exact spot at which it took place, and whether within or without the three-mile limit. The impression here is that the seizure took place within the Chinese territorial waters.

Through the Dardanelles.

New York, Aug. 20.—The Odessa correspondent of The Times cables: In spite of the feeling aroused in England and elsewhere by the action of Russia in sending the Petersburg and the Smolensk through the Dardanelles, I learn on good authority that she intends to challenge once more the clauses of the Black Sea agreement by sending the Sarafoff, a sister ship of the Petersburg, out of the Black Sea on a similar errand.

The Sarafoff is the last of six fast volunteer fleet transports, and has just been fitted with various naval appliances, including ammunition hoists.

A SIGN FROM RUSSIA.

Might Have Stolen Persian Base While Britain Was Busy.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 20.—Referring to the British expedition into Thibet, The Novoe Vremiya yesterday says: "Russia is now being paid for the forbearance shown Great Britain during the South African war. Had we taken advantage of Great Britain's preoccupation then to cross Persia, the Baltic fleet might now have a base on the Persian Gulf from which to operate."

Money For the War.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 20.—Prince Orloff Dybedoff has contributed $100,000, and the Artist Rapin, who has just sold a picture to the Government for $50,000, has donated $25,000 to the war fund.

MANY CHANGES IN SCHOOL SYSTEM

Synopsis of New Regulations Recently Authorized.

Ample Time to be Given Inspectors, Principals and School Boards to Make the Necessary Changes in the Teaching Course.

The Department of Education has framed and issued with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council a series of new regulations relative to the public, separate, high and Normal schools. It is expected that copies of these regulations for distribution will be ready about the end of next week, and copies will be sent to inspectors, principals of Normal, collegiate, county, model and other schools. Principals of any public or separate school can obtain copies of these regulations on applying to the department. In the regulations power is given to inspectors and boards to introduce gradually many of the most important changes and modifications. It is presumed that the inspectors and trustees will know the local conditions thoroughly and will therefore be able to guide teachers as far as may be necessary. In the meantime all schools will open as usual, and inspectors and boards will have ample time to study and clearly understand the new regulations.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PROGRAMME.

Several new subjects are set forth in the new course. These especially relate to art, constructive work, clay modelling, elementary science and nature study. For these new subjects the inspector may make such modifications as may be deemed expedient where teachers do not quite understand such work. The obligatory subjects for fifth form are reading, literature, grammar, composition, history, geography, writing, arithmetic and mensuration and elementary science. The optional subjects may be safely taken up as inspector and trustees desire.

Continuation Classes. Some slight modifications have been made regarding these classes. The continuation classes which undertake the preparation of candidates for teachers' certificates must comply with high school regulations as regards equipment, programme and time table.

HIGH SCHOOL ENTRANCE.

High school entrance examinations—The examination of candidates for admission to high schools rests by statute with the entrance boards. It is provided that county councils may impose a fee not exceeding $1 on each county pupil. Boards may impose similar fees on resident and non-resident pupils. It is, however, provided that such fees shall not be imposed where trustees authorize the promotion of pupils to fifth form of public schools without passing entrance examinations. The subjects for examinations are as follows:—Part I.—Literature, history, art, physiology and hygiene, nature study. Part II.—Reading (written and oral), writing, spelling, geography, grammar, composition, arithmetic. It is provided that the literature shall embrace during the previous year four suitable works, selected from a list prepared by the inspector. The written examination in reading will be based on eight passages.

The following important provision is also made:—The entrance boards of examiners for a city may, with the approval of the High School Board concerned, prepare examination papers in lieu of those prepared by the Education Department, but such papers shall be on the same subjects, and the same scheme, and the same standard for passing shall be required. It is also provided that with the concurrence of the boards in charge of the high, public and separate schools concerned the board of examiners, instead of holding an examination itself, may admit pupils on the recommendation of the public or separate school principals, but in all such cases the board of examiners shall satisfy itself that all the subjects of Parts I. and II. have been completed.

HIGH SCHOOLS.

High School programme—The high school courses of study shall be organized as follows: (a) The general course, (b) commercial course, (c) manual training course, (d) arts course, (f) agricultural course, (g) course for matriculation, (h) course for teachers' non-professional certificates. The board and principal shall select the courses to be taken up. The obligatory subjects are geography, arithmetic and mensuration, English grammar, writing, reading, physical culture, English composition, English literature and history. Attention must be given to elementary science each year throughout the lower school course, a lesson of 20 minutes each day or the equivalent thereof being required.

Teachers' non-professional certificates—Several important modifications have been made for the examinations required. Every candidate must have read carefully during the previous year at least four suitable books. There will be no practical examinations held by the department hereafter in science.

NON-PROFESSIONAL.

Junior non-professional examination.—At this examination the object of the department has been to prescribe such subjects as will best fit candidates to teach in elemeatary schools. The subjects prescribed are as follows: Part I—Reading, book-keeping, business papers, art and elementary science of the lower school. Part II.—English composition, English literature, history, (ancient, British and Canadian,) algebra, geometry, physics and chemistry. All the middle school, with geography of the lower school, and the lower and special middle school course in English, German, arithmetic and mensuration.

For the junior non-professional teachers' certificate candidates will not be required to take any foreign language, but candidates who take also the papers in the lower and middle school courses in Latin (the pass matriculation course), and who make at least 34 per cent. on each of such Latin papers and 50 per cent. of the aggregate, to both papers, shall have the marks so obtained counted as part of the 60 per cent. required on the total of the obligatory subjects. Interim provisions are made for the other options at the examinations of 1905.

SENIOR NON-PROFESSIONAL.

Senior non-professional examinations—For this examination the percentages are also 40 and 60 on each paper, respectively, and on the aggregate as for the junior examination. The subjects prescribed for the senior examinations are as follows: Part I.—English composition and rhetoric English literature, mediaeval history, algebra, geometry, trigonometry and physics. Part II.—History, (modern and British), biology, Latin, with chemistry and mineralogy, or French and German, or Greek and German, or Greek and French. Interim provisions are made for other options in 1905 and 1906.

Specialists' standing.—This regulation is modified by substituting Canada instead of Ontario. A candidate who has graduated with at least second class honours (or at least 66 per cent. in each subject of such honour department), and who has been in actual attendance in such department at a university for not less than two academic years, shall have the standing mentioned.

Kindergarten.—A candidate for a certificate as a kindergartener must have a junior leaving or matriculation standing. The examination for assistants will be conducted by the director and inspector. The examination for inspector shall be by the director of the Provincial kindergarten and public school inspector.

Normal college.—The examinations of the normal college are left to the staff of that institution. There are no examinations by outside examiners. This policy is the same as that prescribed for normal schools, and is also the same as the most universally prevails in the United States and England. The percentages of the normal college examinations are 40 on each paper, and 60 on the aggregate, with 66 for specialists. Only two examinations, as at present, are held during the year.

The new regulations have been framed on the lines of the draft issued about two years ago, with some amendments as suggested by a special committee of the Ontario Educational Association.

Arrested in Policeman's Uniform.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—Police Constable McManus received very rough treatment at the hands of a rowdy crowd on William street early yesterday morning. Charles O'Connor, Eli Gagnier and Henry Dumoulin are under arrest for the assault. The victim was so badly used up as to necessitate his being taken to the hospital. The toughs stripped him of his uniform as a final indignity, and one of the member, Gagnier, arrayed himself in the garb of the law, and, falling fast asleep from the influence of liquor, was gathered in by the police.

Would Deport a Canadian Now.

Montreal, Aug. 20.—The activity of those in Canada who are desirous that all American engineers now employed in this country should be deported, is spreading. The suggestion has now been made by the Canadian Amalgamated Association of Engineers that William F. Tye, the chief engineer of the C.P.R., should be included in the list of those who should be deported. It is true that Mr. Tye practically came to the C. P.R. from an American road, but is equally true that he is a Canadian born, educated at Ottawa College.

Yukon Commissioner Sees Premier.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—Commissioner G. T. Wood of the Northwest Mounted Police, is on his way back to the Yukon from Halifax, whither he had been calling owing to the death of his father. He called upon the Premier yesterday morning, and will proceed to the Yukon at once.

5,000 Acres in Canada.

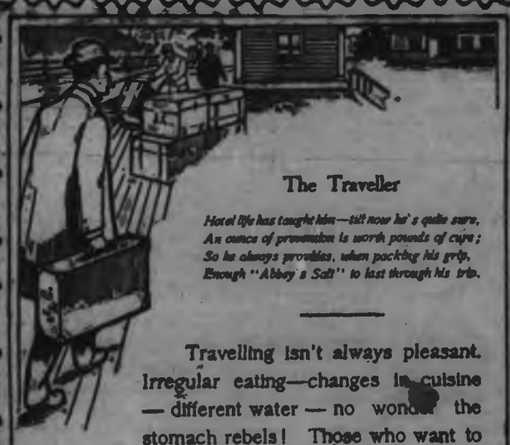
London, Aug. 20.—(C.A.P.)—General Booth, speaking in the town hall of Newcastle-under-Lyne, said he had given consent to the purchase of 5,000 acres of land in Canada in order to develop the emigration policy of the army.

Accused Himself of Theft.

London, Aug. 20.—A man giving the name of Franz Schneider surrendered himself to the Birmingham police yesterday, accusing himself of stealing papers "from a person at Southampton, believed to be F. Kent Loomis."

The House Fly.

The house fly, with a total life of about ten days, develops in these periods: Egg from laying to hatching, one-third of a day; hatching to larva to first moult, one day; second moult to pupation, three days; pupation to issuing of the adult, five days.



The Traveller

Hotel life has taught him—till now he's quite sure,
An ounce of prevention is worth pounds of cure;
So he always provides, when packing his grip,
Enough "Abbey's Salt" to last through his trip.

Travelling isn't always pleasant. Irregular eating—changes in cuisine—different water—no wonder the stomach rebels! Those who want to enjoy their trips on land and sea, should take a good supply of ABBEY'S SALT with them. It strengthens the whole digestive tract—neutralizes the evil effects of hasty eating—regulates the bowels—keeps one well and strong.

VIGOUROUS ADMINISTRATION.

The Globe has the following appreciative reference to the vigorous administration of the license laws by the head of the Provincial License Department, which is but an example of the conscientious manner in which the law is generally enforced. The following is the Globe's reference:—

"The appointment of Judge Valin of North Bay to inquire into the charges made against Constable Gagne of Sudbury in connection with the granting of a liquor license is of a piece with Mr. Stratton's vigorous administration generally of the license law. He has constantly striven to make the way of transgressors hard, while using the authority of his department to protect those who observe the law. The license branch of the Provincial Secretary's department is not expected to be a prohibition bureau, but temperance workers approve of the way in which the restrictive enactments are enforced.

RENEWAL OF THE SLANDER CAMPAIGN.

There are indications that the campaign of personal attack, which has been so vigorously and recklessly directed against Hon. Mr. Stratton, is to be revived in a new form. The first particulars to be filed in connection with the North Perth bye-election will be filed, it is understood, on Monday. And it is reported that these will consist of a number of buncombe charges relating to Mr. Stratton's alleged connection with that bye-election. Whether or not these reports as to the alleged charges to be filed, are true, will be disclosed on Monday, when the details of the particulars as filed, will be made public. There is, however, one thing certain, that these charges will turn out to be another bluff — another concoction of a desperate Conservative clique in Toronto, and will prove to be another flash in the pan. The charges will, however, if made, serve a temporary purpose in the campaign of slander, and, doubtless, in spite of their being absolutely aside from the facts, and thoroughly disproved, will be adhered to, and pressed into party use.

THE NEW DEPARTMENTAL REGULATIONS.

The Department of Education has framed and issued with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council a series of new regulations for the Public, Separate, High and Normal Schools. As these regulations, which are reproduced in another column gives a reasonable clear idea in detail of the new regulations, but not of the general scope, a summary of the general effect is reproduced from the Globe as below:—

"The draft of the new regulations just issued by the Education Department has been so long under discussion, and so much of what may be called the "code" has been adopted piecemeal, that it is unnecessary to comment upon them at any length now. This is pre-eminently a case in which the only safe test is experience, and it will require years of that to satisfy both public and professional opinion as to the real merits of the change of system. The departmental summary printed in this issue gives a very fair idea of the changes in detail, but not of the general effect of the new departure, and therefore a brief indication of that may not be amiss.

One of the weak spots in the educational system of Ontario has been the cleavage maintained between primary and secondary educations. This was the outcome of historical accident, not of deliberate design. The secondary school system was created more than forty years before the primary system, the former having been established in 1807 and the latter not till 1850. In 1871 the Legislature, on the advice of the Rev. Mr. Ryerson, made a somewhat successful attempt to bring the two classes of institutions into closer affinity, but this has never since been supplemented by any further measure looking to their unification into a single system. The present regulations will do much to promote this very desirable result, mainly by presenting the course of study for both as a continuous whole. Whether the conception thus presented can be extensively realized or not, it is something to have the ideal kept steadily before the minds of teachers, pupils, and parents.

The new regulations admit to the course of study some related subjects which ought to have long ago found a place there. By far the most important of these is designated "nature study," and this term is fairly accurate in its connotation if the teacher will bear in mind that it is as strictly applicable to linguistic phenomena as to the objects that make up the child's physical environment, and that language study is just as interesting and as profitable for even young children as "nature study" is. It all depends on the way in which the subject is treated either of them becomes an educational blessing or a curse, a boon or a bane. In these, as in all other subjects, excessive systematization and the use of text books make the broad road that leads to intellectual death.

The only other characteristic of the new code to be noted here is the deliberate effort to lessen the despotic sway exercised over the work of the schools by "written examinations" ab extra. It is not suggested that written examinations are bad in themselves; on the contrary, they are so useful that no competent teacher would think of dispensing with them. The examinations that are injurious are those conducted by outsiders, based on a prescribed course of study, and liable to be used by the unthinking public as a test of the teacher's capacity. The high school entrance examination, the most mischievous of all, has been shorn in various ways of much of its power for evil, and if County Councils will better the example set by the department and abolish "uniform promotion examinations," the public school teachers may henceforth enjoy some of the freedom which made pleasant the lot of those who were fortunate enough to get their work in a generation ago."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If Lord Brassey, says Goldwin Smith, were here, and said what he has been saying to his own countrymen, about the probable ascendancy of the American navy, he would certainly be denounced as a traitor.

The announcement, attributing to the Minister of Education, the decision to make Latin an optional subject for the junior non-professional examinations, will be received with mingled feelings. Those who insist upon adherence to what they consider practical essentials to education, will be pleased, but those who believe that Latin is an essential to a well-rounded education, that litrary culture can with the greatest advantage be conjoined to what is regarded as solid subjects, will be disappointed. A knowledge of Latin is one of the chief cornerstones of an intelligent knowledge of the English language.

The Mail and Empire continues harping on Canadian defence, and itself contributes largely to the necessity for national protection. It is daily conducting a more or less open, but always insidious, campaign, in the direction of splitting the people of Canada into race and religious factions. The defence which Canada most needs is from the journalistic jingoes who seek, for the sake of a passing partizan advantage, to sow the seeds of dissension, and the Mail and Empire is one of the most offensive of these disloyal elements of our country. The woman who is without virtue is most apt to insist upon its possession. The citizen who is truly loyal does not need to be proclaiming that fact from the house-top.

Though it hasn't the slightest authority in te world for so asserting, the Mail and Empire says that "the bulk of the campaign fund" — Liberal, of course — "for the next general election, must come from the contracts awarded for construction of the G.T.P. Railway." The organ must reason from the "send me another ten thousand" incident of Pacific Scandal times. We have Conservative papers asserting that the general elections will be held this autumn; then they say that the work of building the G.T.P. Railway will not be begun until next year, but that does not prevent the Mail from asserting that the contracts to be let after, according to its own claim, the general elections are over, will be milked to provide campaign funds for an election contest long passed by. The "silly season" strikes hard in spots.

The Conservative journals have a queer way of exploiting politics for party purposes. Because Toronto, or some other Conservative city, which exercises its franchise in solid blocks against the Liberal party, does not get all the money it wants for local improvements, the Liberal Government is showing outrageous discrimination. If the Government makes appropriations for public services in Hamilton, it is accused of bribing the electors of the city. The sum of $30,000 was set aside for improving Hamilton's Bay front, and $40,000 for a new drill shed — both needed — and we have a despatch to the World accusing the Government of attempting to bribe the Hamilton ridings. That may be the way Conservative newspapers look upon appropriations for public services, but it is not the Liberal way.

CANADIAN CANALS BEST IN WORLD.

An American Banker's Opinion of the Dominion Government's Enterprise.

An Age of Canal Building—Canada's Example Being Followed.

The Wall Street Journal, one of the leading financial papers of the United States, contains the following well-written article on the matter of canal building:—

One of our prominent bankers recently made a pleasure trip through the great Canadian canals. He returned filled with enthusiasm over the enterprise and courage of the Canadian Government in constructing these great artificial waterways. Yet he was not convinced of the utility of canals. He was not sure that they returned to the country constructing them the equivalent of the cost of their construction. He was in doubt as to whether transportation by rail was not fully adequate to the needs of commerce, and whether the maintenance of canals for the purpose of regulating rates of transportation justified the expense of their building and operation.

This doubt is one that is entertained by a great many of our business men, even those who have no affiliations whatsoever with the railroads. This lack of faith in the usefulness of canals long stood in the way of the project for the enlargement of the Erie Canal, and it was one of the factors causing the delay in the adoption by this country of the Panama Canal project. Moreover, there is some reason for the existence of this doubt as to the utility of canals. Canals are associated with the day of stage-coaches, and both seem to belong to a period of national development that has passed. In this time of rapid steam and electric transportation there is good reason for some scepticism as to the practicability of providing an elaborate system of transportation by canal.

Nevertheless, this is an age of canal building. England, Germany, and other nations have gone into the canals on an extensive scale. Canada has dug an elaborate system of ship canals, which is undoubtedly one of the causes of its commercial development. The United states has definitely entered into the project of building the Panama Canal. And the state of New York has voted in favour of an appropriation of $190,000,000 for enlarging the Erie Canal.

Not only has this taken place but it appears that canals can be operated so as to do an increasing amount of business. For instance, the semi-annual report of the Manchester Ship Canal shows that in the last six months it carried 1,993,833 tons, as against 1,855,-886 tons in the corresponding six months of the preceding year, and this notwithstanding the unfavourable condition of the cotton trade, due to the American corner.

But, after all, the largest function of the canal is not so much that of providing transportation as of serving as a regulator of railroad rates. That function is almost as important to-day as it was over twenty years ago, when Commissioner Albert Fink first announced that principle. It might be said to be even more necessary now than then, for in Mr. Fink's day there was active competition between the railroads on an extensive scale, which in this day of combination and "communities of interest" competition is largely of the potential kind, and the existence of waterways is the best protection to the public against unreasonable rates that could be provided.

Are you feeding your body and neglecting your brain power?

A dull brain is the result of an improperly fed stomach. Your brain wastes away with use the same as your body does. It must be built up and sustained with brain-nourishing food the same as your muscles, bones and tissues. The food element that makes brain is found in the outer coatings of wheat. This is the very portion of the wheat that the white-flour miller discards and with it the greatest portion of the muscle-forming elements. He leaves little else than the heat and fat-producing basic principles of the grain. In

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT BISCUIT AND TRISCUIT

The Natural Foods

you get the whole of the wheat, which contains every element that the human body requires and in exactly the correct proportions.

Eating Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit and Triscuit means living according to Nature's laws—feeding each element in the body with the exact food in the exact quantity Nature has prescribed for each element in the body. The result is sound teeth, strong bones, elastic muscles, firm flesh, good, steady nerves, a quick, receptive brain, and the requisite heat and energy for the body.

Triscuit, the ideal toast, is made of the whole of the wheat—it tastes better than white bread toast and is infinitely better for you—try it toasted for breakfast to-morrow morning.

LOCATING THE G.T.P.

Official Touring Party Has Reached Port Arthur.

INSPECTING PROPOSED SITES

Fort Simpson, Kitemat and Third Harbor Mentioned As Pacific Terminals and They Will Be Inspected By the Party Assisted By the Hon. Raymond Prefontaine—What Mr. Hays Says.

Port Arthur, Aug. 20.—The party of Grand Trunk officials arrived here yesterday by train. The following compose the party: President Hays, Vice-President Wainwright, Senator Cox, of Toronto, Premier S. N. Parent, Quebec; Hugh Allan, of the Allan Steamship Co.; Mr. Hobson, chief engineer; F. M. Morse, Mr. Biggar, solicitor; Mr. Stephens, chief engineer; L. A. Cannon, solicitor, Quebec; Mr. Hays, of St. Louis; Mr. Woods and Mr. Russell, engineers; Mr. Phillips, secretary to the president, and Mr. McNicoll, secretary to Mr. Morse.

Asked regarding the parties itinerary, Mr. Hays said:

"Oh we will be in this neck of woods for a couple of days, we have heard so much about Port Arthur and Fort William that we wish to see your surroundings and get some adequate idea of your facilities. We will then go on to Winnipeg for a couple of days, and from there through by C. P. R. to Vancouver, where we will meet Hon. Mr. Prefontaine, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, who will accompany us to points on the coast spoken of as suitable for western terminals of our new line. The places mentioned there are Fort Simpson, Kitemat and Third Harbor."

Mr. Hays could not say exactly how long they would be upon their tour to the west.

Replying to a query as to when a definite official announcement as to the terminals on Thunder Bay, and upon the Pacific might be looked for, he said:

"There will be no delay about making the decision of the directors known. We expect to return to Montreal in from three weeks to a month, and I think that I am safe in promising that a statement will be given out in a very few days afterwards. Nothing will be made public in the matter of locations before we get back east again."

Mr. Hays explained that the reason why such a strong representation of the G.T.R. are making the present trip west is their desire to decide finally upon the main locations of the line, in order that the engineering staffs may get to work at once on the surveys.

The party went to Current River, where they spent two hours looking over the shore line, which would be compassed within the terminal grounds.

ANOTHER VOICE ON THE PRAIRIES

Tells of Diabetes Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

W. G. Bartleman Could get no Relief till He Tried the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Wapella, Assa., N.W.T. August 19, (Special.)—This thriving town furnishes one of the most remarkable cures of kidney disease that has ever been reported on the prairies. Mr. Wm. G. Bartleman, a well known farmer, is the man cured and he makes the following statement:—

"I had kidney trouble and it developed into diabetes. I went to the doctor but his treatment was of no use whatever to me. I began to take Dodd's Kidney Pills in December, 1902. I took them all winter and summer while I was unable to work my farm. I took twelve boxes in all and in August I was able to work.

"Now I am quite strong. I worked all winter without pains in my back or any part of my body. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me."

If the kidney disease is of long standing it may take time to cure it. But Dodd's Kidney Pills will do it.

Ogilvie Gets Car Load of Wheat.

Winnipeg, Aug. 20.—The first car of new wheat shipped of this crop has been purchased by the Ogilvie Company, which has just received a sample of the wheat, and the car is now en route to Winnipeg from Napinka. The sample is graded No. 1 northern, and is an exceptionally good one, being clean, plump and bright. David Horn, the grain inspector, states that the quality of the wheat is excellent. Weather continues cool with showers.

Violent Attack of Diarrhoea Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and Perhaps a Life Saved.

"A short time ago I was taken with a violent attack of diarrhoea and believe I would have died if I had not gotten relief," says John J. Patton, a leading citizen of Patton, Ala. "A friend recommended Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I bought a twenty-five cent bottle and after taking three doses of it was entirely cured. I consider it the best remedy in the world for bowel complaints. For sale by all druggists.

1,000 to Go West.

Toronto, Aug. 20.—The Union Station will have a busy hour today when the first of the harvesters' excursion trains for the West will pull out about 2 p.m. About 3,000 husky applicants for a chance to take a hand in the game have already shown up. To-day's excursion will probably carry away over a thousand.

HAL. P. DENTON.

Mr. Hal. P. Denton, Chief Department Publicity and Promotion of National Export Exposition, writes:

Philadelphia, Dec. 20, 1903.

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

Gentlemen:—"Toward the latter part of August I found myself in a very much run-down condition. I suffered particularly from catarrh of the stomach, aggravated no doubt by the responsibilities and worriment incident to the exploitation of a great international exposition. What I ate distressed me and I would lie awake at night 'threshing over,' if I may use that expression, the affairs of the previous day.

"My family physician said I had nervous prostration and recommended a sea voyage. I gradually grew worse. A kind friend whom I had known in Ohio recommended Peruna. Though skeptical, I finally yielded to his advice. After using one bottle I was much improved and with the fifth bottle came complete recovery. I am in perfect health to-day and owe everything to Peruna."

Very truly yours,
HAL. P. DENTON.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice free.

TWO WOMEN KILLED.

Accident at G. T. R. & B. Railway Crossing Near Jerseyville.

Hamilton, Aug. 20.—Mrs. Thomas Knox, Lynden, Ont., and Mrs. Leonard Dodge, Saginaw, Mich., two elderly ladies, were run down and instantly killed yesterday afternoon, near Jerseyville, on the T., H. & B. Railway, by the express due here at 4.45. They were in a covered buggy and tried to cross the track in front of the train, which was going at a high rate of speed.

The engine threw the horse, buggy and occupants high up in the air. The dead and mangled bodies of the two unfortunate women were tossed over 100 feet, the horse was killed and the rig smashed to splinters.

Brother Saw Him Killed.

Winnipeg, Aug. 20.—Robert C. Smith, a employe of Porter Lyalls Depot here, was killed yesterday morning while working on a pile driver, being thrown about thirty feet to the ground, breaking his neck. He was a native of Mitchell, Ontario, and about 30 years of age. His brother James, was with him at the time.

Neck Broken By Fallen Plank.

Cornwall, Aug. 20.—A sad fatality is reported from Toyes Mill, Dundas. It resulted in the death of Delbert, the six-year-old son of Jas. McCuatt. The little fellow, it is supposed, went to the river for a swim and threw his clothes on a pile of lumber on the bank. On coming out of the water and reaching for his clothes six oak planks tumbled down on him, one plank striking him on the head and doubling it on his breast, breaking his neck.

Injury May Prove Fatal.

Hamilton, Aug. 20.—Yesterday morning James McCowell, 39 Dundurn street, a lad 16 years of age, was caught in the turn-table at the G.T.R. round-house and very seriously injured. The flesh on his thigh was horribly torn, and one leg received a compound fracture. The doctors say that the leg will have to be amputated, but he is so weak that they cannot perform the operation.

Broke His Leg.

St. Thomas, Aug. 20.—John Nolan, G.T.R. conductor, fearing an accident with a derrick, near Komoka, jumped and broke his right leg.

Baby Was Murdered.

Toronto, Aug. 20.—Given an overdose of some narcotic in order to keep it quiet while the party deserting it made good an escape from the locality, the 10-days' baby found in the waiting-room of the Niagara Navigation Co. two weeks ago is dead. An inquest was conducted last evening by Coroner Pickering, and the jury returned a verdict of wilful murder against party or parties unknown.

For Bishop of Nova Scotia.

Halifax, Aug. 20.—The committee appointed by the Anglican Synod to select names to submit to the Synod next month for the position of Bishop of Nova Scotia have decided on Rev. L. Norman Tucker, secretary of the Missionary Society of the Church of England, Toronto; Rev. Dean Symonds, Montreal, and Rev. Dr. Edwards, Kingston.

An Appropriate Prayer.

The Rev. John Robertson of Glasgow told Mr. Spurgeon about some of the difficulties that he had to surmount when he commenced preaching. For example, one worthy office bearer came to church and seated himself before the minister with one finger in each ear.

"There was a nice thing for a young preacher! What would you have done?"

"I should have prayed"—began Mr. Spurgeon.

"And," said Mr. Robertson, "I got my face very solemn, for I expected something very spiritual."

Spurgeon continued, "I should have

HAVOC FROM TORNADOES.

Several People Killed at St. Louis and Vicinity—Nine People Drowned By Cloudburst in Arizona.

St. Louis, Aug. 20.—A tornado of small proportions down in the residence portion of North St. Louis yesterday, resulted in the death of one person, injury to probably fifty others and damage to property estimated at $100,000. Herman Sauerwine, aged 10, it is believed, was fatally injured.

The atmosphere had become murky and hot when persons in North St. Louis noticed a dark cloud approaching from the southwest. Suddenly and without the slightest premonition an arm seemed to shoot to the ground like a gigantic cable, twisting and turning. The end touched the ground at Angelrodt and Nineteenth streets, and with an incredible swiftness and force swept east along Angelrodt street for ten blocks, then turned north and swept three blocks along Broadway, when it jumped eight blocks northeast to the foot of Breman street and the river, where considerable property along the river front was destroyed.

Buffeted Ferry Boat.

The tornado then jumped to the middle of the river and encountered a ferry boat, which was buffeted about but was not sunk. The tornado again jumped and struck the Illinois shore, near Madison, where it demolished several buildings. It blew down a portion of the Madison Cooper Works, killing John Tillington. Severe damage was done also to buildings in Venice and Granite City and several persons were injured.

A trolley car containing eleven passengers was buried under six telegraph poles which wrecked the car. The passengers had a remarkable escape. The roof and part of the top storey of Sommers Bros.' factory were blown away. The loss at the Niedringhau's Rolling Mill, which covers two square acres, is estimated at $25,000. Six employes were injured. No damage was done at the World's Fair grounds.

Woman Killed.

Venice, Ill., Aug. 20.—The tornado that swept across the river from North St. Louis yesterday killed Mrs. Margaret Beal, injured ten others and caused considerable damage to property. Trees were blown down and a number of houses were unroofed.

Cloudburst Drowns Nine People.

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 20.—A cloudburst at Globe, Arizona, has resulted in several deaths and the destruction of much property. Wires to the section affected are down, but a passenger who arrived at Bowie, Arizona, says that a man named Mitchell and his wife and four children have been drowned. One report says nine were drowned. The Southern Pacific shops were demolished.

A WOMAN'S SYMPATHY.

Are you discouraged? Is your doctor's bill a heavy financial load? Is your pain a heavy physical burden? I know what these mean to delicate women—I have been discouraged, too, but learned how to cure myself. I want to relieve your burdens. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need to do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. If so I shall be happy and you will be cured for less than the cost of a postage stamp. Your letters held confidentially. Write to-day for my free treatment. Mrs. F. D. CURRAH, Windsor, Ont. Orange Lily is recommended and sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne 345 George street. s-w

A Prefervid Scot.

An English paper says: The young Marquis of Bute, although he derives the greater part of his immense income from South Wales, is personally the most perfervid of Scots. He insists on his titular island being considered as an integral part of the Highlands (although Rothesay, its capital town, is nowadays practically a suburb of Glasgow), and a piper "skirls" nightly round the family dinner table, at which Lord Bute and his brothers always appear arrayed in fullest Highland garb. It has just been announced that every workman employed on the estate can, by applying at a given tailor's, be equipped with a kilt of Stuart tartan. One of the attractions of the island will, no doubt, be in future the spectacle of hedgers and ditchers, plumbers, masons and the rest pursuing their avocations in the gay, if somewhat "loud," attire provided for them by their patriotic Lord.

An Old English Woolen Law.

An act passed in the time of King Charles II. of England, "for the encouragement of the woolen manufacturers of this kingdom and the prevention of the exportation of the monies thereof for the buying and importing of linen," provided that "from and after the five and twentieth day of March, in the years of our Lorde one thousand six hundred and sixty-seven, no person or persons whatsoever shall be buried in any shirt, shift or sheets made of or mingled with flax, hempe, silke, haire, golde or silver, or other than what shall be made of wooll only." There was one exception to the rule. A person dying of the plague was permitted to be buried in a linen shroud. Otherwise penalty had to be paid. $25 for each offense. The act was repealed in the reign of King George III.

A PRESENT FOR THE OLD FOLKS.

FOR THE STOMACH'S SAKE.

An eminent physician says, "human life should last five times the years it takes to mature"—thus if twenty-one is maturity we should live over a hundred years, but there are not many reach the century mark. A great deal more longevity would exist if the stomach did not get crippled and played out—That organ gets plenty of abuse, and is deserving of attention—It is the starting point of most ailments, and it needs the first attention when symptoms of sickness appear. If an elderly stomach can be kept working right, you may be sure of a ripe and contented old age, comparatively free from physical burdens. The great new discovery, ANTI-PILL, the Great System Treatment, has a grand effect in helping old and deranged stomachs. Any aged person who will address a Postal to Wells-Fyle Co., Niagara Falls, Ont., will get a free trial bottle by return mail.

CHURCH CHIMES.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL. — At St. Peter's Cathedral there will be three masses celebrated — at 8.00 a. m., low mass; children's mass at 9.15 a.m.; high mass at 10.30; Vespers at 7.00 p. m., with sermon.

Ain't You Glad You Waited?

This is the month that price reductions at Stratton's Bookstore speak loudest, and make you feel glad you waited. The drop in hammocks is one-fifth former prices; in croquet sets, it's a tenth off, and in sporting goods it's twenty off. This is about the way it goes in hundreds of other articles. As the ranks of summer goods get thinner the prices get slighter. A. H. Stratton & Co.

THE SECOND REGATTA AT BEAUTIFUL CHEMONG.

Park Dwellers Have a Delightful Evening of Aquatic Sports.

A List of the Winners—Wound up with a Hop.

The balsamic breezes that carry Chemong Park tsoue, are not hypnotic — the cottagers are wide awake and full of sport. The proof is the second regatta of the season, held last evening on the park course, at 4.30. The event was purely local, the entries being confined entirely to park residents. The regatta was under the auspices of the Park Association.

Mr. Harrphorne and Mr. Hopwood acted as starters, and Commodore McCombe officiated as judge at the finishing buoy.

The following is a summary of the results of the several events:

Dinghy Race — 3 entries — 1 Howard Hopwood, 2 Mr. Bull, sailing Mr. Dean's dinghy, 3 Mr. A. A. Hollingshead.

Single canoe race — boys under 14 —1 Gordon Cummings.

Canoe Race — ladies' single — 1 Miss Rutherford, 2 Miss Helen Hay. (Note—It is to be explained that in this race Miss Rutherford was interefered with by the yacht Calumet getting in her course, and as a result Miss Hay reached the winning post first, and instead of rowing the race over as both contestants were very much fatigued, the first place was "tossed" for and Miss Rutherford won.)

Rowing Race — skiffs, ladies — 1 Isabel Hay, 2 Miss Helen Hay, 3 Miss Annie Burnham.

Skiff race — men's, single — 1 Mr. Jack Hopwood, 2 Mr. Fred Roy, 3 Mr. A. Weeks.

Canoe Race — men's single — 1 Mr. Fred Roy, 2 Mr. A. Weeks.

Punt Race — Men's, — 1 Mr. Hood, 2 Mr. Hopwood.

The regatta concluded with a delightful dance at Mrs. Hopwood's bungalow, "Keb-o-kan," held there in compliment to her guests, Miss Monckton, California, Mr. and Mrs. Jewett, and the Misses Jewett. The guests at the hop included the young people from the park and a bus load of young people from town. The dance was a delightful one, and was a fitting finale to a successful regatta. Chemong is full this season — not, however, in the bibulistic sense — and very gay doings seem to while away the time delightfully, and the end of visitors' holidays comes all too soon.

A FEW ECHOES FROM SOUTH BEACH PICNIC

Its Substantial Success Demonstrated by Results.

The financial outcome of Rev. Father Phelan's annual picnic on Thursday, was in spite of the numerous counter-attractions on Civic Holiday, a very gratifying success. Though all the returns are not yet complete, it is thought that the net receipts from all sources will amount to $600, and though all the tickets in connection with the free trip to the St. Louis Exposition, are not returned that branch of the enterprise will yield about $220. The drawing will take place on Monday next.

Mr. Lou Scholes, who was so prominent a feature of the picnic, and delighted hundreds, was himself delighted with his visit. So well pleased was he with the Stony Lake district, that he sent the bridal party back to Toronto, and spent another day at the lakes. He says he has done the Rockies, Muskoka, and the Thames, but he has never struck a more delightful place than Stony Lake, and doubtless he means what he says. He is no politician — he is not contemplating being a candidate for the mayoralty of Young's Point, and has no object in dissembling his real sentiments in regard to the Stony Lake district.

INQUIRER ASKS FOR INFORMATION

Can Money be Collected for Entrance to Road Leading to Lift Lock.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I would like through the columns of the Examiner to call attention to the existence of a state of things, which, to my mind is detrimental to the town. The new lift lock is a work of which we are all proud, and every visitor to the town is at once taken over to see this magnificent piece of engineering and some of those who have visited it have been by no means favourably impressed by the hospitality of Peterborough citizens. I refer to the fact that the road to the lock, which has been used by pedestrians for years is being blocked up, and toll is collected from those wishing to pass through the gate. This may be right, and I have no wish to hinder the young men from reaping what benefit they can from this source, but when it comes to clubbing and stoning those who question their right to collect money from those wishing to pass through the property, it seems to me that some thing should be done.

If these young men are fully authorized to collect money for entrance to this property the public should know it, and if they are not, it should also be known. I wish you would answer the question through the columns of the Examiner.

EXPLOSION OF A DYNAMITE CAP.

Floyd Sager Will Lose the Sight of One Eye as a Result.

Was Playing With Explosive Cap—A Very Serious Accident.

An accident which was attended by disastrous results occurred this morning shortly after ten o'clock at the residence of Mr. S. Sager, 71 McDonell street, when Floyd, the 11 year old son of Mr. Sager, was playing in the yard at the rear of his home with a piece of copper wire, to the end of which was attached an unexploded dynamite cap. The boy not knowing of course, the dangerous nature of the article with which he was playing, got a hammer and struck the cap, which action was followed by a terrific report, as the cap exploded, and the lad got the full charge in the face and head.

One eye was destroyed and the other was very seriously injured.

Dr. McNulty and Dr. McCullough were called at once and an operation was performed. It was found that the sight of one eye had been destroyed and the other was affected. His face and head were badly cut up and his chest was also injured. The injuries, though of a serious nature will not prove fatal and the doctors are hoping to save the sight of the one eye.

His companion, Carl Halpany, luckily escaped without injury.

BURLEIGH TO HAVE FINE NEW WHARF.

Efforts of Messrs Hall and Finlay Were Crowned with Success.

$12,00 Passed in the Estimates for This Purpose—A Much Needed Improvement.

Apparently the attention of the Dominion Government had never been called to the necessity for a new wharf at Burleigh until Messrs. R. R. Hall and John Finlay, recognizing the fact that such a work was urgently needed, made representations to the Government, impressing upon them the inadequacy of the present wharf to meet the requirements made upon it, and went to Ottawa to personally press the matter upon the attention of the Department of Public Works, and the result of these representations and the visit to the capital, was seen when the estimates were brought down, for they contained an item of "$1200 for a wharf at Burleigh."

The thanks, not only of those directly interested, but of the residents of the county as a whole, are due these gentlemen for the active interest they have taken in this matter, and for the successful outcome of the effort made by them.

The fact that Burleigh is becoming every year a more important point on the chain of lakes, and a point at which a large number of visitors spend a good part of the summer, is a strong reason why the wharf there should be constructed and maintained in a manner befitting the importance of the place, and the hundreds of tourists who annually visit this part of the country will appreciate the efforts of these gentlemen, who have shown that they have the interest of the country at large at heart.

There is no doubt that had the attention of the Government been called to this need earlier, provision would have been made for the construction of the wharf, and the fact that Mr. Hall and Mr. Finlay have succeeded in securing for the county this much needed public work, is sufficient proof of the fact, that they are the proper men to represent the two ridings of this county in the Dominion Parliament. When they see the necessity for an improvement they never rest contented until that improvement has been secured, if hard and persistent work will accomplish this.

A DANGER TO BABY.

Doctors have preached against the so-called soothing medicines for years, but they are still used altogether too much. The fact that they put children to sleep is no sign that they are helpful. Ask your doctor and he will tell you that you have merely drugged your little one into insensibility — that soothing medicines are dangerous. If your little one needs a medicine give it Baby's Own Tablets and you give it a medicine guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug. You can give these Tablets just as safely to a new born infant as to the well grown child and they will cure all the minor ills of childhood. Mrs. J. M. Gilpin, Belhaven, Ont., says: "Since I gave my little ones Baby's Own Tablets there has been a marvellous change in her appearance and she is growing splendidly. You may count me always a friend to the Tablets." Ask your druggist for this medicine or send 25 cents to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and get a bottle by mail post paid.

DONATOR OF CUP INTERESTED IN GAME.

Mr. R. R. Hall, Faced off Ball in T. A. S —Havelock Game.

An evidence of the interest taken in the game by Mr. R. R. Hall, the donator of the Hall trophy representing the Trent Valley Lacrosse League Championship, and the Hon. President of the League, is found in the fact that in the game played on Wednesday night between the T.A.S. and Havelock for the League Championship, Mr. Hall was on the field and faced-off the ball at the beginning of the game, and remained an interested spectator during the entire progress of the game and showed that he had a thorough knowledge of the fine points of the game and could appreciate the brilliant plays as they were made.

PETERBOROUGH TEAM WON AT MIDLAND.

Local Baseball Team Defeated Midland by Score of 7-6.

There were doings at Midland on Thursday, when the Peterborough baseball team met and defeated the Midland team, twice champions of the Northern League, to the tune of 7 to 6, and those who went up to cheer the boys on to victory, certainly did cheer them to victory. The game was the fastest ever seen in the Northern town. The fielding was sharp and there was plenty of batting. McCorry pitched good ball holding Midland down to 8 hits, while the locals had their batting eye with them, and touched Molson up for 12 hits. O'Dell, Midland's left fielder, made five sensational catches, which were features of the game. For Peterborough McCorry, Sheridan, Whitecroft and Long fielded their positions well and hit the ball hard. On the whole it was a grand game from a spectator's view point. The Peterborough's luck appears to have changed now; instead of losing by one run they win by the same number. The following was the score:

Peterborough	...210010120—7 12 2
Midland	...021120000—6 8 1

Battery, McCorry and Belleghem. Molson and O'Brien. Umpire, Deegan. There were about 400 Peterborough people at the game.

Midland has won 13 games this year and lost none; their first defeat was that of Thursday.

LINDSAY TEAM'S ERRORLESS BALL

Defeated Cobourg by 4-0 Thursday. and Now Leads the League.

Just to show that it doesn't always roast the umpire—only when the Lindsay team loses—the Lindsay Post says some nice things about umpire McEwan, of Peterborough, who officiated in the game between Lindsay and Cobourg in which the former won by 4-0. The Post says:—

Umpire Bob. McEwan umpired the game of baseball yesterday between Cobourg and Lindsay and did his duty in the way it should be done—satisfactory to both teams and spectators—and when he called the game off, the score stood 4-0 in favour of Lindsay and an innings to spare—a shut out for Cobourg. Well, that's playing some, but one man did not do it all himself—the whole nine worked in perfect harmony with each other, with the result that nothing was missed. There was not one error against Lindsay and only three small ones against Cobourg. The game was snappy and free from kicking. The Cobourg boys are a friendly lot of players and played a good game, and their pitcher, although he got good support, was not very effective; his delivery is not speedy and he had only five strike outs, while "Curly" was in the game all the way, pitching in splendid form, having 13 strike-outs. All the locals played well and batted the best yet. If our boys continue in this way they will receive hearty support from the citizens. Capt. Cinnamon had his bunch under perfect control and he played his men well.

BASEBALL.

Last night's issue of an evening paper contained a challenge from the Peter Hamilton Co's baseball team to play the Examiner team on Saturday, August 27th. The manager of the Examiner team is out of town on his holidays, and as a consequence the challenge handed out in this round-about way cannot be be answered.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says:—The game played Thursday between Peterborough and the local team resulted after a well contested game in a tie at 9. Mr. Jas. Moore acted as umpire and his decisions were well decided. The play by the local boys was exceptionally good for the little practice they have had, and being up against one of the strongest teams of Peterborough, they deserve much credit. The following was the line up:—

THOSE WHO WANT WAR AND WHY THEY WANT IT.

Army Contractors, Militarists and Demagogue Politicians.

(Toronto Globe.)

There are only three small classes of men in either country to whom war or war-talk offers any attractions: army contractors, militarists, and demagogue politicians. These all have interests, commercial, professional, political, which war scares might be turned to serve. They do not constitute any considerable portion of the people, and, despite their noises, they are not really influential. All the forces of trade and industry, and so-called life and education, and religion, are set determinedly against the notion of regarding war between these two countries as possible. If a treaty of arbitration would remove the semblance of an excuse for useless and burdensome expenditures on frontier defences its advocacy on both sides is certainly the obvious and immediate duty of all civilized citizens. A tenth part of the mental energy and a hundredth part of the people's taxes asked by Lord Dundonald, if expended in educating and organizing public opinion in favour of competent arbitration, would do more for the real and abiding safety of Canada than all the frontier defences the imagination of the militarists could conceive.

NEW MEN'S STORE OPENS ITS DOORS.

Lang and Maher Make Their Bow to the Public To-day.

A Clean New Stock in one of the Prettiest Stores in Peterborough Good Business Methods.

This morning a new firm opened its doors to the buying public, and makes a bid for business with, it would seem, a pretty good chance of securing a liberal share of trade from those with whom a long acquaintance has made the members of the firm familiar. The firm referred to is that of Lang and Maher, who are to-day enjoying their first day's business, and a visit to the pretty store on George street in which the firm is located, this morning, gives the impression that for the first day's business, it was a mighty good start, and, if appearances count for anything, it would seem as if the new firm will have no reason to regret that they started in business in Peterborough.

Principals of the Firm.

The gentlemen comprising the firm are so well known to Peterborough residents that an introduction through this medium seems superfluous. Mr. J. T. C. Lang is a man who during the years in which he has been resident here, has won the confidence and respect of the entire community. He started his business career here with J. C. Turnbull and Company eighteen years ago, and remained with that firm seven years, when he left to engage in business for himself in Centreville, where he also spent seven years, during which time his business capabilities were amply demonstrated. Four years ago he sold his business there and, removing to Peterborough, entered the employ of Gough Bros., with which establishment he remained until he resigned to enter into partnership with Mr. Maher.

Practical Experience.

Mr. M. J. Maher, the other member of the firm has practically been in the clothing business all his life, and what he does not know about it is hardly worth knowing. He entered the employ of R. Smyth, in Lindsay, when a very young man, and after serving there for four years went to Toronto, where for eight years he was on the sales staff of the Army and Navy Clothing Co., Limited. Leaving Toronto he came to Peterborough, and was head salesman for Grafton and Company, for a period of seven years. During these years Mr. Maher has won the confidence of those with whom he came into contact in business, and it has come to be accepted as a fact that what he says about a certain garment is just about right.

Mr. Maher possesses the greatest essential to success in any business, that of love for his work. He likes the clothing business, and as a result of that fondness has acquired a very wide knowledge of it.

It seems quite natural that these two men, both of them thoroughly practical business men in their respective lines, should come together and form such a combination and it is pretty hard to see how they can be anything else but successful.

This will be essentially a men's and boys' store; ready-to-wear clothing for men and children, from the finest of worsteds, to the ordinary every-day working clothes, will be sold, and men's furnishings of every description.

A Modern Store.

The store has a decidedly progressive appearance, and prepossesses one favourably from the start. During the past month a complete transformation has taken place, and it presents an entirely new and certainly a much more pleasing appearance. A new front of the most modern type has been installed. Above the plate glass windows are the new light diffusers, Luxfer Prisms, and the entrance to the store, which is at the back of a recession of seven feet six inches, is through a handsome oak framed glass door, while the woodwork in the entire front is quarter-cut oak. The front of the store is perfectly air-tight, and being entirely independent of the store, the windows are proof against dust in summer and frost in winter. The wide door-way to the store is led up to by a handsome tiled pavement from the sidewalk, and across the front is an awning of entirely new design, a roller awning installed by Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons.

Attractive Windows.

The windows this morning were very attractively arranged, and very good taste in window dressing was given evidence to. The store and one enters, seems almost an ideal place. It is well lighted, and the new stock of goods, and this is an important feature, shows up well, and it is easy to believe that customers will find it a pleasure to do business in the store.

Two silent salesmen, ten feet long, with English plate glass, are at the front of the store to the left as one enters, and in them are things dear to the heart of the man who pays attention to his personal appearance. The front part of the store to a depth of thirty-five feet from the door is devoted to men's furnishings, of which a more than usually well selected stock is kept, while in the remaining sixty-five feet the clothing department holds sway, and in connection with the clothing some mention might be made of the fact that every garment is new, no job lots picked up promiscuously here and there. Everything is of the very latest design, and personally selected.

The "Sovereign" Clothing.

The "Sovereign" brand of clothing is being handled by this firm, and the "Sovereign" brand is certainly all right. For fit, style, and finish, these garments cannot be excelled, and as new styles and new fashions are introduced the firm will immediately place them in stock, so that the public may be assured of procuring the very latest and best in the clothing line from Lang and Maher. The customers of the firm will thus get the practicaly benefit of the years of practical experience possessed by the members of the firm.

Two hundred and eighty feet of shelving in addition to the numerous tables are required to hold the immense stock of clothing carried by the firm.

Two Entrances.

The store, which extends from George to Chambers street, has an entrance at the back, so that persons driving may go to the Chambers street entrance, without danger of having their horses frightened by street cars or other causes on George street. The back of the store is glass which gives greater light. Indeed th store in its entirety is one eminently fitted for the purposes intended, and in appearance is thoroughly modern. The floor is of oak, while the fixtures, which are all in keeping with the colour scheme, were made by Mr. D. Belleghem.

All alterations purchased from this firm will be made on the premises before the garment leaves the store and nothing will be allowed to go out until it is perfect to the minutest detail. The two upper floors will be used as work and store rooms and will be fitted up for the purposes intended.

A Capable Staff.

A word as to the staff:—Mr. William Martin, salesman, has been with Grafton & Co., for four years as salesmen in the furnishings department, in which line he is thoroughly experienced and capable. He will be found in this department in the new store, and with his ability as a salesman and stock keeper will doubtless prove his worth in the larger responsibilities which will be his. Mr. Herb. Robeson, is also an ex-member o the Grafton Company's staff, where he was employed for one year, a son of Rev. Mr. Robeson, Methodist Minister at Fraserville, Mr. Robeson is also a popular young man and a thoroughly capable salesman.

The lightning fixtures were supplied and installed by Alexander and Miller, the fixtures by D. Belleghem, the tile were purchased through E. W. Argus, and the awning from J. J. Turner & Sons. The carpentery work in remodelling the store and was done under the direction o Mr. Wilson for the Toronto Savings & Loan Co. The painting paper-hanging and varnishing were done by Mr. Ralph Carton and in a thoroughly workmanlike manner.

The new firm starts out with the very brightest prospects for success and there is no doubt that their endeavor to give the public good goods at a fair price will be met with by the appreciation of the buying public.

HARROWING DETAILS OF MURDEROUS ATTACK

How Wm. Welsh Was Nearly Pounded to Death at Craigmount.

Report of Detective Murray Who Investigated the Affair—Result of a Conspiracy.

Provincial Detective Murray gives the following details of the assault perpetrated upon Wm. Welsh at the Corundum Mines at Craigmone:—

Welsh was at one time reported dead. He has survived his awful beating but Detective Murray says he is the most terribly beaten and disfigured man he has ever seen. "You can't tell whether his face is that of a human being or merely a mass of meat," he said. There are three satisfied that the assault was the result of a conspiracy. The men Pitts, Boggett, and Morrison had come to the mines with the new superintendent, Kerr. Welsh was a good engineering man and was so useful that he excited the jealousy of the others. On Sunday, July 10, they induced him to go to Combermere on an excursion. Liquor was bought and drunk. On their return in the evening the men picked a quarrel with Welsh and Pitts and Hoggett struck at him (together, while Morrison hit him on the head from the rear with a heavy glass lantern.

There is a wound four inches long, made apparently with a hatchet, while a big four-foot bludgeon was also used. They then threw him outside, but argued that he would get assistance and make trouble so Pitts went out and struck him again several times, then threw him out for dead. Others who have seen the fight, but did not interfere then took him, washed the blood away and sent for a doctor. There is strong evidence supplemented by the detective's investigations, to prove the case. The men are in Pembroke jail.

Business Man Admits He Was Leader of Lynching Mob.

Statesboro, Ga., Aug. 20.—Without any hesitation, a prominent business man yesterday admitted that he was the leader of the mob that burned Paul Reed and William Cato at the stake on Wednesday, and further made the remarkable assertion that he nor any member of the lynching party had any fear of prosecution.

He averred that no judge or jury would convict any man that took part in the double lynching, and as practical proof of his safety he told of the plans having been perfected twenty-four hours beforehand and boasted that the lynchings had been carried out without a hitch.

Taken With Cramps.

Wm. Kirmse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicines.—Elkader, Iowa, Argus.

This remedy never fails. Keep it in your home, it may save life. For sale by all druggists.

Schofield's Death Message.

Winnipeg, Aug. 20.—"God bless you all, I have gone; I have sinned against man." These words written on a slip of paper by Harry Havelock Schofield, 263 Pritchard street, immediately before he placed a rifle to his temple and blew his brains out yesterday afternoon, conveyed a last pathetic message to his loving wife and two children. At the time of the tragedy Mrs. Schofield was alone in the house with her husband, who had been suffering from mental derangement. Schofield came here 11 years ago from Walkerton, Ont., where he was born 46 years ago.

Comfort for Old People.

Much of the suffering of the aged is due to the kidney derangements rheumatism, lumbago, and bodily pains. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills bring comfort to the old folks by keeping the kidneys healthy and active and so eliminating from the body the poisonous waste matter which causes pains, aches and fatal disease.

Only a Little Cat.

She was only a small black and white cat of humble birth, returning from a little social party in the neighborhood of King and York streets, Toronto. It was rather late at night, but what of that? Cats keep no count of the hour, and she was as dignified and proper in her bearing as a mature black and white puss need be. There was nothing about her to justify the insolent attitude of a Scotch terrier who suddenly confronted her with a snarl and a snap. Puss tried to cross the street, but a trolley car was in the way, and the impudent terrier made bold to chase her. She suddenly turned, and the terrier stopped. Her back went up, her tail grew big, and she spat out defiance at her tormentor. The terrier may have been rude, but he was discreet—he kept at a safe distance. Two or three newsboys, a "red-hot" man and a police officer were interested spectators. They most ungallantly sided with the terrier, who was now barking ferociously, but keeping well out of the pussy's reach. One of the boys threw a stone at the combatants; it rolled between them, and the terrier's attention was diverted for a moment from his antagonist. It was his first mistake. Puss saw her opportunity, and leaped at the terrier, landing fairly on his back. In a second she had her claws full of his hair, and he was running for dear life down the street. Puss held on like a circus rider, contriving to sink her sharp claws into his back at every jump. The crowd followed, shouting. As they passed an alley puss jumped off and disappeared in the darkness. There is one terrier in Toronto who has had enough fun with cats to last a lifetime.—Ontario Advertiser.

THE MODERN WOMAN.

Dr. Lyman Abbott's Opinion as to Her Proper Sphere.

The real results of this modern woman's movement are seen, I believe, says Dr. Lyman Abbott in the World's Work, in better wages to self supporting women; in enlarged opportunities for productible industry; in consequent industrial independence for unmarried women; in a resultant release from the odious compulsion which drove women into marriage as the only means of livelihood open to them; in an end to that kind of marital subordination which grew out of the fact that an uneducated woman is inferior to an educated man; in an intellectual companionship in the married life based on a common understanding of all life movements and a common interest in them all; in the ability of the mother to keep the intellectual respect of her boy after he has gone out of the home to college or to business and to be his trusted counselor and his inspirer; in woman's broader horizon, larger life and more richly endowed character; in the ampler service she can render to society, to her country and to the world, and in her better equipment for the finest and highest service of all, that which is inherent in motherhood.

"It is a woman's destiny," Balzac makes one of his characters say, "to create not things, but men. Our creations are our children; our children are our pictures, our books and studies." This is the greatest career of all—greater than that of the lawyer, the doctor, the poet or the artist. Law governs life, medicine prolongs life, poetry portrays life, art presents a simulacrum of life, the mother creates life.

The education of the future will recognize motherhood as the supremest of all destinies, and the curriculum of all schools and colleges worthy of the name will be fashioned to conform to this standard and to prepare for this service.

Creamed Dishes.

It may take a very few more minutes in the preparation, but the effect is sufficiently attractive to be worth the effort if escaloped codfish is cooked in individual baking dishes having buttered bread crumbs on top. In fact, all creamed dishes are attractive if served in ramikins.

SLEEPLESSNESS AND HEADACHE

Tell of Exhausted Nerves—A Peterborough Man Cured by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mr. Harold Crane, Sophia street, Peterborough, Ont., and who is employed in Hall's store, states:—"I believe the close confinement of shop work was responsible for my becoming very nervous, and as a natural result I did not sleep and at times had severe attacks of splitting headaches. I heard of the good results obtained by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and decided to try it. I can now say that I am more than pleased with the results, as it has benefitted me very much. It built up my system, restored my nerves, and I am now entirely free from headaches. I have every reason to give the credit to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

The Kidney Pill

An Encouraging Message

I have a message of hope and good cheer, of encouragement and inspiration to every suffering woman. I have endured the torture due to female troubles and the consequent despondency and mental agony almost to the point of despair, and I have been restored from this condition to a state of vigorous health, and to the happy, exhilarating frame of mind which accompanies physical wellbeing. This change has been brought about wholly by the use of ORANGE LILY.

In addition, I have had the privilege and pleasure of inducing multitudes of other suffering women to give ORANGE LILY a trial, and have received thousands of enthusiastic acknowledgements of the blessings it has brought to them. The following is a sample:

Truro, N. S., April 8, 1904.

Dear Mrs. Currah,—Your very kind letter was received yesterday. In reply to your question about my health, I am thankful to say that I am very well. As I have never given you a statement of my case you may be interested in it.

For several years I have suffered untold agony. This suffering was continuous, but I would have violent attacks every few weeks, each attack lasting several days. The first Sunday in November, I felt the pain increasing and so did not go to prayers. The rest of the family did go and soon after the forcing down pains seized me and I had to remain on the floor until their return. I was in great pain all night, and was very sick for a whole week.

Then Mrs. L. came to see me and told me of your wonderful medicine. I got my husband to send for it right away, as I was too sick to write myself. (My doctor could do nothing for me.) I have used 5 boxes of ORANGE LILY, have had three months of good rest, and am now well, never better in my life. I have not had the old pains since. I often ask my husband if it is myself that is going around and doing my own work. I can scarcely believe it. It brings tears of joy to my eyes. I could shout it to all the world. I cannot speak enough in its praise.

Your friend, MRS. E. H. F.

Receiving as I do, dozens of such reports each day, I felt impelled to make known to my suffering sisters the merits of ORANGE LILY. It differs from the other so-called remedies in that it is not taken internally. It is a strictly local treatment, and is applied directly to the affected organs. Its curative elements are absorbed into the congested tissues, expelling the stagnant foreign matter which has been irritating the membrane and oppressing the nerves, and a growing feeling of physical and mental relief is noticeable almost from the start. It is a positive, scientific remedy, and even if you use no more than the Free trial Treatment you will be very materially benefitted.

FREE TRIAL OFFER.

I want every reader of this who suffers in any way from painful monthly periods, irregularities leucorrhœa, inflammation or congestion of the womb, pains in the back, etc., to send me their addresses, and I will forward at once, without charge, 10 days' treatment. If your case is not far advanced it may entirely cure you, and in any event it will do you much good. I am so earnest in making this statement, and so positive that it is true, that I trust every sufferer who reads this notice will take advantage of my offer and get cured at home, without a doctor's bill.

MRS. F. C. CURRAH, WINDSOR, ONT.

LITERARY ALLUSION.

A Recent Case Which Indirectly Bears Upon the Question of Education and the Study of Literature.

As illustrating the matter of allusiveness in literature, we venture to quote a letter just received from one who signs himself "One of Campbell's life-long friends." Indirectly it bears upon the question of education and the study and uses of literature. The writer says:

"As a lifelong personal friend of the late Professor Campbell, I wish to express my grateful thanks for the true and beautiful appreciation in this morning's Globe. In sentiment and feeling and form it is perfect. The delicacy of touch makes me certain that the fault is mine when I pause over one phrase in the last sentence. The sentence is a gem, but I feel I miss the beauty of the phrase 'his own gray spirit.' I have read it over and over again, and each time feel more sure that it is no misprint, but that it has a background of literary allusion with which I ought to be familiar. The phrase has haunted me all forenoon, and I cannot rest until I fix it."

The phrase referred to is, in fact, an almost unconscious glint from a line in Tennyson's "Ulysses." In using it the writer did not have the poem in mind, nor was there at the first any sense of similarity between the brave old Greek hero and the eager Canadian scholar. Its use illustrates one of those mysterious workings of the mind in its own secret laboratory, where, without the conscious effort or direction of the will, it draws up out of some forgotten cranny some form of expression that is fitted by instinct to some heart emotion or some unformed thought. Psychologists may have an explanation of these mental process; the most the rest of us can do is to appreciate the fact and to provide favorable conditions. George Paxton Young used to talk to his students about "old sense movements returning on their former tracks." That may offer a clue. The unremembered line from "Ulysses," under the stimulus of the emotion awakened by thought about John Campbell, found its way back along the track it made years ago, and, without conscious choice, the two men so widely separated were bound together in one association. That, too, is a matter for the philosophers.

But second thought over these things, and over the discussion the phrase provoked, brings out into greater distinctness the aptness, unseen before, not only of the phrase itself, but of the whole passage to which it belongs. The passage is familiar, but, as one literary friend of the dead professor said, it is worth quoting, and it may send some readers of The Globe back to their English classics for the summer reading they so much desire:

"I am a part of all that I have met;
Yet all experience is an arch wherethro'
Gleams that untraveled world, whose margin fades
For ever and for ever when I move.
How dull it is to pause, to make an end,
To rust unburnished, not to shine in use!
As tho' to breathe were life. Life piled on life
Were all too little, and of one to me
Little remains: but every hour is saved
From that eternal silence, something more,
A bringer of new things; and vile it were
For some three suns to store and hoard myself.
And this gray spirit yearning in desire
To follow knowledge like a sinking star,
Beyond the utmost bound of human thought."

Were we to point this moral it would be to urge upon teachers and parents, and all who care for the real education of the young, the inestimable importance, for the purpose of true culture as well as in the interests of literary expression, of making the young mind familiar with the best things in the best literature. Biblical literature, classical literature, modern literature, all literature that is true and enduring, has in it the matchless elements of intellectual and spiritual culture. It would mark the turning back of civilization, alike for the individual and for the State, were education to lay aside that old-time habit of steeping the young life, its thought and imagination and memory, in the undefiled wells of literature. And it is not as bits of ornaments with which to trick out a prize essay or to hide the intellectual cheapness of an address that one should gather into one's treasure-house those literary gems—

"Jewels five-words-long
That on the stretched forefinger of all Time
Sparkle for ever";

Not for so base an end as that, but rather that the common clay of our own moulding may be touched to preciousness and worth. There is perhaps no other discipline so transforming and vitalizing as literature, and, whether we read Homer and Virgil or not, we have in our mother tongue the master-literature of the modern world, and by it we may save ourselves and our generation from the barrenness and death of the world of things.—Toronto Globe.

A Father to Nova Scotia.

Recently a meeting was held in Pictou, N.S., to take steps to perpetuate the memory of a pupil of Rev. Thos. McCulloch, founder of Pictou Academy, Jotham Blanchard, lawyer, journalist, and legislator, one of the strong men of Pictou County in its early history, the man who, as early as 1831, sought redress at the foot of the throne for the people of Nova Scotia, and the friends of Pictou Academy against the autocratic ruling of the famous "Council of XII.," and sowed in England the seed that germinated into responsible Government for Nova Scotia. Joseph Howe is on record as having said that his political conversion was due to "those Pictou scribblers," and Blanchard as editor of The Colonial Patriot, was chief among them. It was unanimously voted to erect a monument to his memory and, if possible, to secure sufficient funds to found a Jotham Blanchard scholarship in Dalhousie College. The suggestion emanated from The Pictou Advocate, and has been heartily supported by the New Glasgow Literary and Historical Society.

Baby Costs Too Much

When the price paid is the mother's health and happiness. The father doesn't realize as he romps with the child what years of wifely suffering must be set against the baby's laughter.

Chronic invalidism is a high price to pay for the painful joy of maternity, yet it is at such a cost that many a woman becomes a mother. Such a price is too much because it is more than nature asks.

By the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription maternity is made practically painless, and a quick convalescence is assured in almost every case.

$500 Reward for Women Who Cannot be Cured.

The proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"There are thousands of sick women dragging out a weary, miserable existence, who would be well and happy did they but have my experience with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. Annie L. Aman, Lady Commander Star of Bethlehem, Lodge No. 37, of 105 Jackson Street, Atlanta, Ga. "Four years ago I was nearly dead with inflammation and ulceration. I endured daily untold agony, and life was a burden to me. I had used medicines internally and externally until I had made up my mind that there was no relief in sight for me. A friend of mine endorsed your 'Favorite Prescription,' and I determined then to give it a trial. It took patience and perseverance for I was in a bad condition, and had to use your medicine for nearly four months before I was cured, but what a change it brought; from despair to happiness, from misery to the delightful, exhilarating feeling that only health brings. I would not change back for a thousand dollars. Your 'Prescription' is a grand medicine. I wish every sick woman would only try it and be convinced."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss; therefore, accept no substitute.

CULINARY CONCEITS.

The oftener soup is strained the clearer it becomes. An old napkin serves very well for a strainer.

When stewing prunes, add one or two spoonfuls of red currant jelly to the water in which the prunes are stewed.

A tablespoonful of sugar added to the water for basting roast beef will give a rich brown color as well as fine flavor.

An innovation for the table is boiled lettuce. Boil the lettuce until tender, serve the whole head and dress with butter, pepper and salt.

To prevent tomato soup from curdling add the tomato before the milk is put in, and remember to strain the tomato juice before turning it over the flower and butter.

Some very admirable cooks greatly simplify cake making by putting all the ingredients, even the eggs, together and making one long and vigorous beating do for the whole.

Egg Tonic.

A raw egg is an excellent tonic and is very strengthening. If prepared in the following way it is really a delicious drink: Put the yolk of an egg into a dish with a teaspoonful of white sugar and a teaspoonful of orange or lemon juice and beat lightly together with a fork. Put the white on a plate and add a pinch of salt. Then with a broad bladed knife beat it to a stiff froth. Now, as lightly as possible, mix all together in the dish, then as lightly transfer it to a clean tumbler, which it will nearly fill if properly made. It must not stand in a warm place, as it soon becomes liquid and loses its snowy look. Any fruit juice may be used in place of orange or lemon.

To Extract a Splinter.

A bit of home surgery, stated to have been practiced when a splinter is driven into a child's hand particularly deep, is its extraction by steam. A bottle with a sufficiently wide mouth is filled two-thirds with very hot water, and the mouth of the bottle is placed under the injured spot. The suction draws the flesh down when a little pressure is used, and the steam in a moment or two extracts inflammation and splinter together. This is very efficacious when the offending substance has been in for several hours, long enough to have started some of its evil consequences.

A Family Affair.

"If you kiss me again I will call my mother!"

"Suppose she wants to be kissed, too?"

Spoils His Business.

Since everywhere the mail routes run
And hills and valleys span,
I guess it pleases every one
Except the gold brick man.

CANADIAN LAWN BOWLERS.

Handsomely Entertained and Warmly Welcomed by the Provost of Forres, the Birthplace of Lord Strathcona.

Alex. Yule, one of the Canadian lawn bowlers who recently toured Great Britain, writes from Aberdeen on July 18, as follows:

The visit of the lawn bowlers to Forres, the birthplace of Lord Strathcona, was a grand innovation of our program. When it was first mentioned that such a visit was requested we could not see how it could be granted, but through the persistent efforts of the worthy Provost of Forres, who would not accept our excuses, we finally arranged that our saloon carriage be dropped from the train en route from Inverness to Aberdeen. On our arrival we were met at the station by Provost Lawrence, wearing his robes of office, a brilliant cloak of scarlet trimmed with white fur, and a cockade hat. He extended a welcoming hand to each member as we stepped from the carriage. The rain was falling in torrents, but it by no means marred the enthusiasm of the assembled crowds, who cheered as if welcoming royalty. All along the route the royal standard of Scotland was displayed, and from every window and door waving handkerchiefs and flags were flying; the children crowded the streets, and gazed with interest as we passed along.

An hour or two was spent in the hotel in social chat with the Provost, bailies and citizens, until dinner was announced, when we partook of a repast equal to, if not surpassing, any we received in some of the larger cities. The Provost, a great big man of fine physique and larger heart occupied the chair, and expressed in warm sentiments his pleasure on behalf of the citizens of Forres at the visit of the Canadians and as a tribute of respect to their esteemed and honored native, Lord Strathcona. The toast of the Canadians was responded to and drunk with Highland honors, with one foot on the chair and one on the table, then three Highland cheers were given while the pipers played "Will Ye No Come Back Again." When Mr. Ruthven McDonald sang "Standard on the Braes of Mar" the climax was reached and health and song was drunk in good old Highland dew to Mr. McDonald. Capt. Anderson replied for the Canadians and thanked the good people of Forres for their welcome.

On our way to the station the streets were lined with people and from every window good-byes were shouted. On our way, in passing the little white-washed, thatch-roofed cottage, the birthplace of Lord Strathcona, we bared our heads and gave three hearty cheers, which were acknowledged with a bow and a shake of her apron from an old lady who stood at the door. Arriving at the station with five minutes to spare, Mr. Ruthven McDonald again yielded to the demands made on him and gave with great gusto the "Maple Leaf," in the chorus of which the members of the team joined, making the station ring, much to the amusement of the assembled crowd and passengers. We shall not soon forget this really kind Highland welcome, and shall look back upon it as one of the brightest events of our tour.

Relative to our tour, I may add that so far we have not won a match in Scotland; nor do we expect to, as we have to meet all the best picked players of every district we visit. But if we cannot win games we are making friends, and our mission will not have been fruitless if we have won the respect and esteem of those we have come in contact with, and in this way, as bowlers, weld yet another link in that great chain that binds the brightest colony of the Empire to the Motherland. Our numbers are now seriously reduced, and I am just afraid that on our visit to Ireland we shall not be able to stay more than three weeks. Find enclosed a sprig of heather, plucked on the battlefield of Culloden Moor, where we lunched, through the hospitality of the Inverness people, on Friday last. All are well and thoroughly enjoying themselves.

HOW WE GROW.

(Hamilton Times.)

The unrevised statement of exports for the eleven months ending May, 1904, shows that we sold abroad in that time $184,291,791 worth of the produce of Canada.

That is a large export. It demonstrates growth and progress.

In the same eleven months of 1895 we exported $90,749,050.

This is an increase of $93,542,741 in our exports in nine years, or over 90 per cent. And every dollar of it the produce of our own people.

In the eleven months, July to May, inclusive, of 1895, we exported Canadian manufactures to the value of $6,835,030. The Liberals went into power in 1896, and when their tariff was brought down, the Conservative leader denounced it and prophesied that it would bring widespread ruin and stagnation to Canadian industries, and called on the people to drive the Liberals out to save the country.

Well, in the eleven months corresponding in 1904 we exported $17,648,081 worth of Canadian manufactures, in spite of the fact that the home demand had probably more than doubled.

From $6,835,030 to $17,648,081 is a big jump. It means an increase of $10,813,051.

I means an increase of 160 per cent. in nine years! That is something to be proud of. It is the practical refutation of the "Tory" attacks on the Liberal tariff. It is the answer in dollars in the manufacturers' bank accounts and the mechanics' and labourers' pockets to the organs' abuse of Liberal statesmen and Liberal policy.

And there is more of such evidence. In the 1895 per cent our mines yielded for export, $9,402,280; in this year's period $28,855,066—more than four times as much!

Our animal produce export increased from $31,750,267 to $57,592,369, nearly $26,000,000—pretty well up to 90 per cent.

Our agricultural produce increased from $15,196,751 to $33,154,778—not far from 120 per cent.

And so on. Isn't it an encouraging showing?

But it is worth while coming down to date. Let us see how May's exports in 1895 and 1904 compare in the matter of exports of home produce.

In May, 1895, we exported produce to the value of $6,841,513. In May, 1904, we exported $10,732,388, nearly $4,000,000 or 66 2-3 per cent. increase.

But the Conservatives said manufacturers could not thrive under the Liberal tariff. How do they show up in the comparison? Let us see.

Our export of manufacturers in May, 1894, was $827,291; in May 1904, it had grown to $1,891,399.

Put that down to give to the first Conservative who dares to say the Liberal tariff is bad for manufacturers. In May, 1904, we exported $1,054,108 worth more of the produce of our factories than in May, 1895. The increase is over 127 per cent., and is the most notable on the list.

Canada is growing and expanding as she never did before. The good Liberal Government's wise and moderate policy has not been without its effect in aiding in that development.

CATTLE PURCHASED FROM KING'S FARM

Hon John Dryden Returns Well Satisfied With His Trip to England.

Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, returned from his trip to the Old Country yesterday, where he was accompanied by Prof. Day and Mr. Gamble of the Guelph Agricultural College, on behalf of the department, and in order to secure high-class cattle and sheep for the Guelph Experimental Farm. They had visited the Royal Agricultural Show at London, the most complete the Minister had ever seen. Nothing on this side of the Atlantic nearly equalled it.

The Highland Society's Show at Perth was not so varied in exhibits, but every exhibit was a most deserving one.

Mr. Dryden had visited the King's farms at Windsor and purchased from Mr. J. Deane Willis, near Salisbury, three Polled Angus cattle, seven Leicester Border sheep from Col. Ferguson of Pictson, near Perth, two prize heifers at the Royal Show, and some sheep from Mr. Buttor, of Perth. These have all been forwarded to Guelph.

Prof. Day and Mr. Gamble had been sent to Denmark to inquire as to Danish bacon, and to France to inquire as to fruit canning.

Hon. Mr. Dryden had made a speech at one of the Highland Society's show banquets. He reminded his hearers that he was a Canadian, of a country more loyal is possible than the British themselves. Canadian cattle might be continued to be slaughtered at the port of entry, Britain might fail to do some things Canadians believed should be done, but they would not affect the loyalty of the Dominion to the Empire. Canadians believed that their happiness and prosperity were bound up with the Empire, in which they would remain for all time.

Mr. Dryden found a great change in British feeling toward Canada since his first visit, thirteen years ago. Canada was no longer looked upon as slow, non-progressive, and as snow-bound. Canada was becoming known in the Old Land and appreciated.—Toronto Star.

BARLEY AND HAY ARE GOOD YIELDS.

Crops in Peterborough County for the Present Season.

Grains are Generally Light—The Wet Weather Caused Some to Rust.

Peterborough County farmers have many things to be thankful for. There is perhaps not another country in Ontario where the farmers, taking one year with another, are any better circumstanced than those in Peterborough County.

But they cannot expect bumper crops every year, and the fact that this year the grain crops are not as heavy as they have been in some previous years, must not be taken as an indication that the tillers of the soil in this county are in danger of bankruptcy, because such is not by any means the case. It is a fact that in some townships in this county are not fully satisfactory, but the decrease in the yield of a few grain crops does not have nearly so disastrous effect as the same circumstance would have a few years ago when grain crops were almost wholly depended upon for sustenance. Mixed farming has almost entirely superseded that of exclusive grain cultivation, and, as a consequence, a partial or even total failure of one department of the farm products does not mean nearly as much as it did in former years. A prominent farmer has stated that in the township of Monaghan the best crop will be that of barley, in which the average yield will be 30 bushels per acre. The colour will not be first-class, but this makes but little or no difference, since practically no barley is now sold for malting purposes, the farmers having found that it pays better to feed it to stock for which purpose, of course, the colour makes no difference.

No other grain crops, according to the authority of the Examiner's informant, are not so satisfactory. Wheat in the low lands is rusted, and the yield will be comparatively light. The cause of this is said to be later frosts. On the high lands in clay the yield is good. One farmer stating that from 10 acres he threshed 410 bushels, or at the rate of 41 bushels to the acre which puts Manitoba to blush even. This, however, is a phenomenal yield, and although thin on a number of fields, the average will be less than last year. In spring wheat, practically the same condition prevails.

The oats ill average about 35 to 40, bushels to the acre, as compared with 50 last year. This year's yield, of course, is not by any means a poor one, but this grain is also said to be rusted some, while the straw, while heavy, is of a rather poor quality.

A large quantity of peas has been sown this year in this county, in fact the acreage is larger than usual. The bugs, which for some years have made this crop an exceedingly problematical one, but this pest is not as bad this year as it has been in former years. The peas, however, are mildewed some, due doubtless to the wet weather.

The hay crop this year is very heavy, the heaviest, in fact, for some years, and every farmer has an abundant supply of fodder to winter his stock. This has been a great year for grass, and the pastures are yet in excellent condition. It is stated that the clover-seed crop will not be heavy.

But while the grain crops are not as good as might have been hoped for, they are in a compensating condition. Dairying is becoming more and more an important industry, and the returns from this branch of farming are of a nature calculated to induce further developments in it. The good pasturage has meant plenty of milk, which, in turn has produced a large yield of cheese, so that what has been lost in the lighter yield of grain, has been made up by the larger returns from the dairying industry.

To one who drives through Peterborough county, and sees the fine houses and barns, it is quite apparent that the farmers are a prosperous community.

Bogus Coffee.

It would seem that there is more profit in imitation than in the real thing. Six firms are engaged in making machinery to turn out bogus coffee beans made from a dough, molded into correct shape and varnished with coffee extract. Six firms making machines for other firms to use in manufacturing these bogus berries, mind you! It behooves the coffee buyer to examine closely the coffee she buys. The real coffee bean is lighter in color, generally a trifle smaller and tastes quite different from the imitation.—Detroit Free Press.

PLAN A THREE-DAYS' ASSAULT.

The Taking of Port Arthur Will Be at a Cost Unequalled.

Che Foo, Aug. 22.—The Japanese have swept the Russians from Pigeon Bay and captured the northermost fort of the western line of inner defences at Port Arthur. The Russian artillery prevents the Japanese from occupying the fort on Pigeon Bay.

It is understood that the Japanese plans at Port Arthur contemplate a three-days' assault. They expect to be triumphant on the third day. It is stated that they have a sufficient force to maintain an assaulting force of 60,000 men throughout.

Four thousand Japanese are reported to have landed at Dalny yesterday.

Stoessel Reports.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 22.—Emperor Nicholas has received the following message from Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel, commander of the military forces at Port Arthur, dated Aug. 16:

"The Japanese made a two-days' attack on our position in the Uglovia Mountains, near Louisa Bay. All their attacks were repulsed.

"The Uglovia, Visokia and Divisiona Mountains remain in our hands.

"The enemy's losses were very great."

Russia Still Confident.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 22.—The foreign telegrams announcing that the final assault upon Port Arthur was projected for yesterday have further stimulated in all circles the interest which has been unflagging for weeks past concerning the fate of the fortress. The authorities continue to express confidence in the ability of the garrison to withstand the assault, but they aver that should the fortress be carried it will be at a cost unequalled in the history of the siege.

Without Precedent.

The determined nature of the Japanese attacks upon what is considered an impregnable position is without precedent in military annals. No European power ever ventured to show such disregard of its soldiers. True, the allies at Sebastopol lost 12,000 men in the final assault, but the Japanese have made repeated attacks upon Port Arthur with equal losses.

Before Port Arthur.

Che Foo, Aug. 22.—It is reported that the Japanese before Port Arthur have captured fort No. 25, one mile north of Golden Hill. The Japanese are not attempting to storm Liaoti promontory. Their right wing terminates at Pigeon Bay. The Russian garrison of Port Arthur is estimated at 25,000 men, covering an area of two miles.

A junk arriving at Tengchau from the Miaotao Islands, reports seeing Saturday five Japanese men-of-war pursuing two Russian warships, type unknown.

Japs Occupy Anshanshan.

Tokio, Aug. 22.—The Japanese troops occupied Anshanshan Friday and the Russians have returned toward Mukden.

SITUATION AT SHANGHAI.

Chinese Authorities Utterly Helpless to Enforce Their Orders.

Shanghai, Aug. 22.—Shanghai was thrown into a fever of excitement yesterday afternoon by the arrival of a Japanese torpedo boat, which was sighted coming in from the south at half-past four o'clock. She passed Woosung at full speed and started up the river for Shanghai. The United States torpedo boat destroyer Chauncey slipped her cable and followed the Japanese vessel. The Japanese boat was cleared for action. She anchored off the Cosmopolitan dock, where the Russian cruiser Askold is undergoing repairs. The Chauncey came to anchor practically between the dock and the Japanese destroyer. A foreign pilot ship reports having seen a Japanese battleship and two cruisers cruising sixty miles outside of Woosung.

There are at present no Chinese men-of-war in this port, but the Taotai has asked that a Chinese cruiser be sent immediately.

Russia Refuses.

The Russian Consul-General here flatly refuses to disarm the Askold or the destroyer Grozovoi or to order them to leave the harbor.

The Taotai has notified American Consul Goodnow, who is dean of the Consular body, that China cannot protect the foreign settlements. He contends that Russia ignores the orders issued by China and that China has not the means of making her obey them.

Consuls to Consider.

Consul Goodnow has called a meeting of the Consular body to take joint action for the protection of foreign inhabitants. The Askold has docked adjacent to the warehouses there of the Standard Oil Co., which are valued at over $1,000,000. The Standard Oil Co. has demanded protection for its property from Consul Goodnow.

The dock where the Askold lies is owned by British interests. On one side of the dock is German and Dutch property, and on the other side American property.

There are eight American, one German, two British and four French warships here.

Will Be No Complications.

London, Aug. 22.—The intervention of the American squadron at Shanghai in the Japanese operations against the Russia cruiser Askold created considerable surprise in official and diplomatic circles here. An official of the Japanese Legation, said: "If the report is not untrue the American commander must have had good reason for his action, such as the protection of the American interests, which would have been endangered by flying shells.

"Japan has been very reluctant to send ships into the harbor, for she recognized the international character of Shanghai and that the laws of neutrality demanded that China should order the Askold and the Grozovoi to dismantle or leave the port, and that she having given the order and the Russian ships having refused, it was then incumbent for Japan to act, thereby protecting Chinese neutrality and at the same time exerting her rights as a belligerent.

"Whatever reason actuated the American commander, if he really did as is reported, it is certain that no complications will follow."

WANT BELLIGERENT RIGHTS.

Paraguayan Insurgents Have Set Up a Government of Their Own.

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 22.—An artillery engagement has been fought between the San Jocomine Battery of the Paraguayan army and a body of revolutionists, in which the latter succeeded in dislodging the guns of the Government force. The losses on either side are not stated.

The insurgents have established a provisional Government, with the capital at Villa Del Pilar (112 miles from Asuncion), and have nominated Gen. Ferreira, the leader, for president, and Gonzales, Novaro for vice-president.

Four secretaries have also been named. One of these, Deput Solor, has started for Rio Janiero and other capitals to endeavor to secure the recognition of the revolutionists as belligerents by the various Governments.

$100,000 Fire in Toronto.

Toronto, Aug. 22.—Brown Bros. & Co. are again sufferers from fire, which occurred last night, this time to the extent of about $70,000. The Queen City Rink Company's loss is $25,000, and St. Paul's Church $2,500. When Brown Bros. & Co. were burned out in the big fire of April 19 they secured as a temporary warehouse the Queen City Rink at Church and Hayden streets, and it was these premises that were burned last night. A "live" wire is charged with the loss. On the north side, St. Paul's Church school house was badly burned. The south side of the roof is completely gone, and the woodwork, decorations and carpets ruined by water. The roof of the church is also damaged.

All the Swimmers Gave Up.

Dover, England, Aug. 22.—The three swimmers who set out to cross the Strait of Dover all gave up. It was Montagu Holbein's fifth attempt, and he lasted 10 hours and 20 minutes in the water. Jack Haggarty was first to quit, in an hour and a half. He was in a state of collapse. S. W. Greasley, who started yesterday morning, quit in the same time. The water was too cold.

Reports are conflicting as to the damage done by rust in the wheat fields. BRANTFORD CITY AND ITS TELEPHONE TROUBLES.

The Bell, an Independent Company and the Municipality now in the Field.

The Brantford Expositor has the following in reference to its experience in settling the telephone problem:—

An independent company is seeking the privilege of conducting a telephone business in Brantford, and is offering telephones at the same price as the aldermanic committee thinks they can be supplied for under a municipal system. In other words, it offers a reduction of $10 per year for both residential and business instruments as compared with the revised offer of the Bell company.

There are, of course, some disadvantages connected with a dual system. There will be two sets of poles, and we have more than a sufficiency of poles already, and to a certain extent duplication of 'phones. At the same time competition will secure instruments for many who are now obliged to do without them, and will probably improve the service of the older corporation.

We would be disposed, in any event, to see a private company, (if of satisfactory standing) rather than the municipality take on any financial risk which may be incident to the establishment of a rival system, thus giving the city a freer hand to make investments which are probably of more certain benefit to the ratepayers as a whole than telephones.

FARM REFORESTRY.

Work is Progressing Well—Big Collection of White Pine Seeds.

Mr. E. J. Zavitz, who is in charge o. the farm reforestry work at the Ontario Agricultural College, had a long conference yesterday with Hon. John Dryden respecting plans for the future. Mr. Zavitz has just completed a tour of inspection in various parts of the Province with a view to finding out what are the farm forestry conditions and the needs and capabilities of the different sections. His last trip was through the district between Lake Simcoe and Georgian Bay which he finds exceedingly well adapted for experiments in farm forestry.

Mr. Zavitz will at once start out on a seed collecting expedition. There promises to be a very heavy crop of white pine seed this year and he intends to take advantage of it to make a big collection. This is considered very important owing to the fact that there is by no means a good crop every year.

The tree plantation at the Guelph college is now getting into very good shape. Over 50,000 seedlings o. different kinds have been planted, besides a very large number of seeds.

Dr. Judson Clark, the new Provincial Forester, left yesterday to make his first official visit to the timber reserves. In company with Mr. Thos. Southworth, Superintendent of Forestry, he will make a thorough inspection o. the Temagami reserve.

CULTIVATION OF SEEDS IN DENMARK.

The Best Quality of Cauliflower Seed is of Danish Origin.

In "La Nature," a French periodical, Prof. Albert Maumene has an interesting article on this subject, the chief points of which are brought out in the following synopsis:—

The production of selected seed is a subject of the minutest care on the part of farmers who make a specialty of seed growing. Certain seed-growing centres —in France, St. Remy-de-Provence, Anjou and the northern departments; in Germany, Erfurtr and Quedlinbourg—are justly renowned. While certain plants breed true to type when the seed is brought from a region where more favourable climatic conditions prevail, there are others that produce the true type only when raised from seed grown in a higher latitude. Horticulturists and agriculturists are not far wrong when they say that seeds brought from a colder climate produce earli and better crops than home-grown seed. This is the case with the majority of vegetables, and it is partly what has given the German seed-growing industry its its reputation." The cauliflower seed from Erfurt owes the great reputation it has acquired largely to its Danish origin. Copenhagen is indeed becoming a famous centre for the production of cauliflower seed; the value of the annual export reaches $100,000, which gives an idea of the world's consumption of this vegetable.

The creation of this special industry dates back forty years. A farmer of Erfurt conceived the idea that the moist climate of Denmark should be very favourable to the development of the cauliflower. He requested a Danish farmer to make the first trial, which was a complete success, and since that date the cauliflower seeds of Copenhagen have supplied the wholesale market of Erfurt. At first Danish horticulture derived very little profit from this fact, on account of the agreements made with the German merchants. But, by degrees, some farmers undertook this industry on their own account, a strong company was formed, and at the present time America gets 80 per cent. of its cauliflower seed from Copenhagen.

This success and rapid progress are due to an intelligent and systematic selection of the types of the plants producing seed, and of the seeds themselves, but especially to the physical conditions, which favour the extraordinary development of these plants and an abundant yield of seed. The seed thus obtained, sown in another country, is found superior to the home-grown seed, even under less favourable climatic and vital conditions, and furnishes products of a splendid and precocious development. But degeneration or loss of strength invariably follows after the first generation, necessitating a renewed supply of the original seed. It is now proven that the peculiar soil in the vicinity of Copenhagen has a favourable influence, because trials made in other parts of Denmark have not been crowned with the same success. The atmospheric moisture of the seashore suits the cauliflowers, the more so because the long periods of drought which check the progress of vegetation do not exist there.

The question of the value and heredity of these acquired characteristics still divides the scientific world. The biennial and in-door culture applied to cauliflowers evidently modifies considerably the climatic influence, since the strains thus obtained lose in a warmer and dryer southern climate their ancestral superiority in the second to the fourth generation. It is this fact which obliges farmers to annually renew their seed and to send for it to the northern countries.

The "Dwarf Erfurt" is the strain of cauliflower grown, and this is identical with what the Americans call "Snowball" or "Copenhagen Early". Three types can be distinguished, differing in earliness and in their more or less dwarfed appearance, but each having a special value, either for growing under glass or for outdoor cultivation. It is not a rare thing to see in the neighborhood of Copenhagen fields of twenty-five acres planted entirely to cauliflowers. The seeds, which retain their germinating power for two years, are sown in September. The young plants, transplanted and wintered under glass or in special hot-houses are put out in spring. The harvesting takes place just a year after the sowing, and it is done just as soon as the different parts of the flower attain maturity; this is an essential point for the value of the seed. The drying of the seed pods, the threshing and the cleaning of the seed are all delicate operations which are performed several weeks after harvest when the flowers ar perfectly dry.

In view of the success obtained in the production of cauliflower seed, it would seem that the cultivation of selected strains of other plants might profitably be undertaken in Denmark, but up to the present specialists have wisely concentrated their efforts upon a single plant.

ONTARIO FARMERS MAKING MONEY.

Mortgage Indebtedness Shows Considerable Reduction.

REPORTS OF REGISTRARS.

Farmers are Increasing Their Holdings and Spending Money on Permanent Improvements—Reduction in the Rate of Interest.

(Globe.)

The mortgage is invariably a reliable barometer of the financial condition of the community, and whether the people be prosperous or the reverse is pretty accurately revealed in the record of the Registrars of deeds. It is exceeding pleasing, therefore, to learn from the large majority of these officials throughout the Province that the mortgage indebtedness is decreasing. It is more gratifying still to know that of the new mortgages recorded, exceedingly few—so few, indeed, that one would be almost justified in denying their existence altogether—are being put on through financial stress. It is not very long since that many of the farmers of the Province were compelled to tie up their property, both land and chattels, in order to obtain money to operate their farms and to provide the necessaries of life. Now, according to the unanimous opinion of the Registrars, when the farmers borrow it is for the purpose of enlarging their holdings or of permanently improving their farms.

In all the reports sent to The Globe by the Registrars in response to a request for information respecting the mortgage indebtedness there is not one word of complaint. There are six counties in which the is there is not one word of complaint. There are six counties in which the indebtedness is increasing. But what is the explanation of the Registrars? In Stormont the introduction of dairy farming and the consequent expenditure upon bank barns and other equipment suitable to the change is responsible for the increase. In Glengarry, Lanark, and Russell the reason given is that the farmers are increasing their holdings and improving their property, and it is probable that the conditions prevailing in Stormont also prevail in these counties. In Peel and Bruce, likewise, the farmers are reported to be enlarging their farms by purchasing adjoining property. In Leeds, Dufferin, Norfolk and Middlesex the mortgage indebtedness is found to be about the same as it was ten years ago. In all the other counties reported upon the records show that the amount represented by the discharges is far in excess of the value of the new instruments.

The Registrars, without an exception, state they have gathered from their official dealings that at the present time the farmers are in a very prosperous condition. The fact that an exceedingly large number of them have been able to increase their holdings, in some cases paying cash in full and in others part cash and a mortgage on the new land for the balance of the purchase money, rarely finding it necessary to give a mortgage on their old property as security, is strong testimony to this prosperity. In Dufferin county the statement is made that "a great many of the farmers have doubled their holdings since 1894." So flourishing are the farmers in Waterloo county, is the Registrar's report, that, despite the high valuation, ranging from $70 to $130 per acre, any farm that happens to come on to the market is immediately taken up by the resident farmers, who are able to pay at least two-thirds cash for their new acquisition. "There is a total absence of borrowing for present uses of living, as has been the case in hard times, and when money is borrowed now it is for the purpose of permanent improvements or the purchase of larger holdings," is the report from Essex, and similar testimony comes from other counties. "Improved methods in farming and the general prosperity of the country have contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the farming community," is a specimen of the statements made.

A striking feature of the reports from the Registrars is the great reduction that has taken place in the rate of interest charged on mortgages. The reduction in ten years varies all the way from one to four per cent. For instance, in Dufferin, the "prevailing rate of interest was 6 per cent., with some smaller loans at 7 1-2 per cent. to 10 per cent.; the rate this year is about 5 to 5 1-2 per cent., and occasional gilt-edge at 4 1-2 per cent., making the average about 5 per cent. all round." Of course several things have contributed to bring about this reduction, there appears to be great force in the reason given by the registrar of Leeds, when he says :the "mortgages are being put on for a different purpose than that of ten years ago, consequently the borrower is more independent and refuses to pay a big rate for the accommodation." Another forcible reason for the reduction, apparent in some counties more than in others, is the fact that the farmers themselves have in recent years been able to save money out of the earnings of their farms, which surplus they are loaning to their neighbours, and thus entering into competition with the regular lenders of money.

FARMERS LIVING BETTER.

That as the result of the improved condition of the country, the farmers are living better because they are able to afford it, is brought out strongly by some of the registrars. "They spend a very considerable amount now in the education of their families," writes one. "The people spend much upon good clothing, railway travel and the comforts of the home," says another. "That the farmers are steadily growing in wealth and comfort is plainly evidenced in the immense bank barns and the fine brick houses," remarks a third. "If the farmers of this district have their present success continued for another ten years, they will :be among the wealthy men of Ontario," is the statement of a fourth. And these are but samples of the testimony given by the Registrars of the province of Ontario of the really prosperous condition of the farm at the present time.

FARM RESOURCES GREATER.

Nor is evidence wanting to show that no probable depression for years to come will materially affect the condition of the agricultural community. The prosperity of the farmers is not by any means due entirely to the accidental blessing of a series of good crops. The educational work that has for years been done by the Dominion and Provincial Agricultural Departments, has contributed in no small measure to the success of the farmers. Scientific farming has resulted in better crops and larger returns; it has brought about a permanent increase in the value of the farms by multiplying their resources, and provided the agriculturists with more money to purchase not only the necessaries of life, but to greatly improve their mode of living, and to enjoy luxuries that were formerly denied them. Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, recently figured out that the farm products of Ontario were worth from $35,000,000 to $40,000,000 more than they were ten years ago, and that the average income of the 200,000 farmers was at least $200 more than it was then. As it cannot be supposed that all of our farmers have :participated equally in this gain, it will be seen that the increased profits of the more progressive of them, must have been very great. Since 1897 the value of the farm property in the province has increased over $140,000,000.

In succeeding articles summaries of the reports received from the Registrars will be printed. In them will be found evidence of the prosperity equally as satisfactory as that now being collected by The Globe in regard to the manufacturing industries of the Dominion. The one is a sequel to the other, for the era of expansion that has marked the manufacturing industries in the past ten years has been due of course very largely to the success of the agriculturist.

POULTRY DEMONSTRATION.

Mr. Elford, the poultry expert, of Ottawa, will superintend the showing of a complete model hennery under the auspices of the Dominion Government at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, August 29th to September 10th. Poultry raising during recent years has become such an important industry, both with exclusive breeders and with general farmers throughout Canada, that the Government wisely decided to demonstrate all that was most modern and most successful in incubation, brooding, caring and feeding. For those who keep poultry, whether for profit or pleasure, the information derived from this exhibit will be extremely valuable.

Minnedosa, Man., Aug. 22.—John Robertson of Clan William, was accidentally shot by his son Henry Friday morning and instantly killed.

Father and son were walking through their fields, the latter carrying a rifle, when they saw a neighbor's horse in the grain. The father jumped on the horse to ride it off the place and the son, as a joke, fired off the rifle to scare the animal, which swerved as the weapon was raised, and unfortunately the man received the bullet in the back, dying almost instantly.

Deceased with his family came from the Ottawa district this spring.

ASUNCION ISOLATED.

Insurgents Send An Ultimatum Demanding Surrender or Bombardment Follows.

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 20.—The insurgents have seized another steamer, which had on board the minister of war and a small escort. The minister and his companions were made prisoners.

It has been reported that the insurgent commander, with 2,000 land forces, is approaching Asuncion.

The insurgent leaders will permit President Escuria to continue in office, but demand the resignation of the ministers and other high officials of the Government.

Their terms were conveyed to the Government officials and promptly declined.

The insurgents then sent an ultimatum demanding the surrender of the capital within 24 hours, or the bombardment would be resumed.

A Hamilton Sensation.

Hamilton, Aug. 20.—Yesterday's sensation was a writ issued for alimony against A. B. Mackay by his wife. Mr. Mackay is a member of the firm of R. O. and A. B. Mackay, prominent coal merchants and vessel men. Mrs. Mackay alleges that her husband has not treated her as a faithful wife should be treated, and that her position became unbearable. She left her husband about two months ago and went to London. Efforts were made to effect a peaceful settlement, but they could not agree on the amount of alimony. Yesterday Farmer and Gould issued a writ on behalf of Mrs. Mackay, who asks for $1,900 a month interim alimony.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

NOVA SCOTIA'S GALE

Swept Annapolis Valley of Much of Its Fruit Crop.

WIND BLEW 45 MILES AN HOUR

Steamer Scalac Broke From Her Mooring and Sustained Heavy Damage—Yachts Wrecked and Sunk—Thousands of Sparrows Killed—Three Lives Lost in St. Louis Cyclone—Paris Gowns Ruined.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 22.—The heaviest summer gale in years swept over Nova Scotia Saturday night. All through the Annapolis Valley damage amounting to thousands of dollars was done to the fruit crop, and all other growing crops in other parts of the province suffered immensely.

In Halifax numerous shade trees were uprooted and some expensive plate glass windows were smashed by flying awnings. On the water front the new steamer Scalac, which arrived from St. John a few hours previously broke loose from her moorings and tore away her guards on the starboard side and otherwise did damage amounting to several hundreds of dollars.

The Olivette, which arrived from Boston last night was under water continually, and was boarded by a heavy sea, which smashed the windows, but fortunately did no other damage. A coal laden schooner was blown against an I.C.R. trestle and was so badly damaged that it is hard work to keep her afloat. Six pleasure yachts were driven ashore and totally wrecked and several others were sunk. The storm was hard on bird life, numerous dead sparrows being picked up under the trees.

The wind blew about 45 miles an hour and the rain came in torrents.

Thousands of Sparrows Dead.

New York, Aug. 22.—After the heavy storm of Saturday morning thousands of dead sparrows were found in Jersey City, Newark, Hoboken and other New Jersey towns. They were found in piles in the corners of buildings and under trees in the park. As there was no lightning it is thought that the weight of the downpour simply beat them to death. The mortality among the little birds was heaviest in Newark. Under a single tree in one of the city parks over a hundred of the birds were found.

Toronto, Aug. 22.—Early folks astir on Saturday morning were astonished at the tameness of the sparrows which had taken refuge in hundreds in store doorways from the awful rainstorm of the night. They were literally beaten into fearlessness, and many later succumbed to the buffeting they received.

Paris Gowns Ruined.

St. Louis, Aug. 22.—Paris gowns valued at $500,000 were ruined by heavy rains which passed over the World's Fair grounds. The gowns are in the palace of manufactures. The gowns were exhibited by French dressmakers in glass showcases, and the rain came through crevices in the roof of the building and poured down on the tops of the cases, eventually leaking through and soaking the garments. Many of the dresses had been sold, to be delivered to St. Louis and Chicago firms at the close of the Fair.

In addition to the loss of one life and the injury of more than 150 persons, the damage wrought by the storm is now estimated at $150,000. In the Illinois towns of Venice, Madison and Granite City the damage is also greater than at first supposed. Two lives were lost in that vicinity, and many property-owners suffered losses running from $2,000 down to $50. Traffic was resumed on the Broadway street car line yesterday, after having been suspended for more than eighteen hours.

Death in Electric Wire.

Toronto, Aug. 22.—On Saturday evening another was added to the list of electric current deaths, James Totley of 432 Ossington avenue, being struck down in the basement of his home. By a peculiar irony of fate, the unfortunate man was an electrician, employed by the Toronto Electric Light Company, and in this capacity his daily routine work was the handling of wires. Twenty-six years of age, he had been in the company's service half his life. Parting of wires near his house and the ends crossing the trolley feed wire, was the cause of the fatal accident.

Expectant Bridegroom.

London, Aug. 22.—(C.A.P.)—Edgar Wallace's search for a wife for Mr. Cochrane, a British Columbia rancher, has had a tragic sequel. The Rev. Duncan Salmon of Arm, British Columbia, gave Cochrane a certificate of character, and 600 girls applied. The successful girl left London Saturday night to embark on the Lake Manitoba, but Friday morning a cable was received in London that Cochrane had died suddenly at Duncan.

Killed By a Pig.

London, Aug. 22.—To separate two prize pigs which had commenced to fight on a Montreal liner in Glasgow harbor Friday, a drover entered their pen. One of the animals promptly attacked him, and injured him so badly that he was dead before the pig could be beaten off.

New Hope—New Courage

Persons whose nerves are affected get blue and discouraged, are easily irritated and annoyed and also learn to look on the dark side. The restorative influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, soon shows itself on the feelings. It gives new hope and courage, new energy and confidence. By creating nerve force it affords new vigour and vitality for both and body.

WHAT SOCIALISTS WANT.

And 8-Hour Day Urged By International Congress at Amsterdam.

Amsterdam, Holland, Aug. 22.—The International Socialist and Trade Union Congress, at its final sitting Saturday, adopted a resolution calling on all Socialists and Trades Unions to organize annual demonstrations in favor of an eight-hour day and to stop work on May Day.

A resolution in regard to the trusts, which was also passed, set forth that Socialists ought to direct their efforts towards the "socialization of production."

Fell Under a Train.

Belleville, Aug. 22.—A serious and possibly fatal accident took place at the G.T.R. yards here at noon Saturday. James Richardson, a middle-aged man, employed by the G.T.R., who had only recently arrived from Deseronto, fell from the top of a car as part of the train passed over him, smashing the right arm and leg so badly that amputation was necessary.

Electrocuted at St. Mary's.

St. Mary's, Aug. 22.—R. T. Swales, who was temporarily acting as night constable, was found dead yesterday morning in the basement of the town hall. He was in a sitting position with an electric wire string attached to a lamp he was attempting to reach between his fingers. Evidently the shock had killed him.

Negro Stoned to Death.

Cordova, Ala., Aug. 22.—Town Marshal J. McNelson was killed Saturday night and his slayer, a negor named Avery, a short time thereafter was taken from the calaboose by a mob and put to death with stones and pistol balls.

3,000 Went Away.

Toronto, Aug. 22.—There were five extra trains of ten coaches each left the Union Station at intervals on Saturday. They carried about 3,000 stalwart young men who will play a part in the harvesting of the western crops.

Ontario Man's Suicide.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—The body of R. G. Dunlap of Ontario, Canada, has been found in a house at 117 Roey street. The man's throat had been cut.

Assassin Dead?

St. Petersburg, Aug. 22.—It was rumored here yesterday that the assassin of M. Von Plehve, Minister of the Interior, died a few days ago.

THE MAN WHO DECIDES.

Demand for Those Who Make Up Their Minds With Firmness After Considering All the Circumstances.

The great demand of to-day is for the strong, vigorous, positive man, the man who not only makes up his mind, but does so with firmness, and, when he has considered all the circumstances and conditions of the matter he is called upon to decide, does so once for all, and then throws it off his mind and passes on to something else, says Orison Swett Marden, in Success. Such a man usually has superior executive ability. He can not only make a program, but he can also carry it out. He can not only decide upon a course, but he can also execute it to a finish.

Every watch has an unseen spring back of the dial which compels the wheels to revolve and makes the hands mark the time with precision; so, beneath the works of every great enterprise, at the head of every great establishment, although not often seen by the public, is a strong character of this kind, a man with an iron grip, who makes things go and forces the wheels of the machine around, regulating their motion with precision. There is no going back of him; his decision is absolute, definite, final. Others can consider, advise or suggest, but he is the man who makes the program, and sees that it is carried out. He is the dominating power. Everything else must point to him, and all others must get their cues or orders from him. If he steps out or ceases to act, the institution is like a watch with a broken mainspring. The wheels are all there, and everything else is in place, but the power is gone and nothing moves. The iron hand, the decisive power back of it all, has failed to lend its impulse. The splendid business which A. T. Stewart had built up went to pieces when the great executive and organizing force that had guided it was removed. The famous old "New York Ledger," which Robert Bonner, by his audacious and original business methods had raised from an insignificant little financial sheet known as the "Merchant's Ledger" to be the leading story paper of this country, began to decline immediately after the master mind which had made it ceased to be its inspiration.

There is only one of these great leaders to thousands of followers. It is easy to trail, to lean, or to hang on to the one who leads, but it takes courage, grit and stamina to be original, prompt, and decisive, to stand squarely on one's own feet, and to trust entirely to one's own judgment.

THE LEIPSIC MEMORIAL.

An Imposing Monument Erected to the Defeat of Napoleon.

On the field at Leipsic, where the "battle of the nation" was fought in 1813, an imposing monument has been erected as a lasting and splendid memorial of the defeat of Napoleon. The massive pile shown in our sketch was designed by Bruno Schmitz, of Berlin. Its base is in the style of a pergamon high altar; from this rises the middle part in the shape of a blunt pyramid, which in its turn is capped by a mighty crown. On the front of the base is a mail-clad figure of the Archangel Michael, sword in hand, to right and left are two gigantic figures with lighted torches, personifying the furies of war. The middle part contains an open hall with four colossal statues, figures from Germany's ancient history, and also the names of the heroes of the War of Liberation. In the capula is a big fresco painting, picturing scenes from German history.

THE LEIPSIC MEMORIAL.

Some Japanese Customs.

Widows in Japan cut their hair short and comb it back plainly without a parting, unless, indeed, they are prepared to accept fresh offers, in which case they give a broad hint of their inclinations by twisting their hair round a long shell hairpin placed horizontally across the back of the head. Marriageable maidens distinguish and, as it were advertise themselves by combing their locks high in front and arranging them in the form of a butterfly, which is something to be caught, or a fan half open, and adorning these significant designs with bright colored balls and gold or silver cord. Speaking generally, the dressing of the hair, which is changed at intervals from childhood upwards, is an indication of the age and position of the simple minded and fascinating female Jap.

Courage of the Czars.

If it be true that the present Czar of Russia is lacking in courage, at least his ancestors have shown bravery at critical times. Alexander I., the enlightened opponent of Napoleon, was a brave soldier. At Austerlitz the Emperor exhibited high courage. He placed himself at the head of the fourth column of the allied army and constantly remained with the infantry during the whole of the sanguinary conflict. When the fortune of the day turned to the side of the French the efforts of Alexander were most conspicuous. Three times, at the head of his guards, he charged the enemy and by his gallantry not only secured the retreat of the remainder of the allied army, but recaptured the greater part of the Russian artillery.

HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE.

Every Woman Should Spare Herself All Unnecessary Work.

"I hold," said the head of a household recently to me, "that it is the duty of every woman, especially a mother, to spare herself as much as she possibly can. But when you come to look into the matter, you will half believe that they are bent on killing themselves. For instance, look at the woman who does the washing and ironing of her family. Ask her why she does not buy one of the labor saving washing machines and she will reply that she cannot afford it. But if you go into her parlor you will find a piano, or, if not that, then pieces of expensive furniture that could easily have been done without, or their places filled with simpler articles. On ironing day you will see her bending over the board in a hot kitchen, while the dining room is shut up. Ask her why she does not do her ironing there and she will answer that she wants to save the carpet, or keep the apartment cool. And the number of unnecessary articles that you will behold when her ironing is finished! Why, since she must do the work, will she not dress her children plainly and thereby spare herself long hours in pressing out tucks and ruffles which at the end of a day's wear are again fit for the washtub? And all the necessary articles do not require to be ironed, when there is only one pair of hands to do the work, and of the house. We see the same foolish expenditure of strength in cooking. The average mother spends the best part of her day in the kitchen, in work that is not only unnecessary, but also unhygienic. If we ate less, and that little were scientifically prepared, not only would the mother husband her energy, but the family would possess better health.—Beatrice Bancroft in Men and Women.

This Cat Bathes.

Time was when I felt that the cat was an animal which civilization had no power to corrupt. The dog, I knew, does his best to be human, but the cat has always seemed to me above any such shallow pretense. I thought I could count on the cat, but now I find that even the cat can be perverted and humanized. I went to see a friend of mine the other day who has recently adopted a plain, valueless alley cat of no particular breed. She told me she was about to give the animal its daily bath.

I felt sorry for the creature, because I had seen cats bathed before. The bathtub was half full of warm water. The cat was lifted in its mistress' arms. The intelligent animal gave a mew of delight and hopped down into the water. It swam two or three times around the tub with every indication of enjoyment, and then looked up and mewed to be taken out. The perverted creature seemed to enjoy even the rubbing which followed. After that, I have no faith in anything. I have no doubt that hens enjoy a daily plunge, and as for the gentleman who has always been represented as disliking holy water, I haven't the slightest doubt in the world that he drinks it iced three times a day.

Kites as Fortune Tellers.

On the flat housetops of Morocco girls may often be seen flying kites, which, they believe, will give an augury of their future. If the kite remains unbroken, good fortune is in store for them; if mishap befall it, evil days will be their portion. Their faith in the oracle is so great that mishap to the kite plunges them in dejection.

Reindeer Skin.

The skin of the reindeer is so impervious to the cold that any one clothed in such a dress, with the addition of a robe of the same material, may bear the intensest cold of an arctic winter's night.

Education in Japan.

It is curious that, no matter how exclusive a Japanese family may be in other ways, in education the tendency is democratic. Schools are much preferred to private governesses, even among the nobility, and girls of royal blood meet daily in the schoolroom with the daughters of well to do commoners.

The Left Hand.

The Ambidextral Culture Society of England seeks to increase the ability to use the left hand, but without aiming to add to production in the arts by the simultaneous use of both hands.

The Golden Bee.

It is said that when the tomb of Childeric, a king of the first Frankish dynasty in the fifth century, was opened in the seventeenth century hundreds of golden bees were found in it. So when the French empire was established the golden bee was adopted as one of its emblems.

White Bread.

White bread supplies more available nutrients to the body than bread made from graham, entire wheat or any other kind of flour milled at the present time.

Fry In Olive Oil.

Olive oil makes a superior frying medium to lard or butter. It is cheaper than butter and does not scorch as easily as butter does. Smelts, shrimps, potatoes, bananas—in fact, almost everything that is fried in a shallow pan—tastes better for being cooked in oil.

An Exciting Shave.

A Parisian barber, to win a wager, entered a cage containing a lion and a man and composedly shaved the man while the lion interestingly viewed the operation.
